WHOSE DIFFICULTIES IN LEARNING GREEK
HAVE BEEN CONSTANTLY BEFORE ME IN THIS ENDEAVOR TO LIGHTEN THE TASK OF THEIR SUCCESSORS

P R E F A C E

THE invitation to prepare a new Greek Grammar would not have been accepted had I not believed that the time has come for considerable changes in the presentation of the subject to young pupils. Greek studies are still holding their own in this country, because of their intrinsic value in a liberal education. But in order to preserve for them their due place, great improvement must be made in teaching the language, so that a reasonable amount of effort will advance a serious student farther than it ordinarily does at present. And such improvement is possible. Though nothing can make Greek really easy, it need not be so difficult as it has been made. This volume is a sincere endeavor—how far successful only the test of use will show—to aid in meeting the legitimate demand for better results from the time and labor expended.

As the first change required, I have sought to simplify grammatical statements to the utmost. Some technical terms consecrated by long tradition have been thrown overboard; so far as possible terms have been used that are really descriptive and will appear so to beginners. Nearly all changes in terminology are of this sort; only one or two seemed necessary in the other direction. Thus the potential optative disappears, because experience has shown that the term misleads nearly all pupils and some teachers; the hypothetical optative and indicative are made to support each other, and students who have begun geometry should find the terms hypothetical and hypothesis mutually explanatory. The phrase formative vowel, for variable vowel, is more distinctly descriptive than the old, and the symbol $\sigma\epsilon$, which is often employed in scientific works, is both more legible and more readily extended to analogous cases than the symbol introduced to our schools by the Hadley-Allen Grammar.

Secondly, I have sought to simplify by omission, so far as that could be done safely with due regard to later progress. It is assumed that those who begin Greek have had at least a year of Latin; accordingly, whatever is so much like Latin or English as to cause no difficulty is omitted or barely mentioned. Only Attic Greek is included; some confusion is avoided by keeping Epic or other non-Attic forms out of sight until they are needed—that is, until one begins to read Homer, Herodotos, and the lyric poets. And of Attic Greek only those forms are included that are found in the works commonly read in American schools and colleges up to the end of sophomore year, or are quite regular. Rarer forms, and in syntax rarer constructions, such as are naturally explained in lexicon or notes, are also generally omitted. Meantime, some things that other grammars pass over lightly are here given more prominence, because they are things that freshmen need to know and commonly do not know. Yet by this twofold process of simplification the body of the grammar is brought within three hundred pages, in spite of large type and open printing and the greater space given to examples.

But it seemed to me a change equally needed was a shift in the point of view as regards syntax. In learning the inflection and vocabulary of any language we first learn the foreign forms and their general meaning; afterward—as soon as may be, but as the second step, not the first—by turning English expressions into the foreign idiom we study from another standpoint the functions of the forms. (We are not considering the mental process of young children learning the language of people around them, but that of those who already think in one language and are learning another.) The second step is far more difficult than the first. The facts of a language may look very different seen from these two sides. But in learning Greek syntax our pupils have been too often required to take both steps at once. That is, syntactical phenomena are classified by function, and then our grammatical statements try to combine both points of view. This is less true as regards the syntax of cases. There it has been usual to start with form and describe the function; and though rules mix the two points of view somewhat—as when we teach that cause, manner, and means are expressed by the dative—still no great harm is done. Nearly the same may be said of modes and tenses in simple sentences; but with subordinate clauses, the most difficult chapter of all syntax, the matter becomes serious. The current formulas are based on a classification by function, as clauses of purpose, condition, and so on, and throw into one functional category several distinct forms, while the student finds before him on the Greek page one syntactical form at a time, which he has to interpret. The endeavor to interpret the clauses before him by such rules compels him to shift constantly from one point of view to the other. The natural result is a confusion of mind that greatly hinders progress in understanding Greek. In this grammar I have sought to carry through consistently the principle of classifying by form. This has caused a complete recasting of the syntax of subordinate clauses. Some may at first find the changes here made somewhat disconcerting; no one recognizes more fully than I the difficulty of the task attempted. But being convinced that the reform was imperatively required, I could do nothing less than attack the problem. After my solution was worked out it was submitted to several experienced teachers, who warmly approved it. Subordinate clauses are classified first by the introductory word, next by the mode and tense of the verb; the description of each form is meant to enable the student to interpret the Greek before him; directions for translating English into Greek are left to the book on composition and to the teacher. The new system is not only better scientifically, it is more concrete and intelligible to beginners. But the system is really not new, since it is the one which lexicons follow as a matter of course, and this agreement between grammar and lexicon is a farther advantage.

In the spelling of Greek names the stricter form of transliteration is followed, except with names like Cyrus, which are also English baptismal names, or those like Athens, which have long ago received an English termination. Two reasons led me to continue here my practice of twenty-five years. First, though many leading Hellenists in England and America prefer the Latin spelling as being the traditional one, I think the other is likely to prevail in the end. No tendency of classical studies throughout the last century was more marked than the growing desire to approach Hellenic life and thought directly, and remove every distorting medium both in study and in the presentation of results. Archæology has been one powerful influence in that direction. Accordingly all our leading museums employ the direct method of transliteration; and museums are perhaps the greatest popularizing agency for Greek studies. It is not pedantry, but good sense, to help on this tendency and shorten the period of transition. Secondly, the stricter transliteration is simpler; to expect pupils to Latinize the names adds an unnecessary difficulty. But the introductory book in preparation to accompany the grammar will give both forms and explain both methods of transliteration.

In writing the volume it was impossible to escape, had I wished to, the influence of Hadley's Grammar, which has been familiar to me from boyhood in the original form and since 1884 as revised by the late F. D. Allen. Nearly the same may be said of Professor Goodwin's Grammar and of his Greek Moods and Tenses, in their successive editions. My obligations to these works are very great, and not least in those chapters where I have departed most widely from them. He would be an ungrateful pupil who should forget his debt to his masters, merely because he has by their aid finally learned to look with independent judgment on some portion of their doctrine. Also, like all American Hellenists, I have learned much, and am still learning, from Professor Gildersleeve, though I suspect he will think I ought to have learned more. To such a thought on his part my first plea in defense would be the elementary character of this grammar. For young students a simple, clear, and brief statement is essential. (As an instance where the need of brevity has forced a form of wording which is not true literally though true in spirit, section 562 may be referred to. Some infinitives are by origin locatives in form; but in meaning no locative sense can be traced, so that for the purposes of syntax the assertion that all are originally for datives is not misleading.) Several German grammars have also been of much service, especially those of Kaegi and of Koch, and the two volumes of Kühner-Blass.

Many friends have aided me directly at various stages of my task, whom I wish to thank especially. Professor Wright, of Harvard University, has read critically all the proofs; Mr. Morrison, of the Hartford High School, has freely placed at my service his unusual skill in teaching; and my colleagues, Professors Morris, Perrin, and Oertel, have been very kind and helpful, saving me from many errors and furnishing many valuable suggestions. Frequent discussion of the principles of syntax with Professor Morris has greatly influenced the development of my views, and I am sure has much improved the exposition in this volume; without the constant aid of Professor Oertel I might often have gone astray in places where even the simplest statements need to be made in the light of a wide knowledge of morphology and of linguistic science. Others too numerous to name separately have aided me with criticisms and suggestions at many points, and my wife has in several ways contributed so much that the fact calls for public acknowledgment.

Finally, it is probable that some infelicities, and perhaps worse, will be revealed by class-room experience. I shall be grateful for all corrections and suggestions for improvement; and if the book is found useful enough to come to a second edition, I shall hope to make it fill its place better.

GREEK GRAMMAR

INTRODUCTION

GREEK is the language of the ancient people who called themselves Hellenes, and of their successors to the present day. Their center of abode was, and still is, the country we call Greece (Latin Graecia) and the neighboring islands; but from a very early period many Greeks were spread over parts of western Asia Minor, and were settled in colonies around other shores of the Mediterranean and the Black Sea and the waters that unite them. The sea has always been their main highway. In this language is preserved a large literature of various dates, including the earliest in Europe, and perhaps the greatest of the world.

Greek is one of the Indo-European family of languages, of which other members are Sanskrit, Old Persian, Keltic (including Welsh, Gaelic, Irish), Latin with its descendants (Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, French, Rumanian), the Teutonic branch (as German, Scandinavian, English), and the Slavic branch (as Russian, Lithuanian, Polish). All these are descended from one parent speech.

Though really one when compared with other tongues,

Greek was spoken and written differently by different branches of the people. Like all languages, too, it changed with time, and its history has been very long. So we have to distinguish different dialects or forms of Greek and different periods.

In the ancient period the many spoken dialects are mostly included under three general groups, not always easy to keep apart—the Aiolic, Doric, and Ionic, corresponding to divisions of the race. Important seats of the Aiolians were in north-western Asia Minor, Lesbos, Thessaly, and Boiotia (northern group); important seats of the Dorians were in Peloponnese, Crete, southern Asia Minor, Sicily, and southern Italy (southern group); of the Ionians, in western Asia Minor and Attica and certain islands between them (middle group). In the literature the dialects were somewhat mingled; but Sappho (600 B. C.) represents fairly the Aiolic; Pindar (470 B. C.) and Theokritos (270 B. C.) the Doric; Homer (before 800 B. C.) and Herodotos (440 B. C.) the Ionic.

The Attic was a branch of Ionic. But the literature of Athens between 500 B. C. and 325 B. C. was so large, so varied, and so great, that its language is better known than any other dialect, and has especial importance for us. In it are written the tragedies of Aischylos, Sophokles, and Euripides, the comedies of Aristophanes, the histories of Thukydides and Xenophon, the speeches of Demosthenes and the other Attic orators, the philosophical works of Plato and Aristotle.

The superiority of Athens was so marked, in art and government as well as in letters, that its dialect became the common language of the educated over all the Mediterranean world. The empire of Alexander and his successors, and later that of Rome, aided the spread of this language, and established new literary centers in Alexandria, Antioch, Pergamon, Rhodes. Thus widely extended, largely among people not of Greek blood, and more or less changed by time and the use of foreigners, the Attic lost its national character in the cosmopolitan, and became the Common dialect (say from 325 B. C. to 325 A. D.). Polybios, Plutarch, Lucian, and the early Christian Fathers wrote in it; the New Testament is in a variety of it known as the Hellenistic.

Under the Byzantine or Eastern Roman Empire (325 to 1453 A. D.) this Common dialect, always changing slowly, is called Byzantine, with its center at the capital, Constantinople. By degrees it developed into the forms now in use by the Greeks, in Greece and the Greek islands, in Asia Minor, Constantinople, and other parts of Turkey-in-Europe. These forms are together known as Modern Greek, which has a large and interesting literature, especially in popular poetry.

Unless one lives where Modern Greek is spoken, the study of the language is best begun with Attic Greek, for two reasons. Not only is it the best known of the old dialects and the least difficult; but farther, ancient Athens, by her literature, her art, and her thought, has had a more profound and lasting influence on the world than all the rest of the Greek race together—more, indeed, than any other people; and the prime object of learning Greek is to gain a first-hand acquaintance with a great force in civilization.

This book is intended to contain what one must know of grammar to read with intelligence the best Athenian literature. One who can do that needs no other grammar for reading the Common, Hellenistic, and Byzantine Greek.

I. SOUNDS AND WRITING

1 Greek is written with twenty-four letters, namely :

FORM		SOUND	NAME
A	α	a in far	ἄλφα	alpha
B	β	b	βῆτα	beta
Γ	γ	g in go	γάμμα	gamma
Δ	δ	d	δέλτα	delta
E	ε	ě in met	εἶ, ἔ ψῖλόν	epsilon
Z	ζ	dz	ζῆτα	zeta
H	η	German ä	ἦτα	eta
Θ	θ	th in thin	θῆτα	theta
I	ι	i in prigue	ἰῶτα	iota
K	κ	k	κάππα	kappa
Λ	λ	l	λάμβδα	lambda
M	μ	m	μῦ	mu
N	ν	n	νῦ	nu
Ξ	ξ	ks, x in wax	ξεῖ, ξῖ	xei, xi
O	ο	ö in obey	οῦ, ὀ μῖκρόν	omicron
Π	π	p	πεῖ, πῖ	pei, pi
P	ρ	r	ῥῶ	rho
Σ σ	σ	s in see	σίγμα	sigma
T	τ	t in to	ταῦ	tau
Υ	υ	French u , Germ. ü	ῡ, Ί ψῖλόν	upsilon
Φ	φ	ph in Philip	φεί, φῖ	phei, phi
X	χ	German ch	χεῖ, χῖ	chei, chi
Ψ	ψ	ps	ψεῖ, ψῖ	psei, psi
Ω	ω	ō in no	ῶ, ῷ μέγα	omega

a. The form ς is used only at the end of a word : στάσις.

b. Εῖ , $\xi\epsilon\acute{\iota}$, $\omicron\upsilon$, $\pi\epsilon\acute{\iota}$, υ , $\phi\epsilon\acute{\iota}$, $\chi\epsilon\acute{\iota}$, $\psi\epsilon\acute{\iota}$, ω are the classical Attic names for those letters; the other names for them, though now the common ones, came into use in the Middle Ages.

2 Greek writing was phonetic—that is, the letters were meant to represent the sounds, and each sound was written.

a. But slight distinctions were disregarded, and an old spelling was sometimes kept after the sound had changed. Thus finally, in the Byzantine period and since, the spelling of many words became unphonetic.

3 The letter γ before κ , γ , χ , or ξ represents the sound of n in link, or ng in sing (γ nasal): ἀνάγκη necessity, φθόγγος tone, ἄγχι near, σφίγξ sphinx.

4 The vowels ϵ and \omicron are always short—that is, were pronounced in less time than long vowels; η and ω are always long—that is, were given more time in speaking; α , ι , and υ are sometimes long, sometimes short. In this book long $\bar{\alpha}$, $\bar{\iota}$, $\bar{\upsilon}$ are thus marked; short α , ι , υ are left unmarked.

5 The diphthongs (δί-φθογγοὶ of two vowels) are a. Both vowels had their full sound, though united into one syllable. But by 400 B. C. $\epsilon\iota$ and $\omicron\upsilon$ had become simple; $\epsilon\iota$ represented the close sound of French é prolonged, or of German ee in Seele, and $\omicron\upsilon$ the close sound of u in rule or oo in food.

$\alpha\iota$	$\epsilon\iota$	$\omicron\iota$	$\alpha\upsilon$	$\epsilon\upsilon$	$\omicron\upsilon$
$\bar{\alpha}\iota$	$\eta\iota$	$\omega\iota$		$\eta\upsilon$	$\omega\upsilon$	$\upsilon\iota$

b. Much later the ι in $\tilde{\alpha}\iota$, $\eta\iota$, $\omega\iota$ ceased to be pronounced, and is not now usually pronounced. Hence it is commonly written under the long vowel, and called ι subscript: $\tilde{\alpha}\iota$, $\eta\iota$, $\omega\iota$. But with a capital this ι is still written on the line (adscript): $\Omega\iota\Delta\text{HI} = \text{'}\Omega\iota\delta\hat{\eta}\iota = \omega\delta\hat{\eta}$, and $\text{AI}\Delta\text{H}\Sigma = \text{'}\text{A}\iota\delta\eta\varsigma = \tilde{\alpha}\delta\eta\varsigma$ Hades.

- 6 A breathing, not counted as a letter, is written with every initial vowel or diphthong; the rough breathing (') represents the sound of h preceding the vowel, the smooth breathing (') merely denotes the absence of the h sound. The breathing is now written before a capital, but over a small letter. With a diphthong it is written over the second vowel: $\text{'}\text{O}\delta\acute{\omicron}\varsigma$ or $\acute{\omicron}\delta\acute{\omicron}\varsigma$ (hodos) road; $\text{'}\text{E}\xi$ or $\acute{\epsilon}\xi$ (ex) out of; $\text{A}\acute{\upsilon}\tau\acute{\omicron}\varsigma$ or $\acute{\alpha}\upsilon\tau\acute{\omicron}\varsigma$ (autos) self.

But if the second vowel of the diphthong is ι subscript or adscript the breathing is put with the first: $\text{'}\Omega\iota\delta\acute{\eta}$ or $\omega\delta\acute{\eta}$ song.

Also, initial ρ always takes the rough breathing: $\acute{\rho}\acute{\eta}\tau\omega\rho$ rheter, orator. Double ρ within a word is by some written $\acute{\rho}\acute{\rho}$: $\mu\acute{\upsilon}\acute{\rho}\acute{\rho}\alpha$ myrrh.

a. In Attic initial υ always has the rough breathing: $\acute{\upsilon}\pi\nu\omicron\varsigma$ sleep.

- 7 The pronunciation above described (1-6) is recommended as the nearest approach practicable, for our schools, to that of Athens about 400 B. C. To ϵ , θ , ϕ , χ are given the sounds now current in Greece, because the ancient sounds for these letters (27 a, 38 b) would increase the difficulties of pupils too much. Otherwise (except for ι subscript) the sounds described are nearly those of the Athenians at the time named.

- 8 Each vowel or diphthong, alone or with one or more consonants, makes a separate syllable.

It is customary in writing to join a single consonant, or any group of consonants that may begin a Greek word, with the following vowel, if there be one ; other combinations of consonants between vowels are divided : ὕ-γί-ει-α, κτῆ-μα, κέ-κτη-μαι, γι-γνώ-σκω, ἄλ-λος, ὄ-ψο-μαι. But compound words are divided between the members : προσ-ά-πτω.

ACCENT

- 9 The accented syllable is marked with one of three signs, called accents. These are

The acute accent (') : ὁδός.

The circumflex accent (^) : τῆς ὁδοῦ.

The grave accent (`) : τὴν ὁδόν.

a. These indicate changes of pitch, or speech-tune, not of stress, in the ancient pronunciation. But now, both in Greece and elsewhere, all alike are pronounced as a simple increase of stress, like the accent in English.

- 10 The accent mark is put over the vowel of the accented syllable ; with a diphthong it is put over the second vowel, unless that is ι subscript or adscript. If the vowel has a breathing too, the acute or grave is put at the right of the breathing, the circumflex above the breathing : ἐ ψιλόν, αἶ, ῶ.

With an initial capital the accent and breathing are placed before it : Ὅμηρος, Ὡ μέγα, Ἄιδης.

- 11 The acute can stand only on one of the last three syllables ; the circumflex on one of the last two only, and only on a long vowel or diphthong.

a. If, then, a vowel has the circumflex accent, it must be long, and no separate mark of length is added.

12 If the ultima is long, the acute can not stand on the antepenult, nor the circumflex on the penult. For exceptions see 93 b.

13 In the penult an accented long vowel or diphthong takes the circumflex, unless that is forbidden by 12.

14 But final αι and οι, though long, affect the accent of penult and antepenult as if short: ἄνθρωποι men, οἴκοι houses.

a. Yet not in οἴκοι at home, nor in optative verb forms: παύοι.

15 An acute on the ultima changes to the grave when closely followed by another word: ἀγαθὸς ἀνὴρ a good man.

a. This change is not made in τίς, τί interrogative (217) nor before an enclitic (19); before a comma usage varies.

16 A few common words have no accent of their own, but seem to rest on the word before or after. Those which thus look forward are called proclitics (προ-κλίνω lean forward); those which look backward are called enclitics (ἐγ-κλίνω lean on).

17 The proclitics are

- a. The article forms ὁ, ἡ, οἱ, αἱ;
- b. The prepositions εἰς (ἐς), ἐξ (ἐκ), ἐν;
- c. The conjunction εἰ;
- d. Ὡς in all uses, except as a demonstrative (thus);
- e. The negative adverb οὐ (οὐκ, οὐχ).

- 18 When no companion word follows, on which it would lean, a proclitic takes the acute: ἐγὼ μὲν οὐ not I, θεὸς ὥς as a god, κακῶν ἔξ out of evils.

a. When ὁ, ἡ, οἱ, or αἱ is a pronoun (205) many editors print it with an acute, which becomes grave by 15.

- 19 The enclitics are

a. The personal pronouns μου, μοι, με; σου, σοι, σε; οὐ, οἶ, ἐ;

b. The indefinite pronoun τις in all forms (except ἅττα);

c. The indefinite adverbs που, ποθι, πη, ποι, ποθεν, ποτε, πω, πως. (The corresponding interrogatives are all accented; see 236.)

d. The present indicative of εἶμι and φημι, except the second singular εἶ and φῆς.

e. The particles γε, τε, τοι, περ, the inseparable -δε.

f. To these add some poetic forms and words, like μιν, νιν, νυν, σφισι, σφι, σφε.

- 20 An enclitic takes an accent

a. If emphatic: ἀλλὰ σὲ καλῶ it's you I'm calling.

b. If it begins a clause (being then always emphatic): φησὶ μὲν he says, indeed.

c. If the syllable next before is elided: ταῦτ' ἐστί for ταῦτά ἐστι.

d. Also, a disyllabic enclitic takes the acute on the ultima, if the word before it has an acute on the penult: λόγους τινάς.

e. Ἔστω is written thus if it begins a clause, if it means exists or is possible, and if it follows οὐκ, μή, εἰ, ὥς, or καί.

21 The word before an enclitic

a. Keeps its own accent without change : ἐπεί τις διώκοι.

b. Adds an acute on the ultima, if an acute stands on the antepenult or a circumflex on the penult : ἄνθρωποί τινες, οἶκός τις.

c. If it be a proclitic or enclitic, takes an acute : εἴ φησι, εἰ δέ τίς φησι.

d. The above rules apply also when a word and a following enclitic are printed as one : οὔτινος, αἵτινες, ὥστε. In like manner εἶθε and ναίχι from εἰ and ναί.

22 Punctuation.—The comma and period are used as in English. The colon is a point above the line (·), taking the place of our colon and semicolon. The mark of a direct question is (;), like our semicolon.

SOUND CHANGES

23 Many changes of sound, and therefore of writing, occur in the formation and inflection of words. Various causes combine in various ways to produce them ; to understand them one must observe the action of the mouth and throat in making speech sounds. The most important relations and changes of Greek sounds are briefly stated in the following sections (24-56).

VOWELS

24 Vowels are called open or close according as the mouth in speaking them is more open or less open. The most open vowel is \bar{a} ; in speaking it both tongue and lips are as much as possible out of the way. In $\bar{\iota}$ the tongue narrows the opening; its edges lie close to the teeth, the breath issuing along the middle. In ov the lips are rounded so as to narrow the opening, while the tongue is drawn back. In \bar{v} the opening is narrowed by the tongue as for $\bar{\iota}$ and by the lips as for ov . Thus $\bar{\iota}$, \bar{v} , and ov are the closest vowel sounds. Between \bar{a} and $\bar{\iota}$ are η , ϵ , and $\epsilon\iota$; between \bar{a} and ov are ω and o . These relations are suggested in the following table:

				Open
			\bar{a}	a
		η		ω
	ϵ	$\epsilon\iota$		o
Close (tongue)	ι	$\bar{\iota}$	v	\bar{v}	ov	Close (lips)

25 The short open vowels, a , ϵ , o , often interchange, in root, stem, suffix, and endings. To indicate this variable sound, changing from one to another in various forms, we use the symbols $o:\epsilon$, $a:\epsilon$, and $a:\epsilon:o$.

26 In like manner the long open vowels, \bar{a} , η , ω , often interchange. The pair $\bar{a}:\eta$ is especially frequent in declension, the pair $\eta:\omega$ in conjugation.

a. Less often one of the short open vowels interchanges with one of the long open vowels. Instances are noted as they occur.

27 Originally v represented the sound that was afterward written ov . The two close vowels, ι and original v , when followed by a vowel, became consonantal, like our consonants y and w respectively; the same change occurred in Latin, and often occurs in English. The earliest Greek had these two consonants; the latter survived in some dialects in the classical period, and was represented by φ , called vau, or (from its shape) $\delta\acute{\iota}\gamma\alpha\mu\mu\alpha$ digamma. But in Attic both had disappeared before 500 B. C. Thus arises the rule:

The close vowels ι and v often disappear between two vowels. See 135.

a. In observing sound changes the original diphthong $\epsilon\iota$ (from $\epsilon + \iota$) must be distinguished from the digraph $\epsilon\iota$, which represents the simple sound ϵ (anciently = French é) lengthened. So also the original diphthong ov (from $o +$ original v) must be distinguished from the digraph ov , which represents the simple long sound of original \bar{v} . The rule in 27 applies to the true diphthongs, before they coalesced in pronunciation with the simple $\epsilon\iota$ and ov .

- 28 a. Long and short vowels are sometimes interchanged. The corresponding forms are commonly

Short	α ,	ϵ ,	ι ,	o ,	v ,
Long	η or $\bar{\alpha}$,	η ,	$\bar{\iota}$,	ω ,	\bar{v} .

Tragic poets in lyric parts often use Doric $\bar{\alpha}$ where prose uses η .

b. But when vowel-lengthening results from the loss of one or more following consonants (and sometimes in other cases),

α ,	ϵ ,	o	become
$\bar{\alpha}$,	$\epsilon\iota$,	ov .

- 29 Contraction.—Two syllables of the same word, not separated by a consonant (especially if the first ends in a short open vowel), are often united into one. The general rules observed in contraction are:

a. Two like vowels unite into their long, $\epsilon\epsilon$ becoming $\epsilon\iota$ and oo becoming ov (that is, the simple digraphs; cp. 27 a).

b. A short vowel disappears in a following diphthong that begins with the same vowel or with the corresponding long.

c. An o -sound (o , ω , ov , oi) prevails over an a - or e -sound (α , $\bar{\alpha}$, ϵ , η , $\epsilon\iota$), oe and eo becoming ov .

d. Of a - and e -sounds the one that precedes prevails.

e. An open vowel and a close vowel make a diphthong.

- 30 a. The accent is unchanged by contraction, unless one of the syllables contracted was accented.

b. If the accent was on the first of these, the contract syllable has the circumflex; if on the second, the acute.

31 Hiatus is the pronunciation of an initial vowel immediately after a final vowel. This was avoided, especially in poetry, by care in choosing and arranging words and by ν movable (41), and was evaded or softened by elision and crasis.

32 Elision is dropping or slighting a final short vowel before an initial vowel. The slighted vowel is replaced in writing by an apostrophe ('): ἀλλ' ἐγώ for ἀλλὰ ἐγώ.

But between the parts of a compound word no apostrophe is written.

For consonant changes see 42.

a. Verse inscriptions show that the ancients did not much care whether they wrote or omitted the elided vowel.

33 a. Elision is most common in prepositions, conjunctions, and particles, as δέ, ἀλλά, γε, τε, ἐπί.

b. Never elided are α and ο in monosyllables, ι in περί, ἄχρι, μέχρι, τί, τι, and ὅτι; also υ. Ὅτ' must therefore be for ὅτε.

34 An accent on the elided vowel

a. Is lost in prepositions and conjunctions: μετ' αὐτόν, ἀλλ' ἐγώ φημι.

b. On other words goes back to the penult: θαυμάστ' ἔλεξας (θαυμαστά) a wondrous tale!

35 Crasis (κρᾶσις mingling) is like contraction (29) except that it occurs between separate words, which are then written as one. If the first syllable had the rough breathing, that is retained over the mingled syllable; otherwise the smooth breathing is written: ἐγῶμαι for ἐγὼ οἶμαι, ἄν for ἄ ἄν, ὠγαθέ for ὦ ἀγαθέ, τᾶμά for τὰ ἐμά.

36 a. Final ι of a diphthong disappears in crasis: οὖν for οἱ ἐν or ὁ ἐν:

b. Initial α absorbs the vowel or diphthong of a preceding article and of τοι; most vowels and diphthongs absorb the αι of καί:

ἀνήρ, τάνδρός, ἄνδρες, αὐτός, τᾶν, κεί, for ὁ ἀνήρ, τοῦ ἀνδρός, οἱ ἄνδρες, ὁ αὐτός, τοι ἄν, καὶ εἰ.

But note $\kappa\acute{\alpha}\varsigma$, $\kappa\acute{\alpha}\tau\alpha$, $\kappa\acute{\alpha}\nu$, for $\kappa\alpha\iota\ \acute{\epsilon}\varsigma$, $\kappa\alpha\iota\ \acute{\epsilon}\iota\tau\alpha$, $\kappa\alpha\iota\ \acute{\epsilon}\nu$.

c. ἑτερος is treated as ἄτερος, probably the older form : ἄτερος for ὁ ἑτερος.

d. Note also applications of 42 :

$\theta\acute{\alpha}\tau\epsilon\rho\omicron\nu$, $\chi\eta$, $\chi\omicron\iota$, $\theta\omicron\iota\acute{\mu}\alpha\tau\iota\omicron\nu$, for $\tau\omicron\ \acute{\epsilon}\tau\epsilon\rho\omicron\nu$, $\kappa\alpha\iota\ \eta$, $\kappa\alpha\iota\ \omicron\iota$, $\tau\omicron\ \acute{\iota}\mu\acute{\alpha}\tau\iota\omicron\nu$.

37 The accent of the first word is lost in crasis, that of the second retained; see examples in 35 and 36.

CONSONANTS

38 Consonants are classified according as the different organs of speech are active in pronouncing them.

a. Those are sonant (voiced) in which the vocal cords are active, as in the vowels. (The vibration may be felt by placing the finger on the throat at the "Adam's apple.") These are λ , ρ , μ , ν , γ nasal; β , δ , γ (middle mutes); and ζ .

Those are surd (voiceless) in which the vocal cords are at rest. These are σ (sibilant, spirant); π , τ , κ (smooth mutes); ϕ , θ , χ (rough mutes); and ψ and ξ .

b. Mutes (stopped sounds), as the ancients pronounced them, require complete closure of the mouth passage, by lips or tongue, a brief pressure of the breath behind the barrier (the nasal passage being also closed by the soft palate) and then a quick opening of the barrier. Thus the breath finds an explosive exit; the sound can be but slightly prolonged, and is not easily pronounced alone. These are

π β ϕ labial (or π -mutes); closure by the lips;

τ δ θ dental (or τ -mutes); closure by the tongue just back of the front upper teeth;

κ γ χ guttural (or κ -mutes); closure by the back of the tongue against the soft palate.

c. Of these, π , τ , κ are smooth mutes, in contrast with ϕ , θ , χ . The latter are rough mutes or aspirates; in them the opening is more explosive, a π -, τ -, or κ -sound followed by a distinct h-sound, as in top-heavy, hot-head, pack-horse. In the sonants β , δ , γ the breath is checked by the vibrating vocal cords, so that less breath gathers for explosive exit than in the aspirates. The Greeks called these middle mutes, midway between the smooth mutes and the aspirates in the force of the final element.

d. In the nasals, μ , ν , γ nasal, the nasal passage is open, the soft palate being lowered; thus the breath, after passing between the vibrating vocal cords, finds exit through the nose; the oral passage is closed, in μ by the lips, in ν by the flattened tongue against the front teeth (the lips being open), in γ nasal by the back of the tongue against the soft palate (the lips being open).

e. ψ for $\pi\sigma$, ξ for $\delta\sigma$ (σ being probably made sonant), and ξ for $\kappa\sigma$ are called double consonants.

	Voiced				Voiceless
	Liquids		Double Conso- nant	Mutes			Sibi- lant	Double Conso- nants
	Nasals			Middle	Rough	Smooth
Labials		μ		β	ϕ	π		ψ
Dentals	λ ρ	ν	ζ	δ	θ	τ	σ
Gutturals		γ nasal		γ	χ	κ		ξ

40 At the end of a word no consonant could stand but -ν, -ρ, or -σ, and no consonantal group but -ψ, -ξ, or -γξ. Any other single consonant at the end was dropt; any other group at the end caused some change.

a. Final -λσ occurs in ἄλσ salt, sea; final -νσ in Τίρυνσ Tiryns. The proclitics ἐκ out of and οὐκ, οὐχ not are almost a part of the following word, and so are hardly exceptions.

41 A final -ν (ν movable) was added at will to some words. These are (1) words in -σι (-ψι, -ξι), (2) verbs in -ει in the third singular, (3) ἔσσι is, (4) sometimes the irregular ἦει went and ᾔδει knew.

a. Poetry and inscriptions alike show that ν movable was freely added before vowels and consonants; before vowels it could be omitted and elision used instead. The writer chose whichever treatment best pleased his ear.

- 42 Before the rough breathing a smooth mute (π, τ, κ) is aspirated, becoming ϕ, θ, χ . This occurs in composition, elision, and crasis; also in $\text{o}\dot{\upsilon}\kappa$:

$\epsilon\pi\acute{\iota} + \acute{\omicron}\delta\acute{\omicron}\varsigma$, $\acute{\alpha}\pi\acute{\omicron} \acute{\omega}\nu$, $\pi\acute{\alpha}\iota\varsigma \tau\epsilon \tilde{\eta}\delta\epsilon$, $\kappa\alpha\iota \acute{\omicron}\acute{\iota}$, $\text{o}\dot{\upsilon}\kappa$ become a. This change is merely another way of writing the same sounds (38 c). It is better in such cases (unless perhaps in compounds), and also easier, to keep the ancient sound of ϕ, θ, χ and so avoid distorting common words.

- 43 Before a dental mute (τ, δ, θ)

a. A labial or guttural mute must agree in aspiration, as smooth, middle, or rough; the only combinations are $\pi\tau, \beta\delta, \phi\theta, \kappa\tau, \gamma\delta, \chi\theta$. (But $\epsilon\kappa$ in composition is unchanged.)

b. Another dental mute changes to σ .

- 44 Before μ

a. A labial mute (π, β, ϕ) becomes μ ,

b. A guttural mute (κ, γ, χ) becomes γ ,

c. A dental mute (τ, δ, θ) becomes σ .

- 45 a. With a following σ a labial mute forms ψ , a guttural mute forms ξ .

b. A dental mute before σ disappears.

- 46 Before ι a τ often becomes σ . τ and σ sometimes interchange in other situations; especially the older $\sigma\sigma$ became $\tau\tau$ as early as 450 B. C.

- 47 Two successive syllables are seldom allowed to begin with a rough mute. Accordingly

a. In reduplication a rough mute is changed to the smooth.

b. In the $\theta\eta$ -passive the aorist imperative ending $-\theta\iota$ is changed to $-\tau\iota$.

c. The verb-stems $\theta\epsilon$ - put and $\theta\nu$ - sacrifice become $\tau\epsilon$ - and $\tau\nu$ - in the $\theta\eta$ -passive.

d. Several stems that originally began with one rough mute and ended with another have lost the aspiration at the beginning of most forms, but retain the aspiration there whenever the final mute loses it.

LIQUIDS

- 48 Initial ρ commonly stands for an older $f\rho$ or $\sigma\rho$. When, by inflection or otherwise, a vowel precedes, the f or σ usually appears as ρ instead of the aspiration. Hence the rule:

Initial ρ is doubled after the augment and reduplication, and in compounds after a short vowel.

- 49 After a nasal in a few words, by unconsciously closing the nasal passage too soon, a mute is developed. English examples are Thom(p)son, num(b)er (Latin numerus). In Greek we find

After μ a β : $\gamma\alpha\mu\beta\rho\acute{o}s$ for $\gamma\alpha\mu\text{-}\rho\acute{o}s$ (root $\gamma\alpha\mu\text{-}$), $\mu\epsilon\sigma\eta\mu\beta\rho\acute{\iota}\bar{\alpha}$ for $\mu\epsilon\sigma\eta\mu(\epsilon)\rho\acute{\iota}\bar{\alpha}$ ($\eta\mu\acute{\epsilon}\rho\bar{\alpha}$)

After ν a δ : $\acute{\alpha}\nu\delta\rho\acute{o}s$ for $\acute{\alpha}\nu(\epsilon)\rho\acute{o}s$.

- 50 The nasal ν

a. Before a labial mute or μ becomes μ .

b. Before a guttural mute becomes γ nasal.

c. Before λ or ρ may be assimilated, becoming λ or ρ .
 (But see e.)

d. But $\nu\mu$ becomes $\sigma\mu$ in forms of $\phi\alpha\acute{\iota}\nu\omega$ and from some other verb-stems in $-\nu$.

e. $\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ remains unchanged before ρ : $\acute{\epsilon}\nu\text{-}\rho\nu\theta\mu\acute{o}s$.

- 51 N before σ within a simple word disappears with lengthening of the vowel before it; ϵ becomes $\epsilon\iota$, o becomes ou (27 a and 28 b),— a. In some derivatives.

b. In the accusative plural of o stems (62 a).

c. In the verb-ending $-(\nu)\sigma\iota$ (older $-\nu\tau\iota$) (263 a).

d. But in the dative plural ν before $-\sigma\iota$ disappears without vowel-lengthening.

52 Σύν in composition

- a. Changes ν to σ before a simple σ.
- b. Loses ν before σ followed by a consonant, and before ζ.

53 The group ντ, νδ, or νθ before σ disappears, with lengthening of the vowel before it (28 b).

SIGMA

54 Initial σ followed by a vowel is often weakened to the rough breathing. Compare

Greek	ὑπό,	ὑπέρ,	ἄλς,	ἔρπω,	ἴστημι,	ἄλλομαι,
Latin	sub ,	super ,	sal ,	serpo ,	sisto ,	salio .

55 a. Between vowels σ is apt to disappear.

- b. Between consonants σ disappears.

- c. When inflection brings two sigmas together, one disappears.

CONSONANTS WITH IOTA

56 After a consonant ι often causes changes. Thus:

- a. λι becomes λλ: ἄλλος, Latin alius.

- b. After ν or ρ, ι is transposed and contracts with the stem vowel.

- c. κι, γι, or χι, sometimes τι, becomes σσ, later ττ.

- d. δι, sometimes γι (also γγι), becomes ζ.

II. WORDS

A. NOUNS AND ADJECTIVES

57 In nouns and adjectives Greek distinguishes more or less fully

Three Genders—Masculine, Feminine, and Neuter.

Three Numbers—Singular and Plural, and sometimes a Dual for two objects only.

Five Cases—Nominative, Genitive, Dative, Accusative, and Vocative.

58 The genders are grammatical, as in Latin. For the most part they agree with the sex, but not always, in the case of creatures that have sex; and names of many sexless things are masculine or feminine. Gender must be learned by reading and practice.

59 The nominative, accusative, and vocative are used nearly as in Latin. The genitive is used nearly as in Latin, but has also some uses of the Latin ablative, as a from case. The dative is used nearly as in Latin, but has also some uses of the Latin ablative, as a with, by, at, or in case.

60 The stem of a noun or adjective is that part to which the case-endings are added. The character of the stem affects the ending and the way of uniting one to the other. Nouns and adjectives are declined in three ways, named from the last letter of the stem :

The O-Declension, for stems in -ο ;

The A-Declension, for stems in -ᾱ ;

The Consonant Declension, for stems that end in a consonant or in ι or υ.

The O- and A-Declensions are so much alike that they are together called the Vowel Declension.

- 61 The article ὁ ἡ τό the may be used with any noun, and is a convenient mark of gender. It is declined thus :

SING.	M.	F.	N.	PLU.	M.	F.	N.	DUAL.	M. F. N.
N.	ὁ	ἡ	τό	N.	οἱ	αἱ	τά	N. A.	τώ

D.	τῷ	τῇ	τῷ	D.	τοῖς	ταῖς	τοῖς
A.	τόν	τήν	τό	A.	τούς	τάς	τά

a. The article has no vocative. The interjection ὦ O is familiarly used with a vocative noun, without the emotional tone which O implies in English.

I. O-DECLENSION: NOUNS

- 62 For examples (παράδειγματα) see the table on the next page.

a. Masculines and feminines are declined alike. There are many more masculines than feminines, but a few feminines occur often. They take -s in the nominative singular and change -ο to -ε in the vocative singular (25). Note that every dative has ι, on the line or subscript. In the accusative plural -ους is for -ο-υς, by 51 b.

c. Neuters take -ν in the nominative, accusative, and vocative singular, and change -ο to -α in the nominative, accusative, and vocative plural (see 25).

63 a. The accent of the nominative singular is kept throughout, except that

b. The rules in 12 and 14 must be followed: see ἄνθρωπος.

c. In the genitive and dative an accented long ultima takes the circumflex: see ὁδός.

64 In the dative plural poets freely use the older ending -οῖσι; so also in the article and in adjectives: βωμοῖσι τοῖς σοῖς, and τοῖσιν ἐμπείροισι. S. OT. 16, 44.

II. A - DECLENSION: NOUNS

65 Feminine noun-stems in $-\bar{a}$ may be classed in two groups; those of the first group retain $-\bar{a}$ or $-a$ throughout the singular, those of the second group change $-\bar{a}$ to $-\eta$ in all, or in some, singular forms.

67 In the singular

a. The nominative generally has $-\bar{a}$ after a vowel, $-a$ after a consonant. Exceptions are mostly marked by the accent (11-13): ὑγίεια health, ἀλήθεια truth, χώρᾱ land, Λήδᾱ Leda.

b. If the nominative has $-\bar{a}$ or $-\eta$, the other cases have the same.

c. If the nominative has -α, the accusative and vocative have the same; the genitive and dative have -ᾱ after a vowel or ρ, otherwise -η.

68 The rules of accent in 63 a-c apply to all declensions. But

a. The genitive plural in the α-declension always has the ultima circumflexed, because -ῶν is contracted from -ᾶ-ων (29 c and 30 b).

69 a. Poets retain the older ᾱ in some words where short α appears in prose.

b. The dramatists in lyric parts use freely the Doric forms that retain the older ᾱ in place of Attic η; so, too, in the 72 Masculine stems in -ā are like feminines, except in the singular, as follows:

a. They change -ā to -η except after ε, ι, or ρ.

b. The nominative ends in -s.

c. The genitive ending -ου is borrowed from the o-declension.

d. In the vocative nouns in -της have -τα. Also national names in -ης have -ᾱ: Πέρσης, Πέρσα. The vocative of δεσπότης master has recessive accent: δέσποτα.

e. Some proper names in -ās (Doric or foreign) make the genitive in -ā, and retain ā throughout, contrary to 67 c.

III. ADJECTIVES OF THE VOWEL DECLENSION

73 Many adjectives follow the o-declension, the masculine and feminine being alike, as with nouns. Here belong nearly all compound stems in -o.

75 Still more adjectives have a stem in -o for the masculine and neuter, and a stem in -ā for the feminine.

	G. D.	σοφοῖν	σοφαῖν	σοφοῖν	δικαίοιν	δικαīαιν	δικαίοιν

77 a. The feminine singular has \bar{a} after ϵ , ι , or ρ , otherwise $-\eta$.

b. In the nominative and genitive plural the feminine is accented like the masculine, not as it would be in a noun: $\deltaίκαιαι$ and $\δικαίων$.

78 Some adjectives are declined now with, now without, a separate feminine. Especially in poetry the forms vary.

IV. CONTRACTED VOWEL STEMS

79 Stems in $-\epsilon o$ and $-\circ o$ are contracted (29 a, b, and c. But $-\epsilon a$ becomes $-\bar{a}$.)

80

STEM		$\nu o o-$, $\nu o u-$		$\acute{o} \sigma \tau \epsilon o-$, $\acute{o} \sigma \tau o u-$
MEANING . .		mind		bone
Sing.	N.	\acute{o} ($\nu \acute{o} \sigma$)	$\nu o \hat{u} s$	$\tau \acute{o}$ ($\acute{o} \sigma \tau \acute{\epsilon} o \nu$)	$\acute{o} \sigma \tau o \hat{u} \nu$
	G.	($\nu \acute{o} o u$)	$\nu o \hat{u}$	($\acute{o} \sigma \tau \acute{\epsilon} o u$)	$\acute{o} \sigma \tau o \hat{u}$
	D.	($\nu \acute{o} \omega$)	$\nu \hat{\omega}$	($\acute{o} \sigma \tau \acute{\epsilon} \omega$)	$\acute{o} \sigma \tau \hat{\omega}$
	A.	($\nu \acute{o} o \nu$)	$\nu o \hat{u} \nu$	($\acute{o} \sigma \tau \acute{\epsilon} o \nu$)	$\acute{o} \sigma \tau o \hat{u} \nu$
Plur.	N.	($\nu \acute{o} o i$)	$\nu o \hat{i}$	($\acute{o} \sigma \tau \acute{\epsilon} a$)	$\acute{o} \sigma \tau \hat{a}$

	D.	($\nu \acute{o} o i s$)	$\nu o \hat{i} s$	($\acute{o} \sigma \tau \acute{\epsilon} o i s$)	$\acute{o} \sigma \tau o \hat{i} s$
	A.	($\nu \acute{o} o u s$)	$\nu o \hat{u} s$	($\acute{o} \sigma \tau \acute{\epsilon} a$)	$\acute{o} \sigma \tau \hat{a}$

The vocative and the dual do not occur.

81 a. Simple nouns take the circumflex on the ultima throughout.

b. Compounds keep the accent on the syllable that has it in the nominative singular: $\acute{\epsilon} \kappa \pi \lambda o u s$, $\acute{\epsilon} \kappa \pi \lambda o u$, $\acute{\epsilon} \kappa \pi \lambda \omega \nu$. So also adjectives (83).

A.	εὐνοῦν		εὐνοῦς	εὐνοα

83 Compound adjectives of this class retain -οα in the neuter plural uncontracted. For the accent see 81 b.

84 Some stems in -ā contract; they have the circumflex throughout (30 b).

85

STEM	'Αθηναᾱ- 'Αθηνᾱ-	γαᾱ- γη-	'Ερμεᾱ- 'Ερμη-
MEANING . .	Athena	earth	Hermes, Pl. images of H.

G.	'Αθηνᾱς	γῆς	'Ερμοῦ	'Ερμῶν
D.	'Αθηνᾱ	γῆ	'Ερμῇ	'Ερμαῖς
A.	'Αθηνᾱν	γῆν	'Ερμῆν	'Ερμᾱς

86 Poets use the forms 'Αθᾱνᾱ, 'Αθᾱνᾱς, etc.; also the Doric forms γᾱ, etc., as well as the longer γαῖα, γαῖᾱς, etc.

87 A few adjectives of color and material in -εος, and a few of number in -πλόος, usually contract, and have a separate feminine:

πορφύρεος,	πορφυρέᾱ,	πορφύρεον	dark red;
χρῦσεος,	χρῦσέᾱ,	χρῦσεον	golden;
ἁπλόος,	ἁπλόη,	ἁπλόον	single.

	D.	πορφυροῖς	πορφυραῖς	πορφυροῖς
	A.	πορφυροῦς	πορφυράς	πορφυρά

89 a. Contractions are mostly as in nouns, but the final syllables characteristic of this declension are kept; hence in the singular -ρά (not -ρη : 77 a) and ἀπλή, and in the neuter plural -ᾱ (not -η).

b. The contract forms all take the circumflex on the ultima, sometimes contrary to 30 a.

Ω - DECLENSION

- 91 A few noun and adjective stems have changed -ο (generally -ᾱο) to -ω (-εω), and are declined as follows (ω-declension):

92	STEM MEANING . . .	ναο-, νεω- temple	ἱλαο-, ἱλεω- gracious
			M. F.	N.
	Sing. N. V.	νεώς	ἱλεως	ἱλεων

	G.	νεών	ἱλεων
	D.	νεός	ἱλεως
	A.	νεός	ἱλεως	ἱλεα
	Du. N. A.	νεώ	ἱλεω
	G. D.	νεόν	ἱλεων

- 93 a. The ω appears in all cases except the neuter plural nominative and accusative; οι of the usual form becomes ω.

b. The long ultima does not exclude the acute accent from the antepenult—an exception to 12.

c. The accent of the nominative singular is retained throughout. (An accented ultima in the genitive and dative is circumflexed by some editors.)

- 94 The stem έω-, nominative (ῆ) έως dawn, has in the accusative έω (not έων). So sometimes other nouns and adjectives: τὸν Μίνω, τὴν Κέω, etc.

- 95 The adjective πλέως full has the regular feminine πλέᾱ, etc.

- 96 Instead of the regular forms of $\sigma\hat{\omega}os$, $\sigma\acute{\omega}\bar{a}$, $\sigma\hat{\omega}on$ safe, unharméd, Attic writers more often use

	M. F.	N.		M. F.	N.
Sing. N.	$\sigma\hat{\omega}s$	$\sigma\hat{\omega}v$	Pl. N.	$\sigma\hat{\omega}$	$\sigma\hat{a}$
A.	$\sigma\hat{\omega}v$		A.	$\sigma\hat{\omega}s$	$\sigma\hat{a}$

- 97 Sometimes, especially in poetry, the regular forms from stems in $-\bar{a}o$ are used: $v\bar{a}o\acute{u}s$, $M\epsilon\nu\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\bar{a}os$, $\acute{\iota}\lambda\bar{a}oi$.

V. CONSONANT DECLENSION: NOUNS

- 98 To the consonant declension belong, among nouns,
 Liquid stems ending in $-\lambda$, $-\nu$, $-\rho$,
 Guttural stems ending in $-\kappa$, $-\gamma$ $-\chi$,
 Labial and dental stems ending in $-\pi$, $-\beta$, and in $-\tau$, $-\delta$, $-\theta$, Neuter stems ending in $-\tau$,
 Masculine stems ending in $-\nu\tau$,
 Stems ending in $-\epsilon\sigma$, $-\alpha\sigma$,
 Stems ending in $-\iota$, $-\upsilon$,
 Stems ending in $-\epsilon\nu$, $-\alpha\nu$, $-\omicron\nu$,
 Stems ending in $-\omega$, $-\omicron$,
 Some irregular nouns.

99 LIQUID STEMS IN $-\lambda$, $-\nu$

STEM MEANING . . .	(ὁ) ἅλ- salt	(ὁ) μην- month	(ὁ) ἄγων- contest
Sing. N. V. G. D. A.	ἅλ-s ἅλ-ός ἅλ-ί ἅλ-a	μήν μην-ός μην-ί μῆν-a	ἄγών ἄγων-ος ἄγων-ι ἄγων-a

Du. N. A. G. D.	ἅλ-e ἅλ-οῖν	μῆν-e μην-οῖν	ἄγων-e ἄγων-οιν

100 In ἄλς (see 40 a) both stem and case-endings are unchanged throughout.

101 Monosyllabic stems of this declension accent the ending in the genitive and dative; -ῶν and -οῖν take the circumflex.

a. Not so, however, the genitive plural (and dual) of.

ὁ, ἡ, παῖς, παιδ-ός child,

ὁ Τρώς, Τρω-ός Trojan,

τὸ οὖς, ὠτ-ός ear,

ὁ δμῶς, δμω-ός slave (poetic).

Thus παιδ-ί, παι-σί, but παῖδ-ων, παῖδ-οιν.

Du. N. A.		λιμέν-ε	δαίμον-ε	ῥήτορ-ε
	G. D.	λιμέν-οιν	δαιμόν-οιν	ῥητόρ-οιν

103 Stems in -ν and -ρ

a. Omit the case-ending -s and lengthen a short ultima (40): δαίμων for δαιμον-s, ῥήτωρ for ῥητορ-s.

b. But note ὁ δελφίς dolphin for δελφῖν-s and ἡ Σαλαμίς Salamis for Σαλαμῖν-s.

c. As a vocative singular they use the nominative if the ultima is accented; otherwise the simple stem.

d. For λιμέ-σι, δαίμο-σι, see 51 d.

104 Ἀπόλλων Apollo has in the accusative singular Ἀπόλλωνα, but oftener Ἀπόλλω; the vocative is ὦ Ἀπολλων, with recessive accent (cp. δέσποτα, 72 d).

105 A few common stems in -ερ make a class by themselves. They accent the ending in the genitive and dative singular as if monosyllabic, reject ε in those cases, change ερ to ρα in the dative plural, and in the vocative singular have recessive accent (cp. ὦ Ἀπολλων, 104).

106 STEMS IN -ερ

STEM	(ὁ) πατερ-	(ὁ) ἀνερ-	(ἡ) μητερ-	(ἡ) θυγατερ-
MEANING . .	father	man	mother	daughter
Sing. N.	πατήρ	ἀνὴρ	μήτηρ	θυγάτηρ

A.	πατέρ-ας	ἄνδρ-ας	μητέρ-ας	θυγατέρ-ας
Du. N. A.	πατέρ-ε	ἄνδρ-ε	μητέρ-ε	θυγατέρ-ε
G. D.	πατέρ-οιν	ἀνδρ-οῖν	μητέρ-οιν	θυγατέρ-οιν

107 In άνήρ after ε was lost δ was developed between ν and ρ (49). Thus the stem becomes άνδρ- in most forms; hence the accent of άνδρῶν, άνδροϊν (101).

108 a. Like πατήρ is declined ὁ γαστήρ (γαστερ-) belly.

b. Nearly like μήτηρ except in accent is Δημήτηρ Demeter, G. Δήμητρος, D. Δήμητρι, A. Δήμητρα, V. Δήμητερ.

109 GUTTURAL STEMS IN -κ, -γ

STEM	(ὁ) φυλακ-	(ἡ) αἰγ-	(ἡ) φαλαγγ-

Du. N. V.	φύλακ-ε	αἶγ-ε	φάλαγγ-ε
G. D.	φυλάκ-οιν	αἰγ-οῖν	φαλάγγ-οιν

110 For -ξ and -ξι see 45 a.

111 a. In ὁ κήρυξ, κήρῡκ-ος herald, ῡ becomes short in the nominative and vocative singular. So ῑ in ὁ φοῖνιξ, φοίνικ-ος, date-palm.

b. The stem τριχ- hair follows 47 d; thus ἡ θρίξ, ταῖς θριξί, but τριχός, τριχί, τρίχα, etc.

c. The stem (ὁ) ἀνακτ- king, chief, loses τ before -s and -σι, and loses κτ in the voc. sing.: ἄναξ, ἄνακτ-ος, ἄνακτ-ι, ἄνακτ-α, ἄναξ (also ἄνα sometimes), pl. ἄνακτ-ες, ἀνάκτ-ων, ἄναξι, ἄνακτ-ας. So, too, ἡ νύξ, νυκτ-ός, night, makes the dat. pl. νυξί.

Du. N. V. G. D.	ἐλπίδ-ε ἐλπίδ-οιν	χαριτ-ε χαρίτ-οιν	ὀρνιθ-ε ὀρνίθ-οιν

115 Stems in -τ, -δ, -θ after unaccented ῖ or ν lose the mute and take -ν in the accusative singular, as if they were stems in -ι or -υ (130) : ἡ κόρυς, κόρυθ-ος helmet, acc. κόρυν.

116 The vocative of παῖς, παιδ-ός child is παῖ. The stem was originally παῖδ-; hence the irregular accent: παῖς, παίδων, παίδοιν (101 and a).

117 The nominative singular is irregular in ὁ πούς, ποδ-ός foot.

NEUTER STEMS IN -τ

STEM	(τὸ) σωματ-	(τὸ) τερατ-, τερασ-
MEANING	body	portent
Sing. N. A. V.	σῶμα	τέρας

D.	σώμα-σι	τέρα-σι
Dual N. V.	σώματ-ε	τέρατ-ε
G. D.	σωμάτ-οιν	τεράτ-οιν

119 In the nominative, accusative, and vocative singular neuters take no case-ending; final -τ is dropt (40); in τὸ γάλα, γάλακτ-ος milk, final -κτ is dropt; τέρας is another form of the stem τερατ- (46).

120 Different but related stems appear in τὸ ὕδωρ, ὕδατ-ος water, τὸ ἥπαρ, ἥπατ-ος liver, τὸ γόνυ, γόνατ-ος knee, τὸ δόρυ, δόρατ-ος spear, τὸ οὖς, ὠτ-ός ear, τὸ φῶς, φωτ-ός light (sing. only).

a. Φῶς is contracted (hence the accent, 30 b) from older φάος, which is the common form in verse.

MASCULINE STEMS IN -ντ

STEM	(ὁ) γίγαντ-	(ὁ) ὀδοντ-	(ὁ) λεοντ-
MEANING	giant	tooth	lion

Du. N. V.	γίγαντ-ε	ὀδόντ-ε	λέοντ-ε
G. D.	γιγάντ-οιν	ὀδόντ-οιν	λέοντ-οιν

122 a. For γίγās (from γίγαντ-ς) and ὀδοús (from ὀδοντ-ς) see 53 and 28 b; so in the dative plural.

b. But many stems in -οντ form the nominative singular as in λέων, omitting -ς, dropping τ, and lengthening ο to ω.

123 All noun stems in -ντ are masculine.

STEMS IN -εσ, -ασ

STEM	(τὸ) γενεσ-	(τὸ) κρεασ-

Du. N. A.	(γένε-ε) γένει	(κρέα-ε) κρέα
G. D.	(γενέ-οιν) γενοῖν	(κρεά-οιν) κρεῶν

125 a. In neuter stems $-\epsilon\sigma$ becomes $-\omicron\varsigma$ in the nominative, accusative, and vocative singular (25); elsewhere σ is lost (55 a and c), and concurrent vowels are contracted (29). But the genitive plural $-\acute{\epsilon}\omega\nu$ is often left uncontracted. The dual is rare.

b. Stems in $-\alpha\sigma$ likewise lose σ and contract.

126 τὸ κέρας horn, wing (of an army), has the inflection of two stems, κερᾶτ- and κερασ-.

	SINGULAR	PLURAL
N. A. V.	κέρας	κερᾶτ-α κέρᾱ
G.	κερᾶτ-ος κέρως	κεράτ-ων κερῶν
D.	κερᾶτ-ι κέραι	κέρᾱ-σι

127 Proper names with stems in $-\epsilon\sigma$ are nearly like the masculine of adjectives with stems in $-\epsilon\sigma$ (151-154).

	(ὁ) Σωκρατεσ- Sokrates	(ὁ) Περικλεεσ- Perikles
Sing. N.	Σωκράτης	(Περικλέης) Περικλῆς
G.	Σωκράτους	Περικλέους
D.	Σωκράτει	(Περικλέει) Περικλεῖ
A.	Σωκράτη or -ην	Περικλέᾱ (Περικλῆ)
V.	Σώκρατες	Περίκλεις

128 a. Accusatives like Σωκράτην are formed on the model of α -declension masculines (71). For the accent of Σώκρατες see 153 a.

b. The forms in parenthesis appear in poetry.

c. Here belongs also ὁ Ἄρης Ares, G. Ἄρεος and Ἄρεως, D. Ἄρει, A. Ἄρη and Ἄρην, V. Ἄρες.

129 The one stem in -οσ, αἰδοσ- respect, shame, is declined in the sing. only : ἡ αἰδώς, αἰδοῦς, αἰδοῖ, αἰδῶ.

130 STEMS IN -ι AND -υ

STEM		(ἡ) πολι-	(ὁ) πηχυ-	(τὸ) ἄστυ-

Du.	N. A.	πόλε-ε	πήχε-ε	ἄστε-ε
	G. D.	πολέ-οιν	πηχέ-οιν	ἄστέ-οιν

131 a. Feminines in -ι are a large class, many of them nouns of action in -σις or -τις (406). The genitive and dative (and the rare dual) have ε for ι; and the nominative plural, which is used also as the accusative, has ει. The ending -ος becomes -ως (28 a); -ως and -ων do not exclude the accent from the antepenult.

b. Stems in unaccented -υ closely resemble ι-stems. The forms in parenthesis in the plural of neuters occur in poetry.

Du.	N. A.	σύ-ε	ἰχθύ-ε
	G. D.	σν-οῖν	ἰχθύ-οιν

133 a. Accented -v at the end of the stem is made long in the nominative, accusative, and vocative singular, which in monosyllables are circumflexed.

b. In the accusative plural -v̄s probably results from dropping ν of the old ending -vs (cp. 62 a and 51 b).

134 Stems in -εν, -αν, and -ον (136) lose ν before a vowel (27; cp. Lat. nāvis and bōs, bovis).

135 a. Stems in -εν originally had -ην; traces of the η remain (1) in the lengthening of the endings -os, -a, -as to -ws -ā, -ās; (2) in the older nominative plural ending -ῆς (contracted from -ῆες); open η later became closer ει (24).

b. In poetry, less often in prose, the accusative plural is sometimes like the nominative, in -εῖς.

Du.	N. A.	ἵππέ-ε	νη-ε	βό-ε
	G. D.	ἵππέ-οιν	νε-οῖν	βο-οῖν

- 137 In ναυ-, originally νην-, νη- is retained before a short vowel, but made νε- before a long (ω or $\omicron\iota$), while ναυ- stands before a consonant; -ώς keeps the accent of the original -ός.
- 138 The stem (ῆ) οἰ- sheep (originally ὄφι-; cp. Lat. ovis), is declined: Sing. οῖς, οἶός, οῖ, οῖν, οῖ; Pl. οῖες, οἶῶν, οἶσί, οῖς.
- 139 Stems in -ευ with a preceding vowel often contract in the gen. and acc. sing. and plu.: Πειραιέως or Πειραιῶς, Πειραιέᾱ or Πειραιᾶ; Εὐβοέων or Εὐβοῶν, Εὐβοέᾱς or Εὐβοᾱς.
- 140 Stems in -ω and -ο (141) are few, the latter mostly names of women.

IRREGULAR NOUNS

142 Some nouns in frequent use are quite irregular. The commonest are :

1. ἡ γυνή woman, wife, otherwise from the stem γυναικ- (which loses -κ in the voc. sing.), with irregular accent :

S. γυνή, γυναικ-ός, γυναικ-ί, γυναικ-α, γύναι,

Pl. γυναικ-ες, γυναικ-ῶν, γυναιξί, γυναικ-ας.

2. ὁ Ζεὺς, Zeus, V. Ζεῦ, but G. Δι-ός, D. Δι-ί, A. Δί-α.

3. (ὁ, ἡ) κυον-, κυν-, dog :

S. κύων, κυν-ός, κυν-ί, κύν-α, κύον,

Pl. κύν-ες, κυν-ῶν, κυ-σί, κύν-ας.

4. (ὁ) μαρτυ-, μαρτυρ-, witness :

S. μάρτυ-ς, μάρτυρ-ος, μάρτυρ-ι, μάρτυρ-α,

Pl. μάρτυρ-ες, μαρτύρ-ων, μάρτυ-σι, μάρτυρ-ας.

5. Besides ὁ ὄνειρος dream, and τὸ ὄνειρον, regular, appear the stems (τὸ) ὄναρ- and ὄνειρατ- :

S. ὄναρ, ὄνειρατ-ος, ὄνειρατ-ι,

Pl. ὄνειρατ-α, ὄνειράτ-ων, ὄνειρασι.

6. ἡ Πνύξ Pnyx makes G. Πυκν-ός, D. Πυκν-ί, A. Πύκν-α.

7. The adjective πρέσβυ-s old is in the plural masculine the regular word for envoy, ambassador. In poetry the singular also has the same meaning, as well as that of old, but the prose singular is πρεσβευτής, a noun of the agent (405) from the verb πρεσβεύω. Thus:

S. πρεσβευτής, -τοῦ, -τῇ, -τήν, -τά,

Pl. πρέσβεις, πρέσβεων, πρέσβεσι, πρέσβεις.

The prose word for old man is πρεσβύτης (or γέρων).

8. (τὸ) πῦρ-, πυρ- fire makes its plural of the o-declension:

S. πῦρ, πυρ-ός, πυρ-ί,

Pl. πυρά, πυρῶν, πυροῖς camp-fires, beacons.

9. Besides ὁ υῖός son, regular, forms are made from the stem viv-:

S. (υῖός) υῖέος, υῖεῖ, υῖέα, (υῖύς and υῖύν, inscriptions),

Pl. υῖεῖς, υῖέων, υῖέσι, υῖεῖς,

Du. υῖέε, υῖέοιν.

Forms also occur with v for vi: υός, υοῦ, υέος.

10. (ἡ) χειρ-, χερ- hand:

S. χείρ, χειρ-ός, χειρ-ί, χεῖρ-α,

Pl. χεῖρ-ες, χειρ-ῶν, χερ-σί, χεῖρ-ας,

Du. χεῖρ-ε, χερ-οῖν.

a. Poets use also χερ-ός, χερ-ί, χέρ-α, χέρ-ες, χερ-ῶν, χέρ-ας.

143 In poetry the following also are found:

1. Besides δάκρυον tear, regular, also τὸ δάκρυ and τοῖς δάκρυ-σι.

2. From (τὸ) δορ- spear: G. δορ-ός, D. δορ-ί and δόρει. For δορυ- and δορατ- see 120.

3. From (τὸ) καρᾱ- head: N. A. κάρᾱ, D. κάρᾱ. But G. κρᾱτ-ός, D. κρᾱτ-ί; also N. A. τὸ κρᾱτα.

4. Besides ὄρνις (115), forms from the stem ὀρνι-:

Si. N. ὄρνι-s, A. ὄρνι-v, Pl. N. A. ὄρνεις, G. ὄρνε-ων.

5. Besides ὁ χρώς, χρωτός skin, regular, also G. χρο-ός, D. χρο-ί and χρῶ.

- 144 In some nouns the plural may be of different gender from the singular: ὁ σῖτος grain, food, pl. τὰ σῖτα; τὸ στάδιον stade, race-course, pl. στάδιοι or στάδια.

VI. CONSONANT DECLENSION: ADJECTIVES

- 145 Some nouns of classes already described were originally adjectives and continued to be used as such, masculine and feminine alike (neuter, too, when there is one) of one ending:

φυγάς, φυγάδ-ος exiled (like ἐλπίς, 114), γυμνής, γυμνήτ-ος light-armed,
 πένης, πένητ-ος poor.

With these belong some other adjectives, as μάκαρ, μάκαρ-ος blessed (cp. 102), ἄρπαξ, ἄρπαγ-ος rapacious (cp. 109), ἄγνώς, ἄγνώτ-ος unknown (cp. 112), ἄπαις, ἄπαιδ-ος childless (cp. 114).

- 146 Many adjectives are of two endings; the neuter differs from the masculine in the nominative and accusative only. Here are many adjectives compounded of nouns of this declension:

M. F.	N.
εὖελπις	εὖ-ελπι,	G. εὖέλπιδ-ος	of good hope,
ἄχαρις	ἄχαρι,	G. ἀχάριτ-ος	lacking grace, εὐδαίμων	εὐδαιμον,	G. εὐδαίμον-ος	fortunate,
εὐήθης	εὐηθες,	G. εὐήθους	simple-minded.

Here belong also comparative adjectives in -ων (stem in -ον): βελτίων better.

ADJECTIVES OF TWO ENDINGS

		εὐ-δαιμον- fortunate		ἀ-χαρι- lacking grace
		M. F.	N.	M. F.	N.
Sing.	N.	εὐδαίμων	εὐδαιμον	ἄχαρι-ς	ἄχαρι

Du.	N. A.	εὐδαίμον-ε		ἄχαριτ-ε
	G. D.	εὐδαιμόν-οιν		ἄχαριτ-οιν

148 The accent is recessive. Stems in -ιτ and -ιδ follow the rule in 115. For ἄχαρι see 40.

COMPARATIVES IN -ων

		βελτίον- better
		M. F.	N.
Sing.	N.	βελτίων	βέλτιον
	G.		βελτίον-ος
	D.		βελτίον-ι
	A.	βελτίον-α, βελτίω	βέλτιον
	V.		βέλτιον
Plur.	N. V.	βελτίον-ες, βελτίους	βελτίον-α, βελτίω

	A.	βελτίον-ας, βελτίους	βελτίον-α, βελτίω
Du.	N. A.		βελτίον-ε
	G. D.		βελτιόν-οιν

- 150 The contracted forms are from a stem in -οσ, the σ disappearing between vowels: βελτίο(σ)α, βελτίω (55 a). The accusative plural in -ους is borrowed from the nominative.

The accent is recessive.

STEMS IN -εσ

		σαφεσ-, plain		εὐθεσ-, simple-minded
		M. F.	N.	M. F.	N.
Sing.	N.	σαφής	σαφές	εὐήθης	εὐήθες
	G.	σαφοῦς		εὐήθους
	D.	σαφεί		εὐήθει
	A.	σαφῇ	σαφές	εὐήθη	εὐήθες
	V.	σαφές		εὐήθες
Plur.	N. V.	σαφείς	σαφῇ	εὐήθεις	εὐήθη
	G.	σαφῶν		εὐήθων
	D.	σαφέσι		εὐήθεσι
	A.	σαφείς	σαφῇ	εὐήθεις	εὐήθη

- 152 a. In the nominative singular -εσ becomes -ης in the masculine and feminine, but remains -ες in the neuter (cp. γένος, 124, 125 a). The σ disappears between vowels (55 a) and contractions are regular (29 a, c, d, e): σαφοῦς from σαφέος, σαφῇ from σαφέα, σαφείς from σαφέες, σαφῶν from σαφέων. In the accusative plural σαφείς is borrowed from the nominative. (Cp. 150.)

b. But if -εσ follows a vowel, -έα usually contracts to -ᾶ instead of -ῆ: ἐνδεής needy, (ἐνδεέα) ἐνδεᾶ, and εὐκλής famous, (εὐκλεέα) εὐκλεᾶ.

- 153 a. The accent, if it is not on the ultima, is recessive, even in contract forms.

b. But not in the neuter forms in -ῶδες and -ῆρες: εὐῶδες fragrant, θηριῶδες animal, ποδῆρες reaching to the feet.

- 154 Names like Σωκράτης, Περικλῆς, Διογένης (127) were originally adjectives of this class. So, too, the noun τριήρης trireme.
- 155 Many adjectives whose masculine and neuter are of the consonant declension have a separate feminine in the α-declension. The feminine singular always has short -α in the nominative, accusative, and vocative singular. (If the masculine and neuter are of the ο-declension, the feminine always has ᾱ or η: see 77 a.)

156 ADJECTIVES OF THREE ENDINGS: STEMS IN -αν

		μελαν-, μελαινᾱ- black
		M.	F.	N.
Sing.	N.	μέλᾱς	μέλαινα	μέλαν

Du.	N. A.	μέλαν-ε	μελαίνᾱ	μέλαν-ε
	G. D.	μελάν-οιν	μελαίναιν	μελάν-οιν

- 157 a. For μέλᾱς and μέλασι see 51 a and d.
- b. The feminine stem μελαινᾱ- is for μελανιᾱ- (56 b). The stem τερεν- tender, makes τέρην, τέρεια, τέρεν, etc.

		ταχυ-, ταχειᾱ- swift
Sing.	N.	ταχύ- s	ταχειᾱ	ταχύ
	G.	ταché- os	ταχειᾱ s	ταché- os
	D.	ταχειῖ	ταχειᾱ́	ταχειῖ

	D.	ταché- σι	ταχειῖ αις	ταché- σι
	A.	ταχειῖ s	ταχειᾱ s	ταché- a
Du.	N. A.	ταché- ε	ταχειᾱ́	ταché- ε
	G. D.	ταché- οιν	ταχειῖ αιν	ταché- οιν

159 a. Stem and endings combine as in πηχυς and ἄστυ (130, 131); but -εα does not contract, and the accent is on the -υ or its representative (ε or ει).

b. In accent all adjectives of this class are like ταχύς except θήλυς, θήλεια, θήλυ female, feminine, ἥμισυς, ἥμισεια, ἥμισυ half, and some compounds, of two endings, as δίπηχυς two cubits long.

D.		παντ-ί	πά ση	παντ-ί	πά σι	πά σαις	πά σι
A.		πάντ- a	πά σαν	πά v	πάντ- as	πά σας	πάντ- a 161 a. For sound-changes see γίγᾱς (121, 122 a); but ā in πᾱν is irregular.

b. The accent of πᾱς is irregular, (1) in that πᾱς and πᾱν take the circumflex, (2) in that πάντων and πᾱσι do not follow 101, while παντός and παντί do.

162 a. Compounds of πᾱς are regular: ἄπᾱς, ἄπᾱσα, ἄπαν and σύμπᾱς, σύμπᾱσα, σύμπαν.

b. Like these are declined participial stems in -αντ:

παύσᾱς, παύσᾱσα, παῦσαν,
παύσαντ-ος, παυσάσης, etc.

ιστάς, ιστᾶσα, ιστάν,
ιστάντ-ος, ιστάσης, etc.

στάς, στᾶσα, στάν,
στάντ-ος, στάσης, etc.

164 a. For χαρίεις from χαριε(ντ)-s see 53 and 28 b; but χαρίεσι from χαριε(τ)σι and χαρίεσσα from χαριετια show a shorter stem form without ν.

b. But participial stems in -εντ make -είς, -εῖσα, -έν, and in the dative plural -εῖσι, for -(ντ)s, -(ντ)σα, -(ντ), and -(ντ)σι. Thus:

166 Adjective stems in -οντ are declined like λέων (121, 122 b), adding the neuter forms in -ον and -οντα and the feminine: έκών, έκοῦσα, έκόν willing, ᾄκων, ᾄκουσα, ᾄκον unwilling.

Participles in -οντ of the ω-form (when the ο belongs to the tense-suffix, not to the verb-stem) are like ᾄκων and έκών: παύων, παύουσα, παῦον stopping, λιπών, λιποῦσα, λιπόν leaving. For participles in -οντ of the μι-form see 169.

168 a. Participles in -αοντ-, -αουσᾱ- contract to accented -ω- throughout (29 c) :

$\tau\acute{\iota}\mu\acute{\alpha}\omega\nu$, $\tau\acute{\iota}\mu\acute{\alpha}\omicron\upsilon\sigma\alpha$, $\tau\acute{\iota}\mu\acute{\alpha}\omicron\nu$, etc., become $\tau\acute{\iota}\mu\hat{\omega}\nu$, $\tau\acute{\iota}\mu\hat{\omega}\sigma\alpha$, $\tau\acute{\iota}\mu\hat{\omega}\nu$, etc.

b. Participles in -εοντ-, -εουσᾱ-, and in -οοντ-, -οουσᾱ-, contract to accented -ον- throughout, except that -έων and -όων make -ῶν (29 a-c) :

$\phi\acute{\iota}\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omega\nu$, $\phi\acute{\iota}\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omicron\upsilon\sigma\alpha$, $\phi\acute{\iota}\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omicron\nu$, etc., become $\phi\acute{\iota}\lambda\hat{\omega}\nu$, $\phi\acute{\iota}\lambda\omicron\upsilon\sigma\alpha$, $\phi\acute{\iota}\lambda\omicron\upsilon\nu$, etc.
 $\delta\eta\lambda\acute{\omicron}\omega\nu$, $\delta\eta\lambda\acute{\omicron}\omicron\upsilon\sigma\alpha$, $\delta\eta\lambda\acute{\omicron}\omicron\nu$, etc., become $\delta\eta\lambda\hat{\omega}\nu$, $\delta\eta\lambda\omicron\upsilon\sigma\alpha$, $\delta\eta\lambda\omicron\upsilon\nu$, etc.

169 Participles in -οντ- of the μι-form (when the ο belongs to the verb-stem) are like ὁδούς (121, 122 a), adding the neuter forms in -όν and -όντα and also the feminine : διδούς, διδοῦσα, δίδόν giving.

170 Participles in -νντ- (of the μι-form) are like δεικνύς, δεικνῦσα, δεικνύν pointing out, δεικνύντ-ος, δεικνύσης, δεικνύντ-ος, etc.

a. For δεικνύς from δεικνυ(ντ)ς and the dat. plu. δεικνῦσι see 53.

171 Most perfect active participles are declined like εἰδώς knowing (172). The stem ends in -οτ, which becomes -ώς and -ός in the nominative singular; the feminine stem ends in -υιᾶ : πεπαυκώς, πεπαυκυῖα, πεπαυκός having stopt.

- 173 A few perfect active participles (of μι-verbs) in -αώς are contracted and form the feminine irregularly:

ἑστώς,	ἑστῶσα,	ἑστός standing ,
ἑστῶτος,	ἑστώσης,	ἑστῶτος, etc.

The neuter ἑστός retains the characteristic final syllable -ός instead of becoming ἑστώς. More irregular is τεθνεώς,	τεθνεῶσα,	τεθνεός dead ,

τεθνεῶτος,	τεθνεώσης,	τεθνεῶτος, etc.

- 174 Two common adjectives, μέγας and πολύς, have a shorter stem and irregular form in the nominative and accusative singular masculine and neuter only, but are otherwise regular in the vowel declension. Thus:

	μεγα-, μεγαλο-, μεγαλᾱ- tall, great πολυ-, πολλο-, πολλᾱ- much, plur. many

- 176 πρᾶος, πρᾶῖα, πρᾶον mild follows the o-declension in masculine and neuter, but makes the entire feminine, and sometimes other forms, from a stem in -υ, like ταχύς (158).

VII. COMPARISON OF ADJECTIVES

- 177 Most adjectives form the comparative by adding -τερος (-τέρᾱ, -τερον), the superlative by adding -τατος (-τάτῃ, -τατον), to the masculine stem. Stems in -ο with a short penult lengthen ο to ω:

POSITIVE	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
δίκαιος (δικαιο-) just ,	δικαιό-τερος,	δικαιό-τατος, μικρός (μικρο-) small ,	μικρό-τερος,	μικρό-τατος,
πικρός (πικρο-) bitter ,	πικρό-τερος,	πικρό-τατος,
πονηρός (πονηρο-) bad ,	πονηρό-τερος,	πονηρό-τατος,
σαφής (σαφες-) plain ,	σαφέσ-τερος,	σαφέσ-τατος,
εὐκλεής (εὐκλεεσ-) famous ,	εὐκλεέσ-τερος,	εὐκλεέσ-τατος,
μέλᾱς (μελαν-) black ,	μελάν-τερος,	μελάν-τατος,
γλυκύς (γλυκυ-) sweet ,	γλυκύ-τερος,	γλυκύ-τατος,
(πρέσβυς) (πρεσβυ-) old ,	πρεσβύ-τερος,	πρεσβύ-τατος.

But ο-stems with a short penult:

ἄξιος (ἄξιο-) worthy ,	ἄξιώ-τερος,	ἄξιώ-τατος,
νέος (νεο-) new, young ,	νεώ-τερος,	νεώ-τατος,
σοφός (σοφο-) wise ,	σοφώ-τερος,	σοφώ-τατος.

- 178 A few stems drop -ο before -τερος and -τατος:

γεραιό-ς aged ,	γεραί-τερος,	γεραί-τατος,
παλαιό-ς old, ancient ,	παλαί-τερος,	παλαί-τατος,
σχολαῖο-ς leisurely ,	σχολαί-τερος,	σχολαί-τατος,
φίλο-ς dear ,	(φίλ-τερος poet.),	φίλ-τατος.

παλαιός makes also παλαιότερος, παλαιότατος. For φίλτερος prose writers use μάλλον φίλος (180).

- 179 The endings -εσ-τερος, -εσ-τατος (in imitation of words like σαφέσ-τερος) are added to stems in -ον :

εὐδαίμων fortunate, εὐδαιμον-έστερος, εὐδαιμον-έστατος, σώφρων discreet, σωφρον-έστερος, σωφρον-έστατος.

a. Some contracting stems in -οο are compared as if -τερος and -τατος were added to the nom. sing. mas. :

ἁπλοῦς (ἁπλοο-) single, ἁπλούσ-τερος, ἁπλούσ-τατος, εὖνους (εὖνοο-) kind, εὐνούσ-τερος, εὐνούσ-τατος.

b. Note also ἐρρωμένο-ς strong, ἐρρωμεν-έστερος, ἐρρωμεν-έστατος, with loss of -ο, and χαρίεις, χαριέσ-τερος, χαριέσ-τατος, from the stem χαριετ-. (Cp. 164 a.)

- 180 Comparatives and superlatives are often made by the adverbs μάλλον more and μάλιστα most or ἥττον less and ἥκιστα least, with the positive: μάλλον φίλος, more dear, dearer, μάλιστα φίλος, most dear, dearest, ἥττον φίλος less dear.

Participles are compared only in this way.

- 181 A few common adjectives form the comparative by adding -ίων (stem -ιον, 149), the superlative by adding -ιστος (-ίστη, -ιστον), to the root of the positive, or to a different form of the stem :

κακός bad κακ-ίων worse, κάκ-ιστος worst αἰσχρός unseemly, αἰσχ-ίων, αἷσχ-ιστος, (Cp. τὸ αἷσχ-ος unseemliness, αἷσχ-ύνω shame)

ἐχθρός hateful, hostile, ἐχθ-ίων, ἔχθ-ιστος, (Cp. ἔχθω hate, τὸ ἔχθος hatred)

καλός beautiful ,	καλλ-ίων,	κάλλ-ιστος, (Cp. τὸ κάλλος beauty)
ἡδύς agreeable ,	ἡδ-ίων,	ἡδ-ιστος, (Cp. ἡδομαι be pleased)
ταχύς swift ,	θάσσω (θάπτων), (θάσσω is for ταχίων : see 56 c and 47 d)	τάχ-ιστος,

For the declension of these comparatives see 149.

182 Several common adjectives are irregular, because of sound changes, or because words quite different have come to be grouped together :

POSITIVE	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
1. ἀγαθός good ,	ἀμείνων, βελτίων, κρείσσων (56 c), (λώων, poetic),	ἄριστος brave, excel- lent, able , βέλτιστος virtuous , κράτιστος strong , superior , (Cp. τὸ κράτος strength) (λῶστος, poetic).
2. κακός bad ,	κακίων, χείρων, ἥσσων (56 c),	κάκιστος, χείριστος, (ἥκιστα, adv., least).
3. μέγας tall , large ,	μείζων (for μεγίων),	μέγιστος.
4. ὀλίγος little , pl. few ,	ἐλάσσων (56 c), μείων.	ἐλάχιστος,
5. πολὺς much , many ,	πλείων, πλεόν,	πλεῖστος. (Cp. πλέως, τὸ πλῆθος)
6. ῥάδιος easy	ῥάων,	ῥᾶστος.

183 The following adjectives lack the positive :

	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
(πρό before)	πρότερος former,	πρώτος first.
(ὑπέρ over, beyond)	ὑπέρτερος higher,	ὑπέρτατος, high-
	superior,	est, supreme.
	ὔστερος later,	ὔστατος latest.

184 Two superlatives, ἔσχατος farthest, extreme, and ὔπατος highest, and a few others in poetry, contain an old ending -ατος. πρώτος is contracted from πρό-ατος.

VIII. NUMERAL ADJECTIVES

185 The cardinal and ordinal numbers are given in the table (188).

The notation in the second column is Byzantine, and now less used. ς (abbreviation for στ) takes the place of ϝ (27) for six; ϙ (koppa) and Ϟ (sampi) are old letters retained for this purpose only. The symbols are combined by addition, the larger sum being written at the left: αϞβ' = 1902.

186 The ordinal numbers, and the cardinal numbers from διακόσιοι on, are adjectives of three endings. The other cardinals are indeclinable, except the first four, which are as follows :

187	N.	εἷς	μία	ἓν	τρεις	τρία	τέσσαρες	τέσσαρα
	G.	ένός	μιᾶς	ένός	τριῶν		τεσσάρων
	D.	ένί	μιᾷ	ένί	τρισί		τέσσαρσι
	A.	ένα	μίαν	έν	τρεις	τρία	τέσσαρας	τέσσαρα

a. δύο (or δύω in poetry) sometimes has δυοῖν, ἄμφω both always has ἀμφοῖν, for the genitive and dative.

- 189 From οὐδὲ εἷς and μηδὲ εἷς not even one are formed the general negatives οὐδεῖς, μηδεῖς no one, declined :

Sing. N.	οὐδεῖς	οὐδεμία	οὐδέν	Plur. οὐδένες
G.	οὐδενός	οὐδεμιᾶς	οὐδενός	οὐδενῶν
D.	οὐδενί	οὐδεμιᾷ	οὐδενί	οὐδέσι
A.	οὐδένα	οὐδεμίαν	οὐδέν	οὐδένας

a. Note the change of accent from εἷς to οὐδεῖς.

b. For οὗτις, μήτις see 224 a.

- 190 When units, tens, etc., are combined, καί may be omitted if the larger number precedes, otherwise not. Thus 325 is πέντε καὶ εἴκοσι καὶ τριᾱκόσιοι, or τριᾱκόσιοι καὶ εἴκοσι καὶ πέντε,

 or τριᾱκόσιοι εἴκοσι πέντε.

So with ordinals also.

- 191 Multiple adjectives are formed in -πλοῦς fold: διπλοῦς twofold, πολλαπλοῦς manifold, etc. (90, 87);

- 192 Also in -πλάσιος: διπλάσιος twice as great or (plural) as many, πολλαπλάσιος many times as great or many.

Abstract and collective nouns of number are formed in -άς (stem -αδ), several of which English has adopted :

ἡ μονάς, μονάδος unity, monad, δεκάς the number ten, decad, ἡ δυάς, δνάδος pair, duality, decade,
 ἡ τριάς, τριάδος trinity, triad, μυριάς myriad, ἑκατὸν μυριάδες a million.

For numeral adverbs, see 232, 233.

- 193 When it means countless, a great many, μύριοι is often printed μῦριοι: in a related sense a singular μύριος is found: ἐν πενίᾳ μῦρίᾳ in the depths of poverty.

B. PRONOUNS

PERSONAL PRONOUNS

194

		FIRST PERSON	SECOND PERSON	THIRD PERSON
Sing.	N.	ἐγώ I	σύ thou, you	———
	G.	ἐμοῦ, μου	σοῦ, σου	οὗ his, of him, etc.
	D.	ἐμοί, μοι	σοί, σοι	οἱ
	A.	ἐμέ, με	σέ, σε	ἐ
Plur.	N.	ἡμεῖς we	ὑμεῖς you	———
	G.	ἡμῶν	ὑμῶν	σφῶν
	D.	ἡμῖν	ὑμῖν	σφίσι
	A.	ἡμᾶς	ὑμᾶς	σφᾶς
Du.	N. A.	(νώ)	(σφώ)
	G. D.	(νῶν)	(σφῶν)

195 a. The enclitic forms (19 a) are used when the pronoun is without emphasis ; the corresponding accented forms are emphatic.

b. But the accented forms are regularly used with prepositions, though we find πρός με, πρόσ σε, and some others.

c. For stronger emphasis the enclitic γε is added to some forms ; in ἐγωγε, ἐμοιγε the accent is drawn back.

196 Poets use ἡμῖν, ὑμῖν, less often ἡμᾶς, ὑμᾶς, for metrical convenience ; also the old forms σέθεν for σοῦ, ἐθεν for οὗ, νιν, or σφε for the acc. sing. and plu. of the third person, and σφιν for σφίσι. The dual forms are confined to poetry.

197 The personal pronoun of the third person is rare in Attic prose ; οἱ and σφίσι occur oftenest, and are reflexive (200). In its place is used αὐτός in the oblique cases.

198 Αὐτός, αὐτή, αὐτό(ν) is declined like σοφός (76), except that there is no vocative and the neuter singular nominative and accusative drops -ν. Only the phrase τὸ αὐτό(ν) often retains -ν.

199 Αὐτός has three meanings :

a. Standing alone in the oblique cases, him, her, it, them, etc. (197).

b. Standing after the article, same, Lat. idem.

c. Without the article, agreeing in case with a noun or pronoun, or standing alone in the nominative, self, Lat. ipse.

200 Reflexive pronouns (referring back to the subject) are made by adding αὐτός to the personal pronouns ; they are needed only in oblique cases. (See 203.)

201 The indefinite ἄλλος, ἄλλη, ἄλλο other (Lat. alius, alia, aliud), used both adjectively and substantively, is declined like αὐτός (198).

202 The reciprocal pronoun, meaning one another, each other, is formed from ἄλλος by doubling the stem. It is not needed in the singular nor in the nominative :

		M.	F.	N.
Plu.	G.	ἀλλήλων	ἀλλήλων	ἀλλήλων
	D.	ἀλλήλοις	ἀλλήλαις	ἀλλήλοις
	A.	ἀλλήλους	ἀλλήλās	ἄλληλα

	A.	ἐμαυτόν, -τήν	σεαυτόν, -τήν
Plur.	G.	ἡμῶν αὐτῶν of ourselves, etc.	ὕμῶν αὐτῶν of yourselves, etc.
	D.	ἡμῖν αὐτοῖς, -ταῖς	ὕμῖν αὐτοῖς, -ταῖς
	A.	ἡμᾶς αὐτούς, -τάς	ὕμᾶς αὐτούς, -τάς
		THIRD PERSON
Sing.	G.	ἐαυτοῦ, -τῆς of himself, of herself, etc.
	D.	ἐαυτῶ, -τῇ
	A.	ἐαυτόν, -τήν
Plur.	G.	σφῶν αὐτῶν or ἐαυτῶν of themselves, etc.
	D.	σφίσιν αὐτοῖς, -ταῖς or ἐαυτοῖς, -ταῖς
	A.	σφᾶς αὐτούς, -τάς or ἐαυτούς, -τάς, -τά

a. Instead of σεαυτοῦ, etc., and ἐαυτοῦ, etc., the contracted forms σαυτοῦ and αὐτοῦ, etc., are also used.

204 Possessive pronouns, formed from the personal pronouns, are ἐμός, -ή, -όν my, mine,

 σός, σή, σόν, thy, thine,
your,

ἡμέτερος, -ᾱ, -ον our,
 ὑμέτερος, -ᾱ, -ον, your,
yours.

Also in poetry

ὅς, ἥ, ὅν his, its, her σφέτερος, -ᾱ, -ον their, theirs, ἄμός (or ἁμός), -ή, -όν our (sometimes my).

DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS

In early Greek ὁ, ἡ, τό, the later article (61), was a demonstrative pronoun, this, that, he, it, etc.; in Attic this force is retained in a few phrases (see 549). When thus used, some print ὅ, ἥ, οἷ, αἷ with the acute—which then always becomes grave (15).

a. In poetry ὁ, ἡ, τό is also used as a relative pronoun.

ὧδε, ἧδε, τόδε this (Lat. hic) is ὁ, ἡ, τό with the enclitic syllable -δε. For declension see 209. For the accent of ὧδε, ἧδε, οἷδε, αἷδε see 21 'c and d.

207

Οὗτος, αὕτη, τοῦτο this, that (Lat. is, ille) is also formed from ὁ, ἡ, τό, and hence begins with τ or the rough breathing in the same places (209).

208

Ἐκεῖνος, ἐκείνη, ἐκεῖνο that yonder (in poetry also κεῖνος, κείνη, κείνο) is declined like αὐτός (198).

	A.	τούσδε	τάσδε	τάδε	τούτους	ταύτᾱς	ταῦτα
Du.	N. A.	τῷδε	τῷδε	τῷδε	τούτῳ	τούτῳ	τούτῳ
	G. D.	τοῖνδε	τοῖνδε	τοῖνδε	τούτοιν	τούτοιν	τούτοιν

a. For τοῖσιδε, ταῖσιδε, etc., cp. 64 and 69 c.

215 To the demonstratives in 211, 212 correspond the relatives οἷος, οἷᾶ, οἷον of which kind, [such] as, qualis (of quality) ;

ὅσος, ὅση, ὅσον of which size or number, [as great or many] as, quantus or quot (of quantity) ;

ἡλίκος, ἡλίκη, ἡλίκον of which age or value.

216 The enclitic particle -περ added to a relative pronoun (or adverb; see 236) makes more distinct the reference to the antecedent, which is thereby emphasized: ὅπερ which very thing, the very thing which, ὥσπερ just as: θέλω ἅπερ σύ I wish the very things that you do (E. IT. 991).

INTERROGATIVE AND INDEFINITE PRONOUNS

217 The interrogative pronoun τίς, τί who? what? and the indefinite pronoun τις, τι some one, something, any one, anything, are spelt alike but differ in accent (219).

Interrogative τίς never changes the acute to the grave (15 and a) ; forms of two syllables accent the first.

Indefinite τις is enclitic (19 b) ; disyllabic forms that require an accent (20 d) have it on the ultima.

a. The poetic form ἄττα is not enclitic.

218 The enclitic τις added to ὅς makes the indefinite or general relative pronoun ὅστις, ἥτις, ὅτι any one who, anything which, whoever, etc. (220). For the accent see 21 a, d.

In a similar way τις following other relatives (215, 222) makes their reference more general or inclusive.

Du.	N. A.	ὥτινε	ὥτινε	ὥτινε
	G. D.	οἶντινοιν	οἶντινοιν	οἶντινοιν

221 a. The shorter forms ὅτου, ὅτῳ, ἅττα, ὅτων, ὅτοις, especially ὅτου and ὅτῳ, are more common than the corresponding trisyllabic forms.

b. The neuter ὅτι is usually printed ὅ τι or ὅ, τι to distinguish it from the conjunction ὅτι that, because, which is merely a special use of the same word.

c. The addition of οὖν makes the most inclusive general pronoun, with loss of all relative or interrogative force: ὅστισοῦν any one whatever, ὅτιοῦν anything whatever; acc. ὄντινοῦν, ἦντινοῦν, etc.

222 Other interrogative pronouns, and the corresponding indefinite or general relatives (made by prefixing the relative stem ὁ-), are :

INTERROGATIVES

πότερος which (of two)?

ποῖος of what sort?

πόσος how large? pl. how many?

πηλίκος how great? how old?

GENERAL RELATIVES

ὁπότερος whichever (of two),

ὁποῖος of whatever sort, ὁπόσος of whatever size (number),

ὁπηλίκος of whatever age or size.

223 All indefinite or general relative words (sometimes also the simple relatives) are used as indirect interrogatives.

224 The general negative pronouns οὐδείς and μηδείς have been given in 189.

So from οὐδ' (μηδ') ἕτερος we have οὐδέτερος and μηδέτερος neither of the two.

a. Poets use οὐτις and μήτις for οὐδείς and μηδείς; the neuter forms οὐτι and μήτι are used also in prose as adverbs (230), not at all.

225 The indefinite ὁ (ἡ, τὸ) δείνα so-and-so, what's-his-name, is used as indeclinable, and is also declined :

Sing. N. ὁ δείνα	Plu. N. οἱ δείνες
G. τοῦ δείνος	G. τῶν δείνων
D. τῷ δείνι	D. —
A. τὸν δείνα	A. τοὺς δείνας

226 The relations of form and meaning between the correlative pronouns are shown in the table (227) ; forms in parenthesis are poetic or rare.

C. ADVERBS

228 Several endings denoting place are much like case-endings ; some words formed with them may be taken either as adverbs or as nouns. The endings are

- ι, -θι, -σι at or in, for the place where (locative) ;
- θεν from, for the place whence (ablative) ;
- δε, -σε, -ζε to or toward, for the place whither.

The ending -δε is added to the accusative (cp. accusative of limit, 533) ; -ζε seems to be for -σδε, -δε being added to the accusative plural ; -ι may be regarded as forming a locative singular, -σι a locative plural.

οἶκοι (14 a) at home,	οἴκοθεν from home,	οἴκαδε homeward,
ἄλλοθι elsewhere,	ἄλλοθεν from elsewhere,	ἄλλοσε else- whither,
Ἀθήνησι in Athen's,	Ἀθήνηθεν from Athens,	Ἀθῆνᾶζε to Athens,
Ἐλευσῖνι at Eleusis,	Ἐλευσινόθεν from Eleusis,	Ἐλευσινάδε to Eleusis,
ἐτέρωθι on the other side,	ἐτέρωθεν from the other side,	ἐτέρωσε to the other side,
	πάντοθεν from every side,	πάντοσε in all directions,
θύρᾱσι at the doors,	θύρᾱθεν from without,	θύρᾱζε out of doors,
ἐνδοθι, ἐνδον within,	ἐνδοθεν from within,

χαμαί on the χαμᾶθεν from χαμᾶζε to the ground, the ground, ground.

a. Several adverbs of the place where end in -ου :

πανταχοῦ every- πανταχόθεν from πανταχόσε in all
where, everywhere, directions, αὐτοῦ in the very αὐτόθεν from the αὐτόσε to the very place, very place, place.

229 Adverbs of manner in -ως are made from many adjectives and some participles and pronouns ; they are like the genitive plural masculine, with -ς in place of -ν :

σοφός wise,	gen. pl. σοφῶν,	σοφῶς wisely,
δίκαιος just,	δικαίων,	δικαίως justly,
ἀληθής true,	ἀληθῶν,	ἀληθῶς truly,
ἡδύς pleasant,	ἡδέων,	ἡδέως pleasantly,
εἰκώς like,	εἰκότων,	εἰκότως naturally,
τεταγμένος	τεταγμένων,	τεταγμένως in an
arranged,		orderly way.

230 For many adjectives the neuter accusative, singular or plural, is used as an adverb : πολὺ much, πολλά many times, μικρόν a little, μέγα and μεγάλα greatly, πρῶτον and πρῶτα first.

231 Some common adverbs do not readily fall into classes. Thus the adverb for ἀγαθός is εὖ well ; from ταχύς the old adverb τάχα quickly means in prose perhaps, while ταχέως or ταχύ means quickly ; from several prepositions are made adverbs in -ω : ἄνω above, upward, κάτω below, ἔσω within, ἔξω outside, πρόσω forward, πόρρω, πόρσω farther on, afar. Other adverbial endings are -δόν, -δην, -στί, -εῖ : ἔνδον within, στοιχηδόν in rows, κρύβδην secretly, νεωστί lately, ἑλληνιστί in Greek, ἀμαχεί without fighting, πανδημεί with full levy.

232 Adverbs of number for the first three cardinal numbers are ἅπαξ once, δῖς twice, τρίς thrice. For higher numbers the adverbs end in -άκις: τετράκις four times, πεντάκις five times, ὀκτάκις eight times, ἐνάκις nine times, εἰκοσάκις twenty times, ἑκατοντάκις, etc.

On the same model are made others, like πολλάκις often from πολὺς, ὀλιγάκις a few times, seldom, πλεονάκις more times, ὁσάκις as often as.

233 Other adverbs of number, commonly denoting division, are μοναχῇ (μόνος, μοναχός) singly, in one way only, δίχα and διχῇ in two parts, doubly, τρίχα and τριχῇ in three parts, triply, πολλαχῇ in many ways, πανταχῇ in every way.

234 Adverbs derived from adjectives, and some others, are compared like adjectives; for the comparative the neuter accusative singular is used, for the superlative the neuter accusative plural:

POSITIVE	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
σοφῶς wisely ,	σοφώτερον,	σοφώτατα,
σαφῶς clearly ,	σαφέστερον,	σαφέστατα,
ἡδέως pleasantly ,	ἡδιον,	ἡδιστα,
πολύ much ,	πλέον,	πλείστα,
ταχέως quickly ,	θᾶπτον,	τάχιστα,
εὖ well ,	ἄμεινον, better ,	ἄριστα, best ,
μάλα very ,	μᾶλλον more, rather ,	μάλιστα most .

235 Some adverbs of place have the comparative and superlative in -ω:

ἄνω above ,	ἄνωτέρω,	ἄνωτάτω,
ἐγγύς near ,	ἐγγυτέρω,	ἐγγυτάτω.
	ἐγγύτερον,

- 237 In the table (236) the common adverbs from pronominal stems, and some others of like significance, are arranged so as to show their relations of form and meaning. Those in parenthesis are poetic or much less usual.
- 238 In prose ἐνθα and ἐνθεν are mostly relative; but they are demonstrative with μέν — δέ, and in the phrases ἐνθα καὶ ἐνθα here and there, hither and thither, ἐνθεν καὶ ἐνθεν from this side and that, and often in poetry.
- 239 Like ὅς (214) ὥς was originally demonstrative; poets often so use it (accented ῶς or ὦς), and prose writers in a few phrases: καὶ ῶς even so, οὐδ' ῶς not even thus.
- 240 a. With interrogatives ποτε adds an emotional tone: τί ποτε what, pray? ποῦ ποτε where in the world?
 b. Several compounds are made with ποτε, as οὔποτε, μήποτε, οὐδέποτε never, οὐπώποτε never yet.
 c. On the same model are formed ἄλλοτε at another time, ἐκάστοτε each time.
 d. τοτέ is used only in the phrase τοτέ μὲν . . . τοτέ δὲ at one time . . . at another time.
- 241 All the relatives and indirect interrogatives become subordinating conjunctions; their meaning is then much influenced by the mode of the verb.

D. VERBS

- 242 The forms of the verb are classed under Three Voices—Active, Middle, Passive;
 Four Finite Modes—Indicative, Subjunctive, Optative, Imperative—besides the Infinitive, or verbal noun, and the Participle, or verbal adjective;

Seven Tenses—Present, Imperfect, Future, Aorist, Perfect, Pluperfect, Future Perfect ;

Three Numbers—Singular, Plural, Dual ;

Three Persons, as in English and Latin.

- 243 Two Conjugations, the μ -conjugation and the Ω -conjugation (from the final syllable of the present indicative active) are distinguished in the present and imperfect only ; elsewhere they are alike.
- 244 The active and passive voices are used about as in Latin ; the middle indicates that the subject acts on itself or with some reference to self. (See 500.) The passive and middle have the same form, except in the future and aorist.
- 245 The indicative, subjunctive, and imperative, with the infinitive and participle, are used nearly as in Latin ; the optative is the mode of wishing, and of hypothetical and softened statement. (See 476, 479.)
- 246 The tenses of the indicative are classed as Primary—the Present, Future, Perfect, Future Perfect ; and Secondary, or Historical—the Imperfect, Aorist, Pluperfect.
- 247 The tenses are used (in the indicative) nearly as in Latin or English. The aorist ($\acute{\alpha}\text{-}\acute{\omicron}\rho\iota\sigma\tau\omicron\varsigma$ undefined) in the indicative has for its leading use that of the English simple past tense.
- 248 The verb-stem is the part that appears in all the forms and stands for the general or fundamental meaning, which the other elements modify by adding a specific setting. Verbs are called vowel verbs, liquid verbs, mute verbs, from the last letter of the verb-stem. Thus παύω is a vowel verb of the ω -conjugation, the verb-stem being παυ- stop; παύω I stop (transitive), παύομαι I stop myself or cease (middle), or am stopt (passive).

a. But the terms ω -verb and μ -verb are used to denote the conjugation to which the present and imperfect belong.

249 The accent of verbs is recessive. For exceptions see 285, 296 a, 297, 300 d, (165), 349 and a.

250 Verb forms will be described in the following order :

A. VERBS OF THE Ω -CONJUGATION

- I. Vowel verbs, not contracting.
- II. Vowel verbs contracting in the present system.
- III. Liquid verbs.
- IV. Mute verbs.

B. VERBS OF THE μ -CONJUGATION

- I. Verbs in -νῦμι.
- II. Verbs in -ημι, with stem in -α:η-.
- III. Δίδωμι, τίθημι, ἵημι.
- IV. Irregular and defective μ -verbs.

251 Verb-forms, while by meaning they fall into voices, modes, tenses, etc., also group themselves by formation in tense-systems, each system having one tense-stem throughout. These tense-systems, and with them all the formative elements of regular verbs, are described in the following sections. παύω is an example of regular vowel verbs, with verb-stem ending in a long vowel or diphthong (252–254).

A. VERBS OF THE Ω - CONJUGATION

I. VOWEL VERBS, NOT CONTRACTING

The Present System

- 255 The present system includes the indicative present and imperfect, with the subjunctive, optative, imperative, infinitive, and participle, active and middle (passive). All regular ω-verbs are conjugated in the present system like παύω (252–254).
- 256 The present stem (indicative) is made from the verb-stem in several ways, and verbs are classed (in the present system) accordingly.

For convenience in later use (since all ω-presents are inflected alike), the modes of forming the present stem in all classes of ω-presents are here described together (257–262).

- 257 (1) Formative-Vowel Class.—The suffix -ο:ε- (25), called the formative vowel, is added. Verbs that have a stronger and weaker form of the root take in this system the stronger :

VERB-STEM	PRES. STEM	PRES. IND.
παυ- stop,	παυο:ε- (i. e. παυο- , παυε-),	παύω ,
λιπ- , λειπ- leave,	λειπο:ε- ,	λείπω ,
φυγ- , φευγ- flee,	φευγο:ε- ,	φεύγω .

a. In γίγνομαι become, for γι-γεν-ο-μαι, the verb-stem is reduplicated. This present reduplication consists in prefixing the initial consonant with ι. So also in πίπτω fall, for πι-πετ-ω, ἵσχω hold, for σι-σεχ-ω (54),

τίκτω bring forth, for τι-τεκ-ω.

b. Verb-stems in -v-, -ευ- lose v between vowels (27):
 πλέω sail, for πλευ-ω (πλυ-, πλευ-); ῥέω flow, for ῥευ-ω (ῥυ-, ῥευ-);
 πνέω blow, for πνευ-ω (πνυ-, πνευ-).

258 (2) Tau Class.—The suffix -το:ε- is added. The verb-stem always ends in a labial mute, which becomes π before τ (38 b, 43 a):

VERB-STEM	PRES. STEM	PRES. IND.
ῥιφ-, ῥιφ- throw ,	ῥιπτο:ε-,	ῥίπτω,
τυπ- strike ,	τυπτο:ε-,	τύπτω,
βλαβ- harm ,	βλαπτο:ε-,	βλάπτω,
κρυφ- hide ,	κρυπτο:ε-,	κρύπτω,
ταφ- (47 d) bury ,	θαπτο:ε-,	θάπτω.

59 (3) Iota Class.—The suffix -ιο:ε- is added; for sound-changes see 56:

VERB-STEM	PRES. STEM	PRES. IND.
a. βαλ- throw ,	βαλλο:ε-,	βάλλω,
ὀφελ- increase ,	ὀφελλο:ε-,	ὀφέλλω.

But ὀφείλω owe (ὀφελ-) is like those under b.

b. φαν- show ,	φαινο:ε-,	φαίνω,
τεν- stretch ,	τεινο:ε-,	τείνω,
σπερ- sow ,	σπειρο:ε-,	σπείρω,
ἄμυν- ward off ,	ἄμῡνο:ε-,	ἄμύνω,
κριν- decide ,	κρινο:ε-,	κρίνω,
c. φυλακ- guard ,	φυλασσο:ε-,	φυλάσσω,
ταγ- arrange ,	τασσο:ε-,	τάσσω,
ταραχ- disturb ,	ταρασσο:ε-,	ταράσσω,

VERB-STEM	PRES. STEM	PRES. IND.
d. φραδ- tell ,	φραζο:ε-,	φράζω,
ἐλπιδ- hope ,	ἐλπίζο:ε-,	ἐλπίζω,
οἰωγ- lament ,	οἰωζο:ε-,	οἰμώζω,
κλαγγ- cry out ,	κλαζο:ε-,	κλάζω,
σαλπιγγ- blow trumpet ,	σαλπιζο:ε-,	σαλπίζω.

e. The verb-stems καυ- burn and κλαυ- weep give καίω and κλαίω, with loss of υ (27), farther shortened in prose to κάω and κλάω.

260 (4) Inceptive Class.—The suffix -σκο:ε- or -ισκο:ε- is added :

VERB-STEM	PRES. STEM	PRES. IND.
ἄρε- please ,	ἄρεσκο:ε-,	ἄρέσκω,
εὕρ- find ,	εὕρισκο:ε-,	εὕρίσκω.

a. The class is so named because some verbs in it imply beginning or becoming, as γηράσκω grow old, (γηρά-), γιγνώσκω come to know, perceive (γνο:ω-, 28 a).

b. Several presents take a reduplication (257 a), as γι-γνώσκω recognize (γνο:ω-). πάσχω (παθ-, pres. stem πασχο:ε-) suffer is irregular for παθ-σκω, διδάσκω (δίδαχ-) teach is for δίδαχ-σκω.

261 (5) Nasal Class.—A suffix containing ν is added.

a. The suffix -νο:ε- is added :

VERB-STEM	PRES. STEM	PRES. IND.
τεμ- cut ,	τεμνο:ε-,	τέμνω.

b. The suffix -ανο:ε- is added :

ἁμαρτ- err ,	ἁμαρτανο:ε-,	ἁμαρτάνω.
---------------------	--------------	-----------

c. The suffix -ανο:ε- is added, with an inserted nasal in the verb-stem :

VERB-STEM	PRES. STEM	PRES. IND.
λαβ- take ,	λαμβάνο:ε-,	λαμβάνω,
μαθ- learn ,	μανθανο:ε-,	μανθάνω,
λαχ- get by lot ,	λαγχανο:ε-,	λαγχάνω.

d. The suffix -υνο:ε- is added :

ἐλα- drive ,	ἐλαυνο:ε-,	ἐλαύνω.
---------------------	------------	---------

e. The suffix -νεο:ε- is added :

ἱκ- come ,	ἱκνεο:ε-,	ἱκνέομαι.
-------------------	-----------	-----------

262 Sometimes a verb-stem is in the present tense-system (or in some other) longer by an added ε:η or ο:ω. Thus :

Pres. δοκέω (δοκε-) seem ,	fut. δόξω (δοκ-) shall seem ,
Pres. ἀλίσκομαι (άλ-) am taken ,	fut. ἀλώσομαι (άλω-) shall be taken ,
Pres. μανθάνω (μαθ-) learn	perf. μεμάθηκα (μαθη-) have learned .

263 The personal endings of the indicative are partially different in the primary and secondary tenses ; they also distinguish the active and middle (passive) voices.

		ACTIVE		MIDDLE AND PASSIVE
		Primary	Secondary	Primary	Secondary
Si.	1.	-μι	-ν	-μαι	-μην
	2.	-ς	-ς	-σαι	-σο
	3.	-σι	—	-ται	-το
Pl.	1.	-μεν	-μεν	-μεθα	-μεθα
	2.	-τε	-τε	-σθε	-σθε
	3.	-(ν)σι, -ᾱσι	-ν, -σαν	-νται	-ντο
Du.	2.	-τον	-τον	-σθον	-σθον
	3.	-τον	-την	-σθον	-σθην

a. The formative vowel is ο before μ or ν of the ending, elsewhere ε. But in combination with the primary active endings we have

-ω	instead of	-ο-μι,
-εις	“ “	-ε-ς,
-ει	“ “	-ε-σι,
-ουσι	“ “	-ο(ν)σι (51 c).

The endings -ᾱσι and -σαν never go with the formative vowel (see 355).

b. In the middle (passive)

-εσαι becomes -η (55 a and 29 d), later -ει,
 -εσο becomes -ου (55 a and 29 c).

c. Poets often use the ending -μεσθα for -μεθα. For -αται and -ατο in place of -νται and -ντο see 270 a, 344 c. For -s a few verbs have -σθα (381, 384, 385, 386).

264 The imperfect (also the other secondary tenses in the indicative) takes the augment, the sign of past time.

a. In poetry the augment is sometimes omitted.

265 The augment has two forms :

a. The syllabic augment is ε-, prefixed to a stem beginning with a consonant.

Initial ρ is doubled (48): ρίπτω throw, impf. ῥρῖπτον.

b. The temporal augment is the lengthening of an initial vowel: α-, ᾱ-, and ε- become η-, ου- is unchanged; in later Greek ευ- and ει- are unchanged:

ἄγω lead ,	impf. ἤγον ,
ἐλπίζω hope ,	ἤλπιζον ,
εἰκάζω make like ,	ἤκαζον , εἵκαζον ,
ὀπλίζω arm ,	ᾠπλιζον ,
οἶομαι think ,	ᾠόμην ,

ἵκετεύω entreat ,	ἱκέτευον,
αἰσθάνομαι perceive ,	ἥσθανόμην,
ᾄδω sing ,	ᾄδον,
εὕρισκω find ,	ἤϋρισκον, εὕρισκον.

266 βούλομαι wish, δύναμαι can, μέλλω intend take either ε- or η- as augment: ἡβουλόμεν, ἡδυνάμεν, ἡμέλλον, or ἐβουλόμεν, etc.

267 Some verbs that have lost an initial consonant still take the syllabic augment; εε- then becomes ει-. Among the most frequent are

ἔχω have (ἐχ- for σεχ-, 54),	impf. εἶχον,
ἕπομαι follow (ἐπ- for σεπ-),	εἰπόμεν,
ἔρπω creep (ἐρπ- for σερπ-, Lat. serpo),	εἶρπον,
ἐάω let, permit ,	εἴων,
ἐθίζω accustom ,	εἴθιζον,
ὁράω see ,	εἴωρων,
ὠθέω push ,	εἴωθουν.

a. εἴωρων and some others have a double augment, syllabic and temporal.

268 A verb compounded with a preposition augments the simple form; a preposition ending in a consonant then recovers its original form:

ἀνα-βαίνω go up ,	impf. ἀν-έβαινον,
εἰσ-άγω lead in ,	εἰσ-ἤγον,
συν-λέγω collect ,	συν-έλεγον,
συν-σκευάζω pack up ,	συν-εσκεύαζον,
ἐμ-βάλλω throw in ,	ἐν-έβαλλον,
ἐγ-γράφω write in ,	ἐν-έγραφον,
ἐκ-βάλλω throw out ,	ἐξ-έβαλλον.

For elision see 32, 33.

a. The accent never stands before the augment syllable :
 εἰσῆγον (not εἴσηγον).

b. Verbs derived from words that begin with a preposition generally take the augment as if the verb itself were a compound; but there are exceptions :

ὑποπτεύω suspect (ὑπ-οπτος suspicious),	ὑπ-ώπτεινον, ἐπιορκέω perjure oneself (ἐπίορκος perjured),	ἐπι-ώρκουν, ἐνθῦμέομαι lay to heart (ἐνθύμιος taken to heart),	ἐν-εθῦμούμην.

But

ἐναντιόομαι oppose (ἐναντίος opposite),	ἡναντιούμην.
--	--------------

c. A few compounds put the augment before the preposition :

καθέζομαι sit down	ἐκαθεζόμην,
καθίζω seat ,	ἐκάθιζον,
καθεύδω sleep	ἐκάθευδον or καθηύδον.

d. A double augment is found in ἡμφεγνόουν from ἀμφιγνοέω, and ἡνειχόμεν from ἀν-έχομαι. (So in the aorist ἡνεσχόμεν.)

269 The subjunctive takes the primary endings ; -ο:ε- becomes ω before μ or ν, elsewhere η. Thus -ω:η- is the mode-suffix, appearing throughout the subjunctive, which is otherwise like the indicative.

270 The optative takes the secondary endings, but with -μι instead of -ν. The formative vowel is ο, which makes a diphthong with the mode-suffix -ι- (or -ιε- in the third plural active).

In the middle -σο loses σ (55 a).

a. Poets not infrequently use the ending -ατο for -ντο in the present and aorist optative (cp. 344 c).

271 The imperative endings are

	ACTIVE	MIDDLE, PASSIVE
Si. 2.	-θι, -ς	-σo
3.	-τω	-σθω
Pl. 2.	-τε	-σθε
3.	-ντων (-τωσαν)	-σθων (-σθωσαν)
Du. 2.	-τον	-σθον
3.	-των	-σθων

272 The formative vowel is o before -ντων, elsewhere ε. -θι and -ς are omitted in ω-presents; -τωσαν and -σθωσαν are rare or late.

In the middle -ε-σo loses σ and contracts.

273 The infinitive endings are

ACTIVE	MIDDLE, PASSIVE
-εν, -εναι, -ναι	-σθαι

274 In ω-presents the formative vowel and endings combined are -ε-εν, contracted to -ειν, and -ε-σθαι.

275 The participial endings are Active, -ντ-, Middle and Passive, -μενο-, before which the formative vowel is o.

276 Active participles are declined like ἄκων (166, 167); middle participles are regular in the vowel declension (76).

The Future System

277 This includes an indicative, optative, infinitive, and participle, active and middle. (For the future passive see 310.).

- 278 The future stem is formed by adding to the verb-stem the suffix $-\sigma\omicron:\epsilon-$ (sigmatic future).

The inflection is like that of the present system.

The Aorist System

- 279 This includes an indicative, subjunctive, optative, imperative, with infinitive and participle, active and middle. (For the passive see 302–309.)

- 280 The aorist stem is formed by adding to the verb-stem the suffix $-\sigma\alpha:\epsilon-$, which becomes $-\sigma\omega:\eta-$ in the subjunctive (sigmatic or $\sigma\alpha$ -aorist).

- 281 The indicative takes the augment (264, 265) and the secondary endings (263); in the third singular active the tense-suffix is $-\sigma\epsilon-$.

In the middle $-\sigma\alpha-\sigma\omicron$ becomes $-\sigma\omega$ (55 a and 29 c).

- 282 The subjunctive has the combined tense- and mode-suffix $-\sigma\omega:\eta-$, and is inflected like the subjunctive present.

- 283 The optative contracts the tense-suffix $-\sigma\alpha-$ with the mode-suffix $-\iota-$ ($-\iota\epsilon-$ in the third plural active). But in the active the forms with $-\sigma\epsilon-$ and $-\iota\alpha-$ (2d sing. and 3d plu.) or $-\iota\epsilon-$ (3d sing.) are more common.

In the middle $-\sigma\alpha\iota-\sigma\omicron$ becomes $-\sigma\alpha\iota\omicron$.

- 284 The imperative takes the tense-suffix $-\sigma\alpha-$; but $-\sigma\omicron\nu$ in the active second singular and $-\sigma\alpha\iota$ in the middle second singular stand irregularly for the combined tense-suffix and ending.

- 285 The infinitive takes $-\sigma\alpha\iota$ in the active (irregularly) for combined tense-suffix and ending, and always accents the penult (contrary to 249): $\piαιδε\acute{\upsilon}\sigma\alpha\iota$ from $\piαιδε\acute{\upsilon}\omega$ educate.

- 286 The participles take the tense-suffix $-\sigma\alpha-$; the active participle is declined like $\acute{\alpha}\pi\acute{\alpha}\varsigma$ (162), the middle is regular in the vowel declension.

The Perfect Active System

287 This includes a perfect and pluperfect indicative and a perfect subjunctive, optative, infinitive, and participle, in the active.

288 The perfect stem (active) takes a reduplication (289) and adds the tense-suffix -κα-, which becomes -κη-, -κει-, or -κε- in the pluperfect, -κω:η- in the subjunctive, -κο- in the optative, -κε- in the infinitive, -κοτ-, -κως, -κυιᾱ in the participle. (κα-perfect.)

289 The perfect reduplication is formed as follows :

a. If the verb-stem begins with a single consonant (except ρ), that consonant with ε is prefixt, a rough mute changing to the smooth (47 a) :

κελεύω (κελευ-) bid ,	κε-κέλευ-κα,
κωλύω (κωλῦ-) hinder ,	κε-κώλῦ-κα,
χορεύω (χορευ-) dance ,	κε-χόρευ-κα,
φυτεύω (φυτευ-) plant ,	πε-φύτευ-κα,
θηρεύω (θηρευ-) hunt ,	τε-θήρευ-κα.

b. If the verb-stem begins with a mute and liquid (39) the mute with ε is prefixt :

πλέω (πλυ-, πλευ-) sail ,	πέ-πλευ-κα.
----------------------------------	-------------

c. Otherwise the reduplication is like the augment (265) :

στρατεύω (στρατευ-) serve in the army ,	ἐ-στράτευ-κα,
ζητέω (ζητε:η-) seek ,	ἐ-ζήτη-κα,
ρίπτω (ρίφ-) throw ,	ἔρ-ριφα (48),
ἀδικέω (ἀδικε:η-) wrong ,	ἡ-δίκηκα.

- d. But γιγνώσκω (γνο:ω-) come to know makes ἔ-γνῶκα; also κτάομαι (κτα:η-) acquire makes κέ-κτημαι, πίπτω (πετ-, πτω-) fall makes πέ-πτῶκα, μιμνήσκω (μνη-) remind makes μέ-μνημαι.

290 A verb compounded with a preposition reduplicates the simple form :

συν-χορεύω dance with,	συν-κεχόρευκα,
ἀνα-βαίνω go up,	ἀνα-βέβηκα,
εἰσ-άγω lead in,	εἰσ-ἤχα (see a).

- a. The accent never stands before the reduplication.

291 Irregular reduplication is found in the following verbs, some of which are rather frequent :

- a. The verbs described in 267 (if they have a perfect stem) make the reduplication like the augment :

εἶώ let,	impf. εἶων,	pf. εἶᾱκα,
ἐργάζομαι work,	εἰργαζόμην,	εἶργασμαι,
ὠθέω push,	ἐ-ώθουν,	ἔωσμαι,
ὠνέομαι buy,	ἐωνούμην,	ἐώνημαι.

With double reduplication :

ὁράω see,	ἑώρων,	ἑώᾱκα,
ἀν-οίγω open,	ἀν-έωγον,	ἀν-έωχα.

So too the root ικ-, εικ-, makes the perfect ἔοικα am like, plup. ἐώκειν.

- b. Several verbs beginning with a liquid take ει- as reduplication :

λαμβάνω take,	pf. εἶ-ληφα, εἶ-λημμαι,
λαγχάνω get by lot,	εἶ-ληχα,
root ῥε:η- speak,	εἶ-ρηκα, εἶ-ρημαι,
root μερ-, μαρ- divide,	εἶ-μαρται it is fated,
δια-λέγομαι converse,	δι-εἶ-λεγμαι,
συν-λέγω gather,	συν-εἶλοχα, συν-εἶ-λεγμαι.

Similarly the defective εἶωθα am wont.

c. Some verbs beginning with α, ε, ο reduplicate by prefixing the vowel and the following consonant, lengthening the vowel of the second syllable (Attic reduplication):

ἀκούω hear,	pf. ἄκ-ήκοα ,
ἐλαύνω drive,	ἐλ-ήλακα ,
ἐλέγχω test,	ἐλ-ήλεγμαι ,
ὀρύπτω dig,	ὀρ-ώρυχα .
Also ἐγείρω wake,	ἐγρ-ήγορα (332).

The pluperfect of these verbs augments only initial α and ο.

d. The verbs described in 268 b take the reduplication in the same place as the augment.

- 292 The perfect active indicative takes the primary endings; but in the sing. -μι and -σι are omitted, the tense-suffix becoming -κε- in the third person; -κα-(ν)σι becomes -κασι (51 c).
- 293 The pluperfect augments the reduplicated stem; if the reduplication is like the augment of the imperfect (289 c), no change is made. The tense-suffix is -κη-, -κει-, or -κε- as in the paradigm; in the plural and dual both -κε- and -κει- are found. The secondary endings are used, with -σαν in the third plural; the older form in -κη omits -ν in the first person singular.
- 294 The subjunctive adds the combined suffix -κω:η- to the reduplicated stem, and is inflected like the present active subjv. In place of these forms are used also compound forms, the perfect active participle with the subjunctive of εἰμι am (384).
- 295 The optative adds to the reduplicated stem the combined suffix -κοι-, and is inflected like the present active optative. Compound forms, the perfect active participle with the present optative of εἰμι am, are also used.
- 296 The infinitive adds -κέ-ναι to the reduplicated stem.
- a. All infinitives in -ναι accent the penult.
- 297 The participle adds to the reduplicated stem the combined suffix -κως, -κυιᾶ, -κος, -κοτ-, and is declined like εἰδώς (172).

Perfect Middle System

- 298 This includes an indicative perfect and pluperfect, a subjunctive, optative, infinitive, and participle; also a future perfect passive indicative, optative, infinitive, and participle.
- 299 The tense-stem is the reduplicated verb-stem, with no tense-suffix.
- 300 a. The indicative takes the primary endings in the perfect, the secondary endings in the pluperfect.
 b. The subjunctive and optative are compound forms—the perfect middle participle with the present subjunctive and optative of εἶμι am (384).
 c. The imperative takes the regular imperative endings.
 d. The infinitive takes the ending -σθαι, the participle the ending -μένος (-μένη, -μένον); both always accent the penult.
- 301 The future perfect passive adds to the reduplicated stem the future suffix (278) with the middle endings. Thus:
- Ind. πε-παύ-σο-μαι, etc., I shall have been stopt.
 Opt. πε-παυ-σοί-μην, etc.
 Inf. πε-παύ-σε-σθαι.
 Ptc. πε-παυ-σό-μενος, etc.

The Passive System : Θη - Passive

- 302 This includes an aorist and a future. The passive stem is formed by adding to the verb-stem the passive suffix, which is -θη- before a single consonant, -θε- before two consonants or a vowel. (Θη-passive.)
- 303 The aorist passive takes the active endings throughout.
- 304 The indicative takes the augment (265) and the secondary endings, with -σαν in the third plural.

- 305 The subjunctive adds to the passive-stem the mode-suffix $-\omega\colon\eta-$; $-\theta\acute{\epsilon}\omega\colon\eta-$ contracts to $-\theta\hat{\omega}-$ or $-\theta\hat{\eta}-$, and the inflection, except for accent, is like any active subjunctive.
- 306 The optative adds to the passive stem the mode-suffix $-\iota\eta-$, in the plural and dual $-\iota-$ or $-\iota\eta-$ ($-\iota\epsilon-$ in the third plural); $-\theta\epsilon\iota-$ contracts to $-\theta\epsilon\iota-$, and hence the accent can not precede $-\theta\epsilon\iota-$.
- 307 The imperative adds to the passive-stem the imperative endings, with $-\tau\iota$ for $-\theta\iota$ (47 and b).
- 308 The infinitive adds $-\nu\alpha\iota$ to the passive-stem, and accents the penult (296 a).
- 309 The participle adds $-\nu\tau-$ to the passive stem, and is declined as in 165.
- 310 The future passive adds to the passive stem the future suffix $-\sigma\omicron\colon\epsilon-$ with the middle endings, in the indicative, optative, infinitive, and participle.
- 311 The principal parts of a verb are the first form of every system used in it; thus they indicate the entire conjugation :

Verb-stem,	$\pi\alpha\nu-$ stop ,	$\kappa\omega\lambda\bar{\upsilon}-$ hinder ,
Present system,	$\pi\acute{\alpha}\upsilon\omega$	$\kappa\omega\lambda\acute{\upsilon}\omega$
Future system,	$\pi\acute{\alpha}\upsilon\sigma\omega$	$\kappa\omega\lambda\acute{\upsilon}\sigma\omega$
Aorist system,	$\acute{\epsilon}\pi\alpha\nu\sigma\alpha$	$\acute{\epsilon}\kappa\acute{\omega}\lambda\bar{\upsilon}\sigma\alpha$
Perfect act. syst.,	$\pi\acute{\epsilon}\pi\alpha\nu\kappa\alpha$	$\kappa\epsilon\kappa\acute{\omega}\lambda\bar{\upsilon}\kappa\alpha$
Perfect mid. syst.,	$\pi\acute{\epsilon}\pi\alpha\nu\mu\alpha\iota$	$\kappa\epsilon\kappa\acute{\omega}\lambda\bar{\upsilon}\mu\alpha\iota$
Passive system,	$\acute{\epsilon}\pi\acute{\alpha}\upsilon\theta\eta\nu$	$\acute{\epsilon}\kappa\omega\lambda\acute{\upsilon}\theta\eta\nu$

- 312 Two common verb-stems, $\theta\bar{\upsilon}-$ sacrifice and $\lambda\bar{\upsilon}-$ loose, have $\bar{\upsilon}$ in the present, future, and $\sigma\alpha$ -aorist, elsewhere υ : $\theta\acute{\upsilon}\omega$, $\theta\acute{\upsilon}\sigma\omega$, $\acute{\epsilon}\theta\bar{\upsilon}\sigma\alpha$, $\tau\acute{\epsilon}\theta\upsilon\kappa\alpha$, $\tau\acute{\epsilon}\theta\upsilon\mu\alpha\iota$, $\acute{\epsilon}\tau\acute{\upsilon}\theta\eta\nu$ (47 c).

A few others are irregular or variable. (See, in the Verb-list, $\acute{\alpha}\nu\acute{\upsilon}\omega$, $\delta\acute{\upsilon}\omega$, $\tau\acute{\iota}\omega$.)

II. VOWEL VERBS, CONTRACTING IN THE PRESENT

316 Verbs in -άω, -έω, -όω contract the stem-vowel α, ε, ο in the present system with the succeeding vowel, in accordance with 29 and 30. (Paradigms, 313–315.)

a. Note also that ι in the second syllable is retained (on the line or subscript), and that ο with an ι-diphthong (ει, οι, η) gives οι. But

b. In the infinitive, -ειν (from -ε-εν, 274) was no true diphthong (27 a); hence -ά-ειν gives -ᾶν and -ό-ειν gives -οῦν, without ι.

317 Outside of the present system the stem-vowel α, ε, ο is lengthened (28 a); α becomes ᾱ after ε, ι, or ρ, otherwise η: θηράω hunt, fut. θηράσω, etc.; ἰάομαι heal, fut. ἰάσομαι, etc.; τιμάω honor, fut. τιμήσω, etc.

a. But χράομαι use and ἀκροάομαι listen are irregular:

χράομαι,	χρήσομαι,	ἐχρησάμην,	κέχρημαι,
ἀκροάομαι,	ἀκροᾶσομαι,	ἤκροᾶσάμην,	ἤκροᾶμαι.

318 In the paradigms (313–315) the uncontracted vowels are in parenthesis, the contract syllable follows next; for the uncontracted form read the parenthesis and omit the contract syllable, for the contract form omit the parenthesis.

319 In the present optative active the mode suffix -ιη- is more common in the singular, but rare elsewhere.

320 Seven verbs in -άω contract to η instead of ᾶ. The most frequent are ζάω live, χράομαι use, διψάω thirst, πεινάω hunger:

ζῶ,	ζῆς,	ζῆ,	ἕξις,	ἕξη,	ἕξητε,	ζῆν,
χρῶμαι,	χρηῖ,	χρηται,	ἐχρητο,	ἐχρησθε,	χρησθαι.

321 Monosyllabic stems in $-\epsilon$ contract only in the forms that give $\epsilon\iota$. Thus $\pi\lambda\epsilon-$ (see 257 b) sail makes $\pi\lambda\epsilon\acute{\iota}\varsigma$, $\pi\lambda\epsilon\acute{\iota}$, $\epsilon\pi\lambda\epsilon\iota\varsigma$, $\epsilon\pi\lambda\epsilon\iota$, $\pi\lambda\epsilon\acute{\iota}\nu$, but $\pi\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omega$, $\pi\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omicron\mu\epsilon\nu$, $\pi\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\eta\varsigma$, $\pi\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omicron\iota\mu\iota$, etc.

a. $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\omega$ bind sometimes contracts throughout, but $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\omega$ lack and $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\omicron\mu\alpha\iota$ ask follow the rule.

322 A few verb-stems in $-a$ and $-\epsilon$, with still fewer in $-o$, do not lengthen that vowel in any system; some of these assume σ in the perfect middle or in the passive system or both:

Verb-stems	$\gamma\epsilon\lambda a-$	laugh ,	$\sigma\pi a-$	draw ,	$\tau\epsilon\lambda\epsilon-$	finish ,
Present	$\gamma\epsilon\lambda\acute{\alpha}\omega$		$\sigma\pi\acute{\alpha}\omega$		$\tau\epsilon\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omega$
Future	$\gamma\epsilon\lambda\acute{\alpha}\sigma\omicron\mu\alpha\iota$ (392)		$\sigma\pi\acute{\alpha}\sigma\omega$		$\tau\epsilon\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\omega$
Aorist	$\epsilon\gamma\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\alpha\sigma\alpha$		$\epsilon\sigma\pi\alpha\sigma\alpha$		$\epsilon\tau\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\epsilon\sigma\alpha$
Perf. Act.	—		$\epsilon\sigma\pi\alpha\kappa\alpha$		$\tau\epsilon\tau\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\epsilon\kappa\alpha$
Perf. Mid.	—		$\epsilon\sigma\pi\alpha\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$		$\tau\epsilon\tau\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\epsilon\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$
Aor. Pass.	$\epsilon\gamma\epsilon\lambda\acute{\alpha}\sigma\theta\eta\nu$		$\epsilon\sigma\pi\acute{\alpha}\sigma\theta\eta\nu$		$\epsilon\tau\epsilon\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\theta\eta\nu$

The stem $\alpha\acute{\iota}\nu\epsilon-$ approve neither lengthens ϵ in Attic nor takes σ ; two compounds, $\epsilon\pi-\alpha\acute{\iota}\nu\acute{\epsilon}\omega$ praise and $\pi\alpha\rho-\alpha\acute{\iota}\nu\acute{\epsilon}\omega$ advise, are frequent. (But $\eta\eta\nu\eta\mu\alpha\iota$ is found.)

a. In some verbs (as $\tau\epsilon\lambda\epsilon-$, cp. $\tau\omicron$ $\tau\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\omicron\varsigma$ end) the σ clearly belonged to the original stem, and has been lost except before μ and τ ; others appear to have imitated these by inserting σ before μ and τ .

b. The perfect and pluperfect indicative middle have in the third plural a compound form; the whole inflection (showing also the form of the participle) is as follows:

	PERFECT INDICATIVE	PLUPERFECT INDICATIVE
S. 1.	τετέλεσ-μαι	ἐτετελέσ-μην
2.	τετέλε-σαι	ἐτετέλε-σο
3.	τετέλεσ-ται	ἐτετέλεσ-το
P. 1.	τετελέσ-μεθα	ἐτετελέσ-μεθα
2.	τετέλε-σθε	ἐτετέλε-σθε
3.	τετελεσ-μένοι εἰσὶ	τετελεσ-μένοι ἦσαν
D. 2.	τετέλε-σθον	ἐτετέλε-σθον
3.	τετέλε-σθον	ἐτετελέ-σθην

c. The future of τελέω finish and of καλέω call commonly drops σ and contracts, thus becoming like the present : τελῶ, τελεῖς, τελεῖ, etc.

So also μαχοῦμαι for μαχέσομαι, from μάχομαι (μαχ-, μαχε-) fight, and ἐλῶ for ἐλάσω, from ἐλαύνω (ἐλα-) drive.

III. LIQUID VERBS

- 323 Verb-stems ending in λ, μ, ν, or ρ usually form the future and aorist stems, sometimes also the perfect active and the passive stems, in a slightly different way. (Liquid future, liquid aorist, α-perfect, η-passive.)
- 324 In the future they add to the verb-stem the suffix -εο:ε- (originally -εσο:ε-), and then contract. (Liquid future.)
- 325 The inflection throughout—indicative, optative, infinitive, participle—is like that of contract presents in -έω (331).
- 326 A contract future middle with the suffix -σεο:ε- (so-called Doric future) is formed from the mute verbs πίπτω, πλέω, φεύγω.

327 Liquid verbs usually form the aorist stem (indicative) by adding to the verb-stem the suffix $-α:ε-$ and lengthening the stem-vowel; $α$ in the stem lengthens to $\bar{α}$ after $ι$ or $ρ$, otherwise to $η$; $ε$ lengthens to $ει$. (Liquid aorist.)

a. But $κερδαίνω$ ($κερδαν-$) gain makes $ἐκέρδᾱνα$.

328 The inflection throughout is like that of the $σα$ -aorist, omitting $σ$ (331).

329 The present stem of these verbs may be of the formative-vowel class (257), the $ι$ -class (259), or the nasal class (261), as shown by the principal parts. (See Verb-list.) Thus $στέλλω$ ($στελ-$, $σταλ-$, 259 a) send, fut. $στελῶ$, aor. $ἔστειλα$, pf. act. $ἔσταλκα$, pf. mid. $ἔσταλμαι$ (338, 339), aor. pass. $ἐστάλην$ (334–337).

330 Other frequent combinations are shown in the following verbs; for other tenses of these verbs see Verb-list.

PRESENT	FUTURE	AORIST
$αῖρω$ ($\acute{α}ρ-$, 259 b) raise ,	$\acute{α}ρῶ$ ($\acute{α}ρ-εο:ε-$),	$\eta\acute{\rho}α$ ($\acute{α}ρ-α:ε-$),
$φαίνω$ ($φαν-$, 259 b) show ,	$φανῶ$,	$\epsilon\acute{\phi}\eta\nuα$,
$καθαίρω$ ($καθαρ-$, 259 b) cleanse ,	$καθαρῶ$,	$\epsilon\acute{\kappa}\acute{\alpha}\theta\eta\rhoα$,
$κτείνω$ ($κτεν-$, 259 b) kill ,	$κτενῶ$,	$\epsilon\acute{\kappa}\tauεινα$,
$κρίνω$ ($κριν-$, 259 b) decide ,	$κρινῶ$,	$\epsilon\acute{\kappa}\rho\iota\nuα$,
$\acute{\alpha}\mu\acute{\upsilon}\nu\omega$ ($\acute{\alpha}\muυν-$, 259 b) ward off ,	$\acute{\alpha}\muυνῶ$,	$\eta\acute{\mu}\upsilon\nuα$,
$μένω$ ($μεν-$, 257) remain ,	$μενῶ$,	$\epsilon\acute{\mu}εινα$.

a. Not all liquid verbs follow these formations; especially several form the aorist according to 347.

332 A - Perfect.—Some liquid and mute verbs make a perfect active system without κ , with the tense-suffix $-α-$ (indicative), generally with a change of vowel or consonant in the stem, often with intransitive or present meaning. Thus φαίνω (φαν-) show, besides the $\kappaα$ -perfect πέ-φαγ-κα have shown, makes πέ-φην-α have appeared; κτείνω (κτεν-, κτον-) kill makes -έ-κτον-α have killed (in prose always ἀπ-έκτονα); ἐγείρω (ἐγερ-) waken, makes ἐγρ-ήγορ-α am awake (Attic reduplication, 291 c); so also ἀκούω (ἀκου-) hear, ἀκ-ήκο-α (for ἀκ-ήκοφ-α, 27) have heard.

333 The inflection is like that of the $\kappaα$ -perfect (synopsis, 336).

334 H - Passive.—Some liquid and mute verbs take $-η:ε-$ instead of $-θη:ε-$ as passive suffix; an ϵ in the verb-stem usually becomes α : as στέλλω (στελ-, σταλ-) send, ἐ-στάλ-ην.

335 The inflection is like that of the $\theta\eta$ -passive, except that the imperative ending $-θι$ is not changed (synopsis, 336).

b. H-passives are also formed from some mute verbs; see in the Verb-list βλέπω, γράφω, ῥίπτω, στρέφω.

337 Most verbs have only one of these passives; if both are made, some difference of meaning may appear; as from φαίνω (φαν-) show, ἐφάνθη was shown (passive), ἐφάνην appeared (intransitive).

338 In the perfect middle system the final consonant in the stem caused certain changes (paradigms, 339).

IV. MUTE VERBS

340 The present system of mute verbs may be of the formative-vowel class (257), the τ-class (258), the ι-class (259), the inceptive class (260), or the nasal class (261). In other systems many sound-changes occur where consonants come together.

341 The formation of the various tense-stems is illustrated in the following:

	(γραφ-) write	(ῥιφ-, ῥιφ-) throw
Present	γράφω (257)	ῥίπτω (258)
Future	γράψω (45 a)	ῥίψω

	(ἀρχ-) be first, begin, rule	(ἀλλαγ-) change
Present	ἄρχω	ἀλλάσσω (259 c, 56 c)
Future	ἄρξω (45 a)	ἀλλάξω
Aorist	ἤρξα	ἥλλαξα
Pf. Act.	ἤρχα	ἥλλαχα (342 b)
Pf. Mid.	ἤργμαι (44 b)	ἥλλαγμαι
Aor. Pass.	ἤρχθην	ἥλλάχθην ἥλλάγην

42 a. In the $\kappa\alpha$ -perfect a τ -mute disappears before κ .

b. In the α -perfect most stems ending in a π - or κ -mute aspirate the mute, often changing the stem vowel also.

43 The sound-changes in the perfect middle system are shown in the paradigms (345).

44 a. In the perfect middle of πέμπω (πεμπ-) send, πέπεμ-μαι is written, since $\mu\mu\mu$ can hardly be pronounced otherwise than as $\mu\mu$. So πεπέμ-μεθα, πεπεμ-μένος.

b. ἐλέγχω (ἐλεγχ-) test makes ἐλήλεγ-μαι, ἐληλεγ-μένος (dropping one γ from $\gamma\gamma\mu$), but ἐλήλεγξαι, etc.

c. Older writers have in the perf. and plup. ind. mid. 3d plu. a few forms in -αται, -ατο, before which a π - or κ -mute is aspirated: τετάχ-αται, ἐτετάχ-ατο, for τεταγμένοι εἰσὶ, ἦσαν. (Cp. 270 a.)

346 a. Futures in -ῶ.—Verbs in -ίζω (verb-stems in -ιδ-) commonly make the future in -ιῶ, dropping δ and taking the suffix -έο:ε-, which then contracts as in the liquid future (324): κομίζω (κομιδ-) carry, κομιῶ. In later Greek the forms in -ίσω occur.

b. A few verbs in -άζω (stems in -αδ-) drop σ in the future and contract, like presents in -άω (316): βιβάζω (βιβαδ-) make go, βιβάσω, contracted to βιβῶ, βιβᾶς, etc.

347 Formative-Vowel or Thematic Aorist.—Many mute verbs and some liquid verbs make the aorist active and middle by adding the suffix -ο:ε- to the verb-stem, in the weak form if it has one.

The inflection is like that of a present system; in meaning this aorist does not differ from the σα-aorist: λείπω (λειπ-, λιπ-) leave, ἔλιπον (348).

FORMATIVE-VOWEL AORIST

	ACTIVE	MIDDLE
Ind.	ἔ-λιπ-ο-ν ἔ-λιπ-ε-ς ἔ-λιπ-ε etc.	ἐ-λιπ-ό-μην ἐ-λίπ-ου ἐ-λίπ-ε-το etc.

Opt.	λίπ-οι-μι	λιπ-οί-μην
Impv.	λίπε	λιπ-οῦ
Inf.	λιπ-εῖν	λιπ-έ-σθαι
Ptc.	λιπ-ών	λιπ-ό-μενος

349 The accent of the infinitive and participle and of the imperative middle second singular is on the formative vowel. This gives -εῖν (for -έ-εν), -έ-σθαι, -ών, and -οῦ (for -έ-(σ)ο).

a. Five verbs also accent the formative vowel in the impv. second sing. active : εἰπέ say, ἐλθέ come, εὔρε find, ἰδέ see, λαβέ take. But in compounds their accent is recessive.

350 Verbs that make a formative-vowel aorist are very frequent, and are often irregular. Among the commonest are :

	PRESENT	AORIST
1.	λαμβάνω (λαβ-, ληβ-) take,	ἔλαβον, λάβω, λάβοιμι, λαβέ (349 a), λαβεῖν, λαβών.
2.	φεύγω (φευγ-, φυγ-) flee,	ἔφυγον, φύγω, φύγοιμι, φύγε, φυγεῖν, φυγών.
3.	πάσχω (παθ-, 260 b) suffer,	ἔπαθον, πάθω, πάθοιμι, πάθε, παθεῖν, παθών.
4.	βάλλω (βαλ-, βλη-) throw,	ἔβαλον, βάλω, βάλοιμι, βάλε, βαλεῖν, βαλών.
5.	γίγνομαι (γεν-, γον-, γενη-) become,	ἐγενόμην, γένωμαι, γενοί- μην, γενοῦ, γενέσθαι, γε- νόμενος.
6.	ἔχω (σεχ-, ἐχ-, σχ-, σχη-) have, hold,	ἔσχον, σχῶ, σχοίην, σχές (271), σχεῖν, σχών.
(In compounds the subjunctive and imperative have recessive accent : παράσχω, παράσχες.)
7.	ὁράω (όρα-, ἰδ- ; 391) see,	εἶδον (267), ἴδω, ἴδοιμι, ἰδέ (349 a), ἰδεῖν, ἰδών.
8.	φημί (φα:η-, φεπ-, 391) say,	εἶπον, εἶπω, εἵποιμι, εἶπέ (349 a), εἶπεῖν, εἶπών.
9.	αἰρέω (αἰρε:η-, ἔλ-) seize,	εἶλον, ἔλω, ἔλοιμι, ἔλε, ἐλεῖν, ἐλών.
10.	ἄγω (ἄγ-) lead, drive,	ἤγαγον (with reduplica- tion), ἄγάγω, ἄγάγοιμι, ἄγαγε, ἄγαγεῖν, ἄγαγών.

- 351 Besides the formative-vowel aorists εἶπον said (φημι) and ἤνεγκον bore (φέρω) are found forms of an aorist in α: εἶπα, εἶπας, etc., and ἤνεγκα, ἤνεγκας, etc.
- 352 Verbal Adjectives are formed by adding -τός (-τή, -τόν) and -τέος (-ᾱ, -ον) to the verb-stem as it appears in the aorist passive (observing the rule in 43); sometimes an extra σ appears before the τ.
- 353 Most verbals in -τος either (1) denote the capability or possibility of the action of the verb (cp. Latin -ibilis, English -able), or (2) have the force of a perfect passive participle (Latin -tus): ζηλωτός enviable or envied from ζηλόω, νοη-τός thinkable from νοέω, ποιη-τός made from ποιέω.
- a. Some verbals in -τος have an active meaning: ῥυ-τός flowing from ῥέω.
- b. Compound verbals in -τος in the first meaning accent the ultima and have three endings; in the second meaning they have recessive accent and two endings: διαβατός (-ή, -όν) fordable from διαβαίνω, ἄγραπτος (-ον) unwritten from γράφω.
- 354 The verbal in -τέος has the general force (but not all the uses) of the Latin gerundive or participle in -ndus: πρᾶκ-τέος requiring to be done, faciendus.

B. VERBS OF THE ΜΙ-CONJUGATION

- 355 The distinction between the ω-conjugation and the μι-conjugation applies only to the present system. In the μι-conjugation the present stem does not end in -ο:ε-, and the fuller endings -μι, -ς, -σι, -ᾱσι, -σαν (263) are used. There are two classes:
- 356 (1) Nasal Class (cp. 261).—The suffix -νν:ῥ-, after a vowel -ννν:ῥ-, is added to the verb-stem:

VERB-STEM	PRES. STEM	PRES. IND.
δεικ- point at ,	δεικνυ:ῦ-,	δείκνῦμι,
κερα- mix ,	κεραννυ:ῦ-,	κεράννῦμι.

357 (2) Root Class.—The present stem is the verb-stem, always a root, sometimes reduplicated :

VERB-STEM	PRES. INDIC.
φα:η- say ,	φημι (19 d),
δο:ω- give ,	δίδωμι,
στα:η- set up ,	ἵστημι (257 a, 54).

I. VERBS IN -νῦμι

358 Verbs in -νῦμι show the simplest form of μι-present (paradigm, 360).

(1) The final stem-vowel is long in the singular of the active indicative present and imperfect, and in the second singular of the active imperative ; elsewhere it is short.

(2) The endings are unchanged : -ᾱσι and -σαν are used in the active third plural ; -θι is omitted.

(3) The infinitive active takes -ναι and accents the penult (296 a).

(4) The active participle accents the final vowel of the present stem (170).

(5) The subjunctive and optative follow the ω-conjugation. Sometimes the indicative also follows the ω-conjugation.

359 The other verbs of this class are the following, which see in the Verb-list :

(a) Vowel verbs : κεράννῦμι mix, κρεμάννῦμι hang, πετάννῦμι spread, σκεδάννῦμι scatter, σβέννῦμι quench, ῥώννῦμι strengthen, στρώννῦμι spread.

(b) Liquid verbs : ὀλλῦμι lose, destroy, ὀρνῦμι swear.

(c) Mute verbs, in -γ : ζεύγνυμι join, μείγνυμι mix, πηγνῦμι fix, ῥήγνυμι break.

II. VERBS IN -ημι, WITH STEM IN -α:η-

361 Verbs of the root class (357) with present stem in -α:η- follow ἵστημι (362). They are like δείκνυμι except as follows:

(1) ἀ-āσι contracts to -ᾶσι.

362

(3) The optative mode-suffix is -ιη-, or in the plural and dual more often -ι- (-ιε- in the third plural), added directly to the stem. The accent never stands before the mode-suffix. (Cp. the passive aor. opt.)

363 Ἰστημι and its compounds are very common, and the different tenses often require different translations. The fundamental distinctions are shown in the following table :

	TRANSITIVE		INTRANSITIVE	PASSIVE
	ACTIVE set	INDIR. MID. set for oneself	place oneself	be placed
Present	ἵστημι	ἵσταμαι	ἵσταμαι	ἵσταμαι
Future	στήσω	στήσομαι	στήσομαι	σταθήσομαι
Aorist	ἔστησα	ἔστησάμην	ἔστην	ἑστάθην
Perfect			ἔστηκα stand
Pluperf.			εἰστήκη was stand- ing
Fut. Pf.			ἐστήξω shall stand

The intransitive forms also serve for the passive, as with many other verbs. For ἔστην see 366, for ἐστήξω see 364.

a. Similarly in compounds :

Present	ἀφίστημι set off from, cause to revolt, mid. revolt, pass. am set off;
Future	ἀποστήσω shall cause to revolt, mid. shall revolt, pass. shall be set off;
Σα-Aor.	ἀπέστησα caused to revolt, mid. got to revolt, pass. was set off;
Root-Aor.	ἀπέστην revolted,
Perfect	ἀφέστηκα am in revolt, ἀφειστήκη was in revolt.

Likewise καθίστημι set down, settle, καταστήσω shall settle (trans.), κατέστησα settled (trans.), κατέστην became settled, καθέστηκα am settled, καθειστήκη was settled.

364 A future perfect active ἐστήξω shall stand is formed by adding the future suffix and endings to ἐστηκ- as a perfect stem. In like manner θνήσκω die forms τεθνήξω shall be dead from τέθνηκα.

365 The following verbs (which see in the Verb-list) are like ἵστημι in the present system: ὀνίνημι benefit, mid. be advantaged, πίμπλημι fill, πίμπρημι set on fire (more frequent in the compound ἐμπίπρημι), ἄγαμαι admire, δύναμαι can, ἐπίσταμαι know, understand. ἐδύνα(σ)ο regularly becomes ἐδύνω.

a. The deponents in this list have recessive accent in the subjv. and opt., herein differing from ἵστημι:

Subjv.	δύνωμαι,	δύνῃ,	δύνηται, etc.,
Opt.	δύναιο,	ἐπίσταιτο,	ἄγαιντο.

Likewise in the root-aorist (366) ὠνήμην from ὀνίνημι: ὄναιο, ὄναιτο, ὄναιντο, and from ἐπριάμην (pres. ὠνέομαι): πρίωμαι, etc.

366 Root-Aorist.—Some ω- and μι-verbs, all of them having vowel-stems, make an active aorist in which the endings are added directly to the root as tense-stem (root-aorist). In so far it is like the μι-present and imperfect. In meaning it is like other aorists; but if the verb has also a σα-aorist, that is causative and the root-aorist intransitive. Thus from ἵστημι, ἕστησα I set or caused to stand, ἕστην I placed myself or took my place; from γινώσκω recognize, ἔγνων; from δύω enter, ἔδυν. (Paradigms, 367.)

	3	ἔ-δῦ-σαν	δύωσι
Du.	2	ἔ-δῦ-τον	δύη-τον
	3	ἐ-δύ-την	δύη-τον

368 The root-vowel is long (η, ω, ῡ) before a single consonant, short (α, ε, ο, υ) before a vowel or two consonants. The endings are added without change.

ἔστην, ἔγνων, ἔδυν

In the subjunctive and optative α, ε, ο contract with the mode-suffix; οη gives ω, οη gives ω.

a. The entire system is like the η-passive aorist (334, 336), except for the final vowel of the stem, and some resulting contractions.

369 Root-aorist forms are also found, some of them frequently, from

(a) βαίνω (βα:η-) go :

ἔβην, βῶ, βαίην, βῆθι, βῆναι, βᾶς. Subjv. βῶ, βῆς, βῆ, etc.
-διδράσκω (δρα:ᾱ-) run away, only in composition, esp. ἀποδιδράσκω :

ἔδρᾱν, ἔδρᾱς, etc., δρῶ, δρᾶς, etc., δραιήν, δρᾶθι, δρᾶναι, δρᾶς.
κτείνω (κτεν-, κτα:η-) kill (root-aor. poetic) :

ἔκτᾱν, ἔκτᾱς, ἔκτᾱ ; ptc. κτᾶς, κτάμενος.

ὀνίνημι (ὄνα:η-) benefit (root-aor. intr.) :

ὠνήμην, ὀναίμην (365 a), ὀνησο, ὀνασθαι, ὀνήμενος.

πέτομαι (πετ-, πτα:η-) fly :

ἔπτην, πταίην, πτῆναι, πτᾶς (act. poetic),
mid. ἐπτάμην, πτάσθαι, πτάμενος.

Root (τλα:η-) endure :

ἔτλην, τλῶ, τλαίην, τλῆθι, τλῆναι, τλᾶς.

Root (πρια-) buy (present ὠνέομαι) :

ἐπριάμην, πρίωμαι (365 a), πριαίμην, πρίασθαι, πριάμενος.

φθάνω (φθα:η-) get ahead of :

ἔφθην, φθῶ, φθαίην, φθῆναι, φθᾶς.

(b) σβέννυμι (σβε:η-) quench :

ἔσβην went out, σβῆναι.

(c) ἀλίσκομαι (άλ-, ἄλο:ω-) am captured :

ἐἄλων or ἧλων, ἄλῶ, ἄλοιήν, ἄλῶναι, ἄλούς.

βιώω (βιο:ω-) live :

ἐβίων, βιῶ, βιοίην, βιῶναι, βιούς.

(d) φύω (φν:ῡ-) produce :

ἔφῡν was born, am, φύω, φῡναι, φῡς.

370 Root-Perfect.—A few verbs have some perfect active forms without a tense-suffix, the endings being added directly to the reduplicated verb-stem, always a root. Thus

(1) From ἵστημι, besides the regular κα-perfect, occur, in the intransitive sense, stand,

Ind. ἔστα-μεν	Subjv. ἐστῶ	Inf. ἐστά-ναι
ἔστα-τε	ἐστῶμεν
ἐστᾶσι	ἐστῶσι	Ptc. ἐστώς
ἔστα-τον	Opt. ἐσταίην, etc.	(173)
Plup. ἔστα-σαν	Impv. ἔστα-θι, etc.

(2) From βαίνω, besides βέβηκα am gone, stand fast, occur ind. 3d pl. βεβᾶσι, subjv. 3d. pl. βεβῶσι, ptc. βεβώς, like ἐστώς.

(3) From γίγνομαι, besides γέγονα, occurs γεγώς, like ἐστώς.

(4) From θνήσκω, besides τέθνηκα am dead, occur

Ind. τέθνα-μεν	Opt. τεθναίην
τέθνα-τε	Impv. τέθνα-θι
τεθνᾶσι	Inf. τεθνά-ναι
τέθνα-τον	Ptc. τεθνεώς (173)
Plup. ἐτέθνα-σαν

(5) Besides δέδοικα (δι-, δει-, δοι-) fear, and the a-perfect δέδια, δέδιε, δεδιέναι, occur

Ind. δέδι-μεν	Plup. ἐδέδι-σαν
δέδι-τε	Subjv. δεδίω
δεδί-ᾱσι	Ptc. δεδιώς, δεδυῖα, δεδιός

(6) From ἔοικα (ἰκ-, εἰκ-, οἰκ-) am like, appear, plup. ἐώκη, occur

Ind. ἔοιγ-μεν	Inf. εἰκέναι
εἰξᾶσι	Ptc. εἰκώς, εἰκυῖα, εἰκός

III. Δίδωμι, Τίθημι, Ἰημι

371 Three very common verbs—δίδωμι give, τίθημι put, ἰημι send—are nearly like ἵστημι, but agree in certain differences from ἵστημι in the present and root-aorist systems, as also in forming a peculiar κα-aorist. (Paradigms, 372–374.)

375 The principal parts of the above verbs are δίδωμι, δώσω, ἔδωκα, δέδωκα, δέδομαι, ἐδόθην, τίθημι, θήσω, ἔθηκα, τέθηκα, τέθεται, ἐτέθην (47 c), ἴημι, ἥσω, ἦκα, -εῖκα (for ἐ-ε-κα), -εῖμαι, -εῖθην.

a. Many forms of ἴημι are found only in composition. The reduplication syllable of ἴημι is irregular in being generally long. (Cp. πίπτω.)

376 In the present system

(1) ἰέᾱσι is always contracted to ἰᾶσι.

(2) Forms of the ω-conjugation, like those of contract verbs in -έω and -όω (314, 315), are used

Often in the present indicatives τιθεῖς, τιθεῖ, ἰεῖς, ἰεῖ,

Generally in the imperfects ἐτίθεις, ἐτίθει,

Always in the imperfects ἐδίδουν, ἐδίδους, ἐδίδου, and ἴειν, ἴεις, ἴει, and the imperatives δίδου, τίθει, ἴει.

377 Occasional forms like τιθοῖτο, συνθοῖτο, ἐπιθοίμεθα, προοῖτο, προοῖντο, or (with changed accent) τίθεται, πρόσθεται, πρόηται, ἐπίθωνται, τίθοιτο, σύνθοιτο, πρόοιντο, ἀμφίοιτε, ἀμφίοιεν, are due to the same leaning toward the ω-conjugation.

378 In the root-aorist the indicative active lacks the singular; instead are used forms of a κα-aorist—like the σα-aorist, but with κ for σ.

This κα-formation sometimes occurs in the plural and dual, and occasionally in the middle: ἔθηκαν, ἐδώκαμεν, προήκαντο.

379 In the root-aorist, further,

(1) The stem remains short (δο-, θε-, ἐ-) throughout, except in the infinitives δοῦναι, θεῖναι, εἶναι. (Perhaps the ending here was -εῖναι instead of -ναι.) ἐ- takes the syllabic augment (267) and contracts with it to εἰ-.

(2) The imperatives δός, θές, ἔς have -s for -θι. (In like manner σχές, aor. impv. act. 2d sing. of ἔχω.)

(3) The ending -σo after a short vowel generally drops σ and contracts.

(4) Compounds of δός, θές, ἔς accent the penult: ἀπόδος.

Compounded with a monosyllabic preposition δοῦ, θοῦ, οῦ retain the circumflex; but they throw the accent back on a dissyllable: ἐνδοῦ, ἀφοῦ, κατάθου.

The infinitives δόσθαι, θέσθαι, ἔσθαι in composition retain the accent: προσθέσθαι, προέσθαι.

380 The various ways of forming the tenses of verbs have now been shown, and are here grouped together.

1. Present System :

A. Ω - Conjugation—

Formative-vowel class, suffix -ο:ε- (257),

Tau class, suffix -το:ε- (258),

Iota class, suffix -ιο:ε- (259),

Inceptive class, suffix -σκο:ε-, -ισκο:ε- (260),

Nasal class, suffix -νο:ε-, -ανο:ε- (with or without inserted nasal), -υνο:ε-, -νεο:ε- (261);

B. Μι - Conjugation—

Nasal class, -νν:ῑ-, -ννν:ῑ- (356),

Root class, no suffix (357).

2. Future System :

Common or sigmatic future, suffix -σο:ε- (278),

Liquid future, suffix -εο:ε- (324; cp. 346);

“Doric future,” suffix -σέο:ε- (326).

3. Aorist System :

Σα-aorist, suffix -σα:ε- (280),

Liquid aorist, suffix -α:ε- with vowel-lengthening (327),

Thematic or formative-vowel aorist, suffix -ο:ε- (347),

Root-aorist, no suffix (366).

4. Perfect Active System :

Κα-perfect, suffix -κα:ε- with reduplication (288),

Α-perfect, suffix -α:ε- with reduplication (332),

Root perfect, no suffix, with reduplication (370).

5. Perfect Middle System :

No suffix, with reduplication (299).

6. Passive System :

Θη-passive, suffix -θε:η- (302),

Η-passive, suffix -ε:η- (334).

IV. IRREGULAR AND DEFECTIVE ΜΙ - VERBS

381 A few verbs are quite common and more or less irregular in the present system, but in other systems are less common or never found. Some have a future system which is nearly or quite regular (382-389).

382

Inf. φά-ναι		Fut. φή-σω
Ptc. (φᾶς) φάσκων		Aor. ἔ-φη-σα

a. The present indic., except φής, is enclitic (19 d).

b. The impf. and φάναι have also the aorist meaning.

c. In the opt. φαίμεν and φαίσαν are also found.

d. Poets use φᾶς, etc., but only φάσκων, etc., occur in prose. Except in the participle, the forms of φάσκω imply repetition : keep saying, assert.

e. οὐ φημι means nego : deny, refuse, say no.

f. Poets have a few middle forms, with no translatable difference of meaning.

383 With φημι belong the three forms ῆμι (enclitic), ῆν, ῆ (Lat. aio), equivalent to φημι, ἔφην, ἔφη. The formulas ῆν δ' ἐγώ said I, ῆ δ' ὅς said he, are much used in reporting conversations.

384 εἰμι (ἐσ-) sum, am, etc.

IND. PRES.	IMPF.	SUBJV.	OPT.	IMPV.
εἰμι	ῆν, ῆ	ῶ	εἴη-ν
εἶ	ῆσθα	ῆ-ς	εἴη-ς	ἴσ-θι

ἐσ-τον	ῆσ-τον	ῆ-τον	εἴη-τον, εἶ-τον	ἔσ-τον
ἐσ-των	ῆσ-την	ῆ-των	εἰή-την, εἶ-την	ἔσ-των
Inf. εἶναι		Fut. ἔσομαι (3d sing. ἔσται), ἔσοίμην, ἔσεσθαι, ἐσόμενος
Part. ὢν, οὔσα, ὄν

a. In the subjv., opt., and ptc. σ is dropt (55 a) and contraction follows: ῶ for ἐ(σ)ω, εἴην for ἐσ-ιην, ὢν for ἐ(σ)ων. εἶναι is for ἐσ-ναι.

b. The pres. ind., except εἶ, is enclitic as copula (19 d), but accented when it means exist.

The third sing. is written ἔστω (1) at the beginning of its clause, (2) in the meaning exists, (3) in the meaning it is possible or allowed, (4) after οὐκ, μή, εἰ, ὥς, καί.

c. In the impf. the form ῆσθε also occurs.

d. The ptc. keeps its accent in composition: παρών, παροῦσα. Also the fut. ἔσται: παρέσται.

385

ἴ-τον	ἦ-την	ἴ-η-τον	ἴ-οί-την	ἴ-των
Inf. ἰ-έ-ναι		Ptc. ἰ-ών, ἰ-οῦσα, ἰ-όν

a. In the impf. are found also ἦσαν and (in later writers) ἦειν, ἦεις, ἦειμεν, ἦειτε.

b. The pres. ind. has a future meaning : am going, shall go. The infin. and opt. have now present and now future meaning. The impf. and ptc. have also the force of an aorist.

οἶδα (ἰδ-, οἶδ-) know

IND. PRES.	IMPF.	SUBJV.	IMPV.
οἶδ-α	ἦδ-η	εἰδ-ῶ
οἶ-σθα	ἦδ-η-σθα	εἰδ-ῆς	ἴσ-θι

ἴσᾱσι	ἦδ-ε-σαν		ἴσ-των
ἴσ-τον	ἦσ-τον		ἴσ-τον
ἴσ-τον	ἦσ-την		ἴσ-των
Inf. εἰδ-έναι	Ptc. εἰδώς (172)	Fut. εἴσομαι

a. In the impf. are found also ἤδεμεν, ἤδετε, ἤσαν, and (in later writers) ἤδειν, ἤδεις, ἤδαιμεν, ἤδαιτε, ἤδισαν.

b. The root of οἶδα (ιδ-) is the same as that of εἶδον I saw and Lat. video; but the above forms never mean see.

c. The future εἴσομαι often means shall learn.

d. The ptc. εἰδώς has the form of a perfect, though present in meaning.

Also οἶδα, οἶσθα, οἶδε are somewhat like an α-perfect, but are always present in meaning; ἴσμεν, etc., the plural and dual, are present in form as well. The imperfect is also in part like a pluperfect in inflection; but compare the imperfect of εἶμι go (385).

κεῖμαι (κει-) lie, am laid

IND. PRESENT	IMPERFECT	SUBJUNCTIVE
κεῖ-μαι	ἐ-κέι-μην	κέ-ω-μαι

κεῖ-σθον	ἐ-κέι-σθην	κέι-σθω, etc.
Inf. κέι-σθαι	Ptc. κεί-μενος	Fut. κείσομαι

a. The infinitive κέισθαι keeps its accent in composition : κατακέισθαι.

b. Of the subjv. and opt. only κέηται, κέησθε, κέωνται, κέοιτο, κέοιντο are found.

c. κείμαι is often used as a perfect passive for τίθημι put : νόμους τίθησι he lays down laws; νόμοι κέινται laws are established. So in compounds also.

388

ἥμαι (ἥσ-) sit

IND. PRES.	IMPF.
ἥ-μαι	ἥ-μην	Subjv. wanting
ἥ-σαι	ἥ-σο	Opt. wanting
ἥσ-ται	ἥσ-το	IMPV.
ἥ-μεθα	ἥ-μεθα	ἥ-σο
ἥ-σθε	ἥ-σθε	ἥ-σθω
ἥ-νται	ἥ-ντο	etc.
ἥ-σθον	ἥ-σθον	Inf. ἥ-σθαι
ἥ-σθον	ἥ-σθην	Ptc. ἥ-μενος

a. The stem loses σ except before -ται and -το.

389 For ἥμαι Attic prose always uses the compound κάθημαι (καθη-) sit.

IND. PRES.	IMPERFECT	IMPV.
κάθη-μαι	ἐ-καθή-μην or καθή-μην	κάθη-σο
κάθη-σαι	ἐ-κάθη-σο or καθή-σο	καθή-σθω
κάθη-ται	ἐ-κάθη-το or καθήσ-το	etc.
etc.	etc. etc.
Inf. καθή-σθαι		Ptc. καθή-μενος

a. The subjv. and opt. are rare (καθώμεθα, καθήμην, or καθοίμην); their place is filled by καθίζομαι (see Verb-list).

390 The noun χρή need, by the usual omission of ἐστι, appears like an impersonal verb in the pres. ind. 3d sing., there is need, one ought, Lat. oportet. By crasis with ἦν, ἦ, εἶη, εἶναι, ἔσται are made χρήν and (with an extra augment) ἐχρήν, χρεῖη, χρήναι, χρήσται.

- 391 Two or more defective verbs may supplement one another and so make up what serves as one complete verb. This has happened with some of the commonest verbs, as in English am, is, are, was, be, or go, went. So in Greek for the aorist and perfect of εἰμι are used ἐγενόμην and γέγονα from γίγνομαι become; the roots ὄρα:ā-, ὀπ-, and ἰδ-, all meaning see, together make up ὁράω, ὄψομαι, εἶδον, ἐώρακα, ὅπωπα, ἐώραμαι, ὤμμαι, ὤφθην. See in the Verb-list also αἰρέω, ἔρχομαι, ἐσθίω, ζάω, τρέχω, φέρω, λέγω, ὠνέομαι.

MIDDLE AND PASSIVE FORMS WITH PECULIAR MEANING

- 392 In many verbs otherwise active the future active is wanting and the future middle has the active meaning. Especially common are ἀκούω, ἀκούσομαι hear ,	μανθάνω, μαθήσομαι learn ,

ἁμαρτάνω, ἁμαρτήσομαι fail ,	οἶδα, εἴσομαι know ,
ἀπο-θνήσκω, ἀποθανοῦμαι die ,	ὄμνυμι, ὁμοῦμαι swear ,
βαδίζω, βαδιοῦμαι walk ,	ὁράω, ὄψομαι see ,
γιννώσκω, γνώσομαι recognize ,	πάσχω, πείσομαι suffer ,
διώκω, διώξομαι pursue ,	πίπτω, πεσοῦμαι fall ,
εἰμι, ἔσομαι am, be, etc. ,	πλέω, πλεύσομαι sail ,
ἐπαινέω, ἐπαινέσομαι praise ,	τρέχω, δραμοῦμαι run ,
κάμνω, καμοῦμαι am weary ,	τυγχάνω, τεύξομαι happen ,
λαγχάνω, λήξομαι get by lot or fate ,	φεύγω, φεύξομαι flee .
λαμβάνω, λήψομαι take ,

- 393 The future middle of some verbs has the passive meaning; among the more common are ἀδικήσομαι shall be wronged ,	ὠφελήσομαι shall be benefited ,

αὐξήσομαι shall be increased ,	ταράξομαι shall be disturbed ,
οἰκήσομαι shall be administered ,	θρέψομαι shall be nurtured ,
πολιορκήσομαι shall be besieged ,	φυλάξομαι shall be guarded .

a. Some others have in the passive sense both middle and passive forms:

ζημιώσομαι and ζημιωθήσομαι shall be damaged,
 ἀπο-στερήσομαι and -στερηθήσομαι shall be deprived,
 τῖμήσομαι and τῖμηθήσομαι shall be honored.

394 Of deponent verbs (middle or passive in form but active in meaning; cp. 501) some have in the aorist tense middle forms (middle deponents), others passive forms (passive deponents). Among middle deponents many have also the passive aorist with passive meaning, as αἰτιάομαι accuse, ἡτιᾶσάμην accused, ἡτιάθην was accused. So also δέχομαι accept ,	λῦμαίνομαι injure ,

δωρέομαι present ,	μέμφομαι blame ,
ἐργάζομαι work ,	μῖμέομαι imitate ,
ἀποκρίνομαι answer ,	μεταπέμπομαι send for ,
λογίζομαι reckon ,	ἐντέλλομαι enjoin upon .

395 Most passive deponents have in the future the middle forms :

βούλομαι wish ,	βουλήσομαι, ἐβουλήθην,
δέομαι want, ask ,	δεήσομαι, ἐδεήθην,
δύναμαι can ,	δυνήσομαι, ἐδυνήθην,
οἶομαι think ,	οἰήσομαι, ὤήθην.

a. But some passive deponents have in the future both middle and passive forms :

αἰδέομαι respect ,	αἰδέσομαι, and αἰδεσθήσομαι,
διαλέγομαι converse ,	διαλέξομαι, and διαλεχθήσομαι.

b. The following have only passive forms in both aorist and future :

ἔραμαι love ,	ἡράσθην, ἐρασθήσομαι,
ἡδομαι am pleased ,	ἡσθην, ἡσθήσομαι,
ἡττάομαι am worsted ,	ἡττήθην, ἡττηθήσομαι.

396 The perfect of some deponents has both active and passive meanings :

ἐργασται he has worked or it has been worked,
 ἐώνημαι I have bought or have been bought.

E. WORD-FORMATION

397 Words are formed from other words in two ways :

(1) By adding a suffix to an existing stem, or by slightly changing an ending so as to make a new one (derivation ; the new word is derived from the old).

(2) By putting two words or stems together into one (composition ; the new word is a compound of the two).

a. Declension and conjugation are special forms of derivation, so clearly marked in character that they properly receive separate names. The formation of adverbs has been treated in connection with declension (228–237), but might have been treated here. So with the numeral adjectives, adverbs, and nouns described in 191, 192.

398 Many Greek stems took their existing form so early that they can not now be analyzed into their parts. For us these are root words, of the original stock of the language. Often their likeness to other Greek words, or to words in kindred languages, throws light on their earlier history ; but the study of such relations belongs to comparative philology. In the following sections are treated only the most common types of word-formation ; but these alone are enough to show how the bulk of the copious Greek vocabulary has been made, and to assist greatly in learning that vocabulary.

I. DERIVATION

399 Words formed directly from a verb-stem are called verbals ; those formed from a noun or adjective stem are called denominatives.

400 a. The shifting of vowels described in 25 and 26 is frequent in derivation, as in declension and conjugation.

b. As in conjugation (cp. 322 and a) a σ , of uncertain origin, is sometimes added to a verb-stem before a suffix. So also θ in $\sigma\tau\alpha\text{-}\theta\text{-}\mu\acute{o}\varsigma$ station from $\sigma\tau\alpha\text{-}$ stand, and in $\acute{\rho}\nu\text{-}\theta\text{-}\mu\acute{o}\varsigma$ rhythm from $\acute{\rho}\acute{\epsilon}\omega$ ($\acute{\rho}\nu\text{-}$) flow.

c. A final stem-vowel and the vowel of a suffix often contract.

d. A final vowel of a stem is sometimes dropt before a vowel.

e. The consonant changes described in 45–55 are made, as in conjugation (341, 345).

f. A final consonant is sometimes dropt before the ending.

VERBALS

401 A few verbals, nouns and adjectives, are made from verb-stems without a suffix, by simply adding the case-endings of the consonant declension :

$\acute{\eta}$ ὄψ ($\acute{o}\pi\text{-}$) voice ,	from $\epsilon\acute{\iota}\pi\epsilon\acute{\iota}\nu$ ($\epsilon\acute{\iota}\pi\text{-}$) speak ,
$\acute{\eta}$ πτύξ ($\pi\tau\nu\chi\text{-}$) fold ,	$\pi\tauύ\sigma\sigma\omega$ ($\pi\tau\nu\chi\text{-}$) fold ,
\acute{o} κλώψ ($\kappa\lambda\omega\pi\text{-}$) thief ,	$\kappa\lambdaέ\pi\tau\omega$ ($\kappa\lambda\epsilon\pi\text{-}$) steal ,
$\acute{\eta}$ φλόξ ($\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma\text{-}$) flame ,	$\phi\lambdaέ\gamma\omega$ ($\phi\lambda\epsilon\gamma\text{-}$) burn ,
$\acute{\alpha}\rho\pi\alpha\acute{\xi}$ ($\acute{\alpha}\rho\pi\alpha\gamma\text{-}$) plundering ,	$\acute{\alpha}\rho\piά\zeta\omega$ ($\acute{\alpha}\rho\pi\alpha\gamma\text{-}$) seize ,
$\acute{\eta}$ Στύξ ($\sigma\tau\nu\gamma\text{-}$) Styx , root seen in $\sigma\tau\nu\gamma\text{-}\acute{\epsilon}\omega$ hate .

Verbal Nouns

402 Nouns are made from verb-stems by adding a variety of suffixes. The meaning of the suffix is often vague, made clear only by the nature of the verb, by the gender of the noun, or by usage. But many verbal nouns fall into fairly distinct classes, denoting the agent or doer, the action, the result of the action, or the instrument. Again, many abstract nouns and nouns of action have become concrete, so that the original force is changed.

a. The accent sometimes varies on different nouns with the same suffix. When the accent regularly falls on the suffix, that will be indicated; otherwise the accent must be learned from the examples and in reading.

403 The suffix -ο, nom. mas. and fem. -ος, neut. -ον, is one of the most common, of very various meaning; an ε in the verb-stem regularly changes to ο (25):

λόγ-ος speech ,	from λέγω (λεγ-) speak ,
στόλ-ος expedition ,	στέλλω (σ텔-) equip, send ,
δρόμ-ος running ,	δραμῆν (δραμ-) run ,
ζυγ-όν yoke ,	ζεύγνυμι (ζυγ-, ζευγ-) join ,
νόμ-ος custom, law ,	νέμω (νεμ-) distribute ,
φόρ-ος tribute ,	φέρω (φερ-) bring, bear ,
ἄρχ-ός ruler ,	ἄρχω (ἄρχ-) rule ,
τροφ-ός (ὁ, ἡ) nurse ,	τρέφω (τρεφ-) nourish .

a. The suffix is accented when it denotes the agent.

b. Many nouns whose origin is obscure, or can be traced only by comparing other languages, plainly have this ending : οἶκ-ος house, χώρ-ος place.

404 The suffix -ᾱ, nom. -ᾱ or -η, forms many nouns. Most of them denote the action, but many have taken on a concrete meaning, so that the force of the suffix is very various :

ἄρχ-ῆ beginning, rule ,	ἄρχω (ἄρχ-) am first ,
βουλ-ῆ will, plan ,	βούλομαι (βουλ-) wish ,
χαρ-ᾶ joy ,	χαίρω (χαρ-) rejoice ,
μάχ-η battle ,	μάχομαι (μαχ-) fight ,
ἀγορᾶ market-place ,	ἀγείρω (ἀγερ-) gather ,
σπουδ-ῆ haste, eagerness ,	σπεύδω (σπευδ-) hasten .

a. Most of these accent the suffix, but some common words accent the penult.

b. This ending also appears in many nouns whose origin is uncertain or traceable only by comparing other languages ; δίκ-η judgment (in law), right, χώρ-ā land.

405 The agent or doer is denoted by the suffixes

Mas. -τηρ,	nom. -τηρ,	Fem. -τειρā,	nom. -τειρǎ,
-τορ,	-τωρ,	-τριā,	-τριǎ,
-τā,	-της,	-τριδ, -τιδ,	-τρис, -тис.
-ευ,	-εύς (cp. 430 a).

σω-τήρ savior, fem. σώ-τειρα, σῶζω (σω-) save, συλ-λήπ-τωρ helper, συλ-λήπ-τρια, συλλαμβάνω (συν-ληβ-) take with,

ῥή-τωρ speaker, εἰ-ρη-κα (ῥε:η-) have spoken,
 ἴσ-τωρ (for φίδ-τωρ) one οἶδα (ιδ-, οἶδ-) know,
who knows,

ποιη-τής maker, poet, ποιή-τρια, ποιέω (ποιε:η-) make,
 αὐλη-τής flute-player, αὐλη-τρίς, αὐλέω (αὐλε:η-) play the flute, προ-φή-της prophet, προ-φή-τις, πρό-φημι (προ-φα:η-) speak for, γραφ-εύς writer, γράφω (γραφ-) write.

406 The action is denoted by the following suffixes, but in many cases the meaning has become concrete :

-τι,	nom. -τις,	-ιā,	nom. -ίā,
-σι,	-σις,	-μο,	-μός,
-σιā,	-σίā,	-μā,	-μη.

πίσ-τις faith ,	πείθω (πιθ-) win over, mid. trust ,
κρί-σις decision ,	κρίνω (κρι-) decide ,
πράξις action ,	πράσσω (πράγ-) do ,
δοκιμα-σίā scrutiny ,	δοκιμάζω (δοκιμαδ-) scrutinize ,
πεν-ίā poverty ,	πένομαι (πεν-) am poor ,
παιδ-ιā play ,	παίζω (παιδ-) play ,
ὀδυρ-μός wailing ,	ὀδύρομαι (ὀδυρ-) wail ,
δε-σ-μός (400 b) bond ,	δέω (δε-) bind ,
στα-θ-μός (400 b) station ,	ἵστημι (στα-) set ,
τι-μή honor ,	τίω (τι-) honor ,
γνώ-μη opinion ,	γιγνώσκω (γνο:ω-) opine .

a. From verb-stems in -ευ (417 a) are formed many nouns in -ιά. By loss of υ (27) -ευ-ιά becomes -εία.

δουλεία slavery,	δουλεύω (δουλεν-) am a slave,
βασιλεία reign, kingdom,	βασιλεύω (βασιλεν-) am king.

407 The result of an action is denoted by the following suffixes; but many nouns formed with them have other meanings:

-ματ , nom. -μα (neut.),	-ες , nom. -ος (neut.).
πράγ-μα deed, thing,	πράσσω (πράγ-) do,
ποίη-μα thing made, poem,	ποιέω (ποιε:η-) make,
ὄμ-μα (poetic) eye,	ὄψομαι (ὀπ-) shall see,
γέν-ος race,	γίγνομαι (γεν-) am born,
ψεῦδ-ος falsehood,	ψεύδομαι (ψευδ-) speak falsely,
σθέν-ος strength,	σθένω (σθεν-) am strong.

408 The means or instrument—and also other relations—are denoted by -τρο or -θρο, nom. -τρον or -θρον.

σκήπ-τρον staff,	σκήπτω (σκηπ-) prop,
λου-τρόν bath,	λούω (λου-) bathe,
κλει-θρον fastening,	κλείω (κλει-) close,
ἄρ-θρον joint,	ἄραρίσκω (ἄρ-) fit,
βά-θρον basis,	βαίνω (βα-) step, stand firm.

a. A related suffix is -τρᾱ:

παλαί-σ-τρᾱ wrestling-place,	παλαίω (παλαι-) wrestle,
ὀρχή-σ-τρᾱ dancing-place,	ὀρχέομαι (ὀρχε:η-) dance,
χύ-τρᾱ (also χύ-τρος) pot,	χέω (χυ-) pour.

409 The various infinitives are a special class of verbal nouns (see 562).

Verbal Adjectives

410 With the suffix -ο (cp. 403) are formed some words that may be used as adjectives or nouns at will. As adjectives some have a feminine in -ᾱ (cp. 404), others are of two endings. Not a few such adjectives (or nouns) are used as the second part of a compound (446 c), though not found separately:

λοιπ-ός (ή, -όν) left, remaining, ἄγωγ-ός (reduplicated) leading,
guide,
 -ποι-ός making (400 d),
 -μάχ-ος fighting,
 -ηγ-ός leading,
 -φόρ-ος bearing,
 -ήκο-ος (27) hearing,

λείπω (λειπ-) leave,
 ἄγω drive, lead,
 ποιέω (ποιε-) make,
 μάχομαι (μαχ-) fight,
 ἄγω (ἄγ-) drive, lead,
 φέρω (φερ-) bear,
 ἀκούω (ἀκου-) hear.

- 411 The verbals in -το-s and -τέο-s, made from most verbs, have been briefly described (352–354). Those in -το-s have a wide range of meaning, usually passive, sometimes active, in some cases resembling a perfect active participle :

δυνα-τός able (act.), possible (pass.),

πλανη-τός wandering,
 τλη-τός enduring or endurable,
 πισ-τός trustworthy, faithful,
 κροτη-τός pounded or rattling, ὑπ-οπ-τος suspected or sus- picious,¹ ἄ-πρακ-τος (440) undone or having done nothing,

δύναμαι (δυνα-) can,

πλανάω (πλανα:η-) wander,
 τλάω (τλα:η-) endure,
 πείθω (πιθ-) win, trust, κροτέω (κροτε:η-) pound, ὑπ-όψομαι (ὑπ-οπ-) shall eye
stealthily,
 πράσσω (πραγ-) do.

- 412 Many verbal adjectives, active, passive, or indeterminate, are formed with the suffixes

-νο or -ανο,

-λο -ελο,

-ρο -ερο,

nom. -(α)νός, -ή, -όν,

-(ε)λός, -ή, -όν,

-(ε)ρός, -ᾶ, -όν.

στυγ-νός hateful, hated,
 σεμ-νός (for σεβ-νος) revered, solemn,

δει-νός fearful,

τερπ-νός delightful,

root στυγ-, στυγέω (στυγε-) hate,
 σέβομαι (σεβ-) revere,

δέδοικα (δι-, δει-, δοι-) fear,

τέρπω (τερπ-) delight,

¹ Cp. the two meanings of suspicious in a suspicious man and a suspicious circumstance.

ἰκ-ανός sufficient, capable,	ἰκνέομαι (ἰκ-) arrive,
πιθ-ανός persuasive,	πείθω (πιθ-, πειθ-) win over,
δει-λός timid (cp. δεινός),	δέδοικα (δι-, δει-, δοι-) fear,
στυφ-ελός compact,	στυφώ (στυφ-) draw together,
ἐχθ-ρός hateful, hating,	ἐχθω (ἐχθ-) hate,
λαμπ-ρός splendid,	λάμπω (λαμπ-) shine,
μελετη-ρός practising, practised,	μελετάω (μελετα:η-) practise,
ἰσχῦ-ρός strong,	ἰσχύω (ισχῦ-) be strong,
βλαβ-ερός harmful,	βλάπτω (βλαβ-) harm,
φαν-ερός plain,	φαίνω (φαν-) show,
στυγ-ερός hateful, hated (cp. στυγνός).

a. Some nouns formed with like suffixes are closely related to these, and may have been originally adjectives :

στεφ-ανός wreath, crown,	στέφω (στεφ-) put around,
δρέπ-ανον scythe,	δρέπω (δρεπ-) pluck, cull,
στή-λη column, monument,	ἵστημι (στα:η-) set up,
φῦ-λον, φῦ-λή tribe, clan,	φύω make grow,
δῶ-ρον gift,	δίδωμι (δο:ω-) give.

413 Other suffixes that form verbal adjectives are

a. -υς, nom. -υς, εια, -υ.
ἡδ-ύς pleasing,	ἡδομαι (ἡδ-) am pleased.

(In ταχ-ύς swift, βαρ-ύς heavy, and others, the root does not appear in Greek as a verb-stem.)

b. -εσ, nom. -ης, -εσ.
ψευδ-ής false,	ψεύδομαι (ψευδ-) lie.

(Many adjectives in -ης are compounds ; see 446, 447.)

c. -μων, nom. -μων, -μον.
τλή-μων enduring, wretched,	τλάω (τλα:η-) endure,
μνή-μων mindful,	μιμνήσκω (μνη-) remind,
αἰδή-μων respectful,	αἰδέομαι respect,
ἐπι-λήσ-μων forgetful,	ἐπι-λανθάνομαι (λαθ-, ληθ-) forget.

Here belong also some nouns in -μων :

ἡγε-μῶν leader, ἡγέομαι (ἡγε:η-) lead.

d. -ικο, nom. -ικός, -ή, -όν, often suggesting inclination to or fitness for an action (cp. 425) :

ἀρχ-ικός fit to rule, ἄρχω (ἀρχ-) rule, γραφ-ικός suited to writing or painting, γράφω (γραφ-) write or paint.

e. -τικο, nom. -τικός, -ή, -όν, developed from -ικο, by use with verbals in -τος :

πρᾶκ-τικός inclined to act, πράσσω (πρᾶγ-) do, λογισ-τικός skilled in reckoning, λογίζομαι (λογιδ-) reckon, γυμνασ-τικός fond of exercise, γυμνάζω (γυμναδ-) exercise, σκεπ-τικός disposed to examine, σκέπτομαι (σκεπ-) look carefully.

f. -ιμο and -σιμο, nom. -(σ)ιμος, -η, -ον :

τρόφ-ιμος nourishing, nourished, τρέφω (τρεφ-) rear, πλώ-ιμος navigable, πλέω (πλυ-) sail,
μάχ-ιμος fit to fight, μάχομαι (μαχ-) fight,
χρή-σιμος useful, χράομαι (χρα:η-) use,
καύ-σιμος combustible, καῶ (καυ-) burn.

414 The various participles are special classes of verbal adjectives.

DENOMINATIVES

Denominative Verbs

415 Verb-stems are made from nouns

(1) By merely adding the endings of conjugation, the stem being unchanged, except by the usual processes of conjugation ;

(2) By changing the final stem-vowel ;

(3) By adding a new element ; the final stem-vowel may be changed at the same time. All under this head belong in the present system to the ι class (259); originally the presents of the other types belonged to the same class, although in Attic Greek the ι no longer appears.

Thus arose, with some crossing of types, several models, on which denominative verbs were made pretty freely; the classes are clearly separated in form, much less clearly in meaning.

416 a. Stems in -ο:ω, pres. ind. in -όω, regularly transitive, often causative:

δουλό-ω (δουλο:ω-) enslave ,	δοῦλος slave ,
ἀξιό-ω (ἀξιο:ω-) deem worthy or fit ,	ἄξιος worthy .

On the same model, from other stems, with a change of vowel:

ζημιό-ω (ζημιο:ω-) punish ,	ζημίᾱ damage ,
ρίζό-ω (ρίζο:ω-) cause to root ,	ρίζα root .

From consonant stems, with added -ο:

μαστιγό-ω (μαστιγο:ω-) whip ,	μάστιξ (μαστιγ-) whip .
--------------------------------------	--------------------------------

b. Stems in -α:ᾱ or -α:η, pres. in -άω:

τιμά-ω (τιμα:η-) honor ,	τιμή honor ,
νικά-ω (νικα:η-) am victorious ,	νίκη victory ,
ῥητά-ομαι (ῥητα:η-) am worsted ,	ῥητα defeat .

From stems in -ο, with change of vowel:

ἄριστά-ω (ἄριστα:η-) breakfast ,	ἄριστον breakfast ,
γοά-ομαι (γοα:η-) wail ,	γόος wail .

c. Stems in -ε:η, pres. in -έω, generally intransitive:

οἰκέ-ω (οἰκε:η-)  dwell ,	οἶκος house ,
φιλέ-ω (φιλε:η-) love ,	φίλος friend ,
ἀποδημέ-ω (ἀποδημε:η-) am abroad ,	ἀπόδημος away from home ,
ἀπορέ-ω (ἀπορε:η-) am at a loss ,	ἄπορος without resources .
or poor ,

From stems in -εσ, with loss of σ (55 a) :

κρατέ-ω (κρατε:η-) am strong, rule,	κράτος (κρατεσ-) strength,
ἀσθενέ-ω (ἀσθενε:η-) am weak, ill,	ἀσθενής, -ές weak,
εὐτυχέ-ω (εὐτυχε:η-) am fortunate,	εὐτυχής, -ές fortunate.

From consonant-stems, with added -ε :

σωφρονέ-ω (σωφρονε:η-) am discreet,	σώφρων of sound mind,
ἱστορέ-ω (ἱστορε:η-) investigate,	ἵστωρ one who knows (405).

417 a. Stems in -ευ, pres. indic. in -εύω :

βασιλεύ-ω (βασιλευ-) reign,	βασιλεύς king,
ἵππεύ-ω (ἵππευ-) serve in the cavalry,	ἵππεύς horseman.

From other vowel-stems, with change of vowel :

ὑποπτεύ-ω (ὑποπτευ-) suspect,	ὑποπτος suspicious,
πορεύ-ω (πορευ-) make proceed,	πόρος passage,
πιστεύ-ω (πιστευ-) trust,	πιστός faithful,
βουλεύ-ω (βουλευ-) plan,	βουλή will, plan,
ἱκετεύ-ω (ἱκετευ-) entreat,	ἱκέτης suppliant,
ἀληθεύω (ἀληθευ-) speak truth,	ἀληθής, -ές true.

From consonant-stems, with added -ευ :

παιδεύ-ω (παιδευ-) educate,	παῖς (παιδ-) child,
φυγαδεύ-ω (φυγαδευ-) exile,	φυγάς (φυγαδ-) exile.

b. A few stems in -υ, pres. in -ύω :

δακρύ-ω (δακρῦ-) weep,	δάκρυ tear,
γηρύ-ω (γηρῦ-) speak, sing,	γῆρυς voice.

418 Stems in -ιδ, pres. ind. in -ίζω (ι-class, 259 d) :

ἐλπίζω (ἐλπιδ-) hope, anticipate,	ἐλπίς (ἐλπιδ-) hope,
ἐρίζω (ἐριδ-) quarrel,	ἔρις (ἐριδ-) strife.

From other stems, with change or addition of the final element :

χαρίζομαι (χαριδ-) do a favor,	χάρις (χαριτ-) grace,
ὀρίζω (ὀριδ-) limit, bound,	ὄρος boundary,
τειχίζω (τειχιδ-) build a wall,	τείχος (τειχεσ-) wall,

ἀθροίζω (ἀθροιδ-) assemble ,	ἀθρόος, ἀθρόος in a crowd ,
ἐλληνίζω (ἐλληνιδ-) speak Greek ,	Ἑλλην Greek ,
χωρίζω (χωριδ-) set apart ,	χωρίς (adv.) apart .

For ἐμποδίζω and διαχειρίζω see 448 a.

a. Similar in the present only is σαλπίζω (σαλπιγγ-) sound the trumpet, from σάλπιγξ trumpet; but aor. ἐσάλπιγξα.

419 Stems in -αδ, pres. in -άζω (ι-class, 259 d), are partly from noun-stems in -ατ, but mostly from noun-stems in -ᾱ and adjective-stems in -ο, with change of -ᾱ or -ο:

θαυμάζω (θαυμαδ-) wonder ,	θαῦμα (θαυματ-) wonder ,
ὀνομάζω (ὀνομαδ-) name ,	ὄνομα (ὀνοματ-) name ,
δικάζω (δικαδ-) give judgment ,	δίκη decision, justice ,
βιάζομαι (βιαδ-) use force ,	βία violence ,
ἀτιμάζω (ἀτιμαδ-) dishonor ,	ἄτιμος unhonored .

Also from other stems, with the final element changed to -αδ:

διχάζω (διχαδ-) divide in two ,	δίχα (adv.) in two parts ,
στασιάζω (στασιαδ-) form a faction ,	στάσις (στασι-) faction .

420 Stems in -αν, pres. in -αίνω (ι-class, 259 b). These are partly from noun- or adjective-stems in -αν, but oftener from others, with change of the final element, or with an addition:

μελαίνω (μελαν-) blacken ,	μέλας (μελαν-) black ,
ποιμαίνω (ποιμαν-) herd ,	ποιμήν (ποιμεν-) herdsman ,
εὐφραίνω (εὐφραν-) gladden ,	εὐφρων (εὐφρον-) glad ,
σημαίνω (σημαν-) signify ,	σήμα (σηματ-) sign ,
χαλεπαίνω (χαλεπαν-) am angry ,	χαλεπός (χαλεπο-) hard, angry ,
κερδαίνω (κερδαν-) gain ,	κέρδος (κερδεσ-) gain .

421 Stems in -υν, pres. in -ύνω (ι-class, 259 b). These are largely from adjective-stems in -υ, but also from other stems, which are changed or extended to conform to the model:

βαρύνω (βαρυν-) make heavy ,	βαρύς heavy ,
ταχύνω (ταχυν-) hasten ,	ταχύς swift ,

λαμπρύνω (λαμπρυν-) brighten ,	λαμπρός shining ,
αἰσχύνω (αἰσχυν-) make ashamed ,	αἶσχος shame ,
μηκύνω (μηκυν-) lengthen ,	μῆκος length .

422 Similar formations, with presents of the ι-class, are seen in ἀγγέλλω (ἀγγελ-) report ,	ἄγγελος messenger , τεκμαίρομαι (τεκμαρ-) settle by signs, infer ,	τέκμαρ sign ,

καθαίρω (καθαρ-) cleanse, purify ,	καθαρός clean ,
ἐχθαίρω (ἐχθαρ-) hate ,	ἔχθος hatred ,
μαρτύρομαι (μαρτυρ-) call to witness ,	μάρτυς witness ,
ἱμείρω (ἱμερ-) long for ,	ἵμερος longing ,
οἰκτίρω (οἰκτιρ-) pity ,	οἶκτος pity ,
παίζω (παιδ-) play ,	παῖς (παιδ-) child .

423 The differences of use between the above verb-formations are best seen when two verbs are made from one stem :

οἰκέω dwelt ,	οἰκίζω settle (a town) ,
ἀτιμόω disfranchise ,	ἀτιμάζω dishonor ,
μαρτυρέω am a witness, testify ,	μαρτύρομαι call to witness ,
καθαρεύω am pure ,	καθαίρω cleanse ,
δουλεύω am a slave ,	δουλόω enslave ,
πολεμέω make war ,	πολεμόω make hostile ,
σωφρονέω am discreet ,	σωφρονίζω make discreet ,
	chastise .

Denominative Adjectives

424 The suffix -ιος, fem. -ια, nom. -ιος, (-ια,) -ιον, is most widely used to form adjectives from noun-stems. A final stem-vowel contracts with ι, or it may be changed or dropt. The meaning of the suffix is vague, pertaining to the noun, in some way which the noun or the context makes clear :

δίκαιος just, right ,	δίκη (δικᾱ-) justice, right ,
ἀρχαῖος ancient ,	ἀρχή (ἀρχᾱ-) beginning ,
ἀγοραῖος of the market ,	ἀγορά market ,

βασιλείος (27) royal, the king's,	βασιλεύς king,
Τελαμών-ιος of Telamon,	Τελαμών Telamon,
σωτήρ-ιος saving, of safety,	σωτήρ savior,
οικέιος domestic, one's own,	οἶκο-ς house, property,
ἄγρ-ιος wild,	ἄγρό-ς field,
πολέμ-ιος hostile,	πόλεμο-ς war,
Κορίνθ-ιος Corinthian,	Κόρινθος Corinth,
Μιλήσ-ιος (46) Milesian,	Μίλητος Miletos,
αἰδοῖος revered,	αἰδώς (129) respect, reverence.

a. In some adjectives the suffix appears to be -ειο, nom. -ειος :

γυναικ-εῖος of women,	γύνη (γυναικ-) woman.
------------------------------	------------------------------

- 425 The suffix -ικο, nom. -ικός, -ή, -όν, is added to noun-stems as well as to verb-stems (413 d) ; in some cases the starting-point may have been either. A final stem-vowel is dropt ; but with ι-stems the ending is probably -κο :

βασιλ-ικός kingly,	βασιλεύς king,
βαρβαρ-ικός barbarian,	βάρβαρος foreigner, ἑλλην-ικός Greek,	Ἕλλην Greek, δᾶρεικός (for δαρει-ικος) daric,	Δᾶρεῖος Dareios,
πολεμ-ικός warlike,	πόλεμος war,
γεωργ-ικός skilled in farming,	γεωργός farmer,
στρατηγ-ικός skilled as a general,	στρατηγός general,
φυσι-κός natural, physical,	φύσις nature.

Many of these, by omission of τέχνη art, become nouns :
μουσική music, γραμματική grammar.

- 426 The suffixes -εο, nom. -οῦς, -ῆ, -οῦν (87), and -ινο, nom. -ινος, -η, -ον, form adjectives of material :

ἄργύρ-εος, ἄργυροῦς of silver,	ἄργυρος silver,
λίθ-ινος of stone,	λίθος stone,
ξύλ-ινος wooden,	ξύλον wood.

But they also have in other words a more general meaning :

φοινίκεος, φοινίκους red,	Φοῖνιξ Phœnician,
ἀληθ-ινός genuine,	ἀληθής true,
ἀνθρώπ-ινος, ἀνθρώπειος human,	ἄνθρωπος man.

Several in -ivos are made from words denoting time :

ἔαρ-ivos of spring,	ἔαρ spring,
ὄπωρ-ivos autumnal,	ὀπώρα harvest,
ἡμερ-ivos of daytime,	ἡμέρα day.

- 427 The suffix -εντ, nom. -εις, -εσσα, -εν, in a few adjectives means endowed or supplied with :

χαρί-εις graceful,	χάρις (χαρι-, χαριτ-) grace,
φωνή-εις possessing voice or speech,	φωνή voice.

Hence φωνῆεν (γράμμα) a vowel.

- 428 The suffixes -ιμο, -νο, -ρο are added to noun-stems as well as to verb-stems (cp. 412). In some cases either verb or noun may have been the base :

ἄλκ-ιμος mighty,	ἄλκή prowess,
φρόν-ιμος sensible,	φρήν (φρεν-) mind,
ὄρει-νός (for ὄρεσ-νος) of the mountains,	ὄρος (ὄρεσ-) mountain,
ἄλγει-νός (for ἄλγεσ-νος) painful,	ἄλγος (ἄλγεσ-) pain,
λυπη-ρός painful,	λύπη pain, λυπέω grieve,
φθονε-ρός grudging,	φθόνος envy, φθονέω grudge,
δροσε-ρός dewy,	δρόσος dew,
πονη-ρός toilsome, bad,	πόνος toil, distress.

Perhaps in πονηρός and some others -ηρο was thought of as the suffix :

μοχθηρός wretched,	μόχθος (μοχθο-) pain,
άνθηρός flowery,	άνθος (άνθεσ-) flower.

Denominative Nouns

- 429 Nouns of quality (all feminine) are made from adjectives, and occasionally from nouns, by adding to the stem the suffixes -τητ, -ιᾶ, -συνᾶ. Abstract nouns often become concrete, being applied to special instances of the quality or action :

a. Suffix -τητ, nom. -της (cp. Lat. -tāt, -tās) :

πιστό-της faithfulness, (σ)μικρό-της smallness,
παχύ-της thickness,

πιστό-ς faithful, (σ)μικρό-ς small,
παχύ-ς thick.

b. Suffix -iā, nom. -iā or -ia, before which a final stem-vowel is lost :

φιλ-ιά friendship,
ἀποικ-ιά colony,
εὐδαιμον-ιά happiness,
εὐνοια good-will,
ἀλήθεια (for ἀληθεσ-ια) truth,
ἀσθένεια (for ἀσθενεσ-ια) weakness,
ἀθανασ-ιά (46) immortality, εὐεργεσ-ιά (46) benefaction,

φίλο-ς friend,
ἀποικο-ς away from home,
εὐδαίμων happy,
εὐνοο-ς friendly, kind,
ἀληθής (ἀληθεσ-) true,
ἀσθενής (ἀσθενεσ-) weak,
ἀθάνατο-ς immortal,
εὐεργέτης benefactor.

c. Suffix -συνā, nom. -σύνη, before which a final consonant of the stem is lost :

δικαιο-σύνη justice,
σωφρο-σύνη self-control,

δίκαιο-ς just, right,
σώφρων (σωφρον-) self-controlled.

430 Nouns denoting a person who has to do with something are made with the suffixes -ευ, -τā, -τιδ (cp. 405).

a. Suffix -ευ, nom. -εύς, masc., some forming a feminine in -εια. A final stem-vowel is lost before the suffix :

ἵππ-εύς horseman,
ἱερ-εύς priest, ἱέρ-εια priestess, γραμματ-εύς clerk, secretary,

ἵππο-ς horse,
ἱερό-ς sacred,
γράμμα (γραμματ-) writing.

b. Suffix -τā, nom. -της, masc., some forming a feminine in -τιδ, nom. -τις. A final stem-vowel before the ending is often changed in some way :

πολί-της, fem. πολῖ-τις, citizen, στρατιώ-της soldier,
νησιώ-της, fem. νησιῶ-τις, islander,
δημό-της demesman,
οἰκέ-της, fem. οἰκέ-τις, house-servant,
δεσμώ-της, fem. δεσμῶ-τις, prisoner,

πόλι-ς state,
στρατιᾶ army,
νησίο-ν, νῆσο-ς island,
δῆμο-ς deme,
οἶκο-ς house,
δεσμός bond.

- 431 Several suffixes form nouns, many of which (but not all) have a diminutive meaning, or a caressing or a contemptuous tone ; the end of the stem often suffers a change.

a. Suffix -ιο, nom. -ιον, neut. :

παιδ-ίο-ν little child ,	παῖς (παιδ-) child ,
ἀκόντ-ιο-ν javelin ,	ἄκων (ἄκοντ-) spear ,
βιβλ-ίο-ν book ,	βίβλο-ς papyrus, book ,
χρυσ-ίο-ν gold piece ,	χρῦσό-ς gold ,
πεδ-ίο-ν plain ,	πέδο-ν ground ,
χωρ-ίο-ν fortress ,	χῶρο-ς, χώρᾱ place .

b. Suffix -ισκο, -ισκᾱ, nom. -ίσκος masc., -ίσκη fem. :

νεᾶν-ίσκος youth, youngster ,	νεᾶνιά-ς youth ,
παιδ-ίσκος little boy ,	παῖς (παιδ-) child .
παιδ-ίσκη little girl .

c. Also the suffixes -άριο-ν, -ίδιο-ν, -ύλλιο-ν :

παιδ-άριο-ν little chap ,	παῖς (παιδ-) child ,
οἰκ-ίδιο-ν little house ,	οἶκος house ,
Σωκρατ-ίδιο-ν dear little Sokrates ,	Σωκράτης (-εσ-) Sokrates ,
εἰδ-ύλλιο-ν little picture, idyl ,	εἶδος (εἶδεσ-) form .

- 432 Words denoting a place are made with the suffixes -ιο, -ειο, -τηριο, -ων, often with some change at the end of the stem.

a. Suffix -ιο, -ειο, nom. -ιον, -ειον, neut. :

μυροπώλ-ιο-ν perfumer's shop ,	μυροπώλης perfume-seller ,
κουρείο-ν (27) barber's shop ,	κουρεύ-ς barber ,
μουσ-εῖο-ν place of the muses ,	μοῦσα muse .

In other instances the force of the ending is vague :

ἄγγεῖο-ν (for ἄγγεσ-ιον) dish ,	ἄγγος (ἄγγεσ-) dish, vessel ,
vessel ,
σημεῖο-ν sign, note ,	σῆμα (σηματ-) mark .

b. Suffix -τηριο, nom. -τηριον, neut., apparently made by adding -ιο to nouns in -τηρ (405), which were later crowded out by the forms in -της :

δικασ-τήρ-ιο-ν court ,	(δικαστήρ) δικαστής judge ,
βουλευ-τήρ-ιο-ν council-hall ,	(βουλευτήρ) βουλευτής coun- cilor ,
δεσμω-τήρ-ιο-ν prison ,	δεσμός bond .

Probably in some cases the starting-point was the verb, without thought of an intervening noun :

ἐργασ-τήριο-ν workshop ,	ἐργάζομαι (ἐργαδ-) work .
---------------------------------	----------------------------------

c. Suffix -ων, nom. -ών, masc., with loss of a final stem-vowel :

ἀμπελ-ών vineyard ,	ἄμπελος vine ,
παρθεν-ών maiden's room ,	παρθένο-ς maiden ,
ἀνδρ-ών men's hall ,	ἀνήρ (ἀνδρ-) man .

Some of these are enlarged by the ending -ῖτις, nom. -ῖτις, fem. :

ἀνδρων-ῖτις men's quarters ,	γυναικων-ῖτις women's quarters .
-------------------------------------	---

433 Nouns denoting descent (patronymics) are made from names of persons by adding -δᾱ or -ιδᾱ, nom. -δης or -ίδης, masc., and -δ or -ιδ, nom. -(ά)ς or -ίς, fem., sometimes with changes at the end of the stem.

a. Βορεά-δης, fem. Βορεά-ς, son (daughter) of Βορέᾱ-ς ,	Αἰνεά-δης	Αἰνέᾱς (Αἰνεῖᾱς).
--	-----------	-------------------

Nouns of this type caused -άδης and -άς to be taken as endings for making other names :

Θεστι-άδης, Θεστι-άς (-αδ-),	Θέστιο-ς,
Ἄσκληπι-άδης,	Ἄσκληπιό-ς.

Names of this type caused -ιάδης to be taken as an ending to form other nouns :

Τελαμων-ιάδης,	Τελαμών.
----------------	----------

b. Κεκροπ-ίδης, fem. Κεκροπ-ίς,	Κέκροψ (Κεκροπ-),
Κρον-ίδης,	Κρόνο-ς,
Δανα-ίδης, fem. Δανα-ίς (-ιδ),	Δάναο-ς.

c. Many such words were ordinary proper names, not denoting descent : Εὐριπίδης, Βακχylίδης, Ἀριστείδης.

d. These endings were probably at first less definite in meaning, like -ιο (424), and that more general force appears in some words, especially in poetry.

434 Nouns (and adjectives) that mark a person as belonging to some people or city (gentiles) are made with the suffixes -ευ, -τᾱ, -ιδ, -τιδ. These are but special uses under headings already given.

a. Suffix -ευ (cp. 430 a), fem. -ιδ (cp. 433 b and d) :

Μεγαρ-εύς, fem. Μεγαρ-ίς (-ιδ-), Megarian ,	Μέγαρα (neut. pl.),
Εὐβο-εύ-ς, fem. Εὐβο-ίς (-ιδ-) of Euboeia ,	Εὐβοία,
Κηφῖσι-εύς of the Kephisian deme ,	Κηφισία.

b. Suffix -τᾱ, fem. -τιδ (cp. 430 b) :

Αἰγῖνῆ-της, fem. Αἰγῖνῆ-τις of Aigina ,	Αἶγινα,
Συβαρί-της, fem. Συβαρί-τις Sybarite ,	Σύβαρι-ς,
Ἑπειρώ-της, fem. Ἑπειρῶ-τις Epirote ,	Ἑπειρο-ς.

In several the ending seems to be -ώτης, -ῶτις :

Σικελι-ώτης, fem. Σικελι-ῶτις, Sicilian ,	Σικελία.
--	----------

II. COMPOSITION

435 Compound words are analyzed by dividing into two members only ; if either member is itself a compound, that is treated in the same way, and so on.

a. A few particles or adverbs are mere groups of three or more separate words, which might have been printed separately with no great change of meaning. Such are τοι-γαρ-οὖν, κατ-αντι-πέρᾱς. These are not included here.

436 The second member alone of a compound carries the inflection, as verb, noun, or adjective. The first member is an uninflected word—as a preposition, or the adverb ἐν, or the inseparable ἀ(ν)- or δυσ- (441, 444)—or is used in the stem-form,

a. In the pronoun ὅστις both parts are declined (220).

b. In a few words the first member is a noun in some case-form: νεώσ-οικοι ship-houses, ναυσί-πορος passable by ships, ὁδοι-πόρος traveler (ὁδοι- locative, 228), ὄρει-βάτης walking on the mountain, Ἑλλήσ-ποντος Helle's sea, Hellespont.

Compound Verbs

437 Prepositions alone can stand as the first member of a compound verb; the second member remains unchanged. The name preposition (πρό-θεις) arose from this use.

For sound changes see 32, 42, 50, 52.

a. All prepositions were first adverbs, modifying the verb. When the connection with a verb became very close, the two were regarded as one word, a compound; but the older use was also retained. Especially in poetry a preposition may be written separately (tnesis, τμησις cutting) as an adverb, which in prose would be joined to the verb. (Cp. English set off and offset, trodden down and downtrodden. The older use is still very common with English prepositions.)

b. Note applications of 435. Thus συν-αναβαίνω go up with, a compound of σύν and ἀναβαίνω, which is a compound of ἀνά and βαίνω.

438 a. Not every verb that begins with a preposition is a compound; it may be a denominative (415–423) from a compound noun or adjective. Thus ὑποπτεύω suspect is from the compound ὑπ-οπτος, but is not itself a compound.

b. So, too, other denominative verbs from compounds are not themselves compounds. Thus ναυμαχέω fight by sea is from ναυ-μάχος (446 a), but is not itself a compound of ναῦς and a verb (437); εὐτυχέω is from εὐτυχής (447), but is not itself a compound of εὐ and a verb.

Compound Nouns and Adjectives

439 The first member of a noun or adjective may be a preposition or adverb (440, 441), a verb-stem (442), or the stem of a noun or adjective (443). The second member is the stem of a noun, adjective, or verb, with the changes or additions that were felt to be natural for declension.

a. The accent is generally recessive, but there are many exceptions; the most easily classified will be mentioned.

440 a. A preposition may be prefixt simply as an adverb to some nouns and adjectives, with no further change than with verbs (437):

ἀν-οδος way or march up,	ἀνά, ὁδός,
ἀπό-στασις standing off, revolt,	ἀπό, στάσις,
ἐπι-βουλή a plan against,	ἐπί, βουλή,
σύν-πᾶς all together,	σύν, πᾶς,
συν-αίτιος jointly causing,	σύν, αἷτιος.

b. Different from these are nouns derived from compound verbs and adjectives:

σύνθημα watchword (407),	from συν-τίθημι,
προθυμία eagerness (429 b),	πρό-θυμος (447 b),
ἀποικία colony (429 b),	ἀπ-οικος (448).

But in some cases either method may have been followed.

441 The adverbs πᾶν altogether, εὖ well, also the inseparables ἀ(ν)- not and δυσ- ill, are prefixt in like manner to a few adjectives, and the last three to many verbals in -τος:

πάν-σοφος exceedingly wise,	σοφός wise,
παν-τλήμων all-enduring, wretched,	τλήμων wretched,
εὖ-δόκιμος well-approved, glorious,	δόκιμος approved, ἄ-δόκιμος un-approved, in-glorious, ἄ-δύνατος un-able, im-possible,	δυνατός able, possible,
δυσ-τάλᾱς in hard misery,	τάλᾱς wretched,
εὖ-τακτος well-arranged,	τακτός arranged, ἄ-τακτος un-arranged,
δυσ-πόρευτος hardly passable,	πορευτός passable.

a. But these simple compounds must not be confused with those described in 447, which have the same first member in a different relation to the second (444).

442 A verb-stem stands in some adjectives and nouns as the first member—either the stem simply, or with an added vowel, or with added -σι (-σ before a vowel). The second member is thought of as object (accusative, genitive, or dative) of the first. Cp. English break-neck, tell-tale, loose-strife.

ἀρχι-τέκτων master-builder,	ἄρχω rule, τέκτων builder,
φερ-έγγυος bringing surety,	φέρω bring, ἐγγύη surety,
capable,
λιπ-ο-ταξία desertion (leaving	λείπω (λιπ-) leave, τάξις
the ranks),	rank,
λῦ-σι-τελής paying charges,	λύω loose, τέλος charge,
profitable,
πείθ-αρχος obedient to command,	πείθομαι obey, ἀρχή rule,
μῖσ-ό-δημος hating the people,	μῖσέ-ω hate, δῆμος people,
φιλ-άνθρωπος loving man,	φιλέω love, ἄνθρωπος man.

The last two perhaps belong rather under 449.

a. The syllables ἀρχ-, ἀρχε-, ἀρχι-, came to be a mere prefix meaning leader, first, Eng. arch-, archi-.

443 A noun or adjective as the first member appears as a bare stem, and this may suffer various changes.

a. The final vowel, or even more, may be lost or changed :

φύλ-αρχος tribe-leader ,	φῦλή tribe ,
τριήρ-αρχος captain of a trireme ,	τριήρης trireme ,
στρατ-ηγός army-leader ,	στρατός army ,
ῥᾶ-θυμός of easy spirit, lazy ,	ῥᾶ-διος easy ; the ending of derivation, -διος, is omitted.

b. Since o-stems were especially frequent in such compounds, they became a model to which other stems were often conformed. Hence o may replace a final ā or the suffix -ες, or may be added to a consonantal stem :

λυρ-ο-ποιός lyre-maker ,	λύρᾱ lyre .
σκευ-ο-φόρος baggage carrying ,	st. σκευεσ- baggage .
μητρ-ό-πολις mother-city ,	st. μητ(ε)ρ- mother .

c. Contractions may occur :

κακοῦργος (Epic κακο[F]έργος) evil-doer .
παν-οῦργος doing anything and everything, scoundrel —perhaps made on the analogy of κακοῦργος.
τίμωρός (for τίμα-φόρος) upholding honor .

444 Certain elements enter as the first member into many compounds, in which they have the force of an adverb or an adjective, as the second member may require. These are (cp. 441) :

εὖ well , in composition well, easily, or good , δυσ- (inseparable), ill, with difficulty, or bad ,
ᾀ(ν)- negative (inseparable), not, or no , ἡμι- (inseparable), Lat. semi-, half .

With these may be put καλλι-, which is not used separately, but in many compounds takes the place of καλός or καλῶς.

a. In ᾀ-κόλουθος accompanying, following (κέλευθος path), and ᾀ-θροος or ᾀθροος thronging, together (θρόος noise of a crowd) the first element is ἀ- copulative (for σα-) related to ἄμα and ὁμο- together.

445 In meaning, when the first member represents a noun or adjective, the relation between the two parts may vary greatly, and is gathered from their separate meanings; especially the poets make combinations very freely. (Even greater freedom is usual in English.) But certain classes are large, and these it is convenient to name.

a. Determinative Compounds.—The first member makes more specific (determines) the meaning of the second; the whole denotes a particular case of what the second part denotes alone—e. g., school-boys are one class of boys, well-made is made in a particular way (446).

b. Possessive Compounds.—These are adjectives, being noun-compounds of the determinative class, but with the idea of possession understood. Thus yellow-throat does not mean a yellow throat, but a bird having a yellow throat; the idea of having is not expressed, but from frequent use is understood. In English many of these end in -ed, on the model of participles: bald-headed, warm-hearted, sword-shaped (447).

c. Prepositional-Phrase Compounds.—A phrase consisting of a preposition and its object is made a single word, with the force, and in Greek the inflection, of an adjective (which like other adjectives may become a noun). Thus out-door sports are played out of doors, an under-ground passage is sub-terranean (448).

446 Determinative Compounds (445 a) are of two classes, not always distinguishable.

a. Dependent Compounds : the first member is a noun that may be regarded as modifying the second, as if dependent on it in some case-relation :

στρατ-ηγός leader of an army, λοχ-ᾱγός leader of a company,
 λογο-γράφος speech-writer,
 ναυ-μάχος fighting with ships,
 στρατό-πεδον camp,
 λογο-ποιός speech-maker, inventor of tales,
 χειρ-ο-ποίητος hand-made,
 ὕδρ-ο-φόρος water-carrier,
 αὐτό-ματος self-impelled,
 τριήρης triply-fitted,

στρατό-ς, -ηγός (ἄγω),
 λόχος, -ᾱγός (ἄγω),
 λόγος, γράφος (γράφω),
 ναῦς, -μάχος (μάχομαι),
 στρατοῦ πέδον,
 λόγους ποιῶν,
 χερσὶ ποιητός,
 ὕδωρ, -φόρος (φέρω),
 αὐτός, root μα-,
 τρεῖς, ἀραρίσκω.

b. Descriptive Compounds : the first member is an adjective modifying a noun as the second, or is an adverb modifying an adjective or participle as the second. (Cp. English blue-bird and new-born.) Descriptive compounds are fewer than dependents.

μόν-αρχος sole ruler,
 μεσ-ημβρία (49) mid-day,
 ἄκρ-ό-πολις upper city, citadel,
 ψευδ-ο-μαρτυρία false witness,
 ἡμί-ονος half-ass, mule,
 ἡμί-βρωτος half-eaten,
 εὖ-δηλος quite clear,
 περί-εργος over-active,

μόνος, ἀρχός,
 μέση ἡμέρᾱ,
 ἄκρᾱ πόλις,
 ψευδὴς μαρτυρίᾱ,
 ἡμι- (444), ὄνος,
 βιβρώσκω eat,
 εὖ, δῆλος,
 περί, -εργος (root ἐργ-).

c. Many determinatives have as latter member a word that does not occur separately, or not in that sense (410) ; in some cases the lack is accidental. Thus ἀρχός, ἄγός (ἄ), ἄγωγός are found separately, but not -ηγος, -γραφος, -μαχος, -ποιος: while φόρος, δόμος, δρόμος are used, but not in the sense in which they form many compounds.

d. Determinatives of the o-declension, if the second part is active, accent the penult if that is short, otherwise the ultima: λιθο-βόλος stone-throwing, ναυ-μάχος, λογο-ποιός. (But not compounds in -αρχος and -οχος, which have recessive accent; and other exceptions occur.)

447 Possessive Compounds (445 b).—In these the idea of having is added in thought to a determinative; in a few the added idea is rather that of being:

τρί-πους having three feet, three-footed, πολυ-άνθρωπος having many men, populous,
 δύσ-πορος having a hard passage,
 εὖ-νους well-minded, kindly,
 εὖ-τυχής having good fortune, fortunate,
 ὁμο-τράπεζος having the same table, table-companion,
 ὁμό-λογος having common speech or ratio, agreeing, homologous.

ὁμο- appears only in composition; but cp. the adv. ὁμοῦ, adj. ὅμοιος.

θεο-ειδής having a god's appearance, godlike (εἶδος).

From -ειδης, contracting with a preceding vowel, was formed the derivative ending -ώδης, and English -oid.

a. Many compounds of this class begin with ἀ(ν)- negative, which may be either a not, denying the idea of possession, or a no modifying the noun:

ἀ-πορος not having a passage, or having no passage,
 ἀ-τίμος without honor, disfranchised.

b. Prepositions often have an adjectival force in such compounds (cp. 440 a):

πρό-θυμος having a forward spirit, eager (θυμός), ἀμφί-θυρος having a door on both sides, double-doored (θύρᾱ), μέτ-οικος having one's dwelling with, resident alien (οἶκος),

ἐν-θεος having a god within, inspired,
 ἐφ-εδρος having a by-seat (one who has drawn a "bye"),
 πάρ-εδρος having a seat beside, assessor.

448 Prepositional-Phrase Compounds (445 c).—These consist of a preposition and its noun, with the idea of being added :

παρά-δοξος contrary to opinion, unexpected,	παρὰ δόξαν,
παρά-νομος against the law, illegal,	παρὰ νόμον,
παρα-θαλάττιος beside the sea,	παρὰ θάλατταν,
ἐμ-πορος on a journey, traveler, importer,	ἐν πόρῳ,
ἐν-θύμιος in the heart or mind,	ἐν θῦμῳ,
ἐφ-όδιος for a journey,	ἐφ' ὁδῷ or ὁδόν,
ἐφ-ήμερος lasting for a day,	ἐφ' ἡμέρᾱ,
ἐπί-χειρον something on the hand, wages,	ἐπὶ χειρί,
προ-άστιος suburban,	πρὸ ἄσπεως,
ἐμ-μελής in tune,	ἐν μέλει,
πλημ-μελής out of tune,	πλὴν (beyond) μέλους,
ἐκ-τοπος out of place, strange,	ἐκ τόπου,
ἀπό-δημος out of the country,	ἀπὸ δήμου,
ὑπ-εύθυνος subject to accounting,	ὑπ' εὐθύναις.

a. From the phrase ἐκ ποδῶν was made the adverb ἐκποδῶν out of the way. On this model was formed the opposite ἐμποδῶν in the way; from this was formed the adjective ἐμπόδιος and the verb ἐμποδίζω (418). In like manner from the phrase διὰ χειρῶν through or in the hands, is made the verb διαχειρίζω have in hand, manage.

449 Instead of a preposition the first member is sometimes a verbal adjective governing a noun as the second member, the whole being an adjective :

ἀξιό-λογος worth mentioning,	ἄξιος λόγου,
ἀξιό-χρεως good for the obligation, sufficient,	ἄξιος χρέους, ἰσό-θεος equal to a god, godlike,

φιλο-κίνδυνος fond of danger,

ἴσος θεῶ,
φίλος κινδύνου.

a. These are much like the verb-object compounds in 442; they are also like dependent compounds (446 a), in that one member depends on the other. But they are perhaps more like prepositional-phrase compounds (448); in both classes a familiar phrase, in which the first word governs the second, has received the inflection of an adjective.

III. SYNTAX

- 450 Syntax (σύνταξις arranging together) treats of the use of words in combination, usually in sentences, which may be simple, compound, or complex.

For undeveloped and incomplete sentences see 490–493.

I. SIMPLE SENTENCES

- 451 A simple sentence consists of one finite verb, with or without other words.

According to the mode of the verb we distinguish Indicative, Subjunctive, Optative, and Imperative sentences. Some forms of Negative and Incomplete sentences will also be treated separately.

INDICATIVE SENTENCES

- 452 The Indicative presents the action or state as real, in assertions, denials, exclamations, and questions. (But see 461 c, 467 c.)
- 453 The tenses are used nearly as in English, but not altogether so; and their force (like that of all words and forms) is affected by the general meaning of the verb, by the context, or by other circumstances. The leading types are illustrated in 454–470; those in which Greek agrees with English are treated briefly, more prominence being given to those in which the two languages differ.

454 Present Indicative.

a. Οὐδείς ἔτι ἡμῖν μάχεται no one fights with us any longer.
AN. II. 1, 4.

b. Κῦρον μετὰπέμπεται Cyrus he sends for. AN. I. 1, 2.
(Historical Present.)

c. Τί ἐξελαύνετε ἡμᾶς; why are you driving (trying to drive) us out? II. II. 4, 20. (Present of Endeavor.)

d. Ἀλγῶ πάλαι I have long been sorrowing. S. P. 806. (Inclusive Present, of an action begun in the past and still continuing—generally with an expression of time. English commonly uses the progressive perfect, as above.)

e. Οἱ φρονοῦντες εὖ κρατοῦσι πανταχοῦ they that have judgment everywhere prevail. S. AI. 1252. (Universal or Generalized Present.)

f. The present of ἤκω am come and οἴχομαι am gone may usually be translated by the perfect, have come, etc. Sometimes also νικῶ am victorious, and some others.

455 Future Indicative.

a. Σπονδᾶς ἢ πόλεμον ἀπαγγελλῶ; shall I report a truce or war? AN. II. 1, 23. λήψεται μισθὸν τάλαντον he shall receive a talent as reward. AN. II. 2, 20. σὺν τούτοις μαχούμεθα with these we will fight. AN. II. 1, 12. οὐκ εὐθὺς ἀφήσω αὐτόν I shall not let him go at once. AP. 29 c.

b. In the second person, with οὐ, a question in the future may become a lively request or command:

Οὐκοῦν ἐρεῖς ποτε; speak out! (won't you ever speak?)
S. AN. 244.

For οὐ μή with the fut. see 489 b.

456 Perfect Indicative.

a. Ἀπολελοίπασιν ἡμᾶς they have left us. AN. I. 4, 8. ἀκηκόατε, ἑώρακάτε, πεπόνθατε you have heard, have seen, have suffered. IL. 12, 100.

b. A completed act may result in a continued state, and some perfects are best rendered by an English present :

ἐγνώκα γάρ yes, I know him (have recognized, Lat. novi).
S. OT. 1117.

Among the most frequent of these perfects are ἔστηκα (have become set), stand (363), τέθνηκα (have died), am dead,

βέβηκα (have placed my feet firmly), stand firm, πέφυκα (have grown, been born), am,
κέκτημαι (have acquired), possess, μέμνημαι (have become mindful), remember,
ὄλωλα (have gone to ruin), am ruined, πέποιθα (have believed), trust.

c. With the above belong some perfects that show little or no trace of a perfect meaning. Such are ἔοικα am like, ἔοικε it is likely,

ἐῴθα am accustomed,
δέδοικα, δέδια fear, and in poetry many others, δέδορκα see (δέρκομαι) being especially common :

Σὺ καὶ δέδορκας κοῦ βλέπεις thou hast sight and seest not.
S. OT. 413.

d. In compound perfects (as in English) the form of εἰμι (or ἔχω in the sense of εἰμι) expresses a continued state, the participle a completed act ; but in use there is often no clear distinction between these compound forms and simple forms.

457 The Pluperfect transfers the present force of the perfect to past time :

Οἰνὸν ἐτετείσχιστο Oinoë was (already) fortified. T. II. 18.
εἰστήκη I was standing. τότε δ' ἀφειστήκεσαν but at that time they had revolted. AN. I. 1, 6. προεἰστήκει τοῦ ξενικοῦ he was in command of the mercenary force. AN. I. 2, 1.

a. For the pluperfect with ἄν see 469.

458 The Future Perfect denotes an act to be completed in the future, or (often) a future state :

Εὐθὺς Ἀριαῖος ἀφεςτῆξει, ὥστε φίλος ἡμῖν οὐδεὶς λελείψεται Ariaios will at once withdraw, so that not a friend will be left us. AN. II. 4, 5. δίκαια πεπονθὼς ἐγὼ ἔσομαι ὑφ' ὑμῶν I shall have received justice at your hands. AP. 41 e.

- 459 The Imperfect generally presents the action either as continuing or as repeated in the past :

Στράτευμα συνελέγεται an army was being collected. AN. I. 1, 9. πολλὰς προφάσεις ἡϋρίσκειν he kept finding many pretexts. AN. II. 3, 21. ταῦτα τοῖς φίλοις διεδίδου these he used to distribute to his friends. AN. I. 9, 22. ταῦτα πράξας ἐκέρδαινον μὲν οὐδὲν, ἑμαυτὸν δ' εἰς κίνδυνον καθίστην in doing that (assuming that I did it) I was gaining nothing and was bringing myself into danger. L. 7, 32.

a. To be continually or repeatedly engaged in an action may imply endeavor, without success (cp. 454 c) :

Κλέαρχος τοὺς στρατιώτας ἐβιάζετο ἵεναι, οἱ δ' αὐτὸν ἔβαλλον Klearchos tried to force the soldiers to go ; but they threw stones at him (as often as he tried). AN. I. 3, 1.

- 460 The Imperfects χρῆν or ἐχρῆν, ἔδει, προσῆκε, εἰκὸς ἦν, and the like, state an obligation or propriety in past time. Often the context implies that the obligation was not met—that something was not or is not as it should be.

Οὐδὲ θαμίζεις ἡμῖν καταβαίνων εἰς τὸν Πειραιᾶ· χρῆν μέντοι you don't come down to us in Piraeus at all often ; yet you ought to (i. e., it was your duty to come often, and you haven't been doing it). P. R. 328 c. τί σιγᾶς ; οὐκ ἐχρῆν σιγᾶν why silent ? thou shouldst not be silent (i. e., propriety required that you speak out, and you have not spoken). E. HIPPOCRATES. 297. ἀλλ' ἐχρῆν τι δρᾶν you ought to have done something. ARISTOTELIS. R. 568. ἔδει γὰρ τὸ καὶ τὸ ποιῆσαι καὶ τὸ μὴ ποιῆσαι why, yes, we should have done this and this, and not have done that. D. 9, 68. τούσδε γὰρ μὴ ζῆν ἔδει for these ought not to be alive. S. P. 418. εἰκὸς ἦν ὑμᾶς προορᾶσθαι αὐτά the fitting thing was that you should foresee it (but you did not). T. VI. 78. μένειν γὰρ ἐξ ἦν for it was in his power to stand his ground (he might have stood his ground). D. 3, 17.

a. In these cases the obligation or propriety is thought of as existing in the past, perhaps before the act, and as real; the action or state resulting from failure to meet the obligation may be present, or may continue to the present, though beginning in the past. In some few cases where the Greek took this point of view, it seems to us as if ἄν were needed (461 c).

461 The Imperfect with ἄν (666) presents the action

a. As occurring from time to time in the past, on occasion :

Ἀναλαμβάνων αὐτῶν τὰ ποιήματα διηρώτων ἄν αὐτούς taking up their poems, I would question them (different poets, at one time and another). AP. 22 b. ἡ γὰν ἄκτουσιν ἄν I used to be indignant (whenever people spoke hardly of me). L. 7, 12.

b. As something that was to be expected or was probably true :

Τί ἄν φανερὸς γενόμενος ὑφ' ὑμῶν ἔπασχον ; what treatment was I likely to get from you in case of detection ? L. 7, 12. πρὸς ποῖον ἄν ἔπλει ; to what man was he probably sailing? (can he have been sailing?) S. P. 572. τότε ὁψὲ ἦν καὶ τὰς χεῖρας οὐκ ἂν καθέωρων by that time it was late, and they would not be likely to see the hands (raised in voting). H. I. 7, 7.

c. As something that would have been in the past, or would be now, in an imaginary case, known to be unreal (Hypothetical Indicative; cp. 467 c, 468, 469):

Τότε δ' αὐτὸ τὸ πρᾶγμα ἂν ἐκρίνετο ἐφ' αὐτοῦ but in that case the matter would have been decided by itself. D. 18, 224. κλύειν ἂν οὐδ' ἅπαξ ἐβουλόμην I should not wish to hear it even once. S. P. 1239.

These three uses are closely related; the third is by far the most frequent; the second and third can not always be distinguished. Only the context shows which meaning is intended, and whether (under c) past or present time is meant.

d. Ἐβουλόμην ἂν I should wish, with the infinitive, is the regular way of saying I wish something were different. Greek puts the suggestion of unreality with the leading verb, English puts it with the subordinate clause.

Ἐβουλόμην ἂν αὐτοὺς ἀληθῆ λέγειν· μετῆν γὰρ ἂν καὶ ἐμοὶ τούτου τᾶγαθοῦ μέρος I wish they were telling the truth; I too should have a share in that blessing. L. 12, 22.

462 The Aorist Indicative presents an action simply as past; it corresponds most often to the English simple past (or to the Latin historical perfect):

Ἐνταῦθ' ἔμεινεν there he remained. τῇ στρατιᾷ ἀπέδωκε μισθόν he paid the army wages. AN. I. 2, 12. ἦλθον, εἶδον, ἐνίκησα veni, vidi, vici, I came, saw, conquered. PLUT. Caes., 50.

- 463 Greek often prefers the aorist, stating something merely as a past occurrence, where English uses the pluperfect or the perfect :

Καὶ στρατηγὸν δὲ αὐτὸν ἀπέδειξε he (had) appointed him general also. AN. I. 1, 2. πολλάκις ἐθαύμασα I have often wondered. M. I. 1, 1.

- 464 In verbs whose present denotes a continued state, the aorist often denotes the beginning of that state, or entrance into it (Inceptive or Ingressive Aorist) :

ἀσθενῶ am ill,	ἡσθένησα fell sick,
δακρῦω weep,	ἐδάκρυνσα burst into tears,
βασιλεύω am king,	ἐβασίλευσα became king,
σιγῶ am silent,	ἐσίγησα became silent.

Especially common is ἔσχον got, acquired, from ἔχω have: οὐκ ἔσχε τὴν γνώμην he did not adopt the view. D. 18, 291. τότε δὲ προδεδωκέναι πάντας ἂν ἔσχευ αἰτίαν in that case (Athens) would have got the blame of betraying all. D. 18, 200. Ἱππιάς ἔσχε τὴν ἀρχήν Hippias received the rule. T. VI. 54.

a. This ingressive force extends to all the modes and to the participles.

- 465 General truths, commonly expressed by the universal present (454 e) are sometimes stated in the aorist (Gnomic Aorist, γνώμη a proverb) :

Τύχη τέχνην ὤρθωσεν, οὐ τέχνη τύχην 'Tis fortune gives success to art, not art to fortune. MEN.

- 466 The distinctions between the simple aorist and the imperfect are sometimes subtle and elusive. Also any action may be looked upon as merely occurring or as continuing ; the choice of tense depends on the point of view. Hence both tenses occur together freely in the same narrative, often where English can not make the distinction without clumsiness. The beginner should watch the tenses carefully, and so gradually learn the distinction.

467 The Aorist with ἄν (666 ; cp. 461) presents the action

a. As occurring from time to time in the past, on occasion :

Ἐκλεγόμενος τὸν ἐπιτήδειον ἔπαισεν ἄν picking out the right man, he would strike him (i. e., he did this on various occasions). AN. II. 3, 11.

b. As something that was to be expected, or was probably true :

Ὁ θεᾷσάμενος πᾶς ἄν τις ἀνὴρ ἡράσθη δαΐος εἶναι every man who saw it would get hot to be a warrior. AR. R. 1022. πῶς ἂν ὁ μὴ παρὼν ἐγώ τι σ' ἡδίκησα how was I, one who wasn't there, to do you any harm? D. 37, 57. ἐπερρώσθη δ' ἄν τις ἐκείνο ἰδὼν any one on seeing that would have been strengthened. II. III. 4, 18. τούτου τίς ἄν σοι τᾶνδρὸς δρᾶν ἀμείνων ἡυρέθη; who could have been found better in action than this man? (i. e., no one was likely to be found). S. AI. 119 f.

c. As something that would have occurred in an imaginary case, known to be unreal (Hypothetical Indicative) :

Ἐποίησαν μὲν οὐδὲν ἂν κακόν, μὴ παθεῖν δ' ἐφύλαξαντ' ἂν ἴσως they would have done him no harm, but would perhaps have been on their guard against injury. D. 9, 13. πρὶν γενέσθαι ἡπίστησεν ἄν τις ἀκούσᾶς before it happened, any one hearing of it would have refused to believe it. T. VII. 28.

These three uses are closely related ; the third is far the most common ; the second and third can not always be distinguished.

468 a. The aorist with ἄν and the imperfect with ἄν referring to the past differ as do the simple aorist and imperfect (459, 462, 466) ; but the difference often disappears in good translation.

b. The hypothetical indicative (461 c and 467 c) is very common in complex sentences, especially when the imaginary situation, known to be unreal, is described in an εἰ clause (645, 649).

469 The Pluperfect with ἄν is used as a hypothetical indicative when the real situation would be stated in the perfect :

Ἐν τούτῳ τῷ τρόπῳ ἦσθα ἄν με τετιμωρούμενος in that way you would have revenged yourself on me (the fact being, οὐκ εἶ με τετιμωρούμενος).
L. 7, 20.

a. The entire passage (L. 7, 20) illustrates the ease with which the different tenses may be combined in this use : Ἐμοὶ μὲν οὐδεμίαν ἄν ἀπολογίαν ὑπέλιπες, αὐτὸς δὲ . . . ἦσθα ἄν με τετιμωρούμενος, . . . οὐκ ἄν ἐδόκεις εἶναι σῦκοφάντης, . . . τότ' ἄν πλείστον ἔλαβες you would have left me no defense (but you did leave me a defense, ὑπέλιπες), you would have revenged yourself (but you have not), you would not now seem to be malicious (but you do seem so, δοκεῖς εἶναι σῦκοφάντης), you would have got most money (but οὐκ ἔλαβες).

470 a. A past tense of the Indicative with εἴθε or εἰ γάρ (Lat. utinam) expresses a hopeless and unattainable wish—that something had been that was not, or that something were now that is not. (Cp. 476.)

With the imperfect, one wishes continuance ; the fact wished away is generally present. With the aorist, one wishes attainment; the fact wished away is generally past.

Εἰ γὰρ τοσαύτην δύναμιν εἶχον O that I had (οὐκ ἔχω) so much power! E. AL. 1072. εἴθ' ἦν Ὀρέστης πλησίον would that Orestes were near (he is not). E. EL. 282. εἴθε σοι τότε συνεγενόμην would that I had met you then (I did not). M. I. 2, 46. εἴθε σε μήποτ' εἰδόμην O that I had never seen thee (as I did). S. OT. 1217.

b. ὦφελον owed, ought, with the infinitive, and with or without εἴθε or εἰ γάρ, has the same force; with the present infinitive it corresponds to the imperfect, with the aorist infinitive it corresponds to the aorist:

Ἄλλ' ὦφελε Κῦρος ζῆν Cyrus ought to be alive, ah! that Cyrus were living! AN. II. 1, 4. μήποτ' ὦφελον λιπεῖν τὴν Σκῦρον O that I had never left Skyros. S. P. 969.

SUBJUNCTIVE SENTENCES

471 The Subjunctive is used to ask what action, or whether some particular action, is likely, advisable, or desired. (Dubitative; negative μή.) Such questions are often exclamatory, calling for no answer.

a. In the first person:

Τί πάθω; what shall I experience? what will happen to me? (Frequent, in many shades of meaning.)
ἂμ πλάκω τοῦ σοῦ μόρου; am I to fail of your fate?

S. AN. 554. τί φῶμεν πρὸς ταῦτα; ἄλλο τι ἢ ὁμολογῶμεν; what shall we say to this? anything else than to agree? (shall we not agree?) CR. 52 d. τί δράσω; δεύτερον ληφθῶ κακός; what shall I do? shall I be caught in wrong again? S. P. 908. πῶς λιπόνους γένωμαι; how can I desert the fleet? A. AG. 222. μὴ ἀποκρίνωμαι, ἀλλ' ἕτερον εἶπω; shall I make no reply, but say something else? REP. 337 b. ἀλλὰ δὴ φυγῆς τιμήσωμαι; shall I then propose the penalty of exile? AP. 37 c. (Cp. τίνος ἀντιτιμήσομαι; AP. 36 b, the fut. ind. in the same sense.)

b. In the third person:

Ποῖ τις οὖν φύγη; ποῖ μολὼν μενῶ; whither shall one flee? where shall I go and abide? S. AL. 403 f. εἴτα ταῦτ' οὗτοι πεισθῶσιν ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν σε ποιεῖν; this, then, are these people to believe you are doing for them? D. 22, 64.

472 The Subjunctive may present the action as proposed, desired, or urged. (Hortative, in the first person; negative μή.)

ὦ παῖδες, ἰστώμεσθα my children, let us rise. S. OT. 147. δεῦρο ἐξαναστῶμεν εἰς τὴν αὐλὴν καὶ περιόντες αὐτοῦ διατρίψωμεν, εἴτα ἴωμεν let us rise, go out here into the court, and pass the time walking about there (until daylight); then let us go. PR. 311 a. φέρ' ἐπ' αὐτὴν ἴω let me go to her! (I want to go to her!) AR. R. 291. φέρε δὴ καὶ τὰς μαρτυρίās ἀναγνῶ come, now, let me also read the testimony (I will now read). D. 18, 267.

Once in the second person, S. P. 300.

The first person sing. is often introduced by φέρε.

473 The Subjunctive with μή presents the action as not desired, as unadvisable, or as forbidden. (Prohibitive.)

a. In the first person (not to be separated from the hortative subjunctive, 472):

Μὴ ἀναμένωμεν ἄλλους let us not wait for others. AN. III. 1, 24. μὴ δῆτ' ἀδικηθῶ let me not be wronged (in entreaty; cp. b). S. OK. 174.

b. In the second person (aorist only):

Μὴ λίπῃς μ' οὕτως μόνον leave me not thus alone. S. P. 470.

c. In the third person (aorist only):

Μηδεὶς εἴπῃ let no one say. D. 9, 16. μὴ δὲν ἰ τοῦτο παρὰ στῆ let this occur to no one. L. 12, 62.

474 The Subjunctive with μή sometimes expresses what one fears and desires to avert; with μὴ οὐ, what one fears will not be. This is a variety of the preceding (473), the starting-point of more common uses (see 610, 611):

Μὴ σοὺς διαφθείρῃ γάμους may she not spoil thy marriage (i. e., I fear she will). E. AL. 315. μὴ οὐ πείσῃς σοφούς you will not convince the wise, I fear. E. TRO. 982.

a. This is also softened to a cautious assertion, or made a question:

Μὴ ἀγροικότερον ἢ τὸ ἀληθὲς εἰπεῖν I fear it's rather rude to speak the truth. GOR. 462 e. ἀλλὰ μὴ οὐ τοῦτ' ἢ χαλεπὸν but I suspect that is not difficult. AP. 39 a.

475 The Tenses of the subjunctive do not refer to differences of time. The present denotes continuance or repetition; the aorist, simple occurrence or attainment; the perfect (infrequent), denotes a completed act or a continued state. The distinction often disappears in translating, but is not to be overlooked.

a. The time of independent subjunctives is regularly future; see examples in 471–474. In Homer the subjunctive is often very like the future indicative in meaning, often also the same in form.

OPTATIVE SENTENCES

476 The Optative (without ἄν) expresses a wish that something may be, in the future. (Negative μή.) This use has given the name to the mode.

Εὖ ξυνεῖεν εἰσαεὶ θεοὶ the gods forever graciously abide with you! S. OT. 275. οὕτω νικήσαιμί τ' ἐγὼ καὶ νομιζοίμην σοφός so may I win the victory and be (ever) deemed wise. AR. N. 520. ὅλοιο may you die! (a curse on you!). μηδεὶς ταῦτ' ὑμῶν ἐπινεύσειεν may none of you consent to this. D. 18, 324.

477 Such a sentence may be introduced by εἴθε or εἰ γάρ, in poetry by εἰ alone (cp. 470):

Εἴθε μήποτε γνοίης ὃς εἶ mayst thou never learn who thou art. S. OT. 1068. εἰ γὰρ ἐν τούτῳ εἴη may it only depend on that! PR. 310 d.

478 Rarely the poets use the optative without ἄν as a hypothetical optative (479, 482).

- 479 The Optative with ἄν (666) expresses what would be in a supposed case, or in any case likely to occur. (Hypothetical Optative; cp. the hypothetical indicative, 461, 467.)

The time is not defined, except by the context, but is commonly future, often present, rarely past. Often the statement or question is universal as regards time, applying to past, present, and future alike:

Ἐγὼ ὁ κνοίην ἄν εἰς τὰ πλοῖα ἐμβαίνειν I should hesitate myself to go aboard the boats. AN. I. 3, 17. ἔνθα πολλὴν σωφροσύνην καταμάθοι ἄν τις there one would learn (at any time) much self-control. AN. I. 9, 3. πρὸς βίαν δ' οὐκ ἄν λάβοις and by force you would never take him. S. P. 103. ἐμὲ μὲν γὰρ οὐδὲν ἄν βλάψειεν· οὐδὲ γὰρ ἄν δύναιτο for he would not injure me a particle; he would not even be able to (in any circumstances). AP. 30 c.

- 480 What is not really doubted may, from caution or from courtesy, be treated as not yet certain; hence a wide range of meaning. Might, could, may, and even must, are often convenient in translating, but the Greek expression is not properly potential (cp. the last example in 479).

Οὐκοῦν πόροις ἄν τήνδε δωρεὰν ἐμοί; would you then grant me this gift? A. PB. 643. (Modest request.)

Σὺ μὲν κομίζοις ἄν σεαυτόν you may take yourself off. S. AN. 444. (Softened command.)

Οὐκ ἄν μεθείμην τοῦ θρόνου I would not yield the chair (in any case). AR. R. 830. (Determined refusal.)

Πῶς ἂν ὀλοίμην; how should I find death? O that I might die! E. AL. 864. (Passionate wish.)

Ποῦ δῆτ' ἂν εἶεν οἱ ξένοι; where may the strangers be? S. EL. 1450. (Polite question, of a present fact.)

Οὗτοι δὲ τάχ' ἂν μείζω τινὰ σοφίαν σοφοὶ εἶεν but these men would be (are perhaps) wise in some greater wisdom. AP. 20 d. (Assumed uncertainty, of a present fact.)

Βουλοίμην ἂν I should like is a frequent formula, a softened expression of wish.

- 481 The circumstances to which the statement (or question) of the optative applies may not need mention, or may be suggested by an expression of time, place, manner, or may be more fully expressed by a participle, infinitive, or subordinate clause. Relative clauses and εἰ clauses (614 ff., 645 ff.) are often used for this purpose. This applies also to the hypothetical indicative (461, 467).

Thus in ἐνθα πολλὴν σωφροσύνην καταμάθοι ἂν τις (under 479) ἐνθα (with the context) means at court. The interrogatives πῶς, ποῦ, τίς ask what the circumstances are. τότε then and δικαίως justly have a similar office. In θαυμάζοιμ' ἂν εἰ οἶσθα I should be surprised if you know (PR. 312 c), εἰ οἶσθα describes the supposed case. In δύναι' ἂν εἰ βούλοιο you could, should you so will (E. B. 947), εἰ βούλοιο describes the supposed case. In τότε δ' αὐτὸ τὸ πρᾶγμα ἂν ἐκρίνετο ἐφ' αὐτοῦ (461 c), τότε sums up in a word the preceding description of the imagined circumstances.

- 482 In poetry the optative without ἂν is sometimes hypothetical:

Τεῖν, Ζεῦ, δύνασιν τίς ἀνδρῶν ὑπερβασίᾳ κατάσχοι; what human trespass would constrain thy power, O Zeus? S. AN. 605.

- 483 The Tenses of the optative do not refer to time ; they differ as do those of the subjunctive (475). The future optative is not used in simple sentences.

IMPERATIVE SENTENCES

- 484 The Imperative presents an act as willed. It has many shades of meaning, as of command, prohibition, request, wish, supposition, assent, submission. (Negative μή.)

The tenses differ as in the subjunctive and optative (475, 483).

Ἀλλά νιν κομίζειτ' εἴσω, δμῶες but take her within, slaves. S. AN. 578. χαῖρε, χαίρετε rejoice, farewell. θάρσει have courage. ἰόντων let them go. AN. I. 4, 8. μηδεὶς ὑμῶν λεγέτω let no one of you speak. AN. I. 3, 15. ἔστω so be it. In ἵτω ὡς τῷ θεῷ φίλον, the ὡς clause marks ἵτω as a humble acceptance of divine ordering—let it go as God will.

- 485 Imperative, subjunctive, and optative, in simple sentences, shade into one another in meaning, and are often found together.

A prohibition in the second or third person, if in the present tense, is always an imperative ; if in the aorist tense, it is nearly always a subjunctive.

Μήτ' ὀκνεῖτε μήτ' ἀφῆτ' ἔπος κακόν neither be afraid nor let fly an evil word. S. OK. 731. ταῦτά μοι πρᾶξον, τέκνον, καὶ μὴ βράδυνε μηδ' ἐπιμνησθῆς ἔτι Τροίᾳς do that for me, my son, delay no more, nor mention Troy again. S. P. 1399 f. παῦε, μὴ λέξης πέρᾳ stop, speak no farther! S. P. 1275. In AN. III. 2, 37, immediately after ἄλλως ἔχέτω let it be otherwise, there follow two optatives of wish, Χειρίσοφος ἡγοῖτο and δύο στρατηγὸν ἐπιμελοίσθην, which are equally imperative in force, but perhaps more courteous in form.

NEGATIVE SENTENCES

- 486 Οὐ, or a compound of οὐ, simply denies. Μή, or a compound of μή, presents the negation as willed (desired, hoped, aimed at, assented to, etc.), or as part of an imagined or assumed case. Hence μή is the regular negative in wishes (470, 476) and in subjunctive and imperative sentences (471–474, 484). For μή with the infinitive and participle see 564, 572, 579 a, 582 c.

a. Μή with finite modes in simple sentences and principal clauses regularly expresses a willed negative of one shade or another. Both meanings are in so far one that both represent a negative as conceived, rather than as fact.

- 487 After οὐ, alone or in composition, a compound of οὐ repeats and strengthens the negation;¹ so also a compound of μή following μή:

Οὐ ὅποτε ἐρεῖ οὐδεὶς no man shall ever say. AN.
I. 3, 5. μὴ φύγητε μηδαμῇ do not in any case flee.
S. P. 789.

a. If the second negative is simple, each has its separate force:

Καὶ οὐ γράφει μὲν ταῦτα τοῖς δ' ἔργοις οὐ ποιεῖ and he does not merely write this and then not carry it out in deeds. D. 9, 27. Here the first οὐ negatives the combination γράφει μὲν οὐ δὲ ποιεῖ, thus in a sense canceling the second οὐ.

¹ In older English a similar doubling of the negative was common, and is still common among the uneducated, though not in good usage. Thus, from Shakspeare, "I can not go no further."—As You Like It, II, 4.

488 Μή with the Indicative is used

a. Often in questions, intimating a hope of a negative answer; so also ἄρα μή and μῶν (for μή οὖν).

Μή τι νεώτερον ἀγγέλλεις; no serious news, I hope?

PR. 310 b. μή αὐτὸν οἶε φροντίσαι θανάτου; you don't suppose he was anxious about death, do you? AP. 28 d.

μῶν τί σε ἀδικεῖ; he hasn't injured you, has he?

PR. 310 d.

b. Sometimes in cautious statement of a present or past fact (cp. 474 and a), intimating a hope (perhaps ironical) that it is not true:

Ἄλλ' ἄρα μή οὐ τοιαύτην ὑπολαμβάνεις σου τὴν μάθησιν ἔσεσθαι but perhaps you mean that your learning will be not like that.

PR. 312 a.

c. In both these uses μή has essentially the same force as with finite modes in other simple sentences (486 a). This is plainest in the former, but still traceable in the latter; a deprecatory statement is made, most often in the interrogative tone (a), but sometimes without it (b). The μή is an expression of desire on the part of the speaker to negative the statement; but this desire may be merely assumed, or may be nothing more than surprise that the statement should be true.

489 Idioms (of uncertain explanation).

a. Οὐ μή with the Subjunctive is a strong denial referring to the future:

Οὐ τι μὴ ληφθῶ δόλῳ I shall not be caught by a trick. A. S. 38. οὐ μὴ πίθηται he will never yield. S. P. 103.

οὐδεὶς μηκέτι μείνῃ τῶν πολεμίων not one of the enemy will stay any longer. AN. IV. 8, 13.

οὐκέτι μὴ δύνηται βασιλεὺς ἡμᾶς καταλαβεῖν the king will no longer be able to catch us. AN. II. 2, 12.

b. Οὐ μὴ with the future indicative is sometimes a strong denial ; in the second person it may be a prohibition :

Οὐ σοι μὴ μεθέψομαί ποτε I will never follow thee. S. E. 1052. οὐ μὴ λαλήσεις don't keep chattering. AR. N. 505.

UNDEVELOPED AND INCOMPLETE SENTENCES

490 Some expressions are not fully developed sentences, with a subject and predicate. Language begins with simpler forms, sometimes not even distinguishing parts of speech, as is clearly seen in children beginning to talk.¹ Such primitive forms remain in use, in all languages, especially in lively conversation and in poetry.² They are less formal, more natural for expressing emotion and simple thought. They are found in all stages of development, from the simple interjection to phrases of some length, with verbal forms, and even a subject.

491 Such are

a. Interjections :

ὦ, αἶ, αἰαί, φεῦ, ιού, ιώ oh, ah, alas, ha, ho, etc.

b. Exclamations without a verb :

Δεῦρο this way! here! μηδὲν ἄγαν nothing too far! ιώ μοί μοι δύστηνος ah me unhappy! Ζεὺς Σωτήρ καὶ νίκη Zeus the Savior and victory! AN. I. 8, 16. ὦ μισρὸν ἦθος καὶ γυναικὸς ὕστερον O vile nature, subject to a woman! S. AN. 746.

c. Titles and headings :

Κύρου Ἀνάβασις The Expedition of Cyrus. Περὶ Ποιητικῆς On Poetry. Ἑπτὰ ἐπὶ Θήβας Seven against Thebes.

¹ “The language of birds is very ancient, and, like other ancient modes of speech, very elliptical ; little is said, but much is meant and understood.”—WHITE, Nat. Hist. of Selborne, Letter 85.

² Tennyson, for example, uses them very freely: “Sunset and evening star, and one clear call for me.” “A plot, a plot, to ruin all!” “God’s blessing on the day!” “A week hence, a week hence.” “Ah, the long delay!” “I to cry out on pride!” “Scorned, to be scorned by one that I scorn.”

d. Some words or phrases, introducing a sentence that follows, or summing up something that precedes :

Σημεῖον δέ, or τεκμήριον δέ, and as evidence——. καὶ τὸ μέγιστον and what is most important——. καὶ τοῦτο αὐτὸ τὸ τοῦ Ὅμηρου and then as Homer says——. AP. 34 d. So the frequent expression καὶ ταῦτα and that too, in which ταῦτα, like that, stands for the preceding expression, repeated in this abbreviated form, that some new point may be added with emphasis.

492 Exclamatory Infinitives are more like sentences, sometimes having a subject.

a. In an imperative sense, often to be rendered by an imperative :

Πρῶτον μὲν τοῦτο παρ' ὑμῖν αὐτοῖς βεβαίως γινῶναι first of all, this firm conviction in your own minds! D. 8, 39. δρᾶσαντι παθεῖν to him that did it (to the guilty) suffering. A. c. 312. οἷς μὴ πελάζειν go not near these. A. PB. 738.

b. As a prayer or wish :

Θεοὶ πολῖται, μή με δουλείᾳς τυχεῖν my country's gods, not slavery, not that fate for me! A. s. 239.

c. Of surprise, indignation, or other emotion :

Ἐμὲ παθεῖν τάδε, φεῖ I to suffer this! Ha! A. E. 840. ὦ δυστάλαινα, τοιάδ' ἄνδρα χρήσιμον φωνεῖν ah, wretched me! for a good man to speak so! S. AI. 410. τοιουτονὲ τρέφειν κύνα to keep a dog like that! AR. v. 835.

493 Sentences are often incomplete ; any part that is clearly implied may be left unexpressed.

a. In many sentences the subject is not expressed, because easily understood, or indefinite, or contained in the verb :

Φᾶσί they say. καὶ εἶχεν οὕτως and so it was. AN. III. 1, 31. μάχης δέ there's need of a fight. AN. II. 3, 5.

Here belong impersonal verbs : δέ there is need, χρή oportet, προσήκει it behooves, μέλει it is a care, etc.

b. The verb is often omitted, especially ἔστι, εἰσι and other common verbs that are suggested by the context :

Σπονδαὶ μὲν μένουσιν, ἀπιοῦσι δὲ ἢ προῖοῦσι πόλεμος a truce if we stay, if we leave or advance, war. AN. II. 1, 23. μή μοι μῦρίους ξένους no ten thousand mercenaries, please. D. 4, 19.

c. Sometimes an adverb or adverbial phrase stands for a whole sentence, as in the common answers ναί yes, μάλιστα certainly, οὐ no, οὐ δῆτα of course not, οὐ ἰδέα no indeed, πάνυ μὲν οὖν assuredly, νῆ Δία yes, by Zeus, μὰ τοὺς θεούς by heaven, οὐ, καλῶς very well, εὖ γε bravo!

These and the like may be called abbreviated sentences.

d. Sometimes it is not clear, nor of any importance, whether an expression is incomplete through omission, or belongs under 490, as a more primitive form :

Οἰκτρὰ μὲν νόστοις αὐδᾶ piteous the cry at the return! S. E. 193. So also the examples under b.

494 Thus far (451–493) sentences have been treated rather as wholes, the treatment centering in the verb as the backbone of the sentence. In the following sections (495–599) the separate parts of the simple sentence will be treated in this order: Verbs, Nouns (the Cases), Adjectives, Special Forms of Predication, The Article, Pronouns, Infinitives, Participles, Verbals, Prepositions. Of the verb, since the modes and tenses in simple sentences have already been explained, only Agreement and Voice remain to be described.

VERBS: AGREEMENT AND VOICE

495 A finite verb agrees with its subject in number and person, as in English and Latin.

496 But a neuter plural subject commonly takes a singular verb:

Πολλὰ τῶν ὑποζυγίων ἀπώλετο many of the baggage-animals died. AN. I. 5, 5.

But also : ἅπαντα ἦσαν εὐώδη all were sweet-smelling.
AN. I. 5, 1. ἦσαν ταῦτα δύο τεῖχη these were two walls. AN. I. 4, 4.

497 A dual subject may take a plural verb :

Ἀδελφὸν δύο μόνον κοινὸν κατεργάσαντο our two brothers wrought their common death. S. AN. 57.

498 The agreement often follows the sense instead of form ; but sometimes it follows the form instead of sense :

a. Τὸ πλῆθος οἴονται the multitude suppose. T. I. 20.
(Agreement with a collective subject.)

b. Βασιλεὺς καὶ οἱ σὺν αὐτῷ εἰσπίπτει the king with his followers breaks in. AN. I. 10, 1. (The king is thought of as the central figure.)

c. Ἐπεμψέ με Ἀριαῖος καὶ Ἀρτάοζος Ariaios and Artaozoz sent me. AN. II. 4, 16. (Agreement with the nearer noun only.)

d. Τὸ μέσον τῶν τειχῶν ἦσαν στάδιοι τρεῖς the space between the walls was three stades. AN. I. 4, 4. (Agreement with a predicate noun.)

499 The Active and Passive voices have the same force as in English.

a. Some active verbs are used as passives of other verbs :

ἀποκτείνω kill,

ἀποθνήσκω (die) am killed,

ἐκβάλλω cast out, exile,

ἐκπίπτω (fall out), φεύγω (flee) am exiled, εὖ or κακῶς ποιῶ do good or ill to,

εὖ, κακῶς πάσχω am well or badly treated,

διατίθημι dispose, bring to a certain disposition, διάκειμαι am disposed, am in (this or that) disposition.

500 The Middle voice expresses an action of the subject

a. On himself, as direct object (Direct Middle) :

παύω make stop,	παύομαι stop myself, cease,
φαίνω show,	φαίνομαι show myself, appear, ἵστημι set up (cp. 363),	ἵσταμαι place myself,
πείθω persuade,	πείθομαι persuade myself, believe,
διδάσκω teach,	διδάσκομαι teach myself, learn,
ἄπτω fasten,	ἄπτομαί τινος fasten myself to something, touch,
ἔχω hold,	ἔχομαί τινος hold myself to, cling to, am next to.

b. For, to, with reference to himself (Indirect Middle) :

ἄρχω am first,	ἄρχομαι begin for myself, begin my task,
ποιῶ make,	ποιουῶμαί τινα φίλον make one my friend,
ἄγω lead,	ἄγομαι γυναῖκα take to myself a wife, marry,
βουλεύω plan,	βουλεύομαι plan for myself, deliberate,
συμβουλεύω advise,	συμβουλεύομαι seek advice,
αἰρέω take, seize,	αἰροῦμαι take for myself, choose,
φυλάττω watch, guard,	φυλάττομαι am on my guard.

c. From himself, from his own powers or means (Subjective Middle, sometimes very like the active) :

ποιῶ πόλεμον cause a war, ποιῶμαι πόλεμον carry on war, πολιτεύομαι act as a citizen, take part in government, ἀποφαίνομαι γνώμην show forth my opinion, ἐπαγγέλλομαί τι offer or promise something (announce from myself).

τοὺς ἀγράφους νόμους οὐχ οἱ ἄνθρωποι ἔθεντο ἀλλὰ θεοὶ τοῖς ἀνθρώποις ἔθεσαν the unwritten laws not men established of themselves, but gods for men. (See M. IV. 4, 19.)

d. The Indirect and the Subjective middle can not always be distinguished ; both are sometimes causative :

μεταπέμπομαί τινα send for, have one sent to me, διδάσκομαι τὸν παῖδα have the boy taught,

δικάζομαι get judgment rendered, bring suit, γράφομαί τινα get an indictment (γραφή) written against one, indict.

11 Deponent verbs are properly middle, in the indirect or subjective sense, and the active was not thought necessary.

The aorist passive was originally not passive, but merely intransitive, and in some verbs this intransitive sense continued in common use : ἐδόκει μοι ταύτῃ πειρᾶσθαι σωθῆναι it seemed to me best to try to attain safety in this way. L. 12, 15: So always ἐχάρην rejoiced, from χαίρω.

NOUNS: THE CASES

2 A noun (or pronoun) in the same case with another, and denoting the same person or thing, is an appositive if added directly, a predicate if added by means of a verb. Both appositive and predicate noun may be in any case, according to the construction of the primary noun :

Αὐδῶμαι δὲ παῖς Ἀχιλλέως, Νεοπτόλεμος. I am called the son of Achilles, Neoptolemos. S. P. 240 f. (Here Neoptolemos is an appositive to παῖς, which is a predicate noun, agreeing with the understood subject of αὐδῶμαι. For special idioms of predication in Greek see 545–548.)

For the cases with prepositions, alone or in composition, see 597–599.

The Nominative

503 The Nominative case of nouns (or pronouns) is used

(1) As the subject of a finite verb,

(2) In address, for the vocative :

Ζεὺς βασιλεύει Zeus is king. ὦ φίλος εἰπέ O friend, speak. A. PB. 562.

504 A Nominative may stand as appositive to a sentence :

Νηλεὺς ὧδ' ἐρρύθισμαι, Ζηνὶ δυσκλεὲς θεῶ thus pitilessly am I chastised, a sight of evil fame for Zeus. A. PB. 257.

The Genitive

505 The Genitive is a blend of two cases, once distinct. These are

(1) The Genitive proper (like the Latin genitive),

(2) The old Ablative, or From case.

In great part the two sets of uses are fairly distinct ; but some uses are puzzling, and must be learned mainly through reading.

(In Latin the genitive remained pure, and the ablative was blended with the instrumental and the locative. See 528.)

506 The Genitive proper may depend on a noun or pronoun directly (Adnominal Genitive). The relation intended is gathered only from the nature of the words and from the context; some combinations occur so often that they are named, but a host of others are too various and elusive to name:¹

a. Ἡ βασιλέως δύναμις the king's power (Possessive Genitive). ἡ ἔφοδος τοῦ στρατεύματος the approach of the army (Subjective Genitive). μηδεμιά σωτηρίᾱς ἐλπίς no hope of safety (Objective Genitive). τριῶν ἡμερῶν ὁδόν a three days' journey (Genitive of Measure). τῶν μυρίων ἐλπίδων μία one hope in ten thousand (Genitive of the Whole).

b. Πλῆθος ἀνθρώπων a multitude of men. σιγῇ φίλων with silence toward your friends. E. M. 587. ἐν μέσῳ ἡμῶν καὶ βασιλέως between us and the king. AN. II. 2, 3. θεῶν πόλεμος war from the gods. AN. II. 5, 7. ἡ τῶν κρεισσόνων δουλείᾱ servitude to the stronger. T. I. 8. ἄμαξαι πετρῶν wagon-loads of stones. AN. IV. 7, 10. γραφὴ ἀσεβείᾱς indictment for impiety. ἀδικημάτων ὀργή anger at wrongdoing. L. 12, 20. δι' αἰσχύνην καὶ ἀλλήλων καὶ

¹ Compare, from Shakspeare, night's predominance, ruin's entrance, in his kingdom's defense, in his country's wreck, an hour's delay, my heart's core, the Norway's king, a summer's cloud, heaven's breath, this night's business, each day's life, life's feast, my scepter's awe; from J. R. Lowell, Lethe's ooze, battle-odes whose lines, the letter's sheath, at life's dear peril.

Κύρου for shame both before one another and before Cyrus. AN. III. 1, 10.

507 The word on which the adnominal genitive depends

a. May be omitted :

Εἰς διδασκάλου to a teacher's (house), to school. ἐν ᾿Αἰδου in Hades' (abode, realm), in the other world. ἐν Διονύσου in (the precinct) of Dionysos. τῆς γῆς ἔτεμον they ravaged (some) of the land. T. I. 30. See also 510 a.

b. May be represented by the article only :

Εἰς τὴν ἐαυτῶν to their own land.

The genitive often stands with a neuter article :

Τὰ τῆς πόλεως the (affairs, interests) of the state. τὰ μὲν Κύρου οὕτως ἔχει πρὸς ἡμᾶς ὥσπερ τὰ ἡμέτερα πρὸς ἐκείνον Cyrus's relation to us is just like ours to him. AN. I. 3, 9. τὰ τῶν θεῶν the (ordering) of the gods. τὸ τῆς τύχης the (action) of fortune. τὸ τῶν πνευμάτων the matter of the winds, or simply the winds. τὰ τῆς ψυχῆς the soul.

c. May be a neuter pronoun or adjective, made a noun of degree or quantity :

Εἰς τοσοῦτον κακίᾱς ἦλθεν he came to such a pitch of baseness. L. 12, 67. εἰς τοῦτο ἀφίχθε μωρίᾱς ἢ παρανοίᾱς you have reached this hight of folly or of madness. D. 9, 54. ἐπὶ μέγα δυνάμεως to a great degree of power.

d. May be an adverb of place, degree, or condition :

Ποῦ γῆς; where on earth, ubi terrarum? ποῦ γνώμης ποτ' εἶ; where in thought are you? S. AN. 42. οἱ ἀσελγείᾱς to what pitch of profligacy. D. 4, 9. πρόσω τοῦ ποταμοῦ far into the river. AN. IV. 3, 28. πημονῆς ἅλις enough of woe. So with εὖ, κακῶς, ὧδε, ὥς, ἵνα. Cp. also 518 b.

e. May be, really or apparently, a superlative adjective or adverb (Genitive of the Whole) :

᾿Ω φίλτατ' ἀνδρῶν dearest of men. S. E. 23. μάλιστα τῶν Ἑλλήνων most among the Greeks. AN. I. 6, 5. ἀφειδέστατα πάντων most unsparingly of all. AN. I. 9, 13.

508 A Genitive may be part of the predicate, brought into dependence on a noun or pronoun by means of the verb (Predicate Genitive):

Ἦν οὗτος τῶν ἀμφὶ Μίλητον στρατευομένων this man was one of those in military service about Miletos. AN. I. 2, 3. τοιούτων ἐστὲ προγόνων of such ancestors are you. AN. III. 2, 13. ἦν ἐτῶν ὡς τριάκοντα he was about thirty years old. AN. II. 6, 20.
 οὐ τῶν νικούντων ἐστὶ τὰ ὄπλα παραδιδόναι giving up their arms is not the victors' part. AN. II. 1, 9.

a. In the above the verb connects the genitive with the subject; other verbs may connect a genitive with the object:

Νομίζει καὶ ὑμᾶς ἐαυτοῦ εἶναι he thinks you too are his (captives). AN. II. 1, 11. τῆς ἡμετέρας ἀμελείας ἂν τις θείῃ δικαίως one would justly put it down to our neglect. D. 1, 10. ποίᾳς πατρᾶς ἂν ἡ γένους ὑμᾶς ποτε τύχοιμ' ἂν εἰπών; pray, of what land or lineage should I rightly call you? S. P. 222.

509 The From Genitive (Ablatival) is used with verbs to denote

a. Separation, source, and the like; the verb often contains a preposition that would by itself take a from genitive, as ἀπό, ἐξ, παρά, πρό:

Ἐνταῦθα διέσχον ἀλλήλων there they drew apart from each other. AN. I. 10, 4. ἐψιλούτο ὁ λόφος τῶν ἱππέων the hill was left bare of the horsemen. AN. I. 10, 13. ἡ ὄψις ἡλέκτρον οὐδὲν διέφερε their appearance was not a whit different from amber.

AN. II. 3, 15. ἀπηλλαγμένοι τούτων τῶν πόνων having got rid of these labors. AN. IV. 3, 2. τεύξεσθε Κύρου you will obtain it from Cyrus. AN. I. 4, 15. δεῖται αὐτοῦ μὴ καταλῦσαι he asks of him not to come to terms. AN. I. 1, 10. ἡδομαι ἀκούων σοῦ φρονίμους λόγους I am delighted at hearing from you words of sense. AN. II. 5, 16. οὐδεὶς ἡμάρτανεν τοῦ ἀνδρός no one missed (went wide of) his man. AN. III. 4, 15. ἀμπλάκω τοῦ σοῦ μόρου; am I to fail of thy fate? S. AN. 554. ἄροτον γῆς ἀνἰέναι to send up fruitage from the earth. S. OT. 270. βάθρων ἴστασθε rise from the steps. S. OT. 142.

b. That to which something is superior or inferior, with verbs implying comparison (Genitive of Comparison; cp. 517):

Τὸ περιεῖναι τῶν φίλων the surpassing his friends. AN. I. 9, 24. περιγενέσθαι τῆς βασιλέως δυνάμεως to get the better of the king's force. AN. II. 1, 13. τούτου οὐχ ἡττησόμεθα we shall not be outdone by him. AN. II. 3, 23. τούτων ἐπλεονεκτεῖτε you had more than they. AN. III. 1, 37.

So with προέχω, προέστηκα, ὑπερέχω, λείπομαι, νικῶμαι, etc.

c. Cause, with some verbs of emotion (cp. also 511 c):

Τῆς ἐλευθερίᾳς ὑμᾶς εὐδαιμονίζω I congratulate you on your freedom. AN. I. 7, 3. μὴ αὐτὸν οἶε φροντίσαι θανάτου; do you suppose he was anxious about death? AP. 28 d.

So too in exclamations, without a verb, and with adjectives:

Οἷμοι ταλαίνης ah, unhappy! S. AN. 82. φεῦ τῆς ἀνοϊᾶς alas for thy folly! S. E. 920. θαυμάσια τοῦ κάλλους καὶ μεγέθους wonderful for beauty and size. AN. II. 3, 15.

d. The agent (source of the action), in poetry, with some passive participles and verbals :

Κείνης διδασκτά taught by her. S. E. 344. φωτὸς ἠπατημένη deceived by a husband. S. AI. 807.

510 The Genitive is used as object with many verbs not easy to classify :

a. Verbs of sharing :

Ἀγαθοῦ μὲν οὐδενὸς μετέσχευ ἄλλων δὲ πολλῶν he took part in no good thing, but in many of another sort. L. 12, 48. δόξης μετάδος impart your thought. E. IT. 1030.

So with κοινωνῶ, μετέχω, μεταλαμβάνω, and λαγχάνω when it means get by lot a share in.

Some examples may belong either here or under 507 a.

b. Some verbs meaning touch, take hold of, begin, try :

Ἀντιλάβεσθε τῶν πραγμάτων lay hold of the business. D. 1, 20. τοῦ λόγου ἤρχετο ὧδε he began his speech thus. AN. III. 2, 7. ἔλαβον τῆς ζώνης τὸν Ὀρόντην they took hold of Orontes by his girdle. AN. I. 6, 10. Θετταλίᾳς ἐπέβη he set foot on Thessaly. D. 1, 12. ἐχόμενοι τούτων γερροφόροι next to these (cp. 500 a), troops with wicker shields. AN. I. 8, 9. πειρώμενοι ταύτης τῆς τάξεως making trial of this order. AN. III. 2, 38.

So with ἄπτομαι, θιγγάνω, ψάύω, ἀντέχομαι.

c. Verbs meaning rule or lead (cp. 509 b) :

Τῶν Ἑλλήνων ἤρξαν ἐκόντων they ruled the Greeks with their consent. D. 3, 24. τοῦ δεξιοῦ κέρως ἠγεῖσθαι to lead the right wing. AN. I. 7, 1. (But ἠγοῦμαι also takes the dative: τοῖς ἄλλοις ἠγείτο he led the rest. AN. II. 2, 8.)

d. Verbs meaning aim, claim, reach, attain :

Μεγάλων ψυχῶν ἰεὶς οὐκ ἂν ἀμάρτοις aiming at great souls, you would not miss. S. AL. 154. ἐφιέμενος τῆς ἀρχῆς longing for the rule. T. I. 128. οὐκ ἀντιποιούμεθα βασιλεῖ τῆς ἀρχῆς we do not dispute with the king for the sovereignty. AN. II. 3, 23. ἐξικνεῖσθαι τῶν σφενδονητῶν to reach the slingers. AN. III. 3, 7. τιμῆς τυγχάνειν to obtain honor. AN. I. 9, 29.

So with στοχάζομαι, ὀρέγομαι, ψαύω.

e. Verbs meaning taste, smell, enjoy :

Βούλεται καὶ σὲ τούτων γεύσασθαι he wishes you also to taste these. AN. I. 9, 26. τί γὰρ ἄλλ' ἂν ἀπολαύσαιμι τοῦ μαθήματος; why, what other good of learning should I enjoy? AR. N. 1231.

So with ὀσφραίνομαι, ὀνίνημι, τέρπομαι, εὐωχοῦμαι.

511 The Genitive is used as object with many verbs that denote an action of the senses or of the mind ; several of these admit the accusative.

a. Ἀκούω hear, αἰσθάνομαι perceive, and a few others of like meaning :

Θορύβου ἤκουσε he heard a noise. AN. I. 8, 16. But note ἤκουσε Τισσαφέρνους τὸν Κύρου στόλον he heard of Cyrus's equipment from T. AN. I. 2, 5. αἰσθάνομαι likewise takes the gen. or acc. ἀλλήλων ξυνίεσαν they understood one another. T. I. 3, 20. τὸ τῶν τοιούτων ἐθέλειν ἀκροᾶσθαι the willingness to listen to such men. D. 9, 55.

b. Verbs meaning remember, forget :

Μιμνήσκεις κακῶν thou remindest me of sorrows. E. AL. 1045. ἄλλου λόγου μέμνησθε remember some other word. A. PB. 522. μὴ ἐπιλαθώμεθα τῆς οὐκαδε ὁδοῦ let us not forget the way home. AN. III. 2, 25.

These verbs may also take the accusative ; a neuter pronoun as object is always accusative: τὸν Εὐφραῖον μεμνημένοι remembering Euphraios. D. 9, 61.

c. Verbs meaning care for, neglect, spare, desire:

Φρονήσεως καὶ ἀληθείας καὶ τῆς ψυχῆς οὐκ ἐπιμελεῖ οὐδὲ φροντίζεις for intelligence and truth and the soul you take no care or thought. AP. 29 c. ἐμοὶ δ' ἔλασσον Ζηνὸς ἢ μηδὲν μέλει but I care less than naught for Zeus. A. PB. 970. χρημάτων ἐπιθυμεῖ he is eager for wealth. AN. III. 2, 39.

Similarly with μεταμέλει μοι poenitet me, ἐντρέπομαι regard, ἀμελῶ neglect, ὀλιγωρῶ think lightly of, φείδομαι spare, ἀφειδῶ am unsparing, ἐρῶ love, πεινῶ hunger for.

512 The Genitive is used with verbs and adjectives of plenty and want:

Διφθέρās ἐπίμπλασαν χόρτου κούφου they would fill skins with hay. AN. I. 5, 10. τῶν ἐπιτηδείων οὐκ ἀπορήσομεν we shall not lack provisions. AN. II. 2, 11. πλήρεις ὕδατος full of water. AN. II. 3, 13. χρημάτων εὐπόρει he had plenty of money. D. 18, 235. μάχης δεῖ there is need of a fight. AN. II. 3, 5.

513 The Genitive may denote price or value:

Πόσου διδάσκει; for how much does he teach? AP. 20 b. τῶν πόνων πωλοῦσιν ἡμῖν πάντα τὰ γάθ' οἱ θεοί for toil alone the gods sell all good things. EPICH. μικρὰ μέτρα πολλοῦ ἀρυρίου small measures for a large sum. AN. III. 2, 21.

514 The Genitive with verbs of accusing, convicting, acquitting denotes the charge.

Thus κλοπῆς αἰτιῶμαι accuse (φεύγω am accused) of theft, ἀσεβείας διώκω prosecute (γράφομαι indict, εἰσάγω bring to trial, ἀποπέφυγα am acquitted) for impiety.

a. But with κατηγορῶ accuse, καταγιγνώσκω adjudge against, καταψηφίζομαι vote against, and some others, the genitive of the person is governed by the κατά.

Τιμῶ estimate a penalty takes the genitive of value; the active is used of the court, the middle (in a causative sense, get it estimated) of the accuser or accused.

Ἀλλὰ δὴ φυγῆς τιμήσωμαι; ἴσως γὰρ ἂν μοι τούτου τιμήσαιτε but shall I then put (the penalty) at exile? For perhaps you (the jury) would put it at that amount. AP. 37 c.

515 The Genitive may denote the time or space within which something occurs, or to which it belongs :

Οὐ μαχεῖται δέκα ἡμερῶν he will not fight within ten days. AN. I. 7, 18. ἀεὶ τοῦ καθήκοντος χρόνου γίνεσθαι occur always within the appropriate time. D. 4, 35. ἑπτακαίδεκα σταθμῶν τῶν ἐγγυτάτῳ ἐκ τῆς χώρᾱς οὐδὲν εἶχομεν λαμβάνειν within the sixteen nearest stages we could get nothing from the country. AN. II. 2, 11.

In prose only a few words of time, and still fewer of place, are freely so used, especially χρόνου, ἡμέρᾱς by day, νυκτός by night, ἑσπέρᾱς in the evening, χειμῶνος in winter, θέρος in summer.

Here also belong some adverbs and adverbial phrases of place in the genitive, as αὐτοῦ on the spot, ποῦ where? οὐ where (rel.) : οὐκ ἔφασαν ἰέναι τοῦ πρόσω they refused to go forward. AN. I. 3, 1.

516 The Genitive is used with many adjectives.

a. Adjectives of like meaning with the above verbs (509-514) ;

Such are ἕτερος different, ὀρφανός bereft, ἐλεύθερος free, and in poetry various compounds of ἀ(ν)- negative, taking a from genitive ;

Also ἐπήκοος listening, ὑπήκοος obedient, μνήμων mindful, ἐπιμελής careful, ἀφειδής unsparing, αἴτιος causing, ἐγκρατής having control, ἄξιος worthy, ἀνάξιος unworthy (therefore ἀξιῶ think worthy).

b. Adjectives of various meanings, best learned from reading :

Ἐπιστήμων τῶν ἀμφὶ τάξεις skilled in tactics. AN. II. 1, 7. ἱερὸς τῆς Ἀρτέμιδος sacred to Artemis. AN. V. 3, 13. ἄπειροι αὐτῶν without experience of them. AN. III. 2, 16.

517 With comparative adjectives and adverbs the From Genitive denotes the starting-point of comparison (Genitive of Comparison ; see 509) :

Πέρσας ἑαυτοῦ βελτίους Persians superior to himself. AN. II. 2, 1. οὐ πλέον εἴκοσι σταδίων not more than twenty stades. AN. III. 2, 34. οὕτως σοφώτερος ἐμοῦ this man here is wiser than I. AP. 21 c.

So with any adjectives that imply comparison :

Τῇ ὑστεραίᾳ τῆς μάχης on the day after the battle. πολλὰ πλάσιους ὑμῶν αὐτῶν ἐνίκāτε you defeated many times your own number. AN. III. 2, 14.

518 The Genitive is used with

a. Adverbs derived from adjectives or verbs that take a genitive :

Ἀξίως τῆς πόλεως in a manner worthy of the state.

b. Adverbs of place, time, separation, state :

Πόρρω τοῦ βίου θανάτου δὲ ἐγγύς far on in life and near death. AP. 38 c. ἔξω τοῦ δεινοῦ out of danger. AN. II. 6, 12. ὁψὲ τῆς ἡμέρᾱς late in the day. χωρὶς τῶν ἄλλων apart from the rest.

 λάθρᾳ τῶν στρατιωτῶν without the knowledge of the soldiers.
 AN. I. 3, 8.

So with ἔσω, ἐντός, ἐκτός, μεταξύ, πλησίον, πρόσθεν, ἔμπροσθεν, ὀπίσθεν, ἀμφοτέρωθεν, ἔνθεν, πέρα(ν), πῶς, εὖ, and others. Cp. also 507 d.

c. Ἄνευ, πλήν, ἄχρι, μέχρι, ἔνεκα—adverbs that have become virtually prepositions (cp. 599).

For the Genitive Absolute see 589, 590.

The Dative

519 Three cases, once distinct, are blended in the Greek Dative. These are

- (1) The true Dative, the To or For case,
- (2) The Instrumental (or Sociative), the With or By case,
- (3) The Locative, the At or In case.

The English prepositions to and for, with and by, at and in, cover fairly the three sets of uses; but there are many differences of idiom.

The dative is used mostly with verbs and adjectives, but also with nouns, adverbs, and prepositions.

520 The To Dative is used with verbs to denote the indirect object :

Ταῦτα ἀπαγγελῶ βασιλεῖ this I will report to the king. AN. II. 3, 24. ταῦτα τοῖς φίλοις διεδίδου these he used to distribute to his friends. AN. I. 9, 22. ἀλλὰ φιλοσόφῳ ἔοικας why, you seem like a philosopher. AN. II. 1, 13.

a. Many Greek verbs take the dative though the corresponding English verb takes a direct object, or requires some other preposition than to :

Ἐπίστευον αὐτῷ they trusted him. AN. I. 2, 2. πείσομαι μᾶλλον τῷ θεῷ ἢ ὑμῖν I shall obey the god rather than you. AP. 29 d. Κύρῳ πειθαρχεῖν to be obedient to Cyrus. AN. I. 9, 17. ἐμοὶ ὀργίζονται they get angry at me. AP. 23 c. τῷ θεῷ βοηθῶν aiding the god. AP. 23 b. τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις παρήγει he used to advise the Athenians. T. I. 93. ἔπεσθε τῷ ἡγουμένῳ follow your leader. AN. II. 2, 4.

So with ἐπιτιμῶ, μέμφομαι, ἐγκαλῶ blame, φθονῶ envy, ὀνειδίζω reproach, τιμωρῶ avenge one, ὑπισχνοῦμαι promise, and many others. Some verbs (as μέμφομαι, ὀνειδίζω, ἐπιτιμῶ) take sometimes the accusative and sometimes the dative.

b. Here belong some semi-impersonal verbs, the subject of which is not an acting person, but a thing or an act :

Ἐμοὶ μελήσει it shall be my care. AN. I. 4, 16. μεταμελήσει αὐτῷ he will repent (it will repent him). L. 16, 2. ἐδόκει ἤδη πορεύεσθαι αὐτῷ ἄνω it now seemed best to him to march up (from the coast). AN. I. 2, 1. τῇ ἡλικίᾳ ἔπρεπε it was suitable to his age. AN. I. 9, 6.

So also ἔξεστι it is possible, δεῖ μοί τινος I need something, μέτεστί μοί τινος I have a share in something, etc.

521 The To Dative may denote the person to whom (rarely the place to which) with verbs of motion :

Τοῦτόν σοι ἔπεμψε this (wine) he sent to you. AN. I. 9, 25. Σαμίοις ἦλθε he went to the Samians. T. I. 13. Ἴλῳ Πάρις ἡγάγετ' Ἑλένᾱν Paris brought Helen to Ilion. E. AND. 103. πόνος πόνῳ πόνον φέρει toil to toil brings toil. S. AI. 866.

Much oftener these verbs take πρὸς with the accusative in this sense.

- 522 The To Dative is used also with some adjectives, adverbs, and nouns, more or less like the above verbs in meaning :

Τοῖς πολεμίοις ἐναντίους opposed to the enemy. AN. III. 2, 10. τὰ κρέα ἦν παραπλήσια τοῖς ἐλαφείοις the meat was like venison. AN. I. 5, 2. θάνατον πᾶσι κοινὸν εἶναι καὶ ἀναγκαῖον ἀνθρώποις that death is common to all and inevitable for man. AN. III. 1, 43. ἀλλά μοι δῆλόν ἐστι τοῦτο but this is clear to me. AP. 41 d. ἡ ἐμὴ τῷ θεῷ ὑπηρεσίᾳ my service to the god. AP. 30 a. σφίσιν αὐτοῖς μόνον ἐπιτηδείως advantageously to themselves only. T. I. 19, 3. πυρὸς βροτοῖς δοτῆρ' ὁρᾷς thou seest the giver of fire to mortals. A. PB. 639.

So with εὔνους friendly, ἐχθρός unfriendly, πολέμιος hostile, φανερός plain, ἄδηλος uncertain, ἀπρεπής unbecoming, and many others.

- 523 The For Dative is used (with verbs, adjectives, adverbs, and nouns) to denote the person or thing interested or affected :

Τὰ ἄκρα ἡμῖν προκαταλαμβάνειν to seize the heights beforehand for us. AN. I. 3, 16. ταῦτα καὶ νεωτέρῳ καὶ πρεσβυτέρῳ ποιήσω this I shall do for both younger and older. AP. 30 a. φεύγειν αὐτοῖς ἀσφαλέστερον ἢ ἡμῖν fleeing is safer for them than for us. AN. III. 2, 19. χαλεπὸν ἦν ἐμοί it was difficult for me. T. I. 22. τὸ γὰρ ἔρυμα τῷ στρατοπέδῳ οὐκ ἂν ἐτειχίσαντο else they would not have built the wall for their camp. T. I. 11. τοῖς ἀσθενέσι τροφῆς ἔνεκα for the sake of support for the weak. T. I. 5. οὐ σύ μοι τῶνδ' αἰτίᾱ; are not you the cause of this for me? S. E. 295. μέγιστον κόσμον ἀνδρί the greatest ornament for a man. AN. I. 9, 23. σιτηρέσιον μόνον τῇ δυνάμει ration-money alone for the force. D. 4, 28.

a. Greek often expresses a for relation where English puts the matter in some other way :

Ἀνάβηθί μοι καὶ ματύρησον come up, please (for me), and testify. L. 16, 8. σπονδαὶ μὲν μένουσι, ἀπιοῦσι δὲ ἢ προῖοῦσι πόλεμος a truce if we stay here, but war if we withdraw or advance (for us remaining, for us withdrawing, etc.). AN. II. 1, 23. σφῶν μὲν ἐντολὴ Διὸς ἔχει τέλος for you (so far as you are concerned) the command of Zeus hath consummation. A. PB. 12. συνελόντι δ' ἀπλῶς to put it simply (for one putting it simply). D. 4, 7. τιμῆς ἄξιος τῇ πόλει worthy of honor from (with reference to) the state. M. I. 2, 62. οὕτως ἀταλαίπωρος τοῖς πολλοῖς ἢ ζήτησις τῆς ἀληθείας so lightly do the multitude take (so unlaborious for the multitude is) the search for truth. T. I. 20. οὗτοι τι σοὶ ζῶ δοῦλος ἀλλὰ Λοξία in no degree as servant to you do I live, but to Loxias. S. OT. 410.

524 The For Dative also denotes

a. The Possessor, with εἶμι, γίγνομαι, and the like :

Ἐνταῦθα Κῦρῳ βασιλεία ἦν there Cyrus had a palace. AN. I. 2, 7. ἐγένετο αὐτοῖς ἡ ἰδίᾱ παρασκευὴ μείζων their individual preparation became greater (the preparation became greater for them).

T. I. 19. ὄνομα αὐτῇ Κορσώτη its (the city's) name was Korsote. AN. I. 5, 4. ἀνάγκη ἐστί μοι it is necessary for me.

b. The Agent, regularly with the verbal in -τέος (596), often with the perfect and pluperfect passive :

Ἐμοὶ τοῦτο οὐ ποιητέον this must not be done by me. AN. I. 3, 15. πάνθ' ἡμῖν πεποιήται it is all done by us. AN. I. 8, 12. τὰ τούτοις ἐψηφισμένα the measures voted by these men. L. 12, 30.

c. The possessor or the agent in these constructions is really the person interested or affected, so that in essence these cases fall under 523 ; but usually for can not be used in translating.

525 The With Dative (Sociative) is used, of person or thing, with words implying association of any kind whatever :

Ἐπολέμει τοῖς Θραῶξι he carried on war with the Thracians. AN. I. 1, 9. σοφοῖς ὁμιλῶν καὶ αὐτὸς ἐκβήσῃ σοφός by being with wise men you will yourself become wise. MEN. οὐκ ἀντιποιούμεθα βασιλεὶ τῆς ἀρχῆς we do not dispute with the king for the sovereignty. AN. II. 3, 23. οἶνω κερᾶσᾶς αὐτήν mixing it (the spring) with wine. AN. I. 2, 13. ἄμα τῇ ἡμέρᾳ at daylight (with the day). AN. II. 1, 2. ἐκ διαδοχῆς ἀλλήλοις in relays with each other. D. 4, 21.

a. Note some typical idioms :

Τέτταρας ναῦς ἔλαβον αὐτοῖς ἀνδράσι they took four ships with the crews (with the men themselves). H. I. 2, 12. μὴ ἡμᾶς αὐταῖς ταῖς τριήρεσι καταδύσῃ lest he sink us triremes and all (with the triremes themselves). AN. I. 3, 17. ὀλίγῳ στρατεύματι οὐ τολμήσει ἐφέπεσθαι with a small army he will not dare to follow. AN. II. 2, 12. Λακεδαιμόνιοι ἦλθον πρεσβείᾳ the Spartans came with an embassy. T. I. 90. ἐν ταύτῳ γε ἦσθα τοῦτοις you were at least in the same place with these men. AN. III. 1, 27.

526 The By or With Dative (Instrumental) denotes

a. Cause or means :

Σχεδίαις διαβαίνοντες crossing with rafts. AN. I. 5, 10. ἀκοῇ ἴσμεν we know by hearing. T. I. 4. ἰσχὺν περιποιήσαντο χρημάτων τε προσόδῳ καὶ ἄλλων ἀρχῇ they gained superior strength both by access of wealth and by rule over others. T. I. 15. τοῦτοις ἦσθη Κῦρος with these Cyrus was pleased. AN. I. 9, 26. φιλίᾳ μὲν καὶ εὐνοίᾳ ἐπομένους οὐδέποτε εἶχεν he never had men who followed him by reason of affection and good-will. AN. II. 6, 13. χαλεπῶς φέρω τοῖς παροῦσι πράγμασι I am troubled at the present situation. AN. I. 3, 3.

b. Manner :

Κραυγῇ πολλῇ ἐπιάσιν they will come on with much shouting. AN. I. 7, 4. πολλὰ τῆς Ἑλλάδος τῷ παλαιῷ τρόπῳ νέμεται much of Greece is occupied in the ancient manner. T. I. 5. πάντες μιᾷ ὁρμῇ προσεκύνησαν τὸν θεόν all with one impulse worshiped the god. AN. III. 2, 9.

Here belong τῇ ἀληθείᾳ in truth, λόγῳ in word, ἔργῳ in deed, σπουδῇ earnestly, σιγῇ silently; also some common adverbs, as κοινῇ in common, ἰδίᾳ privately, δημοσίᾳ publicly, ταύτῃ this way.

c. The Measure of Difference, with a comparative, superlative, or any word implying comparison :

Ὀλίγῳ πλείῳ a little more. οὐ πολλοῖς ἔτεσιν ὕστερον not many years later. T. I. 18. κάκιστα δὲ μακρῷ κάτειμι most wretchedly by far do I go down. S. AN. 895. τέχνη δ' ἀνάγκης ἀσθενεστέρα μακρῷ Art is far weaker than Necessity. A. PB. 530.

527 The At or In Dative (Locative) denotes

a. The Place where (in nouns of place), mostly poetic :

Δόμοις δέχεσθαι to receive in their dwellings. S. OT. 818. ἔτι μέγας οὐρανῷ Ζεὺς Zeus is still great in heaven. S. E. 174. περιερρέιτο ὑπὸ τοῦ Μάσκᾱ κύκλῳ it was flowed around in a circle (was completely surrounded) by the Maskas. AN. I. 5, 4.

In prose a few proper names are so used (cp. 228), especially names of demes : Μαραθῶνι at Marathon, Μελίτῃ in Melite. But generally a preposition precedes : ἐν τῇ οἰκίᾳ in the house.

Also figuratively, of State or Condition :

Οὐχ ὕπνῳ γ' εὕδοντα not slumbering in sleep. S. OT. 65. φροντίδος πλάνοις in the wanderings of anxious thought. S. OT. 67. ταῖς ψυχαῖς ἐρρωμενέστεροι stronger in their souls. AN. III. 1, 42.

Examples like the last shade naturally into the following.

b. The Particular, or the special sense, in which something is meant (Specifying Dative; sometimes possibly instrumental, but we more often use in) :

Βοιωτιάζων τῇ φωνῇ like a Boiotian in pronunciation. AN. III. 1, 26. οἱ δοκοῦντες διαφέρειν εἴτε σοφίᾱ εἴτ' ἀνδρείᾱ εἴτ' ἄλλῃ ἡντινιοῦν ἀρετῇ those who are thought superior whether in wisdom or in bravery or in any other virtue whatever. AP. 35 a.

c. The Time when, in nouns of time with a specifying word, and in names of festivals :

Τῇ ὑστεραίᾱ on the next day. μιᾷ νυκτί in one night. δεκάτῳ ἔτει they came to terms in the tenth year. T. I. 103. Παναθηναίοις at the Panathenaia.

528 The following table shows the relations between the Greek and Latin cases and the older case-system. The nominative, accusative, and vocative remained distinct in both languages.

GREEK	OLD CASES	LATIN
Genitive	{ Genitive	Genitive
	{ Ablative (from)
	{ Instrumental (with, by)	Ablative
Dative	{ Locative (at, in)
	{ Dative (to, for)	Dative

The Accusative

529 The Accusative is used mostly with verbs, but also with some adjectives and nouns and with certain prepositions.

THE OUTER OBJECT

530 The Accusative is used as the Direct (Outer) object of a transitive verb :

Γινώθι σεαυτόν know thyself.

a. Many Greek verbs are transitive whose English equivalents require a preposition :

Ἄρκτον ποτὲ ἐπιφερομένην οὐκ ἔτρεσεν a bear that once attacked him he did not shrink from. AN. I.

9, 6. οὐδὲ Δία ξένιον ἡδέσθη he felt no shame even before Zeus, protector of the stranger. AN. III. 2, 4.
 σιγᾶν τύχᾱς to keep silent about my fortune. A.
 PB. 106.

So, among many others, αἰσχύνομαι feel shame before, ὅμνυμι swear by, λανθάνω escape the notice of (Lat. lateo), εἶ or κακῶς ποιῶ do good or harm to, φυλάττομαι guard against, ἀμύνομαι defend myself against, πλέω τὴν θάλατταν sail over the sea, φθάνω get the start of.

b. Some intransitive verbs become transitive when compounded with certain prepositions, as διαβαίνω cross, ἀποδιδράσκω run away from.

c. Many verbs vary, and are used now as transitive, now as intransitive. Thus ἀκούω hear and αἰσθάνομαι perceive take the accusative and genitive; μέμφομαι blame takes the accusative or the dative. Especially in poetry some verbs take the accusative that do not in prose.

531 A few verbal adjectives and nouns admit a direct object (as participles and infinitives of transitive verbs do regularly) :

Ἐπιστήμονες τὰ καθήκοντα knowing their duty. C. III. 3, 9.
 σὲ φύξιμος able to escape thee. S. AN. 787. τὰ μετέωρα φροντιστής one who studies things on high. AP. 18 b.

a. A phrase may be equivalent to a transitive verb, and so take an accusative :

Τεθνάσι τῷ δέει τοὺς τοιούτους ἀποστόλους they die of fear of (are frightened to death at) such expeditions. D. 4, 45.

532 The Accusative is used after the particles of swearing, νή and μά, as with ὅμνυμι (530 a). νή affirms; μά denies, unless ναί yes precedes :

Νὴ Δία or ναὶ μὰ Δία yes, by Zeus; μὰ Δία or οὐ μὰ Δία no, by Zeus.

533 In poetry the accusative may denote the limit of motion :

Ἦξις Ὑβριστὴν ποταμὸν οὐ ψευδώνυμον thou wilt come to the Brawling stream, not falsely named. A. PB. 715. σὲ τόδ' ἐλήλυθε πᾶν κράτος to thee all this power has come. S. P. 141. τίς ποτε ἀγλαᾶς ἔβας Θήβας what art thou that hast come to glorious Thebes? S. OT. 153.

534 Two Accusatives denoting the same person or thing, the direct (outer) object and a predicate accusative, may stand with some verbs :

Κῦρον σατράπην ἐποίησε καὶ στρατηγὸν δὲ αὐτὸν ἀπέδειξε he made Cyrus satrap, and appointed him general also. AN. I. 1, 2. τοὺς ἰχθῦς οἱ Σύροι θεοὺς ἐνόμιζον the Syrians regarded the fishes as gods. AN. I. 4, 9.

a. These predicate accusatives shade off gradually into simple appositives ; some cases may be taken in either way :

Ἔδωκα δωρεὰν τὰ λύτρα I gave the ransom as a gift. D. 19, 170.

b. In the passive the direct object is made subject ; the other accusative remains a predicate noun, agreeing with the subject :

Κῦρος κατεπέμφθη σατράπης, στρατηγὸς δὲ ἀπεδείχθη Cyrus was sent down as satrap, and was appointed general. AN. I. 9, 7.

535 Two Accusatives, one of the person and one of the thing (double outer object), are found with some verbs, especially those meaning ask, demand, teach, remind, hide, deprive :

Κῦρον αἰτεῖν πλοῖα to ask Cyrus for boats. AN. I. 3, 14. ἀναμνήσω ὑμᾶς καὶ τοὺς τῶν προγόνων κινδύνους I will also remind you of the dangers of your forefathers. AN. III. 2, 11. τὰ ἡμέτερ' ἡμᾶς ἀποστερεῖ he is depriving us of our property. D. 4, 50.

THE INNER OBJECT

536 An Accusative of the Inner object (Cognate Accusative) is found with many verbs. It repeats the meaning of the verb in the form of a noun or pronoun.

a. A noun, with a modifying word or clause (rarely omitted) :

Στρατηγεῖν ταύτην τὴν στρατηγίᾱν to act as general in this campaign. AN. I. 3, 15. ἄλλην μὲν ἀρχὴν οὐδεμίαν πώποτε ἤρξα I never held any other magistracy. AP. 32 b. κινδυνεύω τὸν ἔσχατον κίνδυνον I am in the utmost danger. AP. 34 c. ξυνέφυγε τὴν φυγὴν ταύτην he shared the late exile. AP. 21 a. So δικάζειν δίκην τινά decide a suit, φεύγειν δίκην τινά be defendant in a suit, γράφεσθαι γραφὴν τινα bring an indictment, θύειν τὰ Λύκαια celebrate by sacrifice the Lykaia, etc.

b. An adjective or pronoun in the neuter :

Ἐπαθὸν τι τοιοῦτον I had some such experience as this. AP. 22 a. Μελήτω τούτων οὔτε μέγα οὔτε μικρὸν πώποτε ἐμέλησεν Meletos never cared either much or little about these matters. AP. 26 b. So τί χρήσεται τούτῳ; what use will he make of this? μέγα φρονεῖν be proud (think large), πάντα πείθεσθαι render all obedience, etc.

c. Some verbs take both a direct object and a cognate accusative :

Ἡ μᾶς τὰ αἰσχίστα αἰκισάμενος by inflicting on us the most shameful outrages. AN. III. 1, 18. ἕκαστον εὐεργετῆν τὴν μεγίστην εὐεργεσίαν to confer on each the greatest benefaction. AP. 36 c. ἕτεροι δὲ πολλὰ καὶ ἀγαθὰ ὑμᾶς εἰσιν εἰργασμένοι and others have done many good things to you. L. 16, 19.

The inner object may stand also with the passive :

Τί ἀδικηθεὶς ὑπ' ἐμοῦ νῦν ἐπιβουλεύεις μοι; what wrong did you receive from me, that you are now scheming against me? AN. I. 6, 8.

d. A few adjectives also take a cognate accusative :

Σοφὸς τὴν ἐκείνων σοφίαν, ἀμαθὴς τὴν ἀμαθίαν wise in their wisdom, ignorant with their ignorance. AP. 22 e.

FREER ACCUSATIVES

537 The Accusative may specify to what particular or detail a statement is meant to apply (Specifying Accusative) :

Ποταμὸς Κύδνος ὄνομα, εὖρος δύο πλέθρων a river, Kydnos by name, of two plethra in width. AN. I. 2, 23. ἔρωτι θῦμὸν ἐκπλαγέισ' Ἰάσονος smitten in heart with love for Iason. E. M. 8. ἀποτμηθέντες τὰς κεφαλὰς beheaded (having their heads cut off). AN. II. 6, 1. βέλτιόν ἐστι σῶμά γ' ἢ ψυχὴν νοσεῖν 'tis better to be ill in body than in soul. MEN.

With many words the dative may be used in the same sense (527 b).

538 The Accusative of a noun of time or space may denote extent :

Ἔμεινε τρεῖς ἡμέρας he remained three days. ἔτη γεγονὼς ἑβδομήκοντα seventy years old. AP. 17 d.

πολὺν χρόνον ἠπόρουν I was in doubt a long time.

AP. 21 b.

Ἐξελαύνει σταθμὸν ἓνα παρασάγγας ὀκτώ he marches one day's journey, eight parasangs. ἀπείχον τῆς Ἑλλάδος οὐ μεῖον ἢ μύρια στάδια they were not less than ten thousand stades distant from Greece.

AN. III. 1, 2.

- 539 The Accusative may stand in apposition to a clause or sentence :

Ἐπλη θυτῆρ γενέσθαι θυγατρός, πολέμων ἀρωγὰν he endured to sacrifice his daughter, as an aid to war. A. AG. 236. τῶνδ' ἔλεγχον τοῦτο μὲν Πυθῶδ' ἰὼν πύθου τὰ χρησθέντα as a test of this, first go to Pytho and inquire about the response. S. OT. 603.

Here belong expressions like προῖκα as a gift, freely, χάριν τινός as a favor to (for the sake of) some one, τεκμήριον as evidence, τὸ μέγιστον as the chief point, τὸ λεγόμενον as the saying is. When placed before the clause, such expressions may pass over into the use mentioned in 491 d.

- 540 The Accusative in many expressions has become in effect an adverb. Such Adverbial Accusatives are special forms of the uses described in 536–539, we can not always say which. The following are rather frequent :

Τόνδε τὸν τρόπον in this manner, τὴν ταχίστην (ὁδόν) by the quickest road, most speedily, οὐκ ἀρχὴν not at all, δίκην like, in the manner of, πρῶτον at first, τὸ πρῶτον first, τὸ λοιπὸν hereafter, τί why? τι some-what, τοῦτο or ταῦτα for this reason.

- 541 For the accusative absolute see 591. For the subject of the infinitive see 570 d.

ADJECTIVES

542 An Adjective takes the gender, number, and case of its noun. This applies to all adjectival words that are declined—the article, participles, and adjective pronouns—whether attributive or predicate.

543 The noun with which an adjectival word agrees is often not expressed :

Ἡ δεξιὰ the right hand (χείρ), τὴν ταχίστην the quickest way (ὁδόν), μακρὰν a long way (ὁδόν), οἱ πολλοί the many.

a. Note the two cases that may arise when the subject of an infinitive is omitted :

(1) Βούλεται σοφὸς γενέσθαι he wishes to become wise. Here the unexpressed subject of the inf. is the same as that of βούλεται, the principal verb ; hence the predicate adjective σοφός agrees with the subject of the latter, in the nominative.

(2) Κακούργου ἐστὶ κριθέντ' ἀποθανεῖν, στρατηγοῦ δὲ μαχόμενον τοῖς πολεμίοις it is like a criminal to die by sentence of court, but like a general to die fighting with the enemy. D. 4, 47. Here κριθέντα and μαχόμενον agree with the understood subject of ἀποθανεῖν, which subject is omitted because indefinite and general.

544 By omission of the noun many adjectives become nouns ; any adjective or participle may be so used, most often with the article (cp. 552, 555 b, 582 a), but also without an article :

Διδακτόν ἐστιν ἡ ἀρετή virtue is a thing that may be taught. PR. 320 b. (Here διδακτόν, instead of agreeing in gender with ἀρετή, is a predicate noun.) ῥητορικὴ rhetoric, the art (τέχνη) of speaking.

SPECIAL IDIOMS OF PREDICATION

545 The commonest form of predication is a simple verb; the copula εἰμι or the like with a predicate adjective or noun is also familiar, and is like English and Latin usage; the predicate noun agreeing with the object is described in 534. But Greek employs the predicate noun and adjective (and participle) more freely than English or Latin does, and in some peculiar idioms.¹

546 A Predicate noun or adjective (or pronoun) agreeing with the subject often requires in translation a different construction :

Ἐγὼ σὲ ἄσμενος ἐώρᾱκα I am glad to have seen you. AN. II. 1, 16. Ἐπύαξα προτέρᾳ Κύρου εἰς Ταρσοὺς ἀφίκετο Epyaxa arrived in Tarsoi before Cyrus. AN. I. 2, 25. ὁρθριος ἦκεις you have come before sunrise. PR. 313 b. συμπλέων ἐθελοντήs sailing with them as a volunteer. D. 4, 29. ἐγὼ μὲν γείτων οἰκῶ τῇ Ἑλλάδι I live as neighbor to Greece. AN. II. 3, 18.

¹ English uses many predicate adjectives and nouns in a manner like those in 546, 547; but the words so used are mostly different in meaning from those so used in Greek, and they are much fewer and less common:

Benighted walks under the midday sun.—MILTON, Comus.

To glide a sunbeam by the blasted pine,

To sit a star upon the sparkling spire.—TENNYSON, Princess.

Noon lay heavy on flower and tree.—SHELLEY, To Night.

Kneel undisturbed, fair saint.—THACKERAY.

—May find

Thee sitting careless on a granary floor.—KEATS, Ode to Autumn.

And learns her gone and far from home.—TENNYSON, In Mem., viii.

So in many common prose expressions: go barefoot, run dry, lie quiet, live secure, come home hungry, also build a wall high, strike one dumb, walk oneself lame, drink the stream dry, etc.

ἔλεγε πρῶτος Τισσαφέρνης Tissaphernes spoke first.
 AN. II. 3, 17. τίς ποτε ἀγλαᾶς ἔβας Θήβας; what art thou that hast come to glorious Thebes? S. OT. 153.

- 547 A Predicate adjective or noun agreeing with the object—accusative, genitive, or dative—often requires a different construction in translation :

Μετρώρους ἐξέκόμισαν τὰς ἀμάξας they lifted the wagons up and brought them out. AN. I. 5, 8. ἦ βαρυδαίμονα μήτηρ μ' ἔτεκεν surely ill-fated was I at my birth (my mother bore me as one of evil fate). E. AL. 865. τίνας ποθ' ἔδρας τάσδε μοι θοάζετε; what is this session that ye hold? (i. e., why sit ye thus?). S. OT. 2. τὸν στρατὸν ἐλάσσω ἥγαγον the army (which) they led (was) smaller. T. I. 11.

Ἑγούμενοι αὐτονομῶν τῶν συμμάχων leading their allies, but leaving them self-governing. T. I. 97.

Χειμαδίῳ χρῆσθαι Λήμνῳ to use Lemnos as winter quarters. D. 4, 32.

- 548 The predication is sometimes implied, or merely indicated by the order, where it must in English be expressed (cp. 552 d) :

Διὰ τὸ χειροπλήθεσι τοῖς λίθοις σφενδονᾶν because the stones used in their slings were big enough to fill the hand. AN. III. 3, 17. ἀνειμένη τῇ διαίτῃ by their mode of life being more relaxed, i. e., because their mode of life was more relaxed. T. I. 6. διὰ τὴν ληστεῖαν ἐπὶ πολὺ ἀντισχοῦσαν because piracy had prevailed widely. T. I. 7.

THE ARTICLE

549 The Article ὁ, ἡ, τό, originally a demonstrative pronoun, retains that meaning in a few phrases in Attic prose.

a. With μέν and δέ, in ὁ μέν . . . ὁ δέ the one . . . the other, in all the cases; also in τὸ μέν . . . τὸ δέ and τὰ μέν . . . τὰ δέ used adverbially (540):

Οἱ μὲν ἐτόξευον, οἱ δ' ἐσφενδόων some used their bows and others their slings. AN. III. 3, 7. τὰ μὲν τι μαχόμενοι τὰ δὲ ἀναπαυόμενοι now fighting a little and now resting. AN. IV. 1, 14.

b. In ὁ δέ, ἡ δέ, τὸ δέ but (or and) he (she, this), beginning a sentence, when the subject changes:

Κῦρος δίδωσι Κλεάρχῳ μῦρίους δᾶρεικούς· ὁ δὲ λαβὼν τὸ χρῦσίον στράτευμα συνέλεξεν Cyrus gives Klearchos ten thousand darics, and he taking the money collected an army. AN. I. 1, 9.

c. In πρὸ τοῦ before this, earlier; also in καὶ τόν (τήν, τούς) and τὸν (τήν, τοὺς) δέ, when καὶ ὃς ἔφη, ἡ δ' ὃς (560), and the like are changed to the infinitive in indirect quotation (577, 578):

Καὶ τὸν εἰπεῖν and that he said. τὸν δὲ γελάσαι and that he laughed.

550 Poets omit the article freely where prose requires it; they also use it more freely as a demonstrative, and sometimes (as in Homer) as a relative pronoun.

551 The differences between Greek and English in the use of the article must be learned in reading; note especially the following:

a. Names of persons often take the article :

Διαβάλλει τὸν Κῦρον he slanders Cyrus; but also συλλαμβάνει Κῦρον he arrests Cyrus. AN. I. 1, 3.

b. Abstract nouns generally have the article :

Ἡ σοφία or σοφία wisdom.

c. With a possessive pronoun or a possessive genitive the noun has the article when a definite person or thing is meant :

Ἐμὸς φίλος or φίλος μου a friend of mine, but ὁ ἐμὸς φίλος or ὁ φίλος μου my friend (a definite person). Δία, ἐν οὗ τῳ ἱερῷ ἐσμεν Zeus, in whose sacred precinct we are. T. III. 14. ποταμὸς οὗ τὸ εὖρος a river whose width.

d. The article alone is often used where English requires a possessive pronoun :

Διαβάλλει τὸν Κῦρον πρὸς τὸν ἀδελφόν he brings Cyrus into discredit with his brother. AN. I. 1, 3.

e. Names of countries, mostly adjectives by origin, commonly have the article :

Ἡ Ἑλλάς Greece.

f. Names of peoples often omit the article :

Ἀθηναῖοι or οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι the Athenians.

g. Predicate nouns rarely have the article; the subject and a predicate noun are often thus distinguished (cp. 552) :

Ἐχθρὸς ἄνθρωπος (36 b) the man is an enemy. D. 4, 50.

h. For the article with demonstrative pronouns see 553, 554.

552 a. The place just after the article is called the attributive position. Most attributive words take that position if the noun has an article :

Οἱ ἀγαθοὶ δημιουργοί the good artisans.

b. Sometimes the article and an attributive stand after the noun, as if added as an afterthought :

Κατὰ τοὺς νόμους τοὺς κειμένους according to the laws, the established (laws). τήν τε πόλιν διήρπασαν καὶ τὰ βασίλεια τὰ ἐν αὐτῇ they plundered both the city and the palace in it. AN. I. 2, 26.

c. If an adjective (or a participle, adverb, or other expression used adjectively) stands before or after both article and noun (the article being before the noun, in the normal order), it is in the predicate position, and is a predicate, whether a verb is expressed or not:

Ἄγαθοι οἱ δημιουργοί the artisans are good. καλὸν τὸ ἄθλον καὶ ἡ ἐλπὶς μεγάλη the prize is noble and our hope great. PH. 114 c.

d. An adjective in the predicate position with a noun in the genitive, dative, or accusative often requires special care in translating (cp. 548):

Μετ' ἀκράϊφνους τῆς ξυμμαχίᾱς with the alliance still intact. T. I. 19. διὰ φιλίᾱς τῆς χώρᾱς ἀπάξει he will make the country friendly in leading us through. AN. I. 3, 14. Κῦρος ψιλὴν ἔχων τὴν κεφαλὴν εἰς τὴν μάχην καθίστατο Cyrus went into the battle with his head bare. AN. I. 8, 6. οὐκ ἐμὸν ἐρῶ τὸν λόγον, ἀλλ' εἰς ἀξιώχρεων ὑμῖν τὸν λέγοντα ἀνοίσω the statement I shall make will not be mine, but the speaker to whom I shall refer it will be sufficient for you. AP. 20 e.

553 But ὅδε, οὗτος, and ἐκεῖνος regularly take the predicate position, the noun requiring the article; when the article is omitted, the noun or the pronoun is a predicate:

Ἐκεῖνος ὁ παῖς or ὁ παῖς ἐκεῖνος yonder boy. But ταύτην εἰρήνην ὑπολαμβάνει he understands this to be peace. D. 9, 9. τῷδε φίλῳ χρῶμαι I treat this man as a friend.

a. Proper names, however, may omit the article; and if another adjectival expression is used with the pronoun, the latter may stand in the attributive position :

Ὁ δὲ (ὁ) Σωκράτης this Socrates. τὰς ἐπιστολιμαίους ταύτας δυνάμεις these forces on paper (forces that figure in dispatches). D. 4, 19. τὰς ἐξαίφνης ταύτας στρατείας these sudden expeditions. D. 4, 17. But also ἐκ τῆς ἀμελείας ταύτης τῆς ἄγαν out of this too great carelessness. D. 4, 17.

- 554 Likewise ἕκαστος, ἑκάτερος, ἄμφω, ἀμφοτέρως take the predicate position, if the noun has the article. So also a personal or a relative pronoun in the possessive genitive (506 a; μου, ἡμῶν, σοῦ, ὑμῶν, αὐτοῦ, αὐτῶν, οὗ, ᾧ, etc.), with the same exception for the personal pronouns as for ὅδε, etc. (553 a) :

Τὼ παῖδε ἀμφοτέρω both his sons. ἡ πόλις ἡμῶν our state.

a. But the reflexives used possessively (ἐμᾶντοῦ, ἑαυτοῦ, etc.) take the attributive position, if the article is present :

Ἡ ἐαυτοῦ χώρα his own land.

- 555 a. An adverbial expression is made adjectival by standing in the attributive position :

Οἱ πάλαι Ἀθηναῖοι the Athenians of old. ἡ οἴκαδ' ὁδός the way home. τῶν οἴκοι ἀντιστασιωτῶν his opponents at home. AN. I. 1, 10. ἡ τότε ῥώμη τῶν Λακεδαιμονίων, ἡ νῦν ὕβρις τούτου the strength of the Spartans then, the insolence of this man now. D. 4, 3.

b. An adjectival expression is made in effect a noun by having an article before it and no noun after it :

Οἱ πάλαι the men of old. οἱ πολλοί the many, the masses. οἱ ἀμφὶ Ἄνυτον Anytos and his fol- lowers (those about Anytos). ὁ βουλόμενος any one who wishes. οὐκ ἔστιν ὁ τολμήσων there is no one who will dare. AN. II. 3, 5.

c. Any quoted word, phrase, or clause is made a noun by prefixing τό :

Τὸ μὴδὲν ἄγαῖν the saying, "Nothing too far."

d. Some adverbial expressions are extended and made adverbial accusatives (540) by prefixing τό or τά :

Τὰ νῦν now. τὸ κατ' ἐμέ as regards me. τὸ δὲ ὅπως, τοῦτο λέγε but the how, tell us that. D. 3, 10.

556 Distinguish

πολλά many things, τὰ πολλά most things, in most cases ;

πολύ much, τὸ πολὺ the greater part ;

πλείστοι very many, οἱ πλείστοι most people, the majority.

Also ἡ μέση πόλις the city between (two others), μέση ἡ πόλις or ἡ πόλις μέση the midst of the city ;

ἡ ἐσχάτη χώρα the farthest land, ἐσχάτη ἡ χώρα or ἡ χώρα ἐσχάτη the edge of the land ;

ὁ μόνος υἱός the only son,

μόνος ὁ υἱός or ὁ υἱὸς μόνος the son only.

PRONOUNS

557 The endings of the verb indicate the person (first, second, or third) with sufficient clearness ; hence the personal pronouns in the nominative, ἐγώ, σύ, ἡμεῖς, ὑμεῖς, are used only when emphasized. So in the third person οὗτος, ὅδε, or ἐκεῖνος as subject :

Ἐγὼ δὲ οὐκ νοίην ἂν ἐμβαίνειν I should myself hesitate to go aboard. AN. I. 3, 17. ἀλλ' εἶδεν τοῦτο καλῶς ἐκείνος but HE saw this clearly. D. 4, 5.

- 558 For the three meanings of αὐτός see 199. Note that when standing alone in the nominative αὐτός always means ipse, emphasizing some word understood :

Αὐτὸς ξυνειδώς φησιν; does he say it of his own knowledge? S. OT. 704. ἥξει γὰρ αὐτά things will come of themselves. S. OT. 341. αὐτὸς ἔφη he himself (the master) said it, ipse dixit.

In other cases also the word emphasized by αὐτός may be omitted :

Πλευστέον εἰς ταύτας αὐτοῖς ἐμβᾶσιν you must sail, going on board in person (ὑμῖν being understood). D. 4, 16.

a. Note also the idiomatic use of αὐτός with an ordinal numeral :

Ἡρέθη πρεσβευτῆς δέκατος αὐτός he was chosen ambassador with nine others (himself tenth). H. II. 2, 17.

- 559 In phrases like ἡμέτερα αὐτῶν our own things the possessive pronoun (adjective) and the possessive genitive are put side by side, as equivalent constructions, instead of ἡμῶν αὐτῶν, etc.

- 560 Ὅς retains its earlier force, as a demonstrative, in a few phrases :

Ἦ δ' ὅς said he. καὶ ὅς ἔφη and he said. So καὶ ἦ, καὶ οἷ. Cp. 549.

a. For the use of ὅς as a relative see 613, 614.

- 561 a. Οὗτος in the nominative is sometimes used in calling to a person :

Οὗτος, τί ποιεῖς you there, what are you doing? AR. R. 198.

b. Note also ὅδε, οὗτος, or ἐκεῖνος in the predicate, translated by here, there, etc. :

Ὁ δ' ἐκ δόμων περᾶ here he comes from the house.
 S. AN. 386. νῆες ἐκεῖνα ἐπιπλέουσι yonder are ships sailing in. T. I. 51. οἷδε παῖδες στείχουσι here come the boys. E. M. 46.

INFINITIVES

562 The Infinitive is a verbal noun whose range of use has been much enlarged. Originally a to or for dative, it retains that force in some of the most common constructions (565, 566); the others are developed from this, but the connection is not always clear. The English infinitive with to is in many uses closely parallel.

a. As a verb, the Infinitive has voice and tense, though it does not distinguish person or number; it may take a subject in the accusative, and an object (accusative, genitive, or dative), like the rest of the verb to which it belongs; it is modified by adverbs and particles, including ἄν.

As a noun it may in some uses take the article (neuter) and so be marked as having a noun construction in any case but the vocative.

563 The present, aorist, and perfect Tenses of the Infinitive distinguish kinds of action (as in the subjunctive, optative, and imperative, 475, 483, 484), not differences of time. The future puts the action in a time later than that of the principal verb.

a. When the infinitive represents a finite verb, it retains the tense and tense meaning of the form which it replaces (577).

564 The negative with an infinitive is usually μή, except when the infinitive represents an original finite verb which had οὐ; and even then after some verbs there is a tendency to change οὐ to μή (579 a).

565 The Infinitive may be connected, as a to or for dative, with verbs, adjectives, adverbs, nouns, or with a whole phrase :

Τὴν χώραν ἐπέτρεψε διαρπάσαι τοῖς Ἑλλησιν he gave the land over to the Greeks to plunder (for plundering). AN. I. 2, 19. πολλὰ ἄμαξαι ἦσαν φέρεσθαι there were many wagons to be carried off. AN. II. 1, 6. οὐχ ὥρᾱ καθεύδειν οὐδ' ἀμελεῖν ἡμῶν αὐτῶν it is no time for sleeping or for being careless of ourselves. AN. I. 3, 11.

a. This Dative Infinitive has a wide range of meaning, from simple purpose to cases where it merely defines the application of a word or phrase. The dative force can usually be seen, but in or some other preposition may be necessary in translation :

Εἵλεσθε ἄρχειν μου you chose (them) to rule over me. AP. 28 e. ἔτοιμος λέγειν ready to speak (for speaking). δεινὸς λέγειν skilled in (with reference to) speaking. οὐχ ἡδέα ἀκούειν not pleasant to hear. D. 4, 38. οἷος αἰεί ποτε μεταβάλλεσθαι (such) as to be always changing. H. II. 3, 45. ἰκανὸς τὰς ἀκροπόλεις φυλάττειν sufficient for guarding the citadels. AN. I. 2, 1. Κλέαρχος στυγνὸς ἦν ὁρᾶν Klearchos was repulsive to see. AN. II. 6, 9. οὗτοι συνέχθαι ἀλλὰ συμφιλεῖν ἔφυν I am not one (was not born) to join in hatred, but in love. S. AN. 523. τοσούτου δέω ὁμολογεῖν so far am I from agreeing (I lack so much with reference to agreeing).

 D. 9, 17. νόσημα μείζον ἢ φέρειν a trouble too great to bear (greater than for bearing). S. OT. 1293.

b. Note the use with ἔχω :

Οὐδὲν εἶχε φράσαι he had nothing to tell. S. OT. 119. This easily passes into the meaning he could tell nothing; hence ἔχω becomes practically equal to δύναμαι, taking an infinitive (most often a word of saying) with or without an object : οὐδὲ δεῦρο ἰόντες ἐκ τῆς χώρᾱς οὐδὲν εἶχομεν λαμβάνειν even when coming hither we could not take anything from the country. AN. II. 2, 11.

566 The Infinitive with ὥς or ὥστε is used

a. With adjectives in the comparative, or implying comparison :

Ὀλίγοι ὥς ἐγκρατεῖς εἶναι too few to have power.
 C. IV. 5, 15. βραχύτερα ἢ ὥς ἐξικνεῖσθαι too short to reach. AN. III. 3, 7. ἐλάττω ἔχοντα δύναμιν ἢ ὥστε τοὺς φίλους ὠφελεῖν having too little force to aid his friends (less than as for aiding). II. IV. 8, 23. γέρων ἐκείνος ὥστε σ' ὠφελεῖν he is old for aiding you.
 E. AND. 80.

b. To denote result, especially an intended result ; ὥστε is the usual word in prose, often preceded by a demonstrative ; the idea of intention gradually fades out :

Εἶχον τὰ δρέπανα εἰς γῆν βλέποντα ὥς διακόπτειν they had the scythes extending toward the ground (as) for cutting in two (whomever they came on).
 AN. I. 8, 10. ὑπελάσᾱς ὥς συναντήσαι riding up so as to meet him. AN. I. 8, 15. νυκτὸς ἵέναι, ὥς μὴ ὁρᾶσθαι to go by night so as not to be seen. AN. IV. 6, 13. χρόνῳ ποτ' ἐξέπραξαν ὡς δοῦναι δίκην at length they have wrought it out so as to pay the penalty. S. AN. 303.

Μηχαναὶ πολλαὶ εἰσιν ὥστε διαφεύγειν θάνατον many devices there are for escaping death. AP. 39 a. πάντας οὕτω διατιθεὶς ὥστε αὐτῷ φίλους εἶναι so disposing all (putting all into such disposition) as to be friendly to him. AN. I. 1, 5. ἔχω τριήρεις ὥστε ἐλεῖν τὸ ἐκείνων πλοῖον I have triremes so as to catch their boat. AN. I. 4, 8. δειν' ἐπηπείλει, ὥστ' οὔτε νυκτὸς ὕπνον οὔτ' ἐξ ἡμέρας ἐμὲ στεγάζειν he made dreadful threats, so that neither by night nor day did sleep cover me. S. E. 780 f. The last example comes very close to the use of ὥστε with an indicative, denoting an actual result (639 a).

c. Sometimes ὥστε with the infinitive states a condition or proviso (cp. 567) :

Τῶν λοιπῶν ἄρχειν Ἑλλήνων, ὥστε αὐτοὺς ὑπακούειν βασιλεῖ to rule the rest of the Greeks, provided they would (so as to) themselves obey the king. D. 6, 11.

567 The Infinitive after ἐφ' ᾧ or ἐφ' ᾧτε states a condition or proviso :

Οἱ δ' ἔφασαν ἀποδώσειν ἐφ' ᾧ μὴ κᾶειν τὰς οἰκίας and they said they would give back (the dead), on condition of their not burning the houses. AN. IV. 2, 19. ἀφίεμέν σε, ἐπὶ τούτῳ μέντοι, ἐφ' ᾧτε μηκέτι φιλοσοφεῖν we let you off, on this condition however, that you no longer seek wisdom. AP. 29 c, 568 The Infinitive is used with πρίν before :

Διέβησαν πρίν τοὺς ἄλλους ἀποκρίνασθαι they crossed before the others answered. AN. I. 4, 16.

κάτειμι πρίν μοι μοῖραν ἐξήκειν βίου I go down before my allotted term of life is over. S. AN. 896.

For πρίν with finite modes see 644.

a. Rarely πρότερον ἢ with the infinitive has the same meaning.

569 The Infinitive is used in some idiomatic phrases, partly offshoots of the dative infinitive (566 a and b), partly standing nearer to the adverbial accusative (540). Among the most frequent are :

Ὡς εἰπεῖν or ὡς ἔπος εἰπεῖν so to speak, softening an expression that might seem too strong, (ὡς) συνελόντι εἰπεῖν in a word (for one to say, taking it together), ὡς εἰκάσαι to make a guess, ἐμοὶ δοκεῖν, in my view, as it seems to me, ὀλίγου δεῖν almost (to lack little), ἐκὼν εἶναι willingly, τὸ νῦν εἶναι for the present, τὸ κατὰ τοῦτον εἶναι as regards him.

570 The Infinitive is used as object with many verbs :

a. As the only object :

Πιθεῖν Τιτᾶνας οὐκ ἠδυνήθην I could not persuade the Titans. A. PB. 220. ἔμελλε καταλῦειν he was intending to halt. AN. I. 8, 1. εἰς Πισιδᾶς βουλόμενος στρατεύεσθαι wishing to make an expedition against the Pisidians. AN. I. 1, 11. φοβοίμην ἂν ἔπεςθαι I should be afraid to follow. AN. I. 3, 17.

b. With μέλλω intend, am about, the future infinitive is often used (also the present, sometimes the aorist) :

Μέλλω ὑμᾶς διδάξειν I am about to explain to you. AP. 21 b. ἔμελλεν αὐτὸν καλῶ τε καὶ αἰσχρῶ ποιήσκειν he was likely to make them what they should be. AP. 20 a. ἔμελλε καταλῦειν he was about to halt. AN. I. 8, 1. μέλλω παθεῖν I am about to suffer. A. PB. 652.

In all other uses the future infinitive may be regarded as representing an indicative (577, 578).

c. With another object:

Τοὺς ὀπλίτας ἐκέλευσεν αὐτοῦ μέιναι he bade the hoplites remain there. AN. I. 5, 13. ἐποίησε Συέννεσιν μὴ δύνασθαι κατὰ γῆν ἐναντιοῦσθαι Κύρῳ (the Spartan naval commander) made Syennesis unable to oppose Cyrus by land. H. III. 1, 1. αἱ ἡδوناὶ πείθουσι τὴν ψυχὴν μὴ σωφρονεῖν pleasures urge the soul not to use self-control. M. I. 2, 23.

d. From such uses as the last the accusative came to be regarded¹ as the subject of the infinitive:

Ἐβούλετο τὸ παῖδε ἀμφοτέρω παρεῖναι he wished both his sons to be near. AN. I. 1, 1. Σωκράτης ἡγείτο θεοὺς πάντα εἰδέναι Socrates believed that the gods know everything. M. I. 1, 19.

Thus arose the infinitive clause with subject accusative, which received a wide extension, as in Latin.

571 The subject of an infinitive is omitted when it is the same as that of the leading verb; a modifier of the subject, whether predicative or attributive, then agrees with the subject of the leading verb:

Ὁ δ' ὑπέσχετο ἀνδρὶ ἐκάστῳ δώσειν πέντε ἀργυ-

¹ A similar growth can be traced in English, in such a sequence as : (1) It is good for us to be here, (2) For us to be here is good, (3) For us to be here is a proof of our friendship. In (1) for us modifies good ; in (2) the same construction is possible, but one is inclined to take for us to be here as a clause, the subject of is good ; in (3) the last construction is the only one possible.

ρίου μνᾶς and he promised that he would give five minae in money to each man (cp. 577 a). AN. I. 4, 13.

Πέρσης ἔφη εἶναι he said he was a Persian. AN. IV. 4, 17.

a. A predicate noun or adjective remains in the nominative when the infinitive, with subject omitted, has the article, or depends on a preposition :

Ὁρεγόμενοι τοῦ πρώτος ἕκαστος γίγνεσθαι striving each to get ahead of the other (to become first). T. II. 65, 10. οὐκ ἐπὶ τῷ δοῦλοι εἶναι ἐκπέμπονται ἀποικοὶ not on the basis of being subjects are colonists sent out. T. I. 34, 1.

b. If the subject is omitted because indefinite or general, a predicate or attributive modifier of it is in the accusative :

Δίκαιον εὔ πράττοντα μεμνηῆσθαι θεοῦ it is just to remember God when one is prospering. MEN.

c. When the omitted subject is the same as the object of the leading verb, that object being in the genitive or dative, a modifier of the subject may be either in the same case or in the accusative :

Κῦρος παραγγέλλει Κλεάρχῳ λαβόντι ἤκειν ὅσον ἦν αὐτῷ στράτευμα, καὶ Ξενίᾳ ἤκειν παραγγέλλει λαβόντα τοὺς ἄλλους Cyrus ordered Klearchos to come, bringing all the force he had ; and he ordered Xenias to come, bringing the others. AN. I. 2, 1. Κύρου ἐδέοντο ὥς προθυμοτάτου γενέσθαι they asked Cyrus to show himself as zealous as possible. H. I. 5, 2.

572 With verbs meaning *forbid, prevent, deny, escape, or aim in any way at a negative effect,*¹ the infini-

¹ Cp. " You may as well forbid the mountain pines
To wag their high tops, and to make no noise,
When they are fretten with the gusts of heaven."

Mer. of Ven., iv, 1.

tive often has μή, though English omits the negative:

Ἀντέλεγόν τινες μὴ ἰέναι πάντας some opposed, urging that all should not go. AN. II. 5, 29. τὸν ἄνδρ' ἀπαυδῶ μήτ' ἐνδέχασθαι μήτε προσφωνεῖν τινα this man I forbid any one to receive or address. S. OT. 238. ἐγὼ μόνος ἠναντιώθην μηδὲν ποιεῖν παρὰ τοὺς νόμους I alone opposed doing anything contrary to the laws. AP. 32 b. μικρὸν ἐξέφυγε μὴ καταπετρωθῆναι he barely escaped being stoned to death. AN. I. 3, 2. καταρνεί μὴ δεδρᾶκέναι τάδε; do you deny that you have done this? S. AN. 442.

a. Μὴ with an infinitive becomes μὴ οὐ if the leading verb has a negative, or is in a question implying a negative:

Οὐδὲν ἐδύνατο ἀντέχειν μὴ οὐ χαρίζεσθαι he could not hold out at all against granting the favor. C. I. 4, 2. τί δῆτα μέλλεις μὴ οὐ γεγωνίσκειν τὸ πᾶν; why then do you delay (i. e., do not delay) to tell the whole? A. PB. 654. τί ἐμποδὼν μὴ οὐχὶ ἀποθανεῖν; what is to hinder (i. e., οὐδὲν ἐμποδῶν) our being put to death? AN. III. 1, 13.

b. Most of these verbs admit also the simple infinitive without μή or μὴ οὐ:

Τί κωλύει καὶ τὰ ἄκρα ἡμῖν κελεύειν Κῦρον προκαταλαμβάνειν; what hinders our bidding Cyrus occupy the heights also for us? AN. I. 3, 16.

c. With verbs of hindering and the like the infinitive may also have the article τοῦ, as a from genitive (509):

Κωλύσειεν ἂν τοῦ κᾶειν ἐπιόντας he would prevent them from this attacking and burning. AN. I. 6, 2.

573 Some of the above infinitives, even those plainly dative in origin, occasionally have τό, especially in poetry:

Οὗτοί εἰσιν μόνοι ἔτι ἡμῖν ἐμποδῶν τὸ μὴ ἤδη εἶναι ἔνθα πάλοι σπεύδομεν these alone are still in the way of our being at once where we have so long been eager to be. AN. IV. 8, 14. τὸ βιά πολιτῶν δρᾶν ἔφυν ἀμήχανος act in defiance of the state I can not. S. AN. 79 f. καρδίᾳ δ' ἐξίσταμαι τὸ δρᾶν yet from my heart's purpose I withdraw to do it. S. AN. 1106. φόβος ἀνθ' ὕπνου παραστατεῖ, τὸ μὴ βλέφαρα συμβαλεῖν fear instead of sleep stands near, that I close not my eyes. A. A. 15.

The τό seems to bring these infinitives into connection with the specifying accusative (537), which is in effect much like a looser for dative, such as we translate by with reference to (523 a).

- 574 The Infinitive without or with τό is used as the subject of many verbs—also as a predicate noun or an appositive :

Γράμματα μαθεῖν δεῖ καὶ μαθόντα νοῦν ἔχειν one must learn letters, and after learning them have sense. MEN. ἐδόκει μοι ταύτῃ πειρᾶσθαι σωθῆναι it seemed to me best to try to save myself in this way. L. 12, 15. ἀγαθοῖς ὑμῖν προσήκει εἶναι it befits you to be brave. AN. III. 2, 11. τοῦτο ὑμῶν δέομαι, μήτε θαυμάζειν μήτε θορυβεῖν this I ask of you, neither to be surprised nor to make a disturbance. AP. 17 c.

a. Instead of an impersonal verb with the infinitive as subject, a personal construction is often used with the infinitive depending on the verb or adjective :

Καὶ γὰρ οὐδὲ πόρρω δοκοῦμέν μοι αὐτοῦ καθῆσθαι (instead of οὐ δοκεῖ καθῆσθαι) for in fact we seem to be encamped not far from him. AN. I. 3, 12. δίκαιός εἰμι ἀπολογήσασθαι (instead of δίκαιόν ἐστιν ἀ.) it is right that I make my defense. AP. 18 a.

- 575 The Infinitive with τοῦ or τῷ may be used in any genitive or dative construction that is suitable to its meaning :

Νέοις τὸ σιγᾶν κρείττον ἐστὶ τοῦ λαλεῖν for young people silence is better than talking. MEN. ἄρξαντες τοῦ διαβαίνειν being first in crossing. AN. I. 4, 15. ἐκτὸς εἶ τοῦ μέλλειν ἀποθνήσκειν αὐριον you are free from the prospect of dying to-morrow. CR. 46 c. τὸ δὲ τῇ ἐπιμελείᾳ περιεῖναι τῶν φίλων καὶ τῷ προθυμεῖσθαι χαρίζεσθαι, ταῦτα ἔμοιγε μᾶλλον δοκεῖ ἀγαστὰ εἶναι but the excelling his friends in attentiveness and in his eagerness to do favors, this rather to my mind appears admirable. AN. I. 9, 24. οὐ πρὸς τῷ πόλεις ἀνηρηκεῖναι τίθησι τὰ Πύθια; besides having destroyed states, does he not conduct the Pythian festival? D. 9, 32. ἐπὶ τῷ συνοίσειν ταῦτα πεπεῖσθαι λέγειν αἰροῦμαι I choose to speak because of my conviction that these measures will be for your interest. D. 4, 51. κινδυνεύσαιτ' ἂν τῷ τὸν Ἑλλήσποντον ἀλλοτριωθῆναι you would be endangered by the fact that the Hellespont has become another's. D. 9, 18.

576 An Infinitive with τοῦ is sometimes used to express purpose :

Μίνως τὸ ληστικὸν καθήρει τοῦ τὰς προσόδους μᾶλλον ἰέναι αὐτῷ Minos put down piracy, that his revenues might come to him better. T. I. 4.

This may be regarded as a genitive of cause ; ὑπέρ or ἔνεκα is sometimes put with it.

577 An Infinitive clause, with or without the article, often represents a sentence with a finite verb ; the original sentence is thus changed to a noun and made part of another sentence, in one of the constructions above described. Most often such an infinitive is the subject or object of a verb of saying or thinking—that is, a verb meaning say, tell, hear, learn, or think, believe, know, and the like. In such infinitive clauses

a. The original tense and tense-meaning are retained, the time (if the original verb was an indicative) being relative to that of the principal verb. The future infinitive is found chiefly in this use.

An imperfect or pluperfect indicative, as these tenses are not made in the infinitive, is represented by the present or perfect—the infinitive of the same tense-system.

b. If the original sentence had οὐ, that is usually retained, but is sometimes changed to μή (579 a).

c. If an original indicative or optative had ἄν, that is retained. Thus ἄν with an infinitive shows that the infinitive represents an indicative or optative with ἄν (579).

578 The Infinitive representing a finite verb often stands as object with certain verbs of saying or thinking:

. Ἐγὼ φημι ταῦτα φλυᾶρίᾱς εἶναι (representing ταῦτα φλυᾶρίαι εἰσί) I say that this is nonsense. AN. I. 3, 17. ἀντιλέγειν φῆς τοῖς βουλομένοις ἡμᾶς ἀπολέσαι you say you spoke against (ἀντέλεγον, 577 a) those who wished to destroy us. L. 12, 26. οὐκ ἔφη ὁμεισθαί he said he would not take an oath (οὐκ ὁμοῦμαι). H. I. 3, 11. ὁμόσαντες ὅρκους ἢ μὴν μὴ μνησικακήσειν taking oaths that they would verily maintain amnesty for the past (οὐ μνησικακήσω, οὐ being here changed to μή because of the idea of will implied in an oath). H. II. 4, 43.

Νομίζω ὑμᾶς ἐμοὶ εἶναι καὶ πατρίδα καὶ φίλους I think you are (ὑμεῖς ἐστε) to me both country and friends. AN. I. 3, 6. οἰόμενοι τὰ πάντα νικᾶν καὶ Κῦρον ζῆν thinking they were completely victorious and Cyrus was alive (νικῶμεν, ζῆ). AN. II. 1, 1. ὑμᾶς ἔγωγε ἀκούω τοὺς Λακεδαιμονίους ἐκ παίδων κλέπτειν μελετᾶν I hear that you Spartans practise stealing from childhood (μελετᾶτε). AN. IV. 6, 14. πείσεσθαι προσδοκῶν expecting that he will suffer (πείσομαι). D. 6, 18. ἄρα προσδοκᾶν αὐτοὺς τοιαῦτα πείθεσθαι οἷεσθε do you suppose they expected (προσεδόκων) to be suffering like this? D. 6, 20.

a. So also as the subject (with λέγεται and the like, 574), as appositive, and in the personal construction (574 a) :

Ἐλέγετο Κῦρῳ δοῦναι χρήματα πολλά she was said to have given Cyrus a large sum. AN. I. 2, 12. τοὺς ἀγαθοὺς εἰς πόλεμον ὁμολόγητο διαφερόντως τῖμᾶν he was acknowledged to honor exceptionally those who were good for war. AN. I. 9, 14. καὶ γὰρ οὐδὲ πόρρῳ δοκοῦμέν μοι αὐτοῦ καθῆσθαι for we seem to me to be encamped by no means far from him. AN. I. 3, 12.

b. Future infinitives with ὥστε fall under this head, scarcely differing at all from ὥστε with a future indicative (639 a) :

Μωρίᾱ τηλικαύτην ἡγείσθαι πόλιν οἰκᾶν τὸ μέγεθος ὥστε μὴ δεινὸν πείσεσθαι it is folly to think the state we live in is so great that we shall suffer nothing serious. D. 9, 67.

579 An Infinitive with ἄν represents an indicative or optative with ἄν (461, 467, 479, 480), the context alone determining which :

Ἀκούω Λακεδαιμονίους τότε ἐμβαλόντας ἄν καὶ κακώσαντας τὴν χώρᾱν ἀναχωρεῖν ἐπ' οἴκου πάλιν I hear that the Spartans in those times, after invading and ravaging the land, would then withdraw toward home again (ἀνεχώρουν ἄν, 461 a). D. 9, 48. Κῦρος ἄριστος ἂν δοκεῖ ἄρχων γενέσθαι it seems likely that Cyrus would have been an unusually good ruler (ἄριστος ἂν ἐγένετο, 467 c). O. 4, 18. ἄρα αὐτοὺς λέγοντος ἂν τινος πιστεῦσαι οἴεσθε; do you think they would have believed any one if he said it? (λέγοντος ἂν τινος ἐπίστευσαν;) D. 6, 20.

Σὺν ὑμῖν μὲν ἂν οἶμαι εἶναι τίμιος with you I think I should be in honor (τίμιος ἂν εἶην, 479). AN. I. 3, 6. ἐπίστευε μηδὲν ἂν παρὰ τὰς σπονδὰς παθεῖν he was confident that he would suffer nothing contrary to the agreement (οὐδὲν ἂν πάθοιμι). AN. I. 9, 8.

a. Some of the above examples illustrate the tendency to change original οὐ to μή with the infinitive after words meaning swear, promise, hope, and the like; the notion of will in the verb seems to affect the negative.

For exclamatory and imperative infinitives see 492.

PARTICIPLES

580 The Participle is a verbal adjective, essentially like the English participle in use; but its full declension enabled the range of the Greek participle to be extended much farther in some directions.

a. As a verb the participle has voice and tense, and may take an object (accusative, genitive, or dative) or an adverbial modifier.

As an adjective it is declined, and agrees with a noun or pronoun, (1) attributively, with or without the article, (2) as a predicate, belonging to either subject or object.

581 The present, aorist, and perfect tenses of the participle denote the kind of action rather than time; the present denotes continuance or repetition, the aorist denotes simple occurrence or attainment, the perfect denotes a completed act or a continued state (cp. 475, 563).

a. But when a participle represents an indicative clause, the tenses retain the tense-meaning of the indicative, and denote time present, past, or future relatively to that of the leading verb. The future participle is always so used; for the other tenses the context alone determines whether the time-value is intended or not (cp. 577).

Note examples in the following sections.

582 The Attributive Participle agrees directly with a noun, with or without an article:

Τὰ καθεστηκότα πράγματα the existing situation (affairs, government). κεκαλλιεπημένους λόγους finely worded speeches. AP. 17 b.

a. The Attributive Participle is often used without a noun, thus becoming itself a noun (555 b). Such a phrase, if brief, may sometimes be rendered by an English noun; if longer, its nearest equivalent is a relative clause:

Οἱ λέγοντες the speakers, οἱ ἀκούοντες the hearers, οἱ ἐνοικοῦντες the inhabitants, ἡ τεκοῦσα the mother, εἰκῇ λεγόμενα things stated carelessly, τὰ αὐτοῖς βεβιωμένα their lives (things lived by them), τὰ δόξαντα τῇ στρατιᾷ the opinion (decision) of the army. AN. I. 3, 20.

Οἱ ταύτην τὴν φήμην κατασκεδάσαντες those who have spread this report; τοὺς ταῦτα ζητοῦντας those who investigate these matters. AP. 18 c. ὧ καταψηφισάμενοί μου you who voted against me. AP. 39 b.

b. Common phrases are ὁ βουλόμενος any one who wishes, ὁ τυχών any chance comer. Note also καλούμενος and λεγόμενος in phrases like κρήνη ἡ Μίδου καλουμένη the spring called Midas's, the so-called spring of Midas; τὸν ἱερὸν καλούμενον πόλεμον the war called Sacred, the so-called Sacred war.

c. With οὐ such a participial phrase refers to a particular person, thing, or class; with μή (486) the phrase is more general, a merely supposed case:

Τοῖς μὴ πειθομένοις μετέμελε any who did not take his advice repented. M. I. 1, 4. (τοῖς οὐ πειθομένοις would have meant those people, a definite class, who in fact did not take his advice.)

- 583 A Participle often agrees attributively with a noun or pronoun, without the article, adding some circumstance of the main action. (Circumstantial Participle.)

English uses the same construction, but less freely; a better rendering is often a relative clause, or an adverbial phrase or clause (of time, manner, cause, means, concession, condition), or even another verb parallel to the leading verb. The circumstantial participle without ἄν represents an indicative; the tense therefore generally denotes time (581 a).

Ἡ μήτηρ ὑπῆρξε Κύρῳ φιλοῦσα αὐτὸν μᾶλλον his mother supported Cyrus, loving him more. AN. I. 1, 4. ἀκούσασιν τοῖς στρατηγοῖς ταῦτα ἔδοξε τὸ στράτευμα συναγαγεῖν on hearing this the generals decided to call together the army. AN. IV. 4, 19. ὁ δὲ ἐλπίδας λέγων διῆγε but he kept putting them off by talking hopelessly. AN. I. 2, 11. πρῶτον μὲν ἐδάκρυε πολὺν χρόνον ἔστως first he stood and wept for some time. AN. I. 3, 2. ταῦτα γὰρ καλῶς ἐγὼ εἰδὼς διώλεσα this, though I knew it well, I had let slip. S. OT. 318.

a. Certain participles occur often in idiomatic use, as ἀρχόμενος (beginning) at first, τελευτῶν (ending) finally, ἔχων (holding on) constantly, θαρρῶν boldly, λαθῶν secretly, ἀνύσας quickly, χαίρων without punishment, κλαίων with sorrow. Also ἔχων, ἄγων, λαβών, φέρων, χρώμενος may often be translated with :

Τελευτῶν οὖν ἐπὶ τοὺς χειροτέχνᾱς ἦα so finally I went to the artisans. AP. 22 c. οὗ τι χαίρων δὶς γε πημονᾱς ἐρεῖς not without sorrow shalt thou twice speak words so dire. S. OT. 363. Πρόξενος παρῆν ἔχων ὀπλίτᾱς Proxenos came with hoplites. AN. I. 2, 3.

b. The future participle in this use often expresses intention or purpose :

Ἀνίσταντο οἱ μὲν ἐκ τοῦ αὐτομάτου λέξοντες ἃ ἐγίγνωσκον some rose of their own accord to say what they thought. AN. I. 3, 13. πέμψαι καὶ προκαταληψομένους τὰ ἄκρα to send men to seize the heights in advance. AN. I. 3, 14.

584 Predicate Participles are used like predicate adjectives (545–548), with extensions into certain special idioms. The compound tenses, consisting of εἶμι and a participle agreeing with the subject, are the simplest type.

585 A Predicate Participle agreeing with the subject is often used a. With verbs that express existence in some particular way, as τυγχάνω am by chance, happen to be, λανθάνω am secretly or without the knowledge of, φθάνω am first, get the start in,

διάγω, διατελῶ, διαγίγνομαι am continuously, keep on,

φαίνομαι (also δηλός or φανερός εἶμι) am plainly :

Παρὼν ἐτύγχανε he happened to be there. AN. I. 1, 2.

ἐτύγχανον λέγων I was just saying. AN. III. 2, 10.

βουλοίμην ἂν λαθεῖν αὐτὸν ἂπελθὼν I should like to get away without his knowing it (to be-hidden-from him going away). AN. I. 3, 17. φθάνουσιν ἐπὶ τῷ ἄκρῳ γενόμενοι τοὺς πολεμίους they anticipate the enemy in getting upon the height. AN. III. 4, 49. διετέλουν χρώμενοι τοῖς τῶν πολεμίων τοξεύμασι they kept using the enemies' arrows. AN. III. 4, 17. οὐ φθονῶν τοῖς φανερώς πλουτοῦσιν ἐφαίνετο he was plainly not envious of the openly wealthy (it was plain that he did not envy). AN. I. 9, 19.

b. With verbs meaning begin, cease, endure, grow weary, and the like:

Οὐποτε ἐπανόμην ἡμᾶς οἰκτίρων I never ceased pitying ourselves. AN. III. 1, 19. ἀπείρηκα ἤδη συσκευαζόμενος καὶ τρέχων καὶ τὰ ὅπλα φέρων I am tired now of packing up and running and carrying my arms. AN. V. 1, 2.

c. With οἶχομαι am gone a predicate participle may specify the manner of going, and so contain the main thought:

Εἰς τὸ πρόσθεν οἶχονται διώκοντες they have gone forward in pursuit. AN. I. 10, 5. ὥχετο ἀπελαύνων he went riding away, or simply, he rode away. AN. II. 4, 24.

With ἦκω and some others the idioms differ but little from English usage.

d. A Participle agreeing with the subject is so used with some verbs that one can not say certainly whether it is a circumstantial or a predicate participle:

Τούτου οὐχ ἡττησόμεθα εἰ ποιοῦντες we shall not be behind him in well-doing. AN. III. 2, 23. ἀδικεῖ τοὺς νέους διαφθείρων he is guilty of corrupting the young. M. I. 1, 1. So with a number of verbs meaning endure, am pleased, content, indignant, ashamed, etc.

586 A Predicate Participle agreeing with the object is often used

a. With some verbs meaning perceive (with the senses or with the mind), remember, know, and the like:

Εἶδε Κλέαρχον διελαύνοντα he saw Klearchos riding through. AN. I. 5, 12. οὐκ ᾔδεσαν αὐτὸν τεθνῆκόντα they did not know that he was dead. AN. I. 10, 16. ἤδη δέ τινων ᾔσθόμην καὶ διὰ ταῦτα ἀχθομένων μοι and now I have observed that some felt unpleasantly toward me for this reason too. L. 16, 20. ἤκουσά ποτε αὐτοῦ περὶ φίλων διαλεγομένου I once heard him talking about friends. M. II. 4, 1. χαίρουσιν ἐξεταζομένοις τοῖς οἰομένοις μὲν εἶναι σοφοῖς οὖσι δ' οὐ they delight in the examination of those who think they are wise but are not. AP. 33 c.

b. With verbs meaning show, make known, and the like:

Κῦρον ἐπιστρατεύοντα πρῶτος ἡγγεῖλα I was the first to report that Cyrus was marching against him. AN. II. 3, 19. ἐμὲ τοίνυν οὐδεὶς ἂν ἀποδείξειεν ἀπενεχθέντα no one, now, could show that my name was handed in. L. 16, 7.

587 With some verbs a predicate participle may agree with either subject or object, according to the meaning (cp. 586):

*Ἴσθι μέντοι ἀνόητος ὢν be sure, however, that you are foolish. AN. II. 1, 13. ἡμεῖς ἀδύνατοι ὁρῶμεν ὄντες περιγενέσθαι we see that we are unable to get the upper hand. T. I. 32. ᾔσθετ' ἡδικημένη she perceived that she had been wronged. E. M. 26. ἐγὼ οὐ ξύνοιδα ἐμαυτῷ σοφὸς ὢν I am not conscious of being wise.

AP. 21 b. Cp. ἐμavτῷ ξυνήδη οὐδὲν ἐπισταμένῳ I was conscious that I knew nothing (AP. 22 d), with no essential difference of meaning, because subject and object are the same person.

588 a. Most of the above verbs admit also as object a ὅτι clause (622).

b. Ἀκούω, αἰσθάνομαι, πυνθάνομαι admit three constructions, usually distinct in meaning :

ἀκούω τινός w. ptc. I hear, with my own ears, something going on ;

ἀκούω τι (or τινά) w. ptc. I hear, am told, that— ;

ἀκούω w. acc. and inf. I hear, as report, or tradition, that—.

c. In like manner several verbs admit either a predicate participle or an infinitive, with different meaning :

WITH PARTICIPLE		WITH INFINITIVE
φαίνομαι	I plainly am,	it appears (but may not be true) that I— ;
ἀρχομαι	am at the beginning of,	undertake, set about ;
αἰδοῦμαι	{ am ashamed of, {	am ashamed to, refrain for αἰσχύνομαι		shame ;
γινώσκω	recognize	decide	{ to do something. ἐπίσταμαι	understand	understand how οἶδα	know	know how μανθάνω	learn	learn (how) ἐπιλανθάνομαι	forget	forget (how)
μύμνημαι	remember	remember

589 A Participle may agree with a genitive which is not dependent on any other word ; the two are then in the Genitive Absolute :

Ἀνέβη ἐπὶ τὰ ὄρη οὐδενὸς κωλύοντος he went up on the mountains, no one hindering. AN. I. 2, 22.

a. Ἐκὼν willing and ἄκων unwilling are treated as participles :

"ΑΚΟΝΤΟΣ ἀπιὼν Κῦρον going away without Cyrus's consent (Cyrus unwilling). AN. I. 3, 17.

590 In effect the Genitive Absolute is an abbreviated adverbial clause, of time, cause, condition, concession, or merely of attendant circumstance. These relations are not stated, but only implied in the context ; often one can not say which of two or more relations is more prominent :

Τούτων λεχθέντων ἀνέστησαν this said, they rose. AN. III. 3, 1. οὐδὲν τῶν δεόντων ποιούντων ὑμῶν κακῶς τὰ πράγματα ἔχει affairs are in a bad way while (because?) you are doing nothing of what you should. D. 4, 2. καὶ μεταπεμπομένου αὐτοῦ οὐκ ἐθέλω ἐλθεῖν even though he is sending for me, I am unwilling to go. AN. I. 3, 10.

a. The Participle may stand alone in the genitive absolute when the noun or pronoun is readily supplied from the context :

Ἐντεῦθεν προϊόντων ἐφαίνετο ἵχνη ἵππων as they went on from there, tracks of horses appeared. AN. I. 6, 1.

591 A Participle may be in the Accusative Absolute instead of the genitive, when it is impersonal, or has an infinitive as subject :

Ἐξόν εἰρήνην ἔχειν αἰρεῖται πολεμεῖν when it is possible to have peace, he chooses war. AN. II. 6, 6. οἶσθα, μέλον γέ σοι you know, since it is of interest to you. AP. 24 d. So προσῆκον since (or though) it is fitting, δόξαν it having been agreed to, ἄδηλον ὃν it being uncertain, τυχόν by chance, and others.

a. Even personal expressions are sometimes in the accusative absolute, especially with ὥς or ὥσπερ (593 c, d) :

Σωκράτης ἤρχετο πρὸς τοὺς θεοὺς ἀπλῶς τὰγαθὰ διδόναι, ὥς τοὺς θεοὺς κάλλιστα εἰδότας Sokrates used to pray to the gods simply to give what was good, feeling that the gods knew best (what is good). M. I. 3, 2.

- 592 A few adverbs, though belonging grammatically to the verb, often stand with and seem to modify a circumstantial participle ; such are ἅμα, μεταξύ, εὐθύς, αὐτίκα, ὅμως :

Ἄμα ταῦτ' εἰπὼν ἀνέστη immediately as he said this he rose. AN. III. 1, 47. πολλαχοῦ με ἐπέσχε λέγοντα μεταξύ it often checked me in the midst of my words (checked me midway, while speaking). AP. 40 b. εὐθύς παῖδες ὄντες μανθάνουσιν ἄρχειν τε καὶ ἄρχεσθαι immediately, while boys, they learn both to rule and to be ruled. AN. I. 9, 4. ἐρήσομαι δὲ καὶ κακῶς πάσχουσ' ὅμως I will ask, though wronged, none the less. E. M. 280.

- 593 Certain particles make more distinct the relation of thought between the circumstantial participle and the rest of the sentence.

a. Ὃτε (less often οἷον, οἷα) shows that the participle is causal :

Ἐπὶ πολὺ ἦν τὰ ὑποζύγια, ὃτε διὰ στενῆς τῆς ὁδοῦ πορευόμενα the baggage animals extended a long way, because the road they were following was narrow. AN. IV. 2, 13.

b. Καίπερ (also καί, though less distinctly) shows that the participle is concessive :

Οὗς ἐγὼ μᾶλλον φοβοῦμαι ἢ τοὺς ἀμφὶ Ἄνυτον, καίπερ ὄντας καὶ τούτους δεινούς whom I fear more than Anytos and his friends, although these also are formidable. AP. 18 b.

c. Ὡς with a participle is often rendered by as ; but the idiom has been extended far beyond what is possible in English. In many cases ὥς implies that the statement of the participle is the thought of some one mentioned in the context; the translation must vary with the situation :

Τὴν χώραν ἐπέτρεψε διαρπάσαι τοῖς Ἑλλησιν ὡς πολεμίαν οὖσαν he turned the land over to the Greeks to plunder, as being hostile. AN. I. 2, 19. συλλαμβάνει Κῦρον ὡς ἀποκτενῶν he arrested Cyrus, as intending to kill him. AN. I. 1, 3.

Ἔλεγε θαρρεῖν ὡς καταστησομένων τούτων εἰς τὸ δέον he told him to have no fear, assuring him that this would settle itself properly. AN. I. 3, 8. ἦλθον ἐπὶ τινα τῶν δοκούντων σοφῶν εἶναι, ὡς ἐνταῦθα ἐλέγξων τὸ μαντεῖον I went to one of the men who seemed to be wise, thinking that there I should test the oracle. AP. 21 c. ἐκπίπτοντες παρ' Ἀθηναίους ὡς βέβαιον ὃν ἀνεχώρουν when exiled they withdrew to the Athenians, with the idea that it was safe there. T. I. 2.

d. Ὡσπερ just as, even as (cp. 216) is a strengthened ὡς, but it often requires a different translation :

Ἄλλος ἀνέστη ἐπιδεικνὺς τὴν εὐήθειαν τοῦ τὰ πλοῖα αἰτεῖν κελεύοντος, ὥσπερ πάλιν τὸν στόλον Κῦρου ποιοῦμένου another arose, pointing out the simplicity of the man who suggested asking for boats, just as if Cyrus were making the expedition back again. AN. I. 3, 16. κατακείμεθα ὥσπερ ἐξὸν ἡσυχίαν ἄγειν we are lying here just as if it were possible to remain quiet. AN. III. 1, 14.

594 With some verbs of knowing, thinking, saying, ὡς is used with a predicate participle; in some cases a circumstantial participle with ὡς is used where we might expect a predicate participle :

Ὡς μὲν στρατηγήσοντα ἐμὲ ταύτην τὴν στρατηγίαν μηδεὶς ὑμῶν λεγέτω let no one of you speak with the idea that I will retain command in this campaign (591 a). AN. I. 3, 15. δηλοῖς δ' ὥς τι σημανῶν νέον you show that you have something new to reveal (you show as one about to reveal). S. AN. 242. ὥς πο-λέμου ὄντος παρ' ὑμῶν ἀπαγγελῶ shall I report from you that there is war? (shall I report with the understanding that there is war?). AN. II. 1, 21.

- 595 A Participle with ἄν represents an optative or indicative with ἄν, the context alone determining which (cp. 579):

Αἰτεῖ ξένους, ὥς οὕτω περιγεγόμενος ἄν τῶν ἀντιστασιωτῶν he asks for mercenaries, saying that thus he should get the better of his opponents (representing περιγενοίμην ἄν). AN. I. 1, 10. Σωκράτης ῥᾶδίως ἄν ἀφ' ἐθελὺς ὑπὸ τῶν δικαστῶν προείλετο ἀπο-θανεῖν Sokrates, who would easily have been acquitted by the judges, chose to die. M. IV. 4, 4.

VERBAL ADJECTIVES IN -TEOS

- 596 The Verbal in -τέος (cp. 352, 354) is generally passive in meaning; it may be used in the personal or the impersonal construction; the agent in either construction is expressed by a dative (524 b).

a. The personal construction gives more prominence to the subject, with which the verbal agrees, as attributive or as predicate; the copula is often omitted:

Ἐμοὶ τοῦτο οὐ ποιητέον this must not be done by me. AN. I. 3, 15. οὐ τοσαῦτα ὄρη ὁρᾶτε ὑμῶν ὄντα πορευτέα; do you not see so many mountains that must be traversed by you? AN. II. 5, 18.

b. The impersonal construction gives more prominence to the action; the verbal is in the neuter singular (sometimes in the plural), and may take an object; the copula is often omitted:

Ἡ μῖν γ' ὑπὲρ τῆς ἐλευθερίᾱς ἀγωνιστέον we at least must make a struggle for freedom. D. 9, 70. ἰτέον οὖν ἐπὶ ᾗπαντας τοὺς τι δοκοῦντας εἰδέναι I had to go therefore (the context shows that ᾗν is understood) to all those who appeared to have some knowledge. AP. 21 e. τοὺς φίλους εὐεργετητέον, τῶν βοσκημάτων ἐπιμελητέον one must benefit his friends, one must care for his flocks. M. II. 1, 28.

c. Some verbals in -τέος have the meaning of the middle voice: πειστέον one must obey, φυλακτέον we must be on our guard.

PREPOSITIONS

597 All Prepositions were once adverbs; Homer uses them as such freely, the Attic poets occasionally; in Attic prose πρὸς alone is so used (cp. 437 a). But their special office, along with their use in composition (437, 440 a), is to connect nouns or pronouns with other words, making the relation plainer than the case ending would alone.

a. The details of the use and meaning of prepositions are best learned from reading, and from vocabularies and the dictionary; some of the chief distinctions only are given here.

598 Ἀνά, εἰς or ἐς (and ὡς) take the Accusative;

Ἐν and σύν take the Dative only;

Ἀντί, ἀπό, ἐξ, and πρό take the Genitive only;

Διά, κατά, μετά, ὑπέρ take the Accusative and Genitive;

Ἀμφί, ἐπί, παρά, περί, πρὸς, ὑπό take the Accusative, Genitive, and Dative.

a. A preposition joined to a verb may affect the case of a noun or pronoun precisely as if it were not in composition.

b. The meaning of the noun or pronoun, or of the verb, often determines the meaning of the preposition; a relation that is natural in one situation may be impossible in another. This principle has a wide application. Thus: εἰς τὸν ποταμόν into the river, εἰς ἄνδρας ἐγγράφειν to enroll among men, εἰς δύναμιν to the extent of one's power, εἰς τριάκοντα to the number of thirty; ὑπὸ γῆς under ground, ὑφ' ἡμῶν τιμώμενος honored by us; παρὰ τὸν ποταμόν alongside of the river, παρὰ βασιλέᾱ to the king's side.

- 599 Besides the prepositions proper (i. e., those which may be compounded with verbs), a number of adverbs are often used with the genitive, and hence are called improper prepositions. Such are ἄνευ without, ἄχρι and μέχρι as far as, μεταξύ between, πλὴν except, ἔνεκα (εἵνεκα, ἔνεκεν) on account of, ἐγγύς and πλησίον near, etc. (cp. 518 b, c).

II. COMPOUND SENTENCES

- 600 Successive independent sentences in Greek are usually joined together in one of four ways:

(1) By a coördinating conjunction;

(2) By a demonstrative pronoun or adverb; this may be in the earlier sentence, pointing forward, or in the latter, pointing backward;

(3) By a relative pronoun or adverb, at the beginning of the second sentence;

(4) By a particle standing early in the second sentence, and referring to the preceding sentence.

a. Absence of such a connective (ἄσύνδετον not bound together, asyndeton), though so common in English, is generally in Greek a mark of emotion. Thus the following passage (L. 12, 100) shows far more feeling than the English version: ἀκηκόατε, ἑώρακάτε, πεπόνθατε, ἔχετε· δικάζετε you have heard, seen, suffered, you have him; give judgment.

b. Repetition of some significant word (ἀναφορά anaphora), with asyndeton, is an emotional way of connecting sentences:

Τί οὖν ἐστὶ τοῦτο; ἀπιστία. ταύτην φυλάττετε, ταύτης ἀντέχεσθε what, then, is this? Distrust. Guard this, cling to this. D. 6, 24.

601 When successive sentences, independent in construction, are joined by a coördinating conjunction, and are so united in speaking as to make one, the whole is called a Compound Sentence.

602 The principal coördinating conjunctions are the following; details of their use and meaning are to be learned in reading; nearly all have other uses too (cp. 665–673).

a. Copulative Conjunctions: καί, τε (enclitic) and; οὐδέ, μηδέ, οὔτε, μήτε and not, nor. καί . . . καί, τε . . . καί both . . . and, οὔτε . . . οὔτε, μήτε . . . μήτε neither . . . nor, are frequent combinations.

b. Adversative Conjunctions: ἀλλά but, δέ (postpositive) but, and, ἀτάρ but, however, μέντοι (postpositive) however, yet, καίτοι and yet.

c. Disjunctive Conjunction: ἢ or. ἢ . . . ἢ either . . . or, is a frequent combination.

d. Inferential Conjunctions: ἄρα then, accordingly, as it seems; οὖν therefore, then; νυν or νῦν (enclitic and poetic), τοίνυν unemphatic now, then (cp. 673).

e. Causal Conjunction: γάρ for (cp. 672).

603 Instead of a full compound sentence, a sentence with a compound subject or a compound predicate may be used (Abbreviated Compound Sentence):

Ὁ δὲ πείθεται καὶ συλλαμβάνει Κῦρον he believed it and arrested Cyrus. Λκ. ι. 1, 3. ἐπαξίως γὰρ Φοῖβος, ἀξίως δὲ σὺ πρὸ τοῦ θανόντος τήνδ' ἔθεςθ' ἐπιστροφὴν for right worthily hath Phoibos, and worthily hast thou, bestowed this care for him that is dead. S. OT. 133 f.

PARATAXIS AND HYPOTAXIS

- 604 When two sentences, independent in form, are so united in speaking that one is subordinate to the other in thought, they are called *Paratactic*¹ (παρατάσσω arrange beside). In form, as written, they are simply coördinate sentences not joined together by a conjunction:

Ἐπίστασθε καὶ ὑμεῖς, οἶμαι you know it yourselves, I think.
 AN. III. 2, 8. ἥδιστ' ἂν ἀκούσαιμι τὸ ὄνομα, τίς οὕτως ἐστὶ δεινὸς λέγειν; I should like very much to hear the name, who is so skilled in talking? AN. II. 5, 15. εἰ μέντοι ἴστε, πᾶσαν ὑμῖν τὴν ἀλήθειαν ἐρῶ be assured, however, I shall tell you the whole truth.
 AP. 20 d. ἱκνοῦμαι μὴ προδοὺς ἡμᾶς γένη do not abandon us, I entreat. S. AI. 588.

- 605 Out of such paratactic sentences have grown all types of Subordination, or Hypotaxis (ὑποτάσσω arrange under). A sentence is Subordinate when it is made part of another, with the value of a noun, adjective, or adverb.

III. COMPLEX SENTENCES

- 606 A Complex Sentence consists of a principal sentence and one or more subordinate sentences, which are then called clauses.

a. The Principal or Leading clause may be of any type of simple sentence (451–489).

b. A Subordinate clause is marked

(1) Always by an introductory subordinating word;

(2) Often by a change of mode;

(3) Sometimes by a change of person, in verb and pronoun;

¹ Such sentences are even more common in English of familiar style than in Greek literature as we have it.

(4) Sometimes by a change of tense ; but only in the indicative, from present to imperfect or from perfect to pluperfect.¹

c. A direct quotation, or an indirect question that retains the direct form, though clearly subordinate, can hardly be separated from cases of parataxis (604).

607 The tenses in subordinate clauses have the same force as in simple sentences ; but when they denote time, their time is often merely relative to that of the leading clause.

608 Since the introductory subordinating word is what always and most clearly marks the subordinate clause, that is made the basis for classifying and describing such clauses.

609 Three functions, in the following order of development, may belong to a subordinating word :

(1) It has its own construction in the subordinate clause, as adverb, pronoun, or adjective.

(2) It connects the subordinate clause with some word, expressed or implied, in the leading clause.

(3) Both these functions fall into the background, and one or both may disappear, as the subordinating word comes more distinctly to denote the relation of clause to clause, rather than of word to word.

Μή CLAUSES

610 Μή (cp. 486) is often a subordinating conjunction (lest, that, that not) after expressions of fear or caution,

¹ In English, change of order is often the only sign of subordination ; so sometimes change of tense.

and sometimes after expressions of preventive action implying caution. (Negative οὐ. Cp. also 474.)

611 In Μή clauses

a. An indicative (present, perfect, imperfect, aorist) denotes something present or past:

Δέδοικα μὴ πληγῶν δέει I'm afraid you need a whipping. AR. N. 493. φοβούμεθα μὴ ἀμφοτέρων ἡμάρτηκαμεν we fear that we have failed of both. T. III. 53.

b. A subjunctive (rarely the future indicative) denotes something still future, or treated as unsettled:

Ὅκνοίην ἂν εἰς τὰ πλοῖα ἐμβαίνειν, μὴ ἡμᾶς καταδύσῃ I should hesitate to go aboard the boats, lest he sink us. AN. I. 3, 17. δεδιὼς μὴ λαβὼν με δίκην ἐπιθῇ fearing that he will take and punish me. AN. I. 3, 10. ὄρᾱ μὴ ἅμα τῷ κακῷ καὶ αἰσχροῦ ᾗ beware lest it be (see that it be not) shameful too as well as evil. CR. 46 a. παῦσαι, μὴ ἐφευρεθῇς ἄνους stop, that you be not found foolish. S. AN. 281.

Note that lest and that not are often equivalent. In the last example we might say lest you be found; μὴ οὐ ἐφευρεθῇς would be lest you be not found—the negative of μὴ ἐφευρεθῇς.

c. An optative denotes something future or treated as unsettled at the time of the principal verb, and also presents it as more remote from the speaker or writer—e. g., as the thought of another person, or as belonging to a past or an improbable situation.

The optative is therefore common after a past tense and after another optative, but is otherwise rare:

“Εδεισαν οἱ Ἕλληνες μὴ προσάγοιεν πρὸς τὸ κέρας the Greeks feared they would advance on their flank. AN. I. 10, 9. ἐδόκει ἀπιέναι ἐπὶ τὸ στρατόπεδον μὴ ἐπίθεσις γένοιτο it seemed best to go back to the camp, lest an attack should be made. AN. IV. 4, 22. λέγεται εἰπεῖν ὅτι ἀπιέναι βούλοιτο, μὴ ὁ πατήρ τι ἄχθοιτο he is said to have remarked that he wished to depart, lest his father should be vexed. C. I. 4, 25.

“ΟΣ AND “ΟΣΤΙΣ CLAUSES

612 The Relative Pronoun ὅς (213) connects its clause with some noun or pronoun, and has its own construction in the subordinate clause. (So of its compounds ὅσπερ, ὅστις, etc.)

a. The connecting force of ὅς may be no stronger than that of a demonstrative. The ὅς clause is then really independent.

When clearly subordinate, the ὅς clause often precedes the leading clause, or may be included within it.

613 a. The Relative Pronouns take their gender, number, and person from the antecedent; but sense may prevail over form, and when the relative is the subject a predicate noun sometimes prevails over the antecedent.

b. The Relative is often attracted from its proper case to the case of the antecedent, especially from the accusative to the genitive or dative:

“Ανδρες ἄξιοι τῆς ἐλευθερίᾱς ἧς κέκτησθε men worthy of the freedom which you possess. AN. I. 7, 3. φοβοίμην ἂν τῷ ἡγεμόνι ᾧ δοίη ἔπεσθαι I should fear to follow the guide whom he may give. AN. I. 3, 17.

c. Rarely the antecedent is attracted to the case of the relative, the two standing side by side :

Ἀνείλεν αὐτῷ ὁ Ἀπόλλων θεοῖς οἷς ἔδει θύειν Apollo in response told him the gods to whom he should sacrifice. AN. III. 1, 6.

d. The antecedent may be taken up into the subordinate clause, ὅς agreeing with it adjectively :

Τούτους ἄρχοντας ἐποίει ἧς κατεστρέφετο χώρᾱς these he made rulers of the territory which (of what territory) he subdued. AN. I. 9, 14.

614 The antecedent may be omitted ; it is often indefinite and therefore not expressed ; it may none the less attract the relative from the accusative to the genitive or dative (613 b) :

Νῦν ἐπαινῶ σε ἐφ' οἷς λέγεις τε καὶ πράττεις now I praise you for what you both say and do. AN. III. 1, 45. ἃ μὴ οἶδα οὐδὲ οἶομαι εἰδέναι what I do not know, I also do not think I know. AP. 21 d. ἐμμένομεν οἷς ὡμολογήσαμεν δικαίοις οὖσιν ἢ οὐ ; do we abide by what we agreed was just, or not? CR. 50 a.

a. From the customary omission of the antecedent have arisen some common idiomatic expressions :

εἰσὶν οἷ, more often	} some, literally there are who , etc.
ἔστιν οἷ (ὦν, οἷς, οὓς, ᾶ)
ἔστιν ὅστις ; (interrogative)	is there any one who?
ἐνίοτε (from ἐνι ὅτε)	sometimes,
ἔστιν οὗ	somewhere,
ἔστιν ἧ	in some way,
οὐκ ἔστιν ὅπως	there is no way how.

b. With these may be put οὐδεὶς ὅστις οὐ there is no one who . . . not ; through omission of the verb and the attraction of the antecedent to the case of the relative (613 c), the phrase is treated as a single pronoun meaning every one, and is then declined :

Οὐδένα ὄντιν' οὐ κατέκλασε he broke down every one.
PH. 117 d.

- 615 A “Ος Clause may take any form that is used in simple sentences (451–489). It may suggest cause, purpose, concession, and other relations. The negative is οὐ or μή according to the meaning :

Τοιούτους ἐπιέμπουσί μοι, οἷς ἔμεῖς οὐκ ἂν δικαίως πιστεύοιτε they send against me such people, whom you would not justly believe. L. 7, 40. ὃ μὴ γένοιτο which heaven forbid (may which not happen!). ἔδοξε τῷ δήμῳ τριάκοντα ἄνδρας ἐλέσθαι, οἱ τοὺς πατρίους νόμους συγγράψουσιν, καθ' οὓς πολῖτεύσουσιν the people voted to choose thirty men to codify the ancestral laws, in accordance with which they should conduct the government. H. II. 3, 2. ποταμόν, ὃν μὴ περάσῃς a river, which do not thou pass. A. PB. 744. πλάνην φράσω, ἣν ἐγγράφου σὺ μνήμοσιν δέλτοις φρενῶν I will tell thy wandering, which do thou write in the tablets of thy memory. A. PB. 815.

a. Instead of repeating a relative in a different case in the same sentence, Greek usually changes to a demonstrative or personal pronoun, or leaves the relative to be supplied :

Ξενοφῶν, ὃς οὔτε στρατηγὸς οὔτε στρατιώτης ὢν συνηκολούθει, ἀλλὰ Πρόξενος αὐτὸν μετεπέμψατο Xenophon, who was with them neither as general nor as soldier, but Proxenos had sent for him. AN. III. 1, 4.

- 616 In “Ος Clauses that differ in form from simple sentences,

a. A subjunctive (with ἄν, which is sometimes omitted in poetry, rarely in prose) describes a supposed or assumed case, which may or may not be real. The time is future, or present in the generalized sense (i. e., applying to present, past, and future alike). The subjunctive is especially common when the antecedent is indefinite :

Ὁ ἀνὴρ πολλοῦ ἄξιος φίλος ᾧ ἂν φίλος ᾗ the man is a valuable friend to any one to whom he is a friend (generalized present). AN. I. 3, 12. τῷ ἀνδρὶ ὃν ἂν ἔλῃσθε πείσομαι I will obey the man whom you choose (in the future). AN. I. 3, 15. ὧ μακάριοι δῆτα οἱ ἂν ὑμῶν ἐπίδωσι τὴν πασῶν ἡδίστην ἡμέραν O blessed, therefore, whoever among you shall behold that sweetest day of all! H. II. 4, 17.

Τῶν πημονῶν μάλιστα λυποῦσ' αἱ φανῶσ' αὐθαίρετοι those griefs give most pain that are seen to be self-chosen. S. OT. 1231. δέδοικα μὴ οὐκ ἔχω ἱκανοὺς οἷς δῶ¹ I fear I shall not have enough people to whom to give. AN. I. 7, 7.

b. An optative (without ἄν) describes an assumed case, but as more remote in thought from the speaker; e. g., as the thought of another person, or as part of a past or imaginary or improbable situation. The time is future, or present in the generalized sense, with reference to the time of the main verb. The optative is especially common after a past tense, and when the antecedent is indefinite, or the assumed situation is thought of as having occurred repeatedly:

Ἀπήγγελλον οἱ πρέσβεις ἐφ' οἷς οἱ Λακεδαιμόνιοι ποιοῖντο τὴν εἰρήνην the envoys reported on what terms the Spartans offered to make the peace. H. II. 2, 22. πρότερον οὐκ ἔχων πρόφασιν ἐφ' ἧς τοῦ βίου λόγον δοίην, νῦν δὲ εἴληφα whereas before I had no pretext on which to give an account of my life, now I have got one. L. 24, 1.

¹ Others explain this differently. But cp. Goodwin, Moods and Tenses, 538-540. Both in relative clauses and in εἰ clauses with the subjunctive ἄν is omitted regularly in Homer, often in Attic poets, and certainly sometimes in Attic prose. In this example ἄν would have been natural; the omission does not change the meaning. Cp. also 621 a.

Ὅκνοίην ἂν εἰς τὰ πλοῖα ἐμβαίνειν ἃ ἡμῖν Κῦρος δοίη I should hesitate to go aboard any boats given by Cyrus (supposing him to give any). AN. I. 3, 17.
ἀλλ' ὃν πόλις στήσειε, τοῦδε χρὴ κλύειν but whomsoever the state appoints, him we should obey. S. AN. 666.

Ἄεὶ πρὸς ᾧ εἴη ἔργῳ, τοῦτο ἔπραττεν always, at whatsoever task he was, that he strictly pursued. H. IV. 8, 22.

617 In place of a subjunctive or optative in ὅς clauses one could in any instance use the indicative. This merely left unexpressed (except by the context, which is usually enough, as in English) the suggestion conveyed by the other modes :

Ἄ μὴ οἶδα, οὐδὲ οἶμαι εἰδέναι what I do not know, neither do I think I know. AP. 21 d. (Here μὴ shows that the expression is general—whatever, at any time, I do not know.)

Οὐδ' ἐνὶ φροντίδος ἔγχος ᾧ τις ἀλέξεται nor is there any weapon of thought wherewith to defend (wherewith one shall defend). S. OT. 170.

Παρόν μοι μὴ θανεῖν ὑπὲρ σέθεν, ἀλλ' ἄνδρα σχεῖν Θεσσαλῶν ὃν ἤθελον though it was in my power not to die for you, but to get as husband whom I would of the Thessalians. E. AL. 285. (Alkestis had no one man in mind ; the expression is general.)

618 ὍΣΤΙΣ Clauses take all the forms of ὍΣ Clauses (615, 616), and the modes have the same force. But though the antecedent is usually indefinite, the indicative (617) is more frequent than in ὍΣ Clauses :

a. Subjunctive : ἅπᾱς δὲ τραχὺς ὅστις ἂν νέον κρατῇ and every one is harsh that's new in power. A. PB. 35. σὺν ὑμῖν ὅτι ἂν δέη πείσομαι with you I will suffer whatever we must. AN. I. 3, 5.

Without ἄν: καλόν τοι γλῶσσ' ὅτ' ὦ πιστὴ παρ' ἡ it is a fine thing, whoever has a trusty tongue. E. 1T. 1064.

b. Optative: οὕστινας χρείη ἄρχειν παρήγγελλον they gave orders what men should hold office. L. 12, 44. αἰσχροὺν ὑμῖν καὶ ἡντινοῦν [δίκην] ἀπολιπεῖν ἡντινὰ τις βούλοιο παρὰ τούτων λαμβάνειν it is shameful for you that any (penalty) whatever should be lacking which any one might wish to exact from these men. L. 12, 84. (Here the optative hightens to the utmost the inclusiveness of the expression—the most unlikely wish could not go too far.)

c. Indicative where subjunctive or optative would have been appropriate:

Ὅστις ζῆν ἐπιθῶμει, πειράσθω νικᾶν whoever is eager to live, let him try to conquer. AN. III. 2, 39. παρέσχον ἑμᾶντὸν ὅτι βούλεσθε χρῆσθαι I offered myself for you to treat in whatever way you will. L. 7, 40.

619 Ὅστις with an indicative often suggests cause, purpose, or result, by treating a definite antecedent as indefinite in order to characterize it (generally of persons):

Τί τὸν θεοῖς ἔχθιστον οὐ στυγείς θεόν, ὅστις τὸ σὸν θηντοῖσι προῦδωκεν γέρας why dost thou not hate this god, to gods most hateful, one who betrayed thy prize to men? A. PB. 38.

Πρεσβεῖαν πέμπειν ἣ τις ταῦτ' ἐρεῖ to send an embassy to say this. D. 1, 2.

Τίς οὕτω μαίνεται ὅστις οὐ βούλεται σοι φίλος εἶναι who is so mad as not to wish to be your friend? AN. II. 5, 12.

OTHER RELATIVE CLAUSES

620 Like Ὅς and Ὅστις Clauses, in construction and in the use of modes, are Clauses introduced by the other Relative Pronouns, ὅ, ὅσος, οἷος, ἡλίκος, ὅπόσος, ὅποῖος, ὀπηλίκος, ὁπότερος (227), or by the Relative Adverbs οὐ, ὅθεν, οἷ, ἧ, ὅπου, ὁπόθεν, ὅποι, ὅπη, or by ἔνθα, ἔνθεν, when these are relative (236) :

Δεῦρό μοι φώνει βλέπων ὅσ' ἄν σ' ἐρωτῶ look this way and answer whatever I ask you. S. OT. 1122.

σὺν ὑμῖν μὲν ἂν οἶμαι εἶναι τίμιος ὅπου ἂν ᾖ with you I think I should be in honor wherever I am.

AN. I. 3, 6.

Ὅσων ψαύοιμι πάντων τῶνδ' ἀεὶ μετειχέτην all that I touched, this they always both shared. S. OT. 1464.

ὅπου μὲν στρατηγὸς σῶς εἴη, τὸν στρατηγὸν παρεκάλουν, ὁπόθεν δὲ οἴχοιτο, τὸν ὑποστράτηγον wherever a general was safe, they invited the general, and from whatever division he was gone, the second in command. AN. III. 1, 32.

Ἐν τῇ Κύρου ἀρχῇ ἐγένετο ἀδεῶς πορεύεσθαι ὅπη τις ἤθελεν in Cyrus's province it became possible to travel fearlessly wherever one wished. AN. I. 9, 13. κρύψω τόδ' ἔγχος ἔνθα μή τις ὄψεται I will hide this sword where none shall see it. S. AI. 659.

a. Ὅσος and οἶος are often exclamatory, with no antecedent expressed ; the clause then has the form of a simple sentence. ἡλίκος and other relatives are sometimes so used :

Ὅσος παρ' ὑμῖν ὁ φθόνος φυλάσσεται how great the envy that is stored with you! S. OT. 382. οἶόν μ' ἀκούσαντ' ἀρτίως ἔχει ψυχῆς πλάνημα what wandering of soul, at hearing this just now, possesses me! S. OT. 726.

621 The general relatives, ὅστις, ὁπόσος, etc. (227), and ὅπου, ὁπόθεν, etc. (236), are also indirect interrogatives, used in quoted questions. The direct interrogatives (227, 236) are also used in indirect questions.

Such clauses have the form of a simple sentence ; but when they depend on a historical tense (246), an indicative or subjunctive of the direct form may be changed to the optative.

Ὁ τι ὑμεῖς πεπόνθατε οὐκ οἶδα how you have been affected (what you have experienced) I do not know. AP. 17 a. ὅποίοις λόγοις ἔπεισε Κῦρον ἄλλη γέγραπται by what arguments he convinced Cyrus has been written elsewhere. AN. II. 6, 4. οὐκ ἔχω σοφισμόν ὅτῳ ἀπαλλαγῶ I have no device whereby I shall escape. A. PB. 487. (Direct : τίνι σοφίσματι ἀπαλλαγῶ; 471.)

Ὅμοιοι ἦσαν θαυμάζουσιν ὅποι ποτὲ τρέπονται οἱ Ἕλληνες καὶ τί ἐν νῶ ἔχοιεν they were like people who wondered whither the Greeks would turn and what they had in mind. AN. III. 5, 13.

a. By omission of the antecedent, ὅς and the other simple relatives become sometimes in effect indirect interrogatives :

Εἰθε μήποτε γνοίης ὅς εἶ mayst thou never learn who thou art. S. OT. 1068.

Perhaps δέδοικα μὴ οὐκ ἔχω ἱκανοὺς οἷς δῶ (AN. I. 7, 7) also belongs here, because μὴ οὐκ ἔχω ὅ τι δῶ, a quoted dubitative subjunctive (471), stands just before, in the same sentence. Cp. 615 a, foot-note.

Ὅτι, Διότι, AND Οὕνεκα CLAUSES

622 Ὅτι, the neuter of ὅστις, becomes a subordinating conjunction (that) after many words of thinking, saying, and the like ; it introduces quoted words or thoughts, those of another or of the speaker, as an object, subject, or appositive clause :

Ἐννοησάτω ὅτι πανταχοῦ ταῦτα γίγνεται let him reflect that this happens everywhere. II. II. 3, 24. τοῦτο γιγνώσκων, ὅτι ἡδ' ἐστὶν ἡ σώζουσα recognizing this, that it is she (the state) that saves us. S. AN. 188. ἔλεγον ὅτι Κῦρος τέθνηκεν they said that Cyrus was dead. AN. II. 1, 3.

a. Ὅτι also introduces subject and appositive clauses of the same kind after δῆλόν ἐστι it is plain, εἰκός ἐστι it is probable, and the like; these clauses are treated as quoted thoughts:

Δῆλον ὅτι παύσομαι ὅ γε ἄκων ποιῶ it is plain that I shall stop doing what I do unintentionally. AP. 26 a. ἄλλως γνωστὸν ὅτι ἀληθῆ λέγω on other grounds it may be perceived that I tell the truth. H. II. 3, 44.

b. Ὅτι has also the force of in that and because; in these senses it may introduce any form of the indicative sentence or of the hypothetical optative (479):

Τὰ μὲν ἄλλα ὀρθῶς ἤκουσας ὅτι δὲ καὶ ἐμὲ οἶει εἰπεῖν τοῦτο, παρήκουσας the rest you heard rightly; but in that you suppose I too said this, you heard wrongly. PR. 330 e. αἰσχυνόμενος ὅτι σύνοιδα ἐμαντῶ ἐψευσμένος αὐτόν ashamed because I am conscious of having deceived him. AN. I. 3, 10. μὴ θαυμάζετε ὅτι χαλεπῶς φέρω do not be surprised that I feel badly. AN. I. 3, 3. τί ποτ' οὖν τῶν ἐμοὶ πεπραγμένων οὐχὶ μέμνηται; ὅτι τῶν ἀδικημάτων ἂν ἐμέμνητο τῶν αὐτοῦ why, pray, has he not mentioned my acts? Because he would have mentioned his own wrong-doings. D. 18, 79.

c. A ὅτι clause often precedes its leading clause:

Ὅτι ἀδικεῖσθαι νομίζει ὑφ' ἡμῶν οἶδα that he thinks himself wronged by us I am sure. AN. I. 3, 10.

623 A quotation introduced by ὅτι may retain its original form, as a simple, compound, or complex sentence (direct quotation); ὅτι is then merely a mark of quotation, not to be translated:

Ὡς ἀποφανῶν τῷ χρησμῷ ὅτι “οὗτος ἐμοῦ σοφώτερός ἐστι, σὺ δ' ἐμὲ εἶρησθα” thinking that I should show to the oracle, “This man here is wiser than I, but you said I was.” AP. 21 c.

624 a. An Indirect Quotation with ὅτι usually retains the tense and mode of the direct form:

Φανερώς εἶπεν ὅτι ἡ μὲν πόλις σφῶν τετελείχισται ἤδη he said openly that their city was already walled. T. I. 91. τοῦτο καλῶς ἠπίσταντο, ὅτι ἄλλως μὲν οὐχ οἰοί τε ἔσονται περιγενέσθαι they knew this well, that otherwise they would be unable to get the upper hand. L. 12, 45.

b. But after a historical tense an optative may stand in the indirect form for an indicative or subjunctive of the direct form :

Κῦρος ἔλεγεν ὅτι ἡ ὁδὸς ἔσοιτο πρὸς βασιλέᾱ Cyrus said that their march would be (direct, ἔσται) against the king. AN. I. 4, 11. ἔλεγον ὅτι Κῦρος μὲν τέθνηκεν Ἀριαῖος δὲ πεφευγὼς εἶη καὶ λέγοι ὅτι ταύτην μὲν τὴν ἡμέρᾱν περιμενοῖεν αὐτούς, τῇ δὲ ἄλλῃ ἀπιέναι φαίη they said that Cyrus was dead (direct, τέθνηκε), and that Ariaaios had fled (πεφευγὼς ἐστι, πέφευγε), and said (λέγει or ἔλεγε) that during this day he would wait for them (the messenger said περιμενεῖ, Ariaaios said περιμενῶ), and that he declared (ἔφη) that on the next day he would depart. AN. II. 1, 3.

Note that a pres. opt. may represent the imperfect indic. ; but the change to the optative is never made when it could cause ambiguity.

c. Sometimes a present or perfect indicative of the direct form is changed to an imperfect or pluperfect in the indirect, as is usual in English :

Ἐν πολλῇ ἀπορίᾳ ἦσαν οἱ Ἕλληνες, ἐννοούμενοι μὲν ὅτι ἐπὶ ταῖς βασιλέως θύραις ἦσαν, προυδεδώκεσαν δὲ αὐτοὺς καὶ οἱ βάρβαροι the Greeks were in great difficulty, reflecting that they were at the king's gates (direct, ἐπὶ ταῖς θύραις ἐσμέν), and that the barbarians also had abandoned them (ἡμᾶς προδεδώκασι). AN. III. 1, 2.

625 By the omission of verbs arise expressions like δῆλον ὅτι evidently, οἶδ' ὅτι I am sure, surely, οὐχ ὅτι (for οὐκ ἐρῶ ὅτι) not merely, μὴ ὅτι (for μὴ εἶπω, εἶπης, ὑπολάβῃς ὅτι) not to say, not only.

- 626 Διότι (for διὰ ὅτι) wherefore, because, that, is used like ὅτι, often in the sense of because, sometimes in the sense of that. οὖνεκα (for οὐ ἕνεκα) wherefore, that, is used like ὅτι in poetic style :

Ἐτύγχανε ἐφ' ἀμάξης πορευόμενος διότι ἐτέτρωτο it happened that he was riding in a wagon, because he was wounded. AN. II. 2, 14.

Οὗτος δέ μοι φίλος οὖνεκ' Ἀτρείδης στυγεῖ this man is my friend because he hates the Atreidai. S. PH. 586. ἴσθι τοῦτο πρῶτον οὖνεκα Ἑλληνές ἐσμεν know this first, that we are Greeks. S. PH. 232.

CLAUSES WITH 'Οτε, 'Οπότε, 'Επεί, 'Ηνίκα, 'Οπηνίκα

- 627 'Οτε while, when, and 'Οπότε whenever (236), introduce temporal clauses, the time of which is commonly the same as that of the leading verb. When ἄν with the subjunctive follows, ἄν is joined to the conjunction ; ὅτε ἄν becomes ὅταν, ὁπότε ἄν becomes ὁπότεν.

'Οτε and 'Οπότε, like when, since, while,¹ often take a causal meaning ; rarely they take a concessive meaning, although.

'Οτε and 'Οπότε Clauses are like 'Ος and 'Οστις Clauses. With the subjunctive they are always temporal :

'Οτε ταῦτα ἦν, σχεδὸν μέσαι ἦσαν νύκτες it was about midnight when this was taking place. AN. III. 1, 34. ἐνταῦθα Ξέρξης, ὅτε ἐκ τῆς Ἑλλάδος ἀπεχώρει, λέγεται οἰκοδομηῆσαι ταῦτα τὰ βασίλεια there Xerxes is said to have built this palace when he was returning from Greece. AN. I. 2, 9. (Here the inf. οἰκοδομῆσαι, representing an aor. indic., is the leading verb for the ὅτε clause which fixes its time.) ὅτ' οὖν παραινοῦς' οὐδὲν ἐς πλέον ποιῶ, πρὸς σέ ικέτις ἀφίγμαι since then I accomplish naught by advising (him), to thee I have come, a suppliant. S. OT. 918. χαλεπὰ τὰ παρόντα, ὁπότε ἀνδρῶν στρατηγῶν τοιούτων στερούμεθα the present situation is hard, since we are bereft of such commanders. AN. III. 2, 2.

¹ Lat. cum has like changes of meaning ; but the Greek use of modes must not be confused with the Latin.

Ὅταν σπεύδῃ τις αὐτός, ᾧ θεὸς συνάπτεται whenever one shows zeal himself, God also aids. A. P. 744. ὅταν δὴ μὴ σθένω πεπαύσομαι I will stop when in truth I have no more strength. S. AN. 91.

Ὅτε ἔξω τοῦ δεινοῦ γένοιντο,¹ πολλοὶ αὐτὸν ἀπέλειπον whenever they got out of danger, many would leave him. AN. II. 6, 12. ἃ ἐκείνος ἐθήρευν ἀπὸ ἵππου ὁπότε γυμνάσαι βούλοιτο ἑαυτὸν τε καὶ τοὺς ἵππους which he used to hunt on horseback, whenever he wished to exercise both himself and his horses. AN. I. 2, 7.

628 Εὔτε and εὐτ' ἄν in poetry have the same meaning and use as ὅτε and ὅταν :

Εὔτε γ' ἐξ ἀέλπτων Αἴας μετεγνώσθη θυμοῦ now that Aias, beyond our hope, has repented of his wrath. S. AI. 715. εὐτε πόντος ἐν μεσημβρινᾷς κοίταις ἀκύμων νηνέμοις εὔδοι πεσών whene'er the sea fell waveless in its calm midday couch and slept. A. A. 570.

¹ The opt. in subordinate clauses of repeated past action, the use of the impf. and aor. indic. with ἄν in principal clauses for occasional past action (361 a, 367 a), and our similar use of would, as in translating the above sentence, all seem to proceed from the same mental tendency. Instead of making the statement in the form of a fact, it is made in the form of a supposed case; the context shows that the case assumed is understood as a typical one, such as occurred repeatedly.

629 'Επεί when, after that, after, introduces temporal clauses; the time is commonly earlier than that of the leading clause. When ἄν with the subjunctive follows, ἄν unites with ἐπεί and forms ἐπήν or ἐπάν.

'Επεί also takes a causal, rarely a concessive, meaning—since, while, whereas, rarely although.

'Επεί Clauses are like "Ος and "Οτε Clauses. With the subjunctive they are always temporal.

'Επειδή (with ἄν, ἐπειδάν) is a strengthened form of ἐπεί. ἐπειδάν is more frequent than ἐπήν or ἐπάν.

'Επεὶ ἐτελεύτησε Δαρεῖος, Τισσαφέρνης διαβάλλει Κῦρον after Dareios died, Tissaphernes slandered Cyrus. AN. I. 1, 3. ἐπεὶ ὑμῖς ἐμοὶ οὐκ ἐθέλετε πείθεσθαι, ἐγὼ σὺν ὑμῖν ἔσομαι since you are unwilling to obey me, I will follow you. AN. I. 3, 6. ἐπειδὴ Κῦρος ἐκάλει, λαβὼν ὑμᾶς ἐπορευόμην when Cyrus called, I took you and went. AN. I. 3, 4. ἐπεὶ τοῦτο ἐγένετο καὶ τοὺς νεκροὺς ὑποσπόνδους ἀπεδίδοσαν, προσιόντες ἀλλήλους πολλοὶ διελέγοντο after this was over and they were giving back the dead under a truce, many approached and talked with each other. II. II. 4, 19.

Ὁ δ' ὑπέσχετο ἀνδρὶ ἐκάστῳ δώσειν πέντε ἀργυρίου μνᾶς ἐπήν εἰς Βαβυλῶνα ἤκωσι and he promised that he would give each man five minae in money after they should get to Babylon (the mode of the direct form, ἐπήν ἤκωμεν, retained). AN. I. 4, 13. ἐπειδὰν ἅπαντα ἀκούσητε κρίνατε after you have heard all, then judge. D. 4, 14.

Οἱ μὲν ὄνοι, ἐπεὶ τις διώκοι, προδραμόντες ἕστασαν καὶ πάλιν ἐπεὶ πλησιάζοιεν οἱ ἵπποι, ταῦτόν ἐποιοῦν the asses, whenever any one pursued them, would run forward and then stand still; and again they would do the same whenever the horses drew near.

AN. I. 5, 2. ἐπεὶ δὴ ἀνοιχθείη, εἰσῆμεν παρὰ τὸν Σωκράτη as soon as it (the prison) was opened, we used to go in where Sokrates was. PH. 59 d.

a. Ἐπεὶ clauses may, like ὅς clauses (612 a), be so loosely joined to the preceding sentence as to be in fact independent:

Ἐπεὶ καὶ τοῦτό γέ μοι δοκεῖ καλὸν εἶναι although this too seems to me to be a fine thing. AP. 19 e.

630 Ἦνίκα when and Ὅπηνίκα whenever are like ὅτε and ὁπότε in meaning and use, but they generally define the time more precisely—just when, at the very time when; they are much less frequent than ὅτε and ὁπότε:

Ἦνίκα δείλη ἐγίγνετο, ἐφάνη κορυορτὸς ὥσπερ νεφέλη λευκή just as evening was coming on, there appeared a rising of dust, like a white cloud. AN. I. 8, 8. ἐπιχειρεῖ ἡνίκα ἂν ἡμεῖς μὴ δυναίμεθα ἐκεῖσε ἀφικέσθαι he makes attempts just when we should be unable to get there. D. 4, 31.

Ἐξάρξω μὲν οὖν ἐγὼ ἡνίκ' ἂν καιρὸς ᾗ παιᾶνα I will myself, then, lead in a paeon when the right moment comes. H. II. 4, 17.

Εἶρπε δ' ἄλλοτ' ἄλλαχᾶ τότ' ἂν εἰλυόμενος, ἀνίκ' ἐξανεῖη δακέ-θῦμος ἄτᾶ then he would drag himself this way and that (after food), whenever the devouring anguish abated. S. PH. 705.

CLAUSES WITH "Εως, "Εστε, Μέχρι, "Αχρι

631 Ἔως while, so long as, until, likewise Ἔσ-τε, Μέχρι οὔ, Μέχρι, Ἀχρι (οὔ), until, so long as, introduce Relative Clauses of time. The indicative states a fact, present or past; the subjunctive (with ἄν, sometimes without) and the optative (without ἄν) have the same force as in ὅς clauses (616 a, b).

In the sense of while, so long as, they naturally take one of the tenses of continuance (present, imperfect, perfect); in the sense of until they generally take the aorist:

Ἔως μένομεν αὐτοῦ, σκεπτόμεν μοι δοκεῖ ὅπως, κτλ. while we remain here, it seems to me we must consider how, etc. AN. I. 3, 11. Ἔως μὲν ἐτίματο, πιστὸν ἑαυτὸν παρείχεν so long as he was honored, he showed himself faithful. L. 12, 66.

Προσμέναντες ἕως τοὺς νεκροὺς ἀνείλοντο οἱ προσήκοντες waiting until their kinsmen had taken up the dead. H. II. 4, 7. ταῦτα ἐποιοῦν μέχρι σκότος ἐγένετο this they kept doing till darkness came on. AN. IV. 2, 4.

Ἔως δ' ἂν οὖν ἐκμάθῃς, ἔχ' ἐλπίδα but keep hope at any rate until you learn the whole. S. OT. 835. ἕως ἂν σφύζεται τὸ σκάφος, τότε χρὴ καὶ ναύτην καὶ κυβερνήτην προθύμους εἶναι while the boat is safe, then ought both sailor and pilot to be zealous. D. 9, 69. μέχρι ἂν ἦκω, αἰσπονδαὶ μενόντων let the truce continue till I return. AN. II. 3, 24. ἐπίσχεσ ἕς τ' ἂν καὶ τὰ λοιπὰ προσμάθῃς wait till thou hast also learned the rest. A. PB. 723.

Ἔδοξεν οὖν προῖέναι ἕως Κύρῳ συμμείξειαν they decided to go on, until they should join Cyrus. AN. II. 1, 2. περιέμενε μέχρι ἔλθοι he waited for him to come (till he should come). H. I. 3, 11.

a. A ἕως clause has the indicative also when the action is known to be impossible, because dependent on a clause that implies unreality :

Ἐπισχὼν ἂν, ἕως οἱ πλείστοι τῶν εἰωθότων γνώμην ἀπεφάναντο, ἡσυχιάν ἂν ἤγον I should have waited, until most of the several speakers had set forth their view, and should have kept still. D. 4, 1.

b. Some of the above clauses with ἕως, etc., and the subjunctive or optative imply both purpose and condition, while at the same time they are primarily temporal.

Ὡς CLAUSES

632 Ὡς as, how, and ὥς thus, so, are adverbs of manner from ὅς (339) ; they differ only in accent, ὥς corresponding to the older demonstrative form of ὅς, and ὡς to the relative form ; sometimes ὡς itself is accented (18, 21 c).

The uses of ὡς as a subordinating conjunction fall under two classes :

A. Corresponding to those of ὅς and other relative pronouns,

B. Showing farther developments in special directions.

633 A. Ὡς as, how, in which way, corresponds closely to ὅς in meaning, and introduces clauses like ὅς clauses ; most of them are like simple sentences (615), but some have the subjunctive and optative in the manner described in 616 a and b.

a. As purely relative, in comparisons, often in the strengthened form ὥσπερ. Though a conjunction, ὡς retains the force of an adverb in its own clause :

Ἐκέλευσε τοὺς Ἕλληνας, ὡς νόμος αὐτοῖς εἰς μάχην, οὕτω ταχθῆναι καὶ στῆναι he directed the Greeks, as was their custom for battle, so to arrange themselves and take position. AN. I. 2, 15. θᾶπτον ἢ ὡς ἂν ᾤετο more quickly than (as) one would have thought. AN. I. 5, 8. ὡς ὁ τάδε πορὼν ὅλοιτο as may he that wrought this perish. S. E. 126.

Often the antecedent is a sentence or phrase : ὥς μὲν τοῖς πλείστοις ἐδόκουν, φιλοτιμηθέντες, ὅτι κτλ. being jealous, as they appeared to the majority, because, etc. AN. I. 4, 7. So ὥς ἐλέγετο as was said, ὥς ἀκούω as I hear, and many like expressions.

b. As indirect interrogative :

Ἐξήγγειλε τὴν κρίσιν Ὀρόντᾱ, ὥς ἐγένετο he reported the trial of Orontes, how it was conducted. AN. I. 6, 5. ἄκουσον ὥς ἐρῶ hear how I shall tell it. S. OT. 547. οἶσθ' ὥς ποιήσον; do you know how you should do? (literally, do you know how do?) S. OT. 543.

In this use also ὥς retains its force as adverb.

c. Temporal :

Ὁ δ' ὥς ἀπῆλθε βουλεύεται but he, as he went away, considered. AN. I. 1, 4. ὥς εἶδε Κλέαρχον διελαύνοντα, ἔησι τῇ ἀξίνῃ when he saw Klearchos riding through, he threw his ax at him. AN. I. 5, 12.

d. Causal :

Δέομαι σοῦ παραμεῖναι ἡμῖν, ὥς ἐγὼ οὐδ' ἂν ἐνὸς ἡδῖον ἀκούσαιμι I beg you to stay with us, as there is not one whom I would more gladly hear. PR. 335 d.

e. Such clauses, like those introduced by ὅς and ἐπεὶ (629 a), are often so loosely connected with the main verb as to be really independent sentences.

f. Some common phrases have arisen from the omission of a verb. Thus clauses like ὥς μάλιστα ἐδύνατο as he was most able (AN. I. 1, 6), and ὥς ἂν δύνωμαι δι' ἐλαχίστων in as brief terms as I can (L. 12, 3), are abbreviated to ὥς μάλιστα and ὥς δι' ἐλαχίστων. In this way ὥς becomes merely a means of strengthening a superlative : ὥς βέλτιστος as good as possible.

634 B. Two special uses of ὥς have been developed from the relative meaning (633 a). These are (1) the declarative, (2) the final, denoting purpose,

- 635 Clauses with ὥς declarative, meaning how, that, are like Clauses with ὅτι meaning that (622):

Οὐποτε ἐρεῖ οὐδεὶς ὥς ἐγὼ τὴν τῶν βαρβάρων φιλίαν εἰλόμην no one shall ever say that I chose the friendship of the barbarians. AN. I. 3, 5. ὥς δὲ τοῦτο οὕτως ἔχει, πειράσομαι καὶ ὑμῖν ἐπιδείξαι and that this is so, I will try to show you also. AP. 24 c.

- 636 Clauses with ὥς final, denoting purpose, meaning that, in order that, are frequent in poetry, but rare in prose, except in Xenophon. With ὥς in this sense

a. A subjunctive (often with ἄν) denotes a purpose still to be accomplished:

Δεῖ θεοῖς δοῦναι δίκην, ὥς ἄν διδαχθῇ he must pay the penalty to the gods, that he may be taught (in a way in which he may). A. PB. 10. ὥς δ' ἄν μάθῃς ὅτι οὐδ' ἄν ὑμεῖς δικαίως ἐμοὶ ἀπιστοίητε, ἀντάκουσον but that you may learn that you also would not justly distrust me, hear in turn. AN. II. 5, 16.

b. An optative (without ἄν) denotes a purpose of the same kind, but more remote from the speaker—e. g., as that of another person, or of a past situation, or as less likely to be accomplished. The optative is common after a past tense:

Ἰκόμην τὸ Πῦθικὸν μαντεῖον, ὥς μάθοιμ' ὅτῳ τρόπῳ πατρὶ δίκας ἀροίμην I came to the Pythian oracle, that I might learn in what way I should gain justice for my father. S. E. 33. προσκαλὼν τοὺς φίλους ἐσπουδαιολογεῖτο ὥς δηλοίη οὗς τιμᾶ he used to call his friends and talk seriously with them, so as to show whom he honored. AN. I. 9, 28.

c. A past tense of the indicative (imperfect, aorist, pluperfect) marks the purpose as unattainable, part of an imaginary, unreal situation expressed or implied in the leading clause :

Εἰ γάρ μ' ὑπὸ γῆν ἦκεν, ὥς μήτε θεὸς μήτε τις ἄλλος τοῖσδ' ἐπεγλήθει oh that he had sent me under the earth, that neither god nor any other creature might be rejoicing at this. A. PB. 165. τί μ' οὐ λαβὼν ἔκτεινας, ὥς ἔδειξα μήποτε ἑμαυτὸν ἀνθρώποισιν why did you not take and slay me, that I might never have shown myself to men. S. OT. 1392.

d. For ὥς with a participle see 593 c.

For ὥς with an infinitive see 566.

637 Ὡςπερ is a strengthened ὥς, used only in a relative and comparative sense—even as, just as. Ὡςπερ clauses are therefore like simple sentences :

Ὡςπερ ἵππος εὐγενὴς ἐν τοῖσι δεινοῖς θυμὸν οὐκ ἀπώλεσεν, ὡσαύτως δὲ σὺ ἡμᾶς ὀτρύνεις even as a horse of noble blood does not lose heart (465) in danger, so thou dost spur us on. S. E. 25.

Ὡς CLAUSES

638 Ὡς is the general relative and indirect interrogative to ὥς and πῶς. Ὡς Clauses are like Ὡς Clauses, but some types are more frequent (and others less frequent) with ὅπως. The following are common.

a. With a future indicative, after expressions of planning or effort, to denote the aim :

Σκεπτόμεν μοι δοκεῖ εἶναι ὅπως ἀσφαλέστατα μενούμεν it seems to me we must consider how we shall remain most safely. AN. I. 3, 11. βουλεύεται ὅπως μήποτε ἔτι ἔσται ἐπὶ τῷ ἀδελφῷ he considered how he should never again be dependent on his brother.

 AN. I. 1, 4. ὅπως καὶ ὑμεῖς ἐμὲ ἐπαινέσετε ἐμοὶ μελήσει it shall be my care that you too shall praise me. AN. I. 4, 16. ἄλλο τι ἢ περὶ πολλοῦ ποιεῖ ὅπως ὡς βέλτιστοι οἱ νεώτεροι ἔσονται; don't you think it, very important that the young shall be as good as possible? AP. 24 d.

b. Out of the preceding, by omission of the main verb, has grown the use of ὅπως and ὅπως μή with a future indicative to express a command or prohibition. A leading verb is no longer thought of, and the ὅπως clause becomes a form of simple sentence:

Ὅπως οὖν ἔσσεσθε ἄνδρες ἄξιοι τῆς ἐλευθερίᾳς prove yourselves men worthy of your freedom. AN. I. 7, 3. ὅπως μὴ ποιήσετε ὃ πολλάκις ὑμᾶς ἔβλαψε see that you don't do what has injured you often. D. 4, 20.

c. With a subjunctive, often with ἄν, or an optative without ἄν, expressing purpose; in legal and official style ὅπως ἄν with a subjunctive is frequent:

Ἴσθι πᾶν τὸ δρώμενον, ὅπως ἂν εἰδὼς ἡμῖν ἀγγείλῃς σαφῇ learn all that is going on, that you may with knowledge bring a clear report to us. S. E. 40. δεῖ πειρᾶσθαι ὅπως καλῶς νικῶντες σωζώμεθα we must try how we may save ourselves by conquering nobly. AN. III. 2, 3.

Ἀπεκρίνατο ὅτι αὐτῷ μέλοι ὅπως καλῶς ἔχοι he replied that he was taking care that it should be well.
 AN. I. 8, 13. ἱκανὸς μὲν φροντίζειν ἦν ὅπως ἔχοι ἡ στρατιὰ αὐτῷ τὰ ἐπιτήδεια he was competent to provide how his army should have supplies. AN. II. 6, 8.

d. After expressions of caution or fear a clause with ὅπως μή sometimes takes the place of a μή clause (610, 611) :

Δέδοικα ὅπως μὴ ἡμῖν ἀνάγκη γενήσεται I fear that necessity will come upon us. D. 9, 75. φυλάττου ὅπως μὴ εἰς τοῦναντίον ἔλθῃς take care that you do not run into the very opposite. M. III. 6, 16. Slightly different is τὴν θεὸν δ' ὅπως λάθω δέδοικα but I fear I shall not escape the goddess (literally, I fear the goddess, how I shall escape her). E. IT. 995.

e. The common phrase οὐκ ἔστιν ὅπως there is not how is translated variously according to the context :

Οὐκ ἔστιν ὅπως οὐκ ἐπιθήσεται ἡμῖν it is impossible that he will not attack us. AN. II. 4, 3. οὐκ ἔστιν ὅπως σὺ ταῦτα οὐχὶ ἀποπειρώμενος ἡμῶν ἐγράψω τὴν γραφὴν ταύτην it can not be but that you brought this indictment by way of making trial of us. AP. 27 e. οὐκ ἔσθ' ὅπως ὄψει σὺ δεῦρ' ἐλθόντα με you surely will never see me come here. S. AN. 329.

ὩΣΤΕ CLAUSES

639 ὩΣΤΕ (ὥς or ὡς and τε) has three meanings and uses :

a. And so, so that, with any finite mode. The mode has the same force as in simple sentences ; in fact the ὥστε clause is often independent :

Ὡστε βασιλεὺς τὴν μὲν πρὸς ἑαυτὸν ἐπιβουλὴν οὐκ ᾔσθ' ἄνετο so that the king did not perceive the plot against himself. AN. I. 1, 8. Ὡστε μηδὲν δι' ἄλλο με ἡγεῖσθαι ταύτην ποιῆσθαι τὴν ἀπολογίαν so do not suppose that I make this defense for any other reason. L. 16, 8.

b. As, like ὥς and ὥσπερ in comparisons, mostly without a verb expressed :

Πάντες, ὥστε τοξόται σκοποῦ, τοξεύετ' ἀνδρὸς τοῦδε you all shoot at me, as archers at a mark. S. AN. 1033.

c. So as to, so that, with an infinitive, see 566.

"Ινα CLAUSES

640 "Ινα has two meanings and uses :

(1) Relative, where ; in poetry this older meaning is still the prevailing one ;

(2) Final, denoting purpose, in order that, that ; in prose this is the most frequent final conjunction.

641 Clauses with "Ινα relative are like "Ος Clauses (615) ; the verb is generally in the indicative ; ινα sometimes becomes an indirect interrogative :

Ἐν ἀγορᾷ, ἵνα ὑμῶν πολλοὶ ἀκηκόασι in the market-place, where many of you have heard me. AP. 17 c. τῷδ' ἀπανθρώπῳ πάγῳ, ἵν' οὔτε φωνὴν οὔτε του μορφὴν βροτῶν ὄψει to this lone hight, where neither voice nor form of any mortal shalt thou behold. A. PB. 21. ὁρᾷς ἵν' ἦκεις ; dost see where thou art come? S. OT. 687.

642 In Clauses with "Ινα final (cp. 636) :

a. A subjunctive (without ἄν) denotes a purpose still to be accomplished :

Τῷ ἀνδρὶ ὃν ἂν ἔλθῃς πείσομαι, ἵνα εἰδῇτε ὅτι καὶ ἄρχεσθαι ἐπίσταμαι I will obey the man whom you elect, that you may know that I understand also how to be ruled. AN. I. 3, 15. ἃ Ἀβροκόμᾱς κατέκαυσεν, ἵνα μὴ Κῦρος διαβῇ which (boats) Abrokomas burned, that Cyrus might not cross. AN. I. 4, 18.

b. An optative (without ἄν) denotes a purpose of the same kind, but more remote from the speaker—e. g., that of another person, or of a past situation, or a purpose less likely to be realized. The optative is common after a past tense, and when subordinate to another optative :

Λαβὼν ὑμᾶς ἐπορευόμην, ἵνα ὠφελοίην αὐτὸν ἀνθ' ὧν εὖ ἔπαθον ὑπ' ἐκείνου I took you and came, that I might aid him in return for the kindness I had received from him. AN. I. 3, 4. Μένων δῆλος ἦν ἐπιθυμῶν τιμᾶσθαι ἵνα πλείω κερδαίνοι Menon was plainly eager to be honored, that he might make greater gains. AN. II. 6, 21. θῦμὸν γένοιτο χειρὶ πληρῶσαί ποτε, ἵν' αἱ Μυκῆναι γνοίεν may it some time be mine to satisfy with deeds my longing, that Mykenai might learn, etc. S. PH. 325.

c. A past tense of the indicative (imperfect, aorist, pluperfect) marks the purpose as unattainable, part of an imaginary, unreal situation, expressed or implied in the leading clause :

Οὐ γὰρ ἐχρῆν ἄρχοντας οἰκείους εἶναι, ἵν' ἦν ὡς ἀληθῶς τῆς πόλεως ἡ δύναμις ; ought there not to have been commanders of your own, that the forces might really belong to the state? D. 4, 27. οὐκ ἂν ἐσχόμην, ἵν' ἦ τυφλός τε καὶ κλύων μηδέν I should not have refrained, that I might be both blind and deaf. S. OT. 1389.

d. Note that any clause of purpose, if its leading clause implies that the case is already impossible, takes a past tense of the indicative.

This is a form of attraction, the mode of the leading clause determining the mode of the subordinate clause. In the same way, any clause dependent on an optative is generally attracted to the optative,

Πρίν CLAUSES

643 The comparative adverb πρίν earlier, before, is used often with the infinitive (see 568). It also becomes a subordinating conjunction; it may then often be best rendered until.

644 In Clauses with Πρίν

a. An indicative denotes a past fact:

Οὐκ ἰέναι ἤθελε, πρίν ἡ γυνή αὐτὸν ἔπεισε καὶ πίστευς ἔλαβε he was not willing to go, until his wife persuaded him and he had received pledges. AN. I. 2, 26.
 δμᾶθέντας γὰρ ἀνίστη, πρίν αὐτὸν εἶλε Διόβολον πλήκτρον πυρὸς κεραυνίου for he was wont to raise the dead, until the Zeus-hurled bolt of thunderous fire destroyed him. E. AL. 128.

b. A subjunctive (usually with ἄν) describes not a real but a supposed or anticipated case; the time is future, or present in the generalized sense:

Δεῖται αὐτοῦ μὴ πρόσθεν καταλῦσαι πρίν ἄν αὐτῷ συμβουλευέσῃται he asks him not to come to terms before consulting with him. AN. I. 1, 10. μὴ στέναζε πρίν μάθῃς no more lament, before thou learnest. S. P. 917. αἰσχρὸν ἡγοῦμαι πρότερον παύσασθαι, πρίν ἄν ὑμεῖς περὶ αὐτῶν ὅτι ἄν βούλησθε ψηφίσῃσθε I think it a shame to stop before you shall have voted what you will about them. L. 22, 4.

c. An optative (without ἄν) describes a supposed case, but more remote in thought from the speaker—as the thought of another, or as part of a past or an imaginary situation; the optative is not frequent:

Ἵποσχόμενος αὐτοῖς μὴ πρόσθεν παύσασθαι πρὶν αὐτοὺς καταγάγοι οἴκαδε promising them that he would not stop till he should restore them to their homes. AN. I. 2, 2. οὐποτ' ἔγωγ' ἂν, πρὶν ἰδοιμ' ὀρθὸν ἔπος, μεμφομένων ἂν καταφαίην never would I, before I see the word made good, say yea when they do blame him. S. OT. 505.

d. An indicative πρὶν clause generally has a negative leading clause; subjunctive and optative πρὶν clauses nearly always do. When the leading clause is affirmative, πρὶν generally takes the infinitive; in the meaning before, when until can not be substituted, it takes the infinitive even after a negative.

Ei CLAUSES

- 645 What is stated not as a fact but as a supposition, assumed in order to base upon it another statement, is called a condition; any word or form of words that so states something is a conditional expression. Common conditional expressions in English are such as begin with if, unless, suppose, in case, on the chance that, whoever, whenever, etc.; inversion of subject and predicate may have the same meaning, as Were I Brutus, or Should you ask me.¹ Several forms of conditional expression in Greek, used for stating a supposed case, have been already noted (481, 616, 618, 620, 627, 629–631); but the fullest and most distinct form is the εἰ clause. A conditional sentence consists of a conditional clause or condition (protasis) and a principal clause, the conclusion (apodosis).

¹ Other frequent forms of condition are illustrated in What matter, so I help him back to life.—TENNYSON, Lanc. and El.

Not without she wills it.—TENNYSON, Lanc. and El.

Man gets no other light,

Search he a thousand years.—M. ARNOLD, Emped.

Imperative and interrogative sentences, in both English and Greek, sometimes have the same office.

- 646 Εἰ if introduces conditional clauses, stating a supposed or assumed case. (For other meanings of the εἰ clause see 654, 655.)

Εἰ clauses may have the verb in (A) the indicative, (B) the subjunctive, (C) the optative. The negative is μή. The conclusion may be any form of simple sentence; but certain forms of conclusion and condition are naturally more apt to go together.

A. Εἰ with the Indicative

- 647 Εἰ with the present indicative, also with the perfect, imperfect, and aorist, presents the supposition simply, without implying anything as to its reality or probability; the tenses have the same force as in simple sentences (Simple or Logical Condition, present or past):

Εἴπερ γε Δαρείου ἐστὶ παῖς, οὐκ ἀμαχεῖ ταῦτ' ἐγὼ λήψομαι if he is indeed a son of Dareios, I shall not take this without a battle. AN. I. 7, 9. θαυμάζοιμ' ἂν εἰ οἴσθα I should be surprised if you know. PR. 312 c. φήσουσι δὴ με σοφὸν εἶναι, εἰ καὶ μή εἰμι they will say of course that I am wise, although (if in fact) I am not. The καί hints, without quite asserting, that the case is not merely assumed, but real. AP. 38 c.

Οὐ θαυμαστὸν δ' εἰ τότε τὰς μοριάς ἐξέκοπτον it is not surprising if at that time they cut out the sacred olive-trees. L. 7, 7. εἰ κερδαίνειν ἐβούλουν, τότε ἂν πλεῖστον ἔλαβες if you wished to make money, you would in that case have got most. The εἰ clause here is a simple condition; τότε is a conditional expression that resumes an earlier clause and stands for an unreal condition (649). L. 7, 20. εἰ ταῦτ' αἰσθόμενος ἐγὼ διεκώλυσα, ταῦτ' ἐστὶ προδότην εἶναι τῶν φίλων; if I, perceiving this, prevented it, is that being a betrayer of one's friends? H. II. 3, 46.

648 The future indicative in an Ei Clause

a. Is in form a simple future condition; sometimes it is equivalent to μέλλω with an infinitive, denoting present intention or expectation:

Εἰ τούτου καταψηφιεῖσθε, δῆλοι ἔσεσθε ὡς ὀργιζόμενοι τοῖς πεπραγμένοις if you vote against this man, it will be plain that you are angry at their deeds. L. 12, 90. ἀσύνετα νῦν ἐροῦμεν, εἴ σέ γ' εὐφρανῶ we will talk nonsense now, if I shall (thereby) please you. E. IA. 654. εἰ οὖν οἱ δοκοῦντες διαφέρειν τοιοῦτοι ἔσονται, αἰσχρὸν ἂν εἴη if then those who are thought superior are to be like that, it would be a shame. AP. 35 a.

b. It often suggests threat, warning, or earnest appeal (Emotional Future Condition):

Εἰ ὑφηςόμεθα καὶ ἐπὶ βασιλεῖ γενησόμεθα, τί οἰόμεθα πείσεσθαι; if we yield and come into the king's power, what treatment do we expect? AN. III. 1, 17. εἰ τῖμωρήσεις Πατρόκλῳ τὸν φόνον καὶ Ἑκτορα ἀποκτενεῖς, αὐτὸς ἀποθανεῖ if you shall avenge the slaying of Patroklos and kill Hektor, you will yourself die. AP. 28 c.

In such cases the indicative presents the supposition more distinctly as a possible future fact; if the consequences will be serious, it gives a “minatory or monitory” tone to force one to look at them in that way.

- 649 Ei with the indicative imperfect and aorist, rarely the pluperfect, is used to imply that the supposition is past realization, opposed to a known fact (Unreal Present or Past Condition).

The imperfect is used when the reality would be expressed by the present or imperfect, the aorist when the reality would be expressed by the aorist, the pluperfect when the reality would be expressed by the perfect:

Φῶς εἰ μὴ εἶχομεν, ὅμοιοι τοῖς τυφλοῖς ἂν ᾤμεν
if we did not have light (as we do) we should be like the blind. M. IV. 3, 3. οὐκ ἂν νήσων ἐκράτει, εἰ μὴ τι καὶ ναυτικὸν εἶχε he would not have ruled over islands, if he had not had some naval force (therefore he had, εἶχε ναυτικόν). T. I. 9.

Εἰ μὴ ὑμεῖς ἦλθετε ἐπορευόμεθα ἂν ἐπὶ βασιλέᾳ
if you had not come (but you did, ἦλθετε), we should now be marching against the king. AN. II. 1, 4. εἴ τις σε ἦρετο, τί ἂν ἀπεκρίνω; if some one had asked you (nobody did), what should you have answered? PR. 311 b. εἴ σε τύχη προύπεμψε καὶ ἡλικίᾳς ἐπέβησεν, ἐλπίδι γ' ᾔσθα μέγας if fortune had guided thee on and brought thee to manhood, in hope at least thou wast great. CIA. 2263.

Εἰ ἐκεκτῆμην οὐσιᾶν, ἐπ' ἀστράβης ἂν ὠχούμην
if I possessed property, I should ride on a saddle.
 L. 24, 11.

B. Ἐάν with the Subjunctive

650 The subjunctive takes ἄν (rarely omitted), which is joined with εἰ, forming ἐάν (often contracted to ἦν or ᾗν).

The subjunctive puts the supposition simply, referring it either to future time, or to any or all time (the generalizing present), whichever the context, especially the leading clause, may indicate (Simple Future Condition, or General Condition).

* Ἦν μὲν μένωμεν, σπονδαί if we remain, a truce.
AN. II. 1, 22. ἦν τοῦτο λάβωμεν, οὐκ δυνήσονται μένειν if we take this, they will not be able to remain.
AN. III. 4, 41. ἐὰν δ' ἀπῇ τὸ χαίρειν, τᾶλλ' ἐγὼ καπνοῦ σκιᾶς οὐκ ἂν πριαίμην but if joy be gone, the rest I would not for a vapor's shadow buy. S. AN. 1170.

Εἴ τι νύξ ἀφ' ἧ, τοῦτ' ἐπ' ἡμᾶρ ἔρχεται if night leaves aught, this the day assails. S. OT. 198.

a. For ἐάν meaning on the chance that, see 652.

b. Greek also uses the present indicative (with εἰ) in general conditions, as English does (cp. 617).

c. Greek and Latin uses of the subjunctive in conditions must not be confused. ἐάν with the subjunctive corresponds to si with the future or future perfect indicative; si with the subjunctive corresponds to εἰ with the optative (651): ἐὰν τοῦτο ποιήσῃς si hoc facies or feceris.

C. Εἰ with the Optative

651 Εἰ with the optative (without ἄν) presents the supposition as more remote in thought (616 b)—

(1) As a mere possibility, generally future, sometimes present or general (Possible Condition),

(2) As part of a past situation which occurred repeatedly (Past Repeated Condition),

(3) As the thought of another person or an earlier time (Quoted Condition); the future optative in such a condition always represents a future indicative of the original form :

Οὐκ ἂν θαυμάζοιμι εἰ οἱ πολέμιοι ἡμῖν ἐπακολουθοῖεν I should not be surprised if the enemy should follow us. AN. III. 2, 35. λῦπουμενοις ὀχληρός, εἰ μόλοι, ξένος a guest annoys the sorrowing, if he come. E. AL. 540. καὶ τοῦτό γέ μοι δοκεῖ καλὸν εἶναι, εἴ τις οἷός τ' εἴη παιδεύειν ἀνθρώπους this too seems to me a fine thing, if one be really able to educate people. AP. 19 e.

Εἰ δὴ ποτε πορεύοιτο καὶ πλείστοι μέλλοιεν ὄψεσθαι, προσκαλὼν τοὺς φίλους ἐσπουδαιολογεῖτο if ever he was on the march and many would see it, he would call his friends and talk seriously with them. AN. I. 9, 28. τῶν πολλῶν εἴ τις αἴσθοιτο, ἐσίγα if any of the popular party perceived it, he said nothing. D. 9, 61.

Ἐβουλήθησαν Ἐλευσίνα ἐξιδιώσασθαι, ὥστε εἶναι σφίσι καταφυγὴν εἰ δεήσκει they wished to make Eleusis their own, so as to have it as a refuge in case of need. H. II. 4, 8. γνούς ὁ Κριτιάς ὅτι εἰ ἐπιτρέψοι τῇ βουλῇ διαψηφίζεσθαι περὶ αὐτοῦ διαφεύξειτο Kritias, recognizing that, if he should allow the council to decide about him by a vote, he would escape (direct, εἰ ἐπιτρέψω). H. II. 3, 50.

a. Rarely εἰ with the optative expresses an unreal condition, as in Homer.

- 652 Ἐάν with the subjunctive, and after a past tense εἰ with the optative, are sometimes to be translated on the chance that, in the hope that, if perchance; the future supposition of the εἰ or εἰ clause is a motive for the action of the leading clause:

Οὐκουν ἀτρέμ' ἔξεις, ἣν τι καὶ χορδῆς λάβῃς won't you keep quiet then, on the chance of getting some sausage too? AR. R. 339.
πέμψαντες πρέσβεις, εἴ πως πείσειαν μὴ σφῶν πέρι νεωτερίζειν μηδέν sending envoys, in hopes they might (if haply they might) induce them to make no innovations in regard to them. T. I. 58.

- 653 Εἴτε . . . εἴτε and εἰάν τε . . . εἰάν τε whether . . . or, introduce alternative conditions, with indicative, subjunctive, or optative:

Πάντως δήπου, εἰάν τε σὺ καὶ Ἄνυτος οὐ φῆτε εἰάν τε φῆτε it certainly is so, whether you and Anytos say no or say yes. AP. 25 b.

- 654 After expressions of wonder, indignation, and some other emotions, εἰ with the indicative is used to describe, in the milder form of a supposition, the fact that causes the emotion. In such clauses εἰ may sometimes be translated if, but oftener that:

Θαυμάζω δ' ἔγωγε εἰ μηδεὶς ὑμῶν μήτ' ἐν θῦμῳ εἶται μήτ' ὀργίζεται but I am for my part surprised that no one of you bears it in mind or is angry. D. 4, 43.

Other Uses of Ei

- 655 After expressions of doubt or inquiry, εἰ with the indicative (rarely εἰάν with the subjunctive) becomes an indirect question. In such clauses εἰ (or εἰάν) may sometimes be translated if, but more often whether:

Εἰ μὲν δὴ δίκαια ποιήσω οὐκ οἶδα whether I shall be doing right I do not know. AN. I. 3, 5. εἰ ξυμπονήσεις καὶ ξυνεργάσῃ σκόπει see whether thou wilt work with me and share the deed. S. AN. 41.

656 By omission of the verb some common phrases have arisen :

a. Εἰ μὴ except, εἰ μὴ διὰ except for :

Ἀπολέσαι παρεσκευάζοντο τὴν πόλιν, εἰ μὴ δι' ἄνδρας ἀγαθοὺς they were preparing to destroy the state, except for (had it not been for) some good men. L. 12, 60.

b. Ὡσπερ ἂν εἰ as, like ; the ἂν suggests a hypothetical indicative or optative as a conclusion to an εἰ clause :

Εὐθὺς ἡσπάζετο αὐτὸν ὥσπερ ἂν εἰ πάλαι φιλῶν ἀσπάζοιτο he greeted him at once, just as if one should greet an old friend. C. I. 3, 2. (ἀσπάζοιτο might have been omitted.)

c. Εἰ δὲ μὴ otherwise also introduces a supposition contrary to something that precedes—often where μὴ seems unnecessary, sometimes where we should expect εἰ instead of εἰ :

Ἀπῆται τὰ χρήματα· εἰ δὲ μὴ, πολεμήσειν ἔφη αὐτοῖς he demanded the return of the property ; otherwise he said he would make war on them. H. I. 3, 3. μὴ ποιήσης ταῦτα, εἰ δὲ μὴ, αἰτιάων ἔξεις do not do this, else you will be blamed. AN. VII. 1, 8.

INDIRECT DISCOURSE

657 Words or thoughts so quoted as to be made grammatically subordinate in form to a verb or other expression meaning say, think, hear, or the like, are indirect quotations ; a direct quotation retains the original form.

The forms used in indirect discourse have been already given in their proper places ; for convenience they are here briefly summed up together.

658 Simple sentences and principal clauses (not interrogative) in indirect quotation are put in the infinitive after certain verbs (577–579)—after φημι, οἶομαι, and νομίζω regularly in prose, seldom after λέγω and εἶπον, except in the sense of bid.

659 After most other verbs such clauses are introduced by ὅτι or ὥς (624, 635); the original tense is retained, the original mode is retained always after primary tenses and often after historical tenses. (But see 624 c.)

a. But after historical tenses an indicative or subjunctive may be changed to an optative, unless that would cause ambiguity; an indicative with ἄν (461, 467, 469) is retained unchanged, to avoid confusion with a hypothetical optative.

b. After one or more ὅτι or ὥς clauses, when the introductory verb of saying is no longer near, a succeeding principal clause may be in the infinitive—as if the introductory verb had been one that requires the infinitive.

660 After verbs of thinking, hearing, and the like, that take a predicate participle agreeing with the object (586), the leading verb of a brief quotation may be changed to a predicate participle. (See examples under 586.)

661 Direct questions, when made indirect, retain the original mode and tense; but after historical tenses they may change an indicative or subjunctive to the optative, like ὅτι clauses (659 a).

Note especially that no indirect question has the subjunctive unless the direct form has it (dubitative subjunctive, 471); and that the optative is never required, even after a past tense. .

662 Subordinate clauses of indirect discourse retain the mode and tense of the direct form always after a primary tense, often after a historical tense. But after a historical tense they may change an indicative or subjunctive to an optative, unless that would cause ambiguity; a past tense of the indicative in an unreal condition (649), or in a clause that expresses a purpose past attainment (636 c, 642 c), is retained unchanged, to avoid confusion with other forms of conditional or final clauses.

663 A long quotation carried through strictly in the indirect form, as is so often done in Latin, would have seemed in Greek monotonous and dull. The Greek preferred to vary it by repeating ἔφη, by inserting ἔφη χρῆναι or ἐκέλευσε before an expression of will, and by shifting from indirect to direct forms. English resembles Greek rather than Latin in this respect.

664 Examples of Indirect Discourse.

Ἀγαπήσειν με ἔφασκεν εἰ τὸ σῶμα σώσω he said I would be satisfied if I should save my life (direct, ἀγαπήσεις εἰ σώσεις). L. 12, 11.

Ἦκεν ἄγγελος λέγων ὅτι λελοιπὸς εἶη Συέννεσις τὰ ἄκρα, ἐπεὶ ᾗσθετο τὸ Μένωνος στράτευμα ὅτι ἤδη ἐν Κιλικίᾳ ἦν there came a messenger saying that Syennesis had left the heights after he perceived that Menon's force was already in Kilikia (direct, λέλοιπε, ἐπεὶ ᾗσθετο ὅτι ἦν. For ἦν see 624 c.). AN. I. 2, 21.

Ὁ δὲ ἀπεκρίνατο ὅτι ἀκούοι Ἀβροκόμᾱν, ἐχθρὸν ἄνδρα, ἐπὶ τῷ Εὐφράτῃ ποταμῷ εἶναι, ἀπέχοντα δώδεκα σταθμούς· πρὸς τοῦτον οὖν ἔφη βούλεσθαι ἐλθεῖν· καὶ μὲν ἦ ἐκεῖ, τὴν δίκην ἔφη χρήζειν ἐπιθεῖναι αὐτῷ, ἦν δὲ φεύγῃ, ἡμεῖς ἐκεῖ πρὸς ταῦτα βουλευσόμεθα he answered that he had heard (ἀκούω) that Abrokomas, an enemy of his, was near the river Euphrates, twelve days' march distant (this fact would have been reported to Cyrus in the form Ἀβροκόμᾱς ἐστί); against him therefore he said he wished (direct, βούλομαι) to go; and if he proved to be there (direct form retained), he said he wished to punish him (direct, χρήζω); but if he retreats, we will there concert measures in regard to this (direct quotation). AN. I. 3, 20.

In AN. I. 3, 14, ἐλῆσθαι depends on εἶπε in the sense of bade, urged, representing a hortative subjunctive ἐλώμεθα or an imperative ἔλεσθε. Similarly ἀγοράζεσθαι, συσκευάζεσθαι, αἰτεῖν, συντάττεσθαι, πέμψαι. Meantime εἰ βούλεται remains in the direct form; ἢ δὲ ἀγορὰ ἦν is a remark of Xenophon, not of the soldier; ὥς ἀποπλέοιεν represents ὥς ἀποπλέωμεν of the direct; ἐὰν διδῶ and ἀπάξει are unchanged, as are φθάσωσι and ἔχομεν.

PARTICLES

665 A class of words called Particles, some of them conjunctions, some adverbs, some both at once, are used freely in Greek to make clearer certain relations between ideas. Most of the ordinary conjunctions have practical equivalents in English, and hence make no difficulty. (See, e. g., 602.) But for some of the commonest particles, adverbial in character, or partly adverbial and partly conjunctional, English has no precise equivalents in separate words; we express only by stress, by pauses, and by tones or changes of pitch (speech-tune) what in Greek is fully expressed, by these particles and by word-order, on the printed page. The force of such particles can be really learned only by observation in reading, especially while reading aloud and while listening to such reading. The following sections (666–673) describe briefly the more distinct meanings of the particles that most require attention, although such a description can not be very exact.

Particles which can not begin a clause are postpositive, and are marked in the following list by an asterisk, as * ἄν.

666 ἄν* marks the action of a verb as more or less uncertain, either (1) as contingent on circumstances not yet realized, or (2) as itself merely supposed. The first use is seen in the hypothetical indicative and optative (461, 467, 479); in the second use ἄν stands (or may stand) with most classes of subordinate subjunctives (616 a, 618 a, 620, 627–632, 636 a, 638 c, 644, 650). ἄν is not used with subordinate μή clauses nor with quoted dubitative subjunctives, because it was not used with the simple subjunctive sentences from which these subordinate clauses arose; it nearly dropt out of purpose clauses, though ὅπως and ὥς clauses often retain it.

a. Rarely ἄν stands with a future indicative to mark it as contingent, or with a future participle representing such an indicative.

667 The negative adverbs οὐ and μή have been described (486); their compounds differ in meaning as do simple οὐ and μή.

Οὐδέ (μηδέ) is the negative of δέ and καί, (1) as conjunction, but not, and not, nor, especially in continuing a negative; (2) as adverb, emphasizing the following word or phrase, nor yet, also not, not . . . either, not even.

- 668 Ἄρα and ἤ mark a sentence as interrogative, implying nothing as to the answer expected.

For μή and μὴν in questions see 488 a, c. οὐ in a question is like English not, implying that the answer yes is expected; so also οὐκοῦν, but less strongly. ἄρα before μή or οὐ merely makes the interrogative force more distinct.

Πότερον (πότερα) . . . ἢ introduce the members of an alternative question, utrum . . . an. (Whether . . . or was formerly used in the same sense, but whether is not so used in modern prose in a direct question.)

- 669 a. * Μέν, a weaker form of μὴν (671 a), implies that the word before it, or the phrase in which it stands, is thought of as contrasted with something that is to follow; the second contrasted member is usually marked by * δέ, sometimes by ἀλλά or some other adversative conjunction, but is sometimes left unexpressed. μέν and δέ are very frequent, marking a great variety of contrasted ideas, often where English or Latin would use for the former member a concessive clause, introduced by although and the like.

Note that δέ is always a conjunction; hence μέν . . . δέ can be used only when the second member requires a but or and.

b. * Μέντοι (μέν and τοι, 671 e) generally marks a contrast or a transition to a different topic, however, yet.

But sometimes the older force of μέν (= μὴν) is more prominent—certainly, surely. So sometimes in other combinations, as πάνν μὲν οὖν assuredly, certainly.

- 670 a. Καί (besides its use as a conjunction, and) is an adverb, also, even, emphasizing the following word or phrase.

Καὶ εἰ is even if, εἰ καί if in fact, although, καὶ δὴ καί and of course also, and in particular.

b. Καίτοι is slightly adversative, and yet.

c. Καίπερ although stands only with participles (593 b).

671 Several particles are intensive, denoting emphasis or stress, of slightly varying degree and kind.

a. *Μήν in truth is the strongest, often giving prominence to the whole statement rather than to a single word; ἦ μὴν verily introduces the formula of an oath; καὶ μὴν and surely, and see, in tragedy often calls attention to a newcomer.

The weakened form μέν sometimes retains a similar force (cp. 669).

b. The enclitic *γε emphasizes the preceding word by restriction. At least has a like force, but is usually too strong; a slight stress of voice is sometimes the only translation possible. *γοῦν (γε and οὔν, 673 a) is a stronger at least, at any rate.

c. The most untranslatable and elusive is *δή.

(1) Its force falls on a single preceding word (though another particle may intervene), marking the idea as obvious, definite, positive; δῆλα δὴ quite plain, πολλοὶ δὴ a great many, κάλλιστος δὴ the very finest, clearly the finest, οὕτως δὴ in just this way, ποῦ δὴ; where, pray? εἰ δὴ if indeed, ὁρᾶτε δὴ you see, of course, τότε δὴ then indeed. Sometimes it gives an ironical tone, forsooth, as he claims.

(2) Its force extends to a whole clause, near the beginning of which it stands; it then marks the statement as obvious, to be expected under the circumstances; it may thus become inferential, of course, you see, clearly, accordingly.

d. The form *δῆτα surely is a stronger, δῆπου (δὴ and πού) a weaker δὴ. δῆπου is often ironical, doubtless, I suppose. δῆθεν is almost always ironical, forsooth.

e. The enclitic *τοι is by origin a for dative of σύ (older τύ); thus it calls the listener's attention to the statement, as one that concerns him. The translation is various; doubtless, you know, be assured, have a similar tone, but are usually too strong. Frequent compounds are μέντοι (669 b), οὔτοι surely not. For τοίνυν, etc., see 673 b.

672 From γε ἄρα (673 a) is formed * γάρ, which has several distinct uses, with some that are transitional between these.

a. Adverbially, γάρ makes the preceding word prominent, somewhat as γε does, while suggesting, like ἄρα, that the preceding sentence has something to do with this prominence. Especially in questions γάρ denotes surprise, or some kindred emotion: τίς γὰρ ἂν ᾤηθη; why, who would have thought! D. 9, 68. γένοιτο γὰρ ἄν τι καινότερον; could there possibly be anything newer! D. 4, 10. Also in answers, or other statements positively made, with some reference to a preceding statement: ἦ γὰρ ἀνάγκη (AN. I. 6, 8) or ἀνάγκη γάρ I must indeed!

With these belongs the use of γάρ in wishes (470 a, 477). γάρ in this group of uses may be called γάρ emotional.

b. Often a narrative or explanation that has just been promised is introduced by γάρ explanatory. The nearest English equivalent is namely; sometimes we may translate by for example, that is; but more often English in such cases has no introductory word: ὑμᾶς εἰδὼς διδάξω. τὸ μὲν γὰρ πλῆθος πολὺ κτλ. I will explain to you. Their number is large, etc. AN. I. 7, 4. Whether this γάρ is an adverb or a conjunction it is difficult to say.

c. As a conjunction, γάρ causal introduces a reason; the sentence with γάρ generally follows that for which it gives the cause. Sometimes the γάρ clause precedes or is inserted parenthetically within the other sentence; γάρ may then usually be rendered since.

d. Καὶ γάρ is sometimes for even, for also, καὶ being adverbial and emphasizing the next following word; but more often καί is a conjunction and γάρ adverbial, and in fact; sometimes it is impossible to determine which was the conjunction, καὶ γάρ having become a standing formula:

Τοῦτο ἐποίει ἐκ τοῦ χαλεπὸς εἶναι καὶ γὰρ ὁρᾶν στυγνὸς ἦν καὶ τῇ φωνῇ τρᾶχύς this he did by being severe; his very appearance was disagreeable and his voice harsh. AN. II. 6, 9. In ἀλλὰ γάρ the γάρ is almost always adverbial, but in fact, but really, but then.

673 a. The particles * ἄρα, * οὖν, and (in poetry) enclitic * νυν or * νῦν are inferential, translated therefore, accordingly, so, as it appears, unaccented now or then. δὲ sometimes approaches these in meaning (671 c).

b. The syllable τοι- (not the same as * τοι, 671 e), probably another form of the demonstrative τῷ, as a with or by dative, appears in * τοί-νυν accordingly, well then, farther; also in τοι-γάρ, τοι-γάρ-τοι, τοι-γαρ-οὖν, more strongly inferential, therefore, and so, for just that reason. γάρ is here adverbial, the final -τοι of τοι-γάρ-τοι is the enclitic (671 e).

WORD-ORDER

674 Each language has its own ways of arranging words within the sentence, ways natural to the native speaker, but more or less strange at first to others. English, Greek, Latin, French, German, all differ considerably from one another in word-order. The following sections describe the more striking differences between Greek word-order and English.

675 The order of words in Greek is much freer than in English, because Greek has fuller inflections.

Thus the boy saw a man means one thing, a man saw the boy means another, saw a man the boy means nothing; but the Greek could say ὁ παῖς εἶδεν ἄνδρα, ἄνδρα εἶδεν ὁ παῖς, εἶδεν ἄνδρα ὁ παῖς, or ἄνδρα ὁ παῖς εἶδεν, all with equal clearness, with no change in syntax or essential meaning, but merely with different emphasis. In English the word-order is the most important means of indicating syntax; in Greek it serves this purpose to a far less extent, but is the chief means, along with particles, of indicating what we call rhetorical effects.

676 Certain requirements of position for certain words and meanings have been described above—the attributive and predicate positions (552, 555, 556), the special rule for ὅδε, οὗτος, ἐκεῖνος, etc. (553, 554 and a), the meanings of αὐτός according to its position (199), the fact that many words are postpositive (665–673), and that some particles throw their force on the preceding word (as μέν, δέ, γε, γοῦν, δή) while others throw their force on what follows (as καί, οὐδέ, μήν). Also, as in English, a preposition usually precedes its noun, a conjunction begins its clause, any word that looks back to a preceding clause is likely to stand near the beginning, any word that looks forward to the next clause is likely to stand near the end. These general requirements, and the necessity for clearness of syntax, take precedence of all other principles.

677 The above requirements being met, and other things being equal, the more important precedes, the less important follows; the degree of importance diminishes from the beginning of the clause to the end, the final place is that of least prominence.

a. As regards the final place, this is the opposite of the rule in English, which makes the final place the most prominent. In reading English aloud—or Greek that one does not understand—the tendency is to put most stress on the last word; this must be reversed in reading Greek. In translating, the relative prominence is sometimes best preserved in English by reversing the Greek order.

b. A longer grammatical unit (sentence or clause) may be divided into smaller rhetorical units, each consisting of several words; the above rule then applies to each rhetorical member as well as to the whole clause. Thus the first word after a pause in Greek receives the prominence of a last word before a pause in English.

678 The importance that determines order may be logical or emotional; the two kinds are in most sentences more or less combined, and are not always clearly separable in thought. Logical importance is relative prominence in a complex thought, viewed wholly without emotion, as a simple fact or a scientific statement; the relative logical importance of the same elements of a thought may vary with varying circumstances (679). But most things are looked upon with more or less of feeling, which may give them, to the speaker or listener, a relative importance very different from that of logic or of abstract thought; this is their emotional importance (680). The term emphasis denotes generally emotional importance, but is used also of marked logical importance.

679 Order determined mainly by logical importance.

a. Ἔστιν οὖν τραγωδίᾳ μίμησις πράξεως σπουδαίᾳς καὶ τελείᾳς, μέγεθος ἐχούσης, ἡδυσμένῳ λόγῳ, χωρὶς ἐκάστου τῶν εἰδῶν ἐν τοῖς μορίοις, δρώντων καὶ οὐ δι' ἀπαγγελίᾳς. This is Aristotle's definition of tragedy (POET. 6). The preceding discussion (to which οὖν refers us) has included tragedy, and has reached the point where the question is now, not so much what tragedy is, but rather what tragedy is, in view of the preceding argument; hence ἔστιν stands first. The central fact in the essence of tragedy is μίμησις imitative presentation; then follow the various restrictions, that gradually narrow the general statement down to a definition, proceeding always from the general to the particular. In its essence, then, tragedy is the representation of an action that has dignity, completeness, and magnitude, in artistic language, with each kind of verse kept separate in the parts, presented by people acting instead of through narrative.

b. General rules, applying this principle in detail, in the simple unemotional sentence, are :

(1) An arrangement without emphasis is subject, its modifiers, predicate, modifiers of the predicate. This often agrees closely with the English order.

(2) An adjective, or adnominal genitive, or appositive, unless for some reason emphatic, is apt to follow its noun.

But if the noun has the article, any attributive expression takes the attributive position (552).

(3) Modifiers of a verb (except the negatives) are apt to follow the verb.

(4) But circumstances may give special importance to a modifier, and therefore place it earlier.

c. An example of simple narrative is :

Ἐντεῦθεν ἐξελαύνει σταθμοὺς δύο παρασάγγας δέκα εἰς Πέλτας, πόλιν οἰκουμένην. ἔνταῦθ' ἔμεινεν ἡμέρας τρεῖς· ἐν αἷς Ξενίας ὁ Ἄρκας τὰ Λύκαια ἔθῦσε καὶ ἀγῶνα ἔθηκε· τὰ δὲ ἄθλα ἦσαν στλεγγίδες χρῦσαί· ἐθεώρει δὲ τὸν ἀγῶνα καὶ Κῦρος. AN. I. 2, 10. Here the demonstratives ἔντεῦθεν and ἔνταῦθα, and the relative ἐν αἷς, point back to the preceding sentence and form the connection; ἐξελαύνει and ἔμεινεν contain the central idea of these clauses; the numeral follows its noun. Xenias is a new person introduced, who interrupts the monotony by a festival; the name of the festival, τὰ Λύκαια, is more important than ἔθῦσε, which was the regular verb denoting such a celebration; so with ἀγῶνα and ἔθηκε. The prizes were strigils is our natural order also, but the relative importance of the pair στλεγγίδες χρῦσαί is represented in English by the opposite order, golden strigils. In the last clause the important item was that the prince himself was a spectator; ἐθεώρει is duly marked by its position, Κῦρος is made prominent by καί (cp. 681 b).

In such simple narrative note that chronological order may often determine the order of presentation, when lucidity is a prime object.

680 Order influenced by emotional prominence.

Ὡς μὲν στρατηγήσοντα ἐμὲ ταύτην τὴν στρατηγίαν μηδεὶς ὑμῶν λεγέτω let no one of you speak with the idea that I am going to act as general in this plan of campaign. AN. I. 3, 15. στρατηγήσοντα ἐμέ contains the central idea which the speaker wishes to remove from their minds; μὲν looks forward to a following clause, to be contrasted with this.

In AN. I. 4, 3, ἑπτακοσίους ἔχων ὀπλίτας and τετρακόσιοι ὀπλῖται, the stress laid on the numbers, which are somewhat contrasted with each other, places them before the nouns. In AN. I, 3, 17, βουλοίμην δ' ἂν ἄκοντος ἀπιὼν Κύρου λαθεῖν αὐτὸν ἀπελθὼν I should wish, if I am going away without Cyrus's consent, to get away without his knowledge, ἄκοντος and λαθεῖν are contrasted and emphasized. In AP. 40 d, θαυμάσιον κέρδος ἂν εἴη ὁ θάνατος a wonderful gain would death be, θαυμάσιον is the most emphasized word and κέρδος next, while the subject, ὁ θάνατος, is here the least important, and might almost have been omitted.

Sometimes, of two or more coördinate expressions, which in English would be so arranged that the most important would come last, the first is in Greek plainly the most emphasized: μὴ ἐφευρεθῆς ἄνους τε καὶ γέρων ἅμα lest thou be found both old and foolish too. S. AN. 281.

a. When the clause is apparently complete, a new element—noun, pronoun, verb, but especially an adverb—may be added after a slight pause, as if an afterthought. The added word is then the first after a pause and is thereby made prominent, though it may be also the last in the clause; it virtually makes a clause by itself.

b. Sometimes a form of the periodic style, so common in Latin, is followed in Greek also, when a more even stress and an air of calm dignity is suitable: τὴν τῶν πέλας αὐτοὶ ἐπελθόντες οὐ χαλεπῶς ἐν τῇ ἀλλοτρίᾳ τοὺς περὶ τῶν οἰκείων ἀμυνομένους μαχόμενοι τὰ πλείω κρατοῦμεν when we ourselves invade our neighbors' territory, without difficulty, on alien soil, though against men who are acting in defense of their own, we more often prevail. T. II. 39. This is the style of one who is conscious that every word is laden with meaning, and will be weighed.

681 Since there are many ways of indicating the importance of words besides order, it often happens that an emphasized word stands where the order alone would leave it in the background. Other means of emphasis are:

a. The personal pronouns ἐγώ, σύ, ἡμεῖς, etc., also αὐτός standing alone in the nominative, or in any case in the predicate position, also ὃδε, οὗτος, or ἐκεῖνος used as a personal pronoun in the nominative, are emphatic in any position. Thus in D. 1, 9, ἡυξήσαμεν, ὃ ἄνδρες Ἀθηναῖοι, Φίλιππον ἡμεῖς we ourselves, men of Athens, have given Philip his present power, ἡυξήσαμεν is emphasized strongly by position, ἡμεῖς by being expressed at all; the place at the end does not affect ἡμεῖς one way or the other—unless indeed a slight pause was made before it (680 a).

b. Adverbs and particles like καί, οὐδέ, μήν, δῆ, all indicate prominence.

c. Simple repetition, or the use of two synonyms for one idea, delays attention longer and so makes an idea prominent.

d. Any form of parallelism in expression, whether of repetition or of contrast, calls attention to both members. Thus μέν and δέ, similarity of ending (ὁμοιοτέλευτον rime), and the use of the same word in different cases side by side (682 b), always give emphasis. In this way an important word may stand last without danger of being slighted.

682 Certain combinations were so frequent that we may call them fashions of word-order. Especially noticeable are

a. Chiasmus ("criss-cross" order, from the shape of the letter X) reverses in the second of two parallel phrases the order of the first; this gives equal prominence to each member in both phrases: καλὸν τὸ ἄθλον καὶ ἡ ἐλπίς μεγάλη noble is the prize and our hope great. PH. 114 c.

$$\begin{array}{cc} \text{καλὸν} & \text{τὸ ἄθλον} \\ & \times \\ \text{ἡ ἐλπίς} & \text{μεγάλη} \end{array}$$

b. Two words of like sound or derivation but of contrasted meaning, or two forms of the same word in different constructions, are apt to be put near each other: τὰ τῶν θεῶν ἐντῆμ' ἀτιμάσῃς ἔχε what the gods honor, in dishonor hold. S. AN. 77.

c. When the same word is repeated in two contrasted members which contain μέν and δέ, the repeated word stands first, followed by μέν and δέ. This usage doubtless began with clauses in which the repeated word was emphatic; but it became the rule, as early as Homer, even when the repeated word was unimportant: πᾶσα μὲν ὁδὸς εὐπορος πᾶς δὲ ποταμὸς διαβατός every road is easy, and every river can be crossed. AN. II. 5, 9. Here the contrast is not between πᾶσα and πᾶς, but between the remainder of the clauses, although every is an important idea. In AN. I. 2, 3, τριᾶκοσίους μὲν ὀπλίτας τριᾶκοσίους δὲ πελταστὰς ἔχων παρεγένετο, the importance of the number would not of itself have placed it first.

d. At the end of a clause an adjective and its noun are often separated by a verb-form. This usually is the order that gives the natural emphasis; but it came to be sometimes little more than a rhetorical fashion: εἰ τοίνυν ὁ Φίλιππος τότε ταύτην ἔσχε τὴν γνώμην, οὐκ ἂν τοσαύτην ἐκτήσατο δύναμιν if then Philip at that time had adopted this opinion, he would not have acquired so great power. D. 4, 5.

683 Finally, considerations of euphony, especially of rhythm, often affected word-order, as in English; but this influence is difficult for us to trace in prose, because Greek prose rhythm (like that of verse) was determined by the quantity of the syllables, which we feel less strongly than the Greeks did.

VERB-LIST

NOTE.—This list is intended to contain all verbs of classical Attic Greek whose forms can cause difficulty to the student. But rare forms are sometimes omitted, especially such as occur only in lyric parts of the drama, or in works not likely to be read until the student is beyond dependence on an elementary grammar. In many doubtful cases it seemed better to err on the side of inclusion rather than of omission. The forms that belonged to prose or to spoken Attic are in full-faced type; those in ordinary type belonged to poetry. Yet in some cases a simple verb that appears only in composition in prose is recorded as a prose form; also verbs in -σσω, -ττω, are recorded with σσ, though the regular prose form had ττ. The class of the present system is given after the verb-stem, unless the present belongs to the formative-vowel class or to the root-class.

ἄγαμαι (ἀγα-, 365 and a) admire, ἡγάσθην.

ἀγγέλλω (ἀγγελ-, ι cl.) announce, ἀγγελῶ, ἡγγεῖλα, ἡγγέλκα, ἡγγέλμαι, ἡγγέλθην.

ἀγείρω (ἀγερ-, ι cl.) gather, ἡγείρα.

ἀγνῶμι (ἀγ-, ἀγ-, nas. cl.) break, ἄξω, ἔαξα, ἔαγα, ἐάγην.

ἄγω (ἀγ-) lead, ἄξω, ἡγαγον (350, 10), ἦχα, ἦγμαι, ἦχθην.

ἀείρω (ἀερ-, ι cl.) lift, older form of αἶρω, which see.

ᾄδω (ᾄδ-, for ἀειδ-) sing, ᾄσομαι, ᾄσα, ᾄσθην.

αἰδέομαι (αἰδε-) and αἰδομαι (αἰδ-) respect, αἰδέσομαι, ᾔδεσμαι, ᾔδέσθην.

αἰνέω (αἰνε:-η-) praise, αἰνέσω, ᾔνεσα, ᾔνεκα, ᾔνημαι, ᾔνέθην.

αἰρέω (αἶρε:-η-, ἐλ-) seize, αἰρήσω, εἶλον (350, 9), ἔρηκα, ἔρημαι, ἔρέθην.

αἶρω (ᾄρ-, ι cl.) lift, ἄρῶ, ἦρα, ἦρκα, ἦρμαι, ἦρθην.

αἰσθάνομαι (αἰσθ-, αἰσθη-, nas. cl.) perceive, αἰσθήσομαι, ᾔσθόμην, ᾔσθηναι.

ἄϊσσω (ᾄϊκ-, ι cl.) and ᾄσσω rush, ἄϊξω and ᾄξω, ἦϊξα and ᾔξα.

αἰσχύνω (αἰσχυν-, ι cl., 421) shame, αἰσχυνῶ, ᾔσχυνα, ᾔσχύνθην.

ἀκούω (ἀκου-) hear, ἀκούσομαι, ἤκουσα, ἀκήκοα (291 c), ἠκούσθην.

ἀλείφω (ἀλιφ-, ἀλειφ-) anoint, ἀλείψω, ἤλειψα, ἀλήλιφα (291 c), ἀλήλιμμαι, ἠλείφθην.

ἀλέξω (ἀλεξ-, ἀλεκ-) ward off, ἀλέξομαι, ἡλεξάμην.

ἀλίσκομαι (ἀλ-, ἀλοῖω-, incept. cl.) am captured, ἀλώσομαι, ἐάλων or ἤλων (267, 369 c), ἐάλωκα or ἤλωκα.

ἀλλάσσω (ἀλλαγ-, ι cl.) change, ἀλλάξω, ἥλλαξα, ἥλλαχα, ἥλλαγμαι (345), ἥλλάχθην and ἥλλάγην.

ἀλλομαι (ἀλ-, ι cl.) leap, ἀλοῦμαι (324) ἡλάμην.

ἀλύσκω (for ἀλυκ-σκω, ἀλυκ-, cp. διδάσκω, incept. cl.) avoid, ἀλύξω, ἥλυξα.

ἀμαρτάνω (ἀμαρτ-, ἀμαρτη-, nas. cl.) err, ἀμαρτήσομαι, ἥμαρτον, ἡμάρτηκα, ἡμάρτημαι, ἡμαρτήθην.

ἀμπ-έχω and ἀμπ-ίσχω (ἀμφί + ἔχω, ἴσχω) wrap about, put on, ἀμφέξω, ἡμπισχον. Mid. ἀμπέχομαι, ἀμπίσχομαι, ἀμπισχνέομαι have on, ἀμφέξομαι, ἡμπισχόμην and ἡμπ-εσχόμην (cp. 268 d).

ἀμπλακίσκω (ἀμπλακ-, ἀμπλακη-, incept. cl.) miss, ἡμπλακον, ἡμπλάκημαι.

ἀμύνω (ἀμυν-, ι cl.) ward off, ἀμυνῶ, ἡμῦνα.

ἀμφι-γνοέω doubt, impf. ἡμφ-εγνόουν (268 d), ἡμφ-εγνόησα.

ἀνα-βιώσκομαι: see βιώω.

ἀν-ᾠλίσκω (-ᾠλ-, -ᾠλοῖω-, incept. cl.) and ἀν-ᾠλόω spend, ἀν-ᾠλώσω, ἀν-ἤλωσα, ἀν-ἤλωκα, ἀν-ἤλωμαι, ἀν-ἤλώθην.

ἀν-οίγνυμι, ἀν-οίγω (see οἷγνυμι) open, impf. ἀνέωγον (267 a), ἀν-οίξω, ἀν-έωξα (267 a), ἀν-έωχα (291 a), ἀν-έωγμαι, ἀν-έωχθην (subjv. ἀν-οιχθῶ, etc.).

ἀνύω (ἀνυ-) sometimes ἀνύω, also ἀνύτω accomplish, ἀνύσω, ἥνυσα, ἥνυκα, ἥνυσμαι.

ἄνωγα (ἀνωγ-) command, root perf. (370), with pres. meaning, ἄνωγας, ἄνωγε, impv. ἄνωχθι, ἄνωχθε.

ἀπ-εχθάνομαι (-έχθ-, nas. cl.) become odious, ἀπ-εχθήσομαι, ἀπ-ηχθόμην, ἀπ-ήχθημαι.

ἄπτω (ἀφ-, τ cl.) fasten, kindle, ἄψω, ἥψα, ἥμμαι, ἥφθην.

ἄραρίσκω (ἄρ-, incept. cl.) fit, ἥρσα, ἥραρον, ἄρᾱρα.

ἄράσσω (ἄραγ-, ι cl.) bang, slam, ἄράξω, ἥραξα, ἥράχθην.

ἄρέσκω (ἄρε-, incept. cl.) please, ἄρέσω, ἥρεσα, ἥρέσθην.

ἀρκέω (ἀρκε-) assist, suffice, ἀρκέσω, ἥρκεσα.

ἄρμόζω, ἄρμόττω (ἄρμοτ-, ι cl.) fit, ἄρμόσω, ἥρμοσα, ἥρμοσμαι, ἥρμόσθην.

ἄρνυμαι (ἄρ-, nas. cl.) win, ἄροῦμαι, ἥρόμην.

ἄρώ (ἄρο-) plow, ἥροσα, ἥρόθην.

ἄρπάξω (ἄρπαγ-, ἄρπαδ-, ι cl.) seize, -ἄρπάσομαι and -ἄρπάσω, ἥρπασα, ἥρπακα, ἥρπασμαι, ἥρπάσθην.

TWENTIETH CENTURY TEXT-BOOKS.

THE CLASSICAL SERIES

A New Series of Latin and Greek Texts for Secondary Schools, under the editorial charge of

John Henry Wright, A. M., LL. D., Harvard University

Bernadotte Perrin, Ph. D., LL. D., Yale University

Andrew Fleming West, Ph. D., LL. D., Princeton University

These names guarantee the highest standard of scholarship and pedagogic fitness.

The whole series throughout is based on the lines laid down in the Report of the Committee of Twelve of the American Philological Association to the National Educational Association.

These lines are now universally accepted as defining the ideal classical course for secondary schools. The Twentieth Century Classical Texts satisfy at every point this universal requirement.

The methods of teaching Latin and Greek as revised and now adopted by American educators call for a less pedantic, more humanistic style, dominantly literary in spirit, giving a clear, forceful impression of ancient life and thought. The modern secondary text-book is not merely grammatical, but also historical; fitted to arouse living enthusiasm for the great masterpieces of ancient thought and for their exquisite literary dress.

All this, recently focused in the action of the National Educational Association, is now embodied for the first time in this Series, edited by representative scholars of the universities that have had most to do with classical culture in America.

The general editors and their colleagues are all practical teachers, originators, and leaders in the courses now pursued in our secondary-school system.

Hence, the Twentieth Century Classical Series offers the simplest, most practical, and up-to-date Latin and Greek books ever prepared for American schools.

GREEK TEXTS.

Selections from Homer's Iliad.

Edited, with an Introduction, Notes, and Vocabulary, by ALLEN R. BENNER, A. B., Professor of Greek, Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass. $1.60.

This edition of selections from the Iliad contains about five thousand lines. It includes Books I, II (except the catalogue of the ships), and III, which are commonly prescribed for college entrance. In addition, it embraces the notable portions of the poem that concern Achilles, Patroclus, and Hector. Books IX, XVIII, and XXII appear entire, with the larger part of Books VI and XVI, and short selections from V, XV, XIX, and XXIV.

A novel feature of this edition is the definition in foot-notes of very unusual words—chiefly such as are found only once in Homer—on the pages where they occur.

Grammatical and literary notes are appended. Those on the earlier books are chiefly grammatical and interpretative, and contain abundant references to the brief Homeric Grammar which is a part of this edition.

In the accompanying Vocabulary the more obvious cognate words in Latin and English are always shown in so far as they are useful.

The book is beautifully illustrated, particularly in the Introduction. This deals with the principal theories, based on the most recent archæological evidence, of Homeric dress and armor.

The book provides material for one year's work in school, including practice in sight reading.
